H.C. Martin Gives European Travelogue

An illustrated travelogue was given by H. C. Martin, of Stirling, on his trip to Williamsburg, Va., Wednesday evening at the Quinte Branch of the United Empire Loyalists' Association, in Adolphustown. The president, Dr. C. E. Allison, introduced Mr. Martin, who also showed slides on England, Italy and France.

From the latter countries Mr. Martin showed a few scenes of military cemeteries which were in keeping with Remembrance Day. The speaker stated that there were 46 military cemeteries in Italy alone where the Canadian troops suffered their heaviest losses in the last war. In the one at Orton was shown the grave of Cpl. Don Stapley of Stirling, while in an equally beautifully landscaped cemetery in Holland constructed through the generosity of the Rockefeller family. Every effort was made to make it look as it did when first settled. Even flowers of the same sorts adorn themselves in period costumes and ply the ancient trades.

BRITISH LIONS CONTRAST

The carefully selected scenes of the British Isles were particularly beautiful. Mr. Martin showed several of outstanding beauty, typical of quiet English rural scenes and also those of castles blending into the English and Scottish delightful landscapes. Many other views of London were shown, those most striking were of Buckingham and Warwick Castle amid its beautiful surroundings. Mr. Martin interspersed his remarks with several amusing incidents in relation to experiences with people of the countries visited. The meeting showed great appreciation for the fine talk.

A short resume was given by Mr. E. J. Lennox, Toronto, who with his attendance at the Ontario Historical and Museum workshop held earlier at the Royal Ontario Museum. The Ontario Historical Museum Study Association branch entertained delegates at Historic Fort York as well as at the Royal Military Institute. Mr. Chard also briefly described the work of the community museums throughout Southern Ontario.

Woodstock Blakely, president of the Picton Chamber of Commerce, was extended a visit of the Quinte Branch U.E.I. Association, extended an invitation to the historical committee and the executive to attend the next meeting of the Picton Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with the Prince Edward Historical Society.

Miss Edith Allison, secretary, spoke on correspondence and U.E.I. Christmas card referring to an original painting of the old mill at Glenora.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

From here and there in the Commonwealth according to Commonwealth newsletters. Canada will spend two million Canadian dollars worth of wheat under the Colombo Plan next year.

It has been reported quite extensively that the finance minister of Ceylon went home empty handed after attending the recent meeting of the International Bank, the International Monetary Fund, and the Commonwealth finance ministers conference in Canada. He also visited the governments of Canada, the U.S., the U.K. and West Germany.

In a written statement to the Indian House of the People he refutes the pessimism in large degree. The U.K. on account of its own financial problems could not specify or promise too much hope over and beyond its regular Colombo contributions to India. However, the picture otherwise was hopeful. It is expected that Canada intends to allot at least $7,000,000 worth of surplus wheat over and above its normal Colombo Plan assistance to India.

Canada is to establish a medical school in Sumatra under the Colombo Plan to help relieve the acute shortage of doctors in the country.

Another dispute between two Commonwealth countries, India and Pakistan has broken out into the open again over the use of the beautiful land of Kashmir. This is the third time these two have had delicate problems facing the Commonwealth and the world. Obviously they are not helping to put out the fires of rival nationalism. The world body has read diligently as many recesses as possible from both Pakistan and India. Both countries have arrived at is that recriminations are not the way to deal with the root of the trouble and its profound complications can accomplish anything but more bitterness and hatred.

When Khrushchev Dorothy Potts was visited here she told us about the incomparable beauty of the Kashmir Commonwealth valleys and climate. It is to be hoped and prayed for that the good offices of goodwill throughout the Commonwealth and at the UN can and will solve the seemingly insolvable argument. T and T was fascinated by an article written by V.K.R.V. Rao. His subject was "India's attitude to Commonwealth."

"The Commonwealth is a unique institution. It is not an alliance nor is it a federation." He compares it to a "smaller edition of the UN" and then writes "No doubt the Queen is recognized as the head of the Commonwealth, but no country has been shown nor any answer given on what are the powers and functions of the head of the Commonwealth. And yet it exists. And it continues to do so in spite of the color bar in S. Africa, the Indo-Pakistan dispute on Kashmir, and the recent British action in the Suez. Why the Commonwealth has continued to exist, therefore, has question that needs answering. It is important to know whether it will continue to exist and if so, in what form and for what purpose."

T and T will follow up in the next column with some of Mr. Rao's observations. We know from comments concerning previous Commonwealth news that many of you want as well as women readers like to learn what others think.

Last night doctors announced they discovered a way of producing a polio vaccine from rabbit tissue between the waves of intensive and uninterrupted and much cheaper source of vaccine than that from the kidney cells of Rhesus 'monkeys.

We wonder what our readers do with endless advertising circulars that come in the mail from certain magazines. We hear a great deal about tight money these days but money seems free enough here. T and T receives literally hundreds more than her identical folders in four different names from different sources. In each case, we have been subscribers through an annual Christmas gift card from a friend. Some people say we tried to figure out how much the wrapper and advertising cost us if all the advertising postage for something we have subscribed to for a year or two. We gave up. We even wrote a letter to one of the firms to cut out the wastage, but to no avail. Do you have the same trouble?

The selfish lays them scattered

That it pays to advertise."

'Sack' Dresses Gaining Favor With French

By PEGGY MASSON

PARIS (Reuters) — French women are not, always, slaves to the young, lithe and slender.

Madame Mag Courson, the busiest manager in France who tips the scales at 230 pounds, is wearing and modeling profitably sonally some of the season's "sack" dresses.

"I am not convinced," she says, "that women who like the shapeless shape best are those who look fat in clothes."

North American and Britain have been the two largest markets in stores which specialize in appropriately stylied cuisizes or in outside departments of the big stores But until recently, stout French have been more or less neglected.

ALL SIZES

In the last year, however, a French club named "The Sympathetic Club" and founded by Madame Courson, has been organized to help these women cope with their various problems.

Membership is open to anyone who comprise the club. Unusually tall women as well as the plump are eligible to join the club.

Madame Courson has established headquarters for the group at the Toutmain department store on the Champs Elysees, where she is employed as a mannequin.

Psychologically, new members are impressed with one of the club's important slogans: "Every stout woman has the makings of a Rubens." This thought is destined to remind each woman that the black master's preference for big, buxom models, typified in so many of his great paintings.

Madame Courson has no complex about being overweight. Like many big women, she has slender and well - shaped calves and ankles, which she shows off through Toutmain salons, showing the outside collection every afternoon, on disproportionately small models. She herself is also in good grooming, and her own honey - colored hair is always short and fashionably styled.

When interviewed at club headquarters, the Parisian was wearing a smart and simple "sack" in black wool crepe, devoid of any "fit" or waistline, cut in a straight, semi - detached back panel. Accessories to this dress, with its matching black swagger coat, she had a trim black velvet beret, navy pumps with slender heels and long, pale beige gloves.

The Toutmain collection of "femmes fortes" models is modestly priced, and after each model is fully calculated according to size.

IVANHOE W. I.

The November meeting of Ivanhoe W. I. took the form of a potluck supper and social evening for the members and families, in Ivanhoe Township Hall.

About 60 people enjoyed the delicious supper which the president, Mrs. John McInroy, presided over the following program:

Community singing, led by Mrs. Ernest Mumby, with Mrs. Reg Haggerty, was enjoyed; readings were given by Mrs. Marvin Reid and Miss Margaret Wright; solos by Beverley McInroy and Sharon Mumby; piano duets by Joan and Ann piano solos after which Joe Glenn and Grant Hagerman entered with their small numbers. Judy Wood of Ivanhoe Public School, gave her recitation, "Mother Knows Best, Cheese," which won 3rd prize in the public speaking contest, which she had received.

Messrs J. B. Hagerman, Goldie Mesdames, Arthur Mumby and John McInroy sang, "Home on the Range."

After the program closed bingo and euchre was enjoyed by all.

Going Places

Smoother Trip Often Assured By Knowing Facts on Tipping

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

The world is full of people like you and us who don't like to tip but do anyway. However, tipping is one of those facts of travel life that while sometimes represents a evil — not always a necessary one — may also be a luhrfcant making for more pleasant travel.

Often travellers feel they are getting nothing for their tips they haven't already paid for, and often they are right. The tip is taken for granted by the receiver who gives nothing extra in anticipation of it.

But the bright side of the picture is those situations where a graceful extension of your hand and budget can get you what you not readily available to others.

According to a great deal of small, it's such situations that bother travellers most — not only how much and whom to tip, but also the fear of embarrassment.

In night clubs and fancy continental restaurants, for example, proper tipping can make the difference between the warm feeling of being properly taken care of, and the humiliation of being treated in the corner table served by the new waiter.

By proper tipping we mean a proper manner as well as an appropriate amount. Tell the dollar-a-day waiter ostentatiously under the nose of a headwaiter in front of other guests and you get everything but the embarrassed man's scorn and disdain.

PINGUISHE TIP

But palming over in a hiya-old-buddy handshake will make it possible for him to tell the other guests you were here for dinner and are back for the show or something — a real good way of raising your going in ahead of them.

Headwaiters and dining car stewards on trains (they occupy the same comparative status), where both tables and choice foods may be reserved for you, are also free people you may tip in advance.

Usually the only others are those from whom you'll want special service during your stay and with whom you'll be known. In a resort hotel some guests take care of the room maid, bell captain, pool boy, beautician or maid when they check in just to make sure the Italian coffee will be stocked, ice delivered promptly, lounge chair placed quickly, hair dressing appointment available, and room made up early for the next two weeks.

By taking the employee aside and saying something personal to him as you tuck a bill in his palm or pocket, you can insure that attention and service will click a lot more smoothly for the duration of your stay.

For more routine tipping, proper timing is the key to gracious-ness. Don't explain why you took your order and burned the coffee, overcooked the vegetables, handed, as you leave, about half what you left the waiter.

The best time to coin just as he hands you your room key or as he helps you with the bags to the room your bags, opened the window, checked the towels and hung up your coat.

On your way in, the doorman is taken care of after the porter has put your bags into the hotel lobby or as he hands you your garage check for the car; on the way out, as he opens the car or taxi door for you — but that's only if he's performed some other service, such as hailing the, cab or caring for your car.

Generally, resort hotel personnel and ships' stewards and waiters are rewarded in a lump sum during the little goodby ceremonies generally indulged in, except in the case of employees whose services you use only occasionally. They are tipped for each service.

Pullman porters are taken care of just as you step off the train and as they hand you your bags. Redcaps are also tipped only and if they wangled you a lower when there wasn't supposed to be one.

Airport limousine drivers should carry your bags into the hotel or terminal if they anticipate a tip.

A final hint: for wedding discomfiture is to always make sure you've got a pocketful of change. The best way to do that is to break a bill every time you pay for something.

Holy Rosary Panel Discusses 'Homework'

The November meeting of Holy Rosary P.T.A. was held in the school on Thursday evening with the president, Mr. Jack Barrett, in the chair.

Sister Mary Evelyn opened the meeting with Mr. Jack Darlington gave the treasurer's report and Mrs. Barrett outlined the membership report.

Mr. Barret introduced the Rev. Father Bannon, guest moderator for a panel discussion on "Homework". The panel, consisting of Mr. Darlington, Mrs. McGuigan, Mrs. Fitzgerald, Rev. Father Bannon, Mr. Doyle, Sister Mary Evelyn and Mrs. Murphy. The teachers stressed the importance of homework, starting in the lower grades. The teachers do not have the time for too much individual teaching and asks the parents to become accustomed to homework which is essential and necessary in the higher grades. Various members inquired as to the method that should be used by students at studying, length of time that should be spent on studying, and how they might best help the students. It was pointed out how important homework is and how home supervision of homework is most necessary.

The student's point of view on homework was also given by the students on the panel and by way of a tape recording. This proved to be interesting and rather amusing, although the pupils all agreed on the importance of homework.

Mr. Barrett thanked Mr. King and the members of the panel for the interesting and well conducted discussion.

Sister Mary Lawrence's room and Miss Belanger's room tied for the attendance prize.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

COME, HOLY GHOST, OUR HEARTS INSPIRE

Come, Holy Ghost, our hearts inspire;
Let us thine influence prove;
Source of the old prophetic fire;
Fountain of life and love.

Come, Holy Ghost, for moved by Thee
The prophet wrote and spoke;
Unlock the truth, thyself the key;
Unseal the sacred book.

Expand Thy wings, Celestial Dove;
Brood o'er our nature's night;
On our disordered spirits move,
And let there now be light.

God, thro' Himself, we then shall know,
If Thou within us shine;
And sound, with all Thy saints below,
The depths of love divine.

Charles Wesley who with his brother, John, brought the Methodist Church into being and who will always be known as the singer of Methodism because of the many great hymns which he wrote during his lifetime, was the author of the verses which appear here.

In his collection of "Hymns And Sacred Songs" where the stanzas first appeared in 1740 he gave them the title, "Before Reading The Scriptures", indicating that they were composed as a prayer for Bible inspiration and understanding.

The Christian world will always be indebted to Charles Wesley for some of its most precious hymns. Among English authors he shares top fame with Isaac Watts, and his inspiring songs — "A Charge To Keep I Have", "Hark, The Herald Angels Sing", "Jesus, Lover Of My Soul", "Love Divine, All Loves Excelling", "Come, Thou Almighty King", and countless others — will go rolling down the centuries to the end of time.

The Wesley brothers were sons of a prominent Church of England clergyman, the Rev. Samuel Wesley, and grew up in a parsonage at Epworth, England. Charles, who was born just a week before Christmas, in 1707, wrote more than 6,500 hymn-poems in all.

Unusual Legend of St. Andrew

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

ST. STEPHEN THE YOUNGER

Thursday, Nov. 28 — Every age and every crisis has its heroes. What St. Stephen the Younger did back in the eighth century doesn't seem to matter much now but it was the kind of response to a situation that saints always make — they will die rather than be false to their convictions.

In those days the Eastern part of the Church was torn by what historians now call "the iconoclastic controversy." Icon, in Greek, means picture or image, and the fight was over the question of whether or not icons should be allowed in the churches.

In general, the emperors and high church dignitaries were the lower clergy wanted to keep their statues and pictures, as aids to worship and as familiar objects they had come to cherish.

Stephen was a monk of considerable reputation and the emperor had an idea that if so popular a man were to smash an image, this would have a great influence on the people's attitude. So he called Stephen in and ordered him to trample on a statue of Christ.

Stephen took a coin on which the emperor's profile was stamped, and, "What would happen to me," he asked "if I trampled on the image of the emperor?"

Of course there was only one answer. "Then," said Stephen, "how much greater a crime it against them. They were "iconoclasts," which means, literally, picture smashers. The people and upon Stephen and clubbed him to death. Perhaps we would say he died unnecessarily, even foolishly — but that is a habit saints have always had: They are reckless with their lives. And he staked his life on the side that won out in the end. That, too, is a habit saints have.

PATRON SAINT OF SCOTLAND

Saturday, Nov. 30 — The real reason why the Apostle Andrew became Scotland's patron saint is a long forgotten, but where history is silent legend usually steps in. Here is a most unlikely story:

When the Apostles started out, after Pentecost, in obedience to their Master's command, "Go ye into all the world," Andrew's assignment was the north country. So northward he went, through Europe, converting many heathen, and finally he came to a sea. Crossing this water, he found himself in a wild land, apparently entirely without inhabitants. This was Scotland.

About to give up and return to the mainland, he suddenly saw in would be if I should insult the picture of the King of Heaven."

And the courtiers, seeing the emperor's frustrated fury, fell the distance a light which seemed to be signaling and beckoning to him. He followed the light and was led to a castle, in which he found the owner, obviously the king, and a number of people, all quite civilized and courteous, but all terribly sad.

It took Andrew a while to find out what the trouble was because he first had to learn the language. One wonders why — so other miracle wouldn't have hurt anything.)

When he could understand what they were saying, he was told everyone was sad because a wicked magician had turned the king's six lovely daughters into swans, and although everyone had prayed and sacrificed to all the gods they could think of, nothing had done any good. And there to prove it were the six swans, gloomily swimming about on a lake beside the castle.

Andrew at once told them to stop calling on false gods and pray to the one true God. Instead of welcoming this advice, all the knights factually this was centuries before the time of knighthood) rose up and challenged him to battle for having blasphemed.

The next day was given over to the fight, and Andrew whipped them all, first one at a time, then all together. Before such a display of power the king capitulated, saying "Your God is mightier than all the gods I have worshiped."

He fell to his knees asking to be pardoned, and as he did so the six swans alighted on the ground nearest him and the six daughters regained human form. The king and all the people thereupon embraced Christianity, and Andrew, who had rescued them from their despair, became their patron saint.

A fanciful tale, not believed now — if, indeed, it ever was. But there it is, in the archives, and it will have to do until a better one is found.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

SHOULD CHOOSE PROCEDURE MOOT HERE FOR GROOM'S MOTHER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are having a rather small, informal wedding in the chapel of our church, with all the guests to be invited to the reception immediately afterward in a private 3-room suite in a hotel here reserved for such occasions. Both my father and the groom's father are dead, and his mother, who lives out-of-town, will know very few of the guests. Under these circumstances, I thought it might be a very good idea for Mother to stand near the door of the larger room where the receiving will take place, greet the arriving guests and introduce them to the bridegroom's mother, and then for the groom and me to stand together, nearby or opposite, to greet the guests after they have greeted "the mothers." Would this be correct?" — Bride-to-be

This would be a correct procedure, and it is sometimes done. But if you feel that there is even a slight chance that your groom's mother might be somewhat self-conscious about coming alone and not knowing many of the guests, it might be easier for her, more reassuring to her, to have the more usual formation of the receiving line: first, your mother, the hostess; to greet the guests and introduce them to the groom's mother, standing next to her; then you and the groom, you at his right; then your maid (or matron) of honor; and last, bridesmaids (if any). If you can arrange the receiving line so that the groom is to your right next to his mother, this will be even better, for then she can be "taken care of" by both your mother, on one side, and her son, on the other. I think she would like that.

Readers' Saturday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

Question: . . . Mary, would it be practical to serve a steamed pudding as dessert for fifty people? Our church group does a great deal of catering and I am looking after a dinner for fifty at the end of November and they don't want the usual pie for dessert. Would I be sticking out my neck if I said I could serve a steamed pudding? I've been making mine in the pressure cooker the last few years and we find it most acceptable . . . I'm enclosing a recipe that I am familiar with but am at sea as to the amount of both pudding and sauce — could you tell me how many puddings I should make and the amount of sauce? There will also be the helpers to serve so I guess we should plan on sixty-five servings. Is a brown sugar sauce the best or have you any other suggestions? . . .

Mrs. M. P.

Answer: Thank you Margaret for your letter. Here is your own recipe increased six times:

STEAMED PUDDING

(Courtesy Margaret P.) (This amount will serve sixty).

Four and a half cups sugar, 12 eggs, 6 cups suet, 4 cups milk, 6 cups currants, 6 cups raisins, 6 cups walnuts, 12 cups sifted flour, 4 tablespoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons each allspice, cinnamon, nutmeg, 1 tablespoon cloves, 2 tablespoons salt. Combine sugar, eggs, and suet and mix until smooth. Add milk, fruit and nuts. Sift all dry ingredients and add to mixture. Boil 50 minutes.

I am giving you my favorite all-purpose pudding sauce. In brackets I have given amounts which multiply by six to serve sixty.

TANGY PUDDING SAUCE

One-half cup brown sugar (½ cups), 1 cup boiling water (10 cups), 1 tablespoon cornstarch (2-3 cup), 2 tablespoons butter (1 1-4 cups), 1 tablespoon lemon juice (3-3 cup), 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg (2 1-2 teaspoons), few grains salt (1 teaspoon). Mix sugar and cornstarch, add water gradually, stirring constantly; boil gently five minutes, remove from fire, add butter, lemon juice, nutmeg.

Dinner Menus

SATURDAY

Baked Liver with Sour Cream (see Thursday); Duchess Potatoes; Sauted Green Pepper Rings; Waldorf Salad; Coffee Blanc Mange; Nut Stix (see Wednesday); Coffee.

Letter: . . . With regard to economy recipes one of my favorites is chicken giblets. These are available at the cut-up counter from 25-40 cents a pound and a pound serves 2 to 4 depending on appetite. I stew these till tender, 1—1 1-2 hours, then thicken with a flour-water paste and chop the meat. It may be served over toast for breakfast or lunch or may be turned into a casserole, covered with biscuit dough, pastry, or mashed potatoes and popped into a hot oven for a supper dish. We like them better when the liver is included but it is often separated from the other giblets . . . Leslie G.

Answer: Thanks for a good original idea and for your cracked wheat versus whole wheat argument. More later on this.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Victoria A. — My parents treat me like a 4-year-old.

Mrs. F.A. — It's for her own good.

• • •

Victoria A. — Iam a 17-year-old girl who gets treated like a four-year-old. My parents have no confidence in me at all. They seem to think I'll run into all of kinds of danger the minute I'm without them.

This past summer, for instance, they made me come with them and my kid brother to a vacation resort. There was nobody of my age there and I felt like a fool. A group of my friends went to a hotel together and had a simply marvellous time.

If I go out on a date and will be home even half an hour later than my deadline, my parents insist that I call up. This is so embarrassing. It makes me look like an idiot.

• • •

Mrs. F.A. — My husband and I are trying to be reasonable, but we just can't believe that it's right for four girls to go off to a hotel unchaperoned for a vacation at a hotel. These same girls are allowed to return from their dates at all hours of the night. There seems to be no limit to their privileges.

We simply refuse to follow the lead of other parents when we feel they are not doing right. We insist upon meeting all of Vicky's friends — even the ones she "hangs around" with casually.

Vicky seems to feel this is unfair treatment and she has been getting more and more difficult and sulky. How can we make her see it's for her own good?

• • •

The Council: One thing that irks teenagers more than anything else is that phrase "it's for your own good." We think that Vicky's parents should try to give her feelings and attitudes a little more consideration if they want to keep her friendship and trust.

We'd certainly go along with them on their refusal to let Vicky go unchaperoned with other girls of her age to a resort, hotel, for example, but we think they were a little inconsiderate to take Vicky to a hotel where she could meet nobody of her own age.

They art also being a bit difficult in their insistence upon meeting all of Vicky's friends. A girl of her age, or much younger, for that matter, should feel free to have many casual acquaintances. If she is forced to bring these boys and girls to her home to meet her parents, it may seriously hamper and limit her social activities.

On the other hand, we think these parents are right to expect a telephone call if Vicky can't meet the deadline set for her return from her date.

Because some of their rules and attitudes are difficult and inconsiderate, these parents run the risk of goading Vicky into a wholesale revolution. She cannot distinguish between the reasonable and the too-strict rules her parents set because she has obviously not been given the chance to argue for her own point of view — and to occasionally win a concession.

There has been general debate in parliament and outside on why federal aid cannot go to each province as its plan is ready providing the required six remain committed.

During the Nov. 18 debate Mr. Monteith said he had obtained legal opinion about this question which indicated:

"When it has become law in the province, no matter if they have not undertaken to make a payment (of benefits) until some months in the future, it is still considered to be in force."

IMPORTANT POINTS

He said there are still important points to be resolved in consultation with the provinces and "We are going forward with this legislation very rapidly." He said a meeting would be held in Ottawa Dec. 5 with provincial health officials.

By mid - November only two provinces had the required plan in operation—Saskatchewan was the first to begin a scheme of its own in 1945 and British Columbia got under way in 1949. Both have had the federal hospital payments to begin by next Jan. 1.

Ontario announced last month that its plan, dependent on federal support, will begin July 1, 1958. Alberta has had a scheme since 1949, sharing costs with municipalities. Quebec is set to launch a new more extensive scheme to qualify for federal payments by next April.

The other three committed provinces, Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island and Manitoba, have not announced any plans.

Of the remaining three, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick have indicated they are interested but have not yet made any announcement.

On Nov. 19 Premier Duplessis told the Quebec legislature that the province is considering the possibility of entering such a scheme. It was Quebec's first official reaction to the federal proposals. He said no plan would take effect before 1959 and the government was in no hurry to make a decision. But it was ready to discuss the matter.

Of the seven agreeing provinces none has actually signed an agreement with the federal government.

AN OLD ISSUE

The subject of hospital insurance has stood unresolved many times before. It was in April, 1955, that the legislation was approved Mr. Diefenbaker, then opposition leader, said at that time he had been awaiting its realization since hospital insurance was the first promise at a 1919 Liberal convention. Time and again the matter has been part of election campaign platforms for various parties but not until now was there ever any federal legislation.

The four existing provincial schemes also have a varied political history. The Saskatchewan scheme, introduced by the CCF government when it first came into power in 1944 and became a reality the next year. In B.C. hospital insurance was introduced by a Liberal-Conservative coalition and taken over and amended by the present Social Credit government. The Alberta plan also was begun under Social Credit and in Ontario, the proposed scheme was brought down by a Conservative government.

As to the federal proposal, it is for guaranteed aid in actual terms has been over the exclusion of federal assistance for tuberculosis and mental patients. At the time the Conservatives tried to amend the bill to redefine the term "hospital" to include care of TB and mental patients.

IN ONTARIO PLAN

Only Ontario specifically includes TB and mental patients within the terms of its proposed insurance, but apparently all provinces would want Ottawa to write treatment for both into a national insurance plan. Saskatchewan and B.C. now finance hospital treatment for all TB and mental patients under separate arrangements and in Alberta the province pays for complete TB hospital care and all but $1 at a time for mental patients.

When health ministers and their deputies from all provinces except Quebec met in Toronto in September they named both high TB and mental patients, federal participation in the capital cost of constructing or expanding hospitals, federal assistance toward existing capital debts, federal participation toward the cost of treating out-patients on the same basis as for in-patients, establishment of a waiting period before residents are eligible or more flexible definition of residence qualifications in the federal act, and continued total federal responsibility for the treatment of treaty Indians, Eskimos, reciprocal Canadian and overseas seamen, mariners and immigrants.

The provincial ministers also asked that a committee of officials representing Ottawa and the provinces to study the scale of federal contributions for submission to a subsequent federal-provincial conference.

Comparison of some aspects of the four existing and proposed provincial schemes gives some idea of the problems involved in integrating a national plan.

Aside from TB and mental hospital care the four provinces already agreed on the type of standard ward hospital care, and diagnostic services covered. The only exception is coverage readily seen appears in the Ontario proposal which would provide out-patient treatment for persons who apply at hospitals for emergency treatment within 24 hours of an accident. The Saskatchewan, Alberta and B.C. plans do not mention out-patient care.

The three western plans also limit hospital treatment to not more strict the number of days allowed each hospital in one year and each makes provision to cover residents who become ill while visiting outside their home province.

The total costs and methods of financing differ in each of the four.

Saskatchewan's plan cost an estimated $22,000,000 in 1956, its first year, or $26 per person, or about $26.47 a person. It is available to all who pay annual premiums of $24 for a single person and $45 maximum for families, collected directly by the provincial government and payable by Nov. 30 of the preceding year. All who do not pay are exempted.

COVER HALF OF COST

Saskatchewan estimates the premiums cover about half the total cost. The rest is raised partly from a direct sales tax of eight per cent and a five per cent go for education and one for the hospital plan, and partly from general provincial funds. There are no additional charges during the hospitalization period.

British Columbia began by levying a personal premium but has dropped it apparently because the province found difficulty in collecting.

In B.C. only persons resident in the province for 12 months are eligible for hospital care under the plan and there is no waiting period. Estimated cost is $31,000,000. There is no estimate of per capita costs because all citizens are not covered. The plan is financed by a 3 per cent general sales tax on a wide variety of goods, a "deterrent" fee of $1 charged each patient for each day in hospital and from an additional grant of 70 cents daily a patient

Finance Minister Denies Any Unemployment Crisis

TORONTO (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming today denied there is an emergency in Canada's unemployment situation.

"This is no time to be yielding to panic," he said.

"If this is a national emergency all I can say is that psychically every country of the world like this have a national emergency like it."

Mr. Fleming was speaking to a luncheon of leading businessmen in the food industry.

His statements were included in the text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

The minister said it is a time for "sober optimism and for constructive measures" to meet winter unemployment which he said is the largest in three years.

"We are told that unemployment constitutes an emergency. I say to you that while we have unemployment and the government will seriously grapple with it, there is no emergency."

Mr. Fleming gave no figures on unemployment. A government report issued earlier this week estimated 298,000 Canadians were without jobs and seeking work at Oct. 19, more than double the level of a year ago.

However, he quoted figures said by the provincial and municipal governments jointly.

The present Alberta plan applies to about 70 per cent of the population: ratepayers who pay the municipal tax of varying amounts and non-ratepayers who voluntarily buy contracts for about $12 a year from municipal cities. In addition, patients in hospital are assessed a basic $1 a day plus one quarter of the cost of extras which amounts to about another $1 a day. The province and the municipalities share the balance of costs which in 1956 totalled $28,684,797, including capital costs and interest or $23.10 per capita.

PLAN NEW SCHIME

The new Alberta plan to start next April will cover all residents of at least 12 months and will cost an estimated $32,000,000 in the first year. The province hopes to collect about 10 per cent of the costs through premiums. Part of the remainder will come from the municipalities who are setting up what there will call tax based on assessment to be collected throughout the province. When Ottawa enters the picture, Alberta estimates the federal share will be about $13,000,000.

Full details of the new Alberta plan have not yet been announced.

The proposed Ontario plan, to start on July 1, 1959, will cost a single person $2.10 a month and a family $4.20. The outlet premiums will be collected compulsorily on a payroll-deduction basis for employees of firms with 15 or more employees. Others may pay voluntarily. Eventually Ontario hopes to enrol all residents.

Ontario estimates its plan will cost $210,000,000 in the first year including costs for TB and mental hospital care. The federal government's share is about $74,000,000 and the province expects to raise half of the remaining $136,000,000 through the premiums and the balance through its general revenue accounts.

Pearson Sees No Change in Foreign Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — Lester B. Pearson, former Liberal external affairs minister, says he sees no change in Canada's foreign policy under the new Progressive Conservative government.

"We can conclude with some satisfaction that the ringing statements of Conservative leaders before June 10 (election date) have been forgotten."

Mr. Pearson, Liberal MP for Algoma East, made the remark in speaking Friday night in the CBC's free-time political series. The Liberal party broadcast in French radio network.

He was the first series of questions put to him by Jean Lesage (L — Montmagny - L'Islet), former Quebec provincial premier and now Liberal opposition leader since. When Ottawa enters the picture, Alberta estimates the federal share will be about $13,000,000.

Mr. Pearson said that before but they came back completely handed."

During last fall's Suez crisis the Conservatives had charged that the Liberal government "kicked" England and France in the back" in not supporting their armed intervention in the Israeli-Arab dispute.

"They sought to ridicule our policy of peace through the United Nations," he said. Now Prime Minister Diefenbaker was saying the United Nations is the cornerstone of Canada's foreign policy

Pop was blowing and sneezing, and he said to me, Ma, I'll bet there's anything worse than a confounded cold, I decline the proposition.

Goodness, a man makes more fuss over a little cold in the head than a woman does over a serious ailment, ma said, and pop has a little cold in the head is as bothersome as a little moccasin. If I had a good attack of honest flue I could use it for an excuse for a few days vacation in bed, but a cold in the head is absolutely nothing in its favor, he said.

Well G. pop, if you thought it hard, you might be able to think of diffrent things in its favor, I suggested, for I cant think think that hard. Maybe you have some suggestions, pa, he said.

Sure, we dont you try to make a diffrent sound every time you sneeze and see if you could know what sound was coming next. You ought to be able to tell when a man sneezes as follows sneeze in school when we have to study the diffrent parts of speech. I betcher must find it very amusing.

No sir, it makes her mad. I said. But she cant prove whether or not you did it by herself or whether we changed it on persose. I said, and just to be on the safe side I practiced on account of feeling a sneeze coming, and I said, Hark, the herald angels, pop, make it loud and funny.

Which he didn't, just sneezing polite in his handkerchief, and said, Hook, now you have to wait till the next one.

Which he hardly wait, pop said. Get on with your homework and let me suffer in my own way, he said.

STONE HITS CAR

Sputnik Rocket May Plunge to Earth Any Time

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sputnik I's carrier rocket — which has been whirling around the earth since Oct. 4—may plunge back into the atmosphere at the long, British scientists said Friday night.

U.S. experts had estimated earlier that the rocket would fall about Dec. 15. They made satellite is expected to stay aloft several weeks longer.

There is no way to determine where the rocket will drop, but scientists say parts of the earth's surface in the flaming descent and hit the earth.

Britain's Jodrell Bank radio telescope station notified the Smithsonian Observatory Friday night that the rocket section might make its death plunge between 36 hours.

UP FOR SEVEN WEEKS

The rocket carried the first Russian satellite into space seven weeks ago. The second Soviet satellite, which carried a dog as a passenger, was put in orbit Nov. 3. There have been no developments yet as to when Sputnik II might fall.

Prof. A. C. B. Lovell, director of the Jodrell station near Cheshire, England, described the impending fall of Sputnik I's carrier as "a very exciting stage."

As the rocket drops into the earth's atmosphere, friction is expected to cause it to burn like a meteor, but scientists say they expect some of the fragments to hit the earth.

Moscow indicated Friday the rocket had made more than 720 trips around the earth, travelling at about 18,000 miles an hour.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS

There were these other developments Friday:

1. A Russian diplomat in London, Dr. Alexander Kaznacheev, said Soviet scientists are working on a space rocket powered by photons, instead of Photon travel 186,000 miles a second, the speed of light. Kaznacheev said there was no body of any mass can reach this speed.

2. A report in New York, by the National Broadcasting Company, said Project Vanguard, Pioneer, a leading atomic scientist, will be invited back to government work in view of accelerated emphasis on satellites and missiles. NBC quoted a White House source it did not name. Oppenheimer formerly was a consultant to the Atomic Energy Commission. In 1954 he was reclared access to government secrets.

3. Reports of a new earthquake in the far north. He is new employed in the central tower at Island Airport, Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Haggerty are residing in Belleville and the best wishes of this community go with them for a long life of health and happiness.

Refreshments were served and the evening spent in dancing.

Music was supplied by Elmer Swanwick and R. Taylor.

FREAK MISHAP KILLS

KINGSTON (CP)—Thomas H. Bramah, over 70, of nearby Barriefield was killed Friday night in a freak accident. He was struck on Highway 2. Police said he was crossing the highway with an eight-foot timber on his shoulder when a car hit the timber, snapping his neck.

jects brought up at the regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce here on Thursday night.

The meeting will be held in the Belleville Hotel with the president of the group, W. Macadam, in the chair.

The open meeting will be held in the Gilbert Hotel on Wednesday, November 27, at 6.30 p.m.

Guest speaker for the evening will be R. A. Harris, president of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce. It is also expected that Al Ferguson, president of the Belleville Chamber, will be in attendance. Drysdale is the director on the provincial board.

Mr. Harris has been active in the Chamber of Commerce for a number of years and was instrumental in many moves in the re-organizing of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. Harris has progressed through the chairs from director to secretary treasurer and three vice-presidencies and recently taking over the top post in the provincial chamber.

Retail chairman John Fetterly gave the report on the proposed Christmas lighting and the Santa Parade. He assured the board the money has been raised for the decorating of Dundas Street and the Santa Parade. Both are expected to be as successful as in other years.

Other suggestions which came up during the meeting concerned the possibility of putting signs at the west end of Trenton and more hydro outlets at the front of the stores on the docks.

The board agreed to continue the operation of the booth. The booth and some discussion was held on weed cutting in the Bay of Quinte area.

The manager of the group brought it to the attention of the meeting that the annual of the Chamber of Commerce will be held in Kitchener on May 7, 8 and 9 or next year. He urged the board of directors to attend.

6th SIDNEY

Hastings County Farm Forum Elects Officers

6th SIDNEY — Present at the rally of Hastings County Farm Forum were members from Brookdale, Hazards and Foxboro. The topic discussed was "A New Look in Farm Machinery." The discussion was lively with many suggestions. Some thought that minor equipment could well be standardized to all machines of other companies. Also more standardization in same company, for example, same size of bolts and nuts in various parts. Machines should be made to do various jobs—a front-end loader as buck rake, scraper, loading manure and logs.

Self propulsion machinery is not practical for the small farmer as it would be too much capital investment and only used a short time each year. One advantage of this latter type is no grain is trampled down.

MULTIPLE-JOB MACHINERY

At the present time it was thought that the farmer didn't want to spend much more on machinery. The quick change to new models introduced as it made it hard to get repairs for older models. Some one suggested that if the new price machinery will save you money so much per year for it will pay to buy—but if you do buy new machinery buy it that will be used for multiple jobs as you get more for your money.

Mr. Jon Schoking, Zone director, gave a talk on his recent visit to Kenya, Africa. There the farms are all large and owned by Europeans. They grow the same grains as here. Also sisal, pineapple and coffee plantations. The overseers were white men, but the natives also had head men over them.

The same officers were returned for the year 1957-58, namely:

County chairman, Mrs. Newell Broad, Madoc; vice-chairman, Morley Sine, Frankford; secretary, Miss Ann Moorcroft, Madoc; press reporter, Mrs. Morley Sine, Frankford.

Little Things Upset Fuel Diet

By EUGENE MILMOE

Much nail biting over fuel troubles might be avoided if some of the simple (or less likely) causes were checked out first. The driver who can't figure out why his engine always seems so fuel-starved may spare time and temper by inspecting the fuel tank cap. If the vent is clogged or otherwise restricted, the fuel pump can't work properly.

Don't start pricing a new fuel pump or carburetor overhaul because fuel flow isn't strong and steady enough at driving speeds. A slight air leak in the pump filler bowl could be the only real trouble — with a little tightening up or a new gasket the needed cure.

It's also surprising how many fuel systems are handicapped by a clogged air cleaner, by one which has been overtightened and is cramping choke valve action, or by one which is incorrectly mounted after cleaning so that the frost is facing the fan.

Q.E. asks: "Whenever I press the gas pedal hard and try for quick acceleration, there is a noticeable miss or hesitation. My spark plugs and the carburetor don't working properly and points. Is his diagnosis correct?"

A. Logical enough. A faulty fuel accelerating pump can cause trouble.

A.C. asks: "Perhaps you can point this suggestion along to the right people. Why can't they make a set of ignition points with the spark gap already set — in other words, ready to install so that there's no need of aligning or adjusting."

(A) Some of the big same companies have been selling this for some time. It's installed as a fully assembled part.

From S.G.: "I have read that fuel injection systems will eventually be used on all cars and that the latter be licked. When this happens, they claim the results will be welcomed by health experts. What effect has fuel injection on good health?"

(A) It is predicted that it probably leads to a decrease in air pollution. With fuel injection, only the needed amount of fuel is distributed and burned. No unburned or half-burned fuel escapes through the exhaust to contaminate the air as smog.

Mrs. T.M. writes: "We recently had what was described as 'differential trouble' because the lubricant ran low. This may not be quite correct. Can you tell what does the differential do during car operation?"

(A) The differential is a gear assembly located in the rear axle housing. It provides the needed difference in rotating speeds of the outer and inner wheels when a turn is made. In other words, when the car is turning a corner, the differential comes into play, permitting the outer wheel to turn faster since it must travel a greater distance around than the inner wheel.

SAFETY IS NO ACCIDENT
Be careful about your driving—
Be sure about your car.

Successful Mission to Close With Service on Sunday

By GLADYS WARD

On Friday evening at Bridge Street United Church, Rev. Dr. A. E. MacKenzie, principal of Albert College, was in charge of the service. The meeting was opened with the singing of the hymn, "O God our help in ages past," followed by the Scripture text from John 21, and offered prayer. He welcomed the visitors and thanked Dr. Thomas, the missioner, for his inspirational messages each evening. Dr. Thomas who has been heard on the radio while in Belleville as well as in Bridge Street and Tabernacle churches, will speak to the students at Albert College on Sunday morning and close with a service at Bridge Street on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Arthur Daniels and Mr. Alfred Hughes of Holloway St. Church, were heard in a duet with Mr. C. Templer accompanying at the organ.

Basing his address on the last verse of the gospel of St. John, Dr. Thomas said: "And there are also many other things that Jesus did, which if they should be written every one, I suppose that even the world itself could not contain the books that should be written." The speaker told of his distress when a young man claimed this was an exaggeration, and Dr. Thomas set about to find the words had not been written. He began to believe the young man had some justification and he could not get away from the feeling of regret because these words are not in the Bible. Then by one of those coincidences that happen in the life of a Christian, God sent him the answer in a book by Mr. Cecil Osborne, called the expression "the tyranny of words." The book was built on the idea that words are only tools and often it is difficult to put into words what we know in our hearts and minds to be true.

The speaker then read the verse again with new insight. He pictured John, an old man of about ninety years when he wrote the gospel, tired and worn. Perhaps as he re-reading from the scroll what he had written until he came to the end then thinking that they could never understand, faced with the tyranny of words, he could not find the phrases and syllables to say what he knew was true, so he took his pen and added the last verse.

FAITH CHANGELESS

"We often find difficulty in putting into words our greatest religious experiences," the speaker continued. "It is hard to explain many things, for instance electricity or memory. The common everyday things of life are faced by the inexplicable at times. The Christian faith is not any the less real. It is the most positive, changeless, and real thing in a changing world. How can you explain the nature of a God who controls planets and space and yet is interested in every hair of our head — a God so great and yet so personal? We have to find something in the nature of our experience and say God is like that. We find God is like the ocean, mighty and strong; He is like the rose in perfection; we see His Fatherhood in Jesus and His love in the cross. We have no words or ability to express the nature of God but we find that make Him any less real.

"We may not know the nature of God or the mystery of Godliness, but what we do know can change our lives. This is the soundest, most dependable facts in the world.

"There are two things we can do when we want to know about these words. We can ask anything that comes into the lives of people who have met the Master. Their lives are changed because of that experience, they are different, for they have found peace. The second is to open the door of our hearts to Christ and let Him come in. He is alive, willing and ready to come. God is ready to reveal Himself and answer the question that is in the human heart.

"Many here are ready to testify to the experience of faith while there are those who will ask Him. He is a sure, posit've dependable fact on which any of us can rely, and all the rest of us are faced by the tyranny of words, but although we cannot put it into words, faith is sure, and God grant that we can accept that faith."

The meeting was closed with the hymn, "More Love to Thee, O Christ", and the benediction.

Seven Firms Fined Total Of $52,000

TORONTO (CP) — Seven firms which operated a combine in the conveyor and power transmission industry have been fined a total of $52,000.

Five firms — Link-Belt Limited and United Steel Corporation Limited of Toronto, Stephens-Adamson Limited of Aurora, Manufacturing Company Limited of Montreal and Forano Limited of Plantsville, Que. — Friday were fined a maximum $10,000 each.

Wellman Engineering Limited and Bond Engineering Works Limited, both of Toronto, were assessed $1,000 each.

Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven of the Supreme Court of Ontario said the companies, all of which pleaded guilty, were deliberately violating the Criminal Code.

He said he gave two of the companies the lesser penalties he feared maximum penalties would put them out of business. This would defeat the purpose of the code by eliminating competition instead of maintaining it.

Judge Orders Usher to Remove Defendant

LONDON (AP) — An English judge ruled Friday that the trustees of the late Sir Alexander Korda were under no obligation to pay out $1,250 a month in alimony to his first wife, a siren of the silent screen.

Mrs. Beatrice Maria Korda was in court to hear the verdict of Justice Sir Gerald Upjohn, and she reacted angrily.

"Terrific," she cried from a public bench. "Mrs. Korda can drop dead."

It was not clear whether she was referring sarcastically to her new treatment by the court or to the third Mrs. Korda, the former Alexandra Boyeun of Fort William, Ont. Korda's second wife, actress Merle Oberon, is not concerned in the case.

Sir Gerald calmly ordered an usher to remove Beatrice Maria from the court. Then he carried on summing up in the three-day hearing of a stormy dispute over Korda's movie-maker's £300,000 will.

The Judge decided that the proper amount of alimony was one-quarter of the net income of the estate—or the alimony payment of $1,250 a month, but less if the estate's income is less.

Thieves Force Safe in Store Get Large Sum

BANCROFT (Special) — Thieves got away with a large undisclosed amount of money here last night after forcing a large safe on a Hastings Street grocery store.

One of the Mitchell brothers, who operate Mitchell's Grocery Store here, discovered the theft and break-in when he opened the store for business at eight o'clock this morning.

Police were mystified at the manner in which the safe was opened. It was locked, yet there was no visible signs of instruments being used. No explosive evidence was present.

Nothing else was taken from the store as far as the owners and police can ascertain.

The thief or thieves effected entrance through a rear door of the premises.

Investigating Ontario Provincial Police officers Corporal A. F. Grayling and Constable J. Richardson, said at the moment they had no idea of the amount of money that was understood to be a substantial one.

They did not believe any fingerprints were in the safe when it was forced.

A UNITARIAN clergyman says
Unitarianism has been called, rightly, a free religion.
This is because it stoke and is traditional, a rather free spirits, independent minds, and love of truth, because it has accompanied and been closely related to institutional authority of an institutional hierarchy, and has established no creed.
Thus in spite of traditional and organization, it stands as the great champion of unfettered representation of religious freedom.

WISH WE HAD IT!

Comes to hand a photograph of the new, beautiful arena in Hull, Quebec, where the Ottawa-Hull Canadiens will play their home games of the Eastern Ontario senior "A" League. It was opened hockey-wise last night when the Baby Habs hosted the Pembroke Lumber Kings in a postponed game.

The $600,000 community edifice is a thing of beauty, and the "realization of a 20-year-old dream." The former Hull arena called the Palais Royale was destroyed by fire thirty years ago.

The new arena seats 3,444 fans with standing room for 2,000 more. The present parking space may accommodate 1,200 cars and there will be room for 300 more within the near future. The building is 280 feet by 165 feet, the ice surface 200 by 85.

The building was financed by a $200,000 grant from the Quebec government, $200,000 from industry and the remainder raised by city council debentures. So it would appear the fine new building cost the good burghers of Hull $100,000.

This beautiful Home of the Habs made its debut to the public when Mayor Moncion tossed out the first puck last night. The Belleville McFarlands will be the second senior club to play in it when they will be the guests of Sammy Pollock's youngsters tomorrow afternoon.

The Baby Habs are the greatest of the Mace tonight and if their last two performances can be judged a criterion, Sammy's boys have hit their victory stride. They whomped Brockton 7-3 and followed this with a decisive 7-4 victory over the Cornwall Chevies on Thursday night. They dropped their first four outings, these, naturally, being listed on the debit side.

But Manager Pollock and Coach Scotty Bowman, now that their young puck protegee appear to have struck winning form, believe it won't be long before they are among the leaders. Under all they get three points for a win and two for the first tie, one for the second, so a few victories will see them among the top three, at least.

However, the McFarlands will have something to say about that. They, too, have hit a winning streak and have every intention of knocking the Baby Hab scalps to their victory belts tonight. But they will have to go all out to do it. The Habs are noted for their speed and stick-handling wizardry and their front line troops led by the sensational Ralph Backstrom, will give the Mac defenders a busy time.

A member of the Russian embassy in Ottawa scouted the Habs when they were working out in the Ottawa Auditorium the other day. A story from Ottawa says the scientist professed to be impressed with the speed of the youngsters, while he appeared to be slightly put out with the corner structures of the rink. He asked the age and other data of the club and predicted to Scotty Bowman a "great match" would be in store for Ottawa fans when the Russian hockey team plays them on December 6. The youngsters, the only Canadian team to play the Russians twice tangle with them in Montreal in the second tilt.

PLENTY OF FARE

There is plenty of fine sports fare on the menu today and tonight for fandom in general. The Hamilton-Montreal game opens the program and at three o'clock the Montreal Canadiens - Boston Bruins game is being televised from the Boston Gardens. The "one-eyed monster of the living room" is doing a terrific job in bringing our great winter game to many parts of the United States. This year the CBS is televising a total of 21 games over 149 stations throughout the United States, going as far south as Texas. Tonight the Detroit Red Wings are the guests of the Toronto Maple Leafs and there is still more television fare, unless you are a staunch McFarland fan and will go see Ray Bowen's men host the young Habs in Memorial Arena. By the way this game starts at 8.30.

Hand Muscovites 7-2 Defeat After Spotting 2 Goal Lead; Russ Looked Mediocre Squad

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The Russian bear turned out to be a fumbling cub. But don't let it fool you: it can grow up to be a big, tough brute.

This is the sobering thought today, a few hours after Whitby Dunlops kicked the experts in the teeth by whipping Russia's highly touted hockey team 7-2 before 14,227 on-the-spot Canadian hockey fans and thousands others who watched the slaughter on television. The Russians can't be that bad.

Six members of the pass-happy all-star Moscow team were on the ice at Cortina, Italy, when the Soviet Union toppled Canada from its Olympic perch with a 5-0 shutout over Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen. Canadian observers at the Games said that a couple of players would have an excellent chance of making a National Hockey League team.

NOT IMPRESSED

But Dunlops, who likely will meet the Russians in the Feb. 28-March 9 world amateur championships at Oslo, weren't in the least impressed as the Soviet players opened their seven-game tour of Ontario and Quebec at Maple Leaf Gardens. They spotted them a 2-0 lead in the first two minutes and then proceeded to whomp them for the next 58.

The Russian passing was out of color, they didn't have a clue about defence in their own end and their shooting was weak. But they had two things going against them—they're an 80-minute hockey ice surface, 15 feet narrower than the hardrock open-air rinks in Europe.

AMAZING IN PRACTICE

They amazed experts in practice and one, Ken Reardon, vice-president of Montreal Canadiens of the NHL and one -time great Canadiens defenceman, went out on a limb to predict they'd take the Dunlops here and win the world title at Oslo. On their performance Friday night they would have a tough time beating a playground pick - up team.

Dunlops figured the visitors had an off-night. Playing-coach Sid Smith thought the Soviet would ice a much stronger club at Oslo and that they could play much better on ice of gauge. "They'll be tough," he said after the game.

DUDLEY AGREES

His words were echoed by George Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association which is sponsoring the tour. "Don't discount the Russians yet," Dudley warned. "Remember this rink is 15 feet narrower than Europe and they didn't have much room to manoeuvre. They can skate and shoot tough. We shouldn't go to Oslo with the idea that the championship will be a cinch."

The Russians showed only brief flashes of the stickhandling and speed which impressed the experts in their practices.

Dunlops played for the first time under International rules which allow defenders to body-check only in their own half of the ice, and they caught on fast. Eleven penalties were called—seven against the Dunlops and there wasn't a fight at any time that the players would resort to rough stuff. Most of the penalties were for hooking or elbowing.

MUST FORECHECK

Possibly the biggest lessons learned by Dunlops were that they should forecheck the Russians and polish up on power plays. On two occasions the Russians didn't have a shot on the Whitby goal when a Canadian player in the penalty box because the Canadians were forechecking. At other times the Whitby Dunlops rent five men up the Russians didn't know how to cope with the five-man offensive.

Seven players shared the Whitby scoring honors. They were George Samolenko, Ted O'Connor, George Gosselin, Wally Charles, Ross Lowe, Soviet snipers were Yury Pantyukhov and Yevlamie Alexandrov.

The Russians' next game is Sunday afternoon against Windsor Bulldogs.

GRANT PERMISSION

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association has granted Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen and Windsor Bulldogs permission to use International Ice Hockey Federation rules in their OHA Senior A game tonight.

The application for permission was made by Kitchener, which will play the tourist Moscow Selects, after prohibition against body-checking in the opponents' zone, to prepare for their tilt with Moscow.

Sunday, the only game is the exhibition match at Windsor.

Bisons Put Russian on Reserve List

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Ilya Ventamin Alexandrov of the Moscow Selects ever plays professional hockey in the U.S., it will be with the Buffalo Bisons of the American League.

Alexandrov has been placed on the Bisons' reserve list by general manager Fred Hunt. That means no other club can sign him.

Hunt acted Friday on the advice of Rudy Pilous, coach of the St. Catharines Teepees and a Bison scout. Pilous watched the touring Russian team practise Thursday in Toronto.

Pilous said he spoke through an interpreter with the 19-year-old Alexandrov, a winger. The blond youngster said he would like to play here but Rudy suspects he was just being polite.

Throw Book At Wrestlers Following Riot

NEW YORK (AP)—New York State Athletic Commission threw the book at four wrestlers and a promoter Friday as the result of a riot during a television match Tuesday night at Madison Square Garden.

Antonino Rocca of Argentina and Dr Jerry Graham of Hollywood, Calif., each were fined $1,000. Edward Attis of Chicago was assessed a $500 fine, and Edgardo Carpentier of France $100.

In addition, chairman Julius Helland of the commission cancelled a wrestling match slated for Nov. 30 at the garden by promoter Walter Smallshaw. The promoter was held partly responsible for the conduct of the rest-lers.

Approximately 500 of the 12,987 fans rioted soon after Rocca and Graham were seated in a two-of-three falls verdict over Graham and Attila. Graham and Rocca tussled on the ring apron after the bout was ended

Russians Put On Daily Food Allowance

TORONTO (CP)—Moscow Selects, one of the biggest eating teams to play in Canada, now are on a daily food allowance.

George Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said the arrangement was made at the request of the touring Soviet hockey team.

Dudley said: "The arrangements I had made earlier in Europe were vague so we made them more specific at the Russians' own request. A per diem food allowance was established so that if an individual player wants to order extra portions it is up to himself."

Under the earlier, more elastic arrangements, some of the Moscow players ordered several servings at a meal and it was reported one breakfast for the team came to $110.

"FOR LUXURY WALLS TRY WOOD PANELLING!"

One of the most popular coverings for your walls today is wood panelling. Low maintenance cost, easy installation, permanence, economy and luxurious appearance are the main reasons for its popularity.

Wood panelling can give you many different effects, for instance . . . for an informal effect, choose woods with prominent grain, knots and other character markings, for a formal effect, woods with an even grain are used. Andy Bathgate Sparks NY Rangers In 4-2 Victory Over Black Hawks

Slick Playmaker Scores Two In Furious 3rd-Period Drive To Increase Blues Loop Lead

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Let the National Hockey League's top marksmen beware. Andy Bathgate, New Rangers seem to be hitting his stride again.

The slick, 25-year - old New York Ranger playmaker, off to a slow start this season, scored two goals and assisted on a third Friday night as New York turned on a third-period drive that beat Chicago Black Hawks 4-2.

The win put Rangers four points ahead of second - place Montreal Canadiens, but the flying Frenchmen have played only 16 games to New York's 20.

Eddie Litzenberger opened the Chicago scoring with his seventh goal of the season at the end of first period and the lead carried through the second.

Nils, 11 FOR HENRY

In the third, little Camille Henry got his 11th goal at 1:49 with Bathgate assisting. Five minutes later Bathgate got his first and Ted Lindsay replied with Hawks' second. Andy Hebenton put New York ahead 3-2 and Bathgate scored his second into the empty Hawk net 42 seconds before the end of the game.

The goals were the Winnipeg natives' seventh and eighth this year and his 13th assist jumped him into third place in the scoring race.

Last season he put together 37 goals and 50 assists for 77 points a record high for him.

They also gave him fourth place in the scoring race and a stands him one of the few men who have managed to break the Montreal Blues' hold on the top five spots since 1950.

BRAINS NOT BRAWN

As attested by his high assist-total, Bathgate is a centre of the old school—a brilliant stickhandler and playmaker who relies on brains rather than brawn and blinding speed to carry him through.

Henry, a tiny goal hawk, and Hebenton, a rugged winger who is second last season's winner of the Lady Byng Trophy for sportsmanship play, are men of the same stamp and the three are principally responsible for Rangers' surprising success this season.

This afternoon Rangers plan to take on some of their four-game slack with a contest in Boston against the Bruins. Tonight Detroit is in Toronto against the Maple Leafs.

Sunday, all six teams play with Montreal at Detroit, Toronto at New York and Boston at Chicago.

Minor Hockey

The Black Hawks recorded the only shutout in the pee wee hockey action at Memorial Arena this morning, blanking the Red Wings by a 3-0 score.

In the other fixtures, Canadiens whipped the Barons 8-2, Browns shaded the Bruins 2-1, while Rangers' downed the Maple Leafs 4-1, to post the others.

Richard Eves, Perry Soules and Forrest Smith each scored one in the Hawk victory. Assists were credited to Leo Mulins and Bill Elliott.

Canadiens divided their scoring points with only Jim Mairs scoring two goals. The others went to Peter Carver, Dean Williamson, Tom Boyle, Brian Williams, Jim Hurst and Brian Smith. Howie Merrin and Ron Skinner had a pair of assists each with one for Tom Boyle and Peter Thorne. Bobby Leppan tallied both Baron goals with Freddie Robinson from two assists.

Glen Rainbird fired the decisive counter unassisted in the Browns' narrow 2-1 victory. The Boyle also scored with Don Adams helping. J. McGuire with B. Leslie assisting, bagged the Bruins' lone goal.

In the Ranger triumph, Bob Boyle and Allan Mott each accounted for a marker apiece with other. Jack Thomson and Carl Mackenzie adding the winners' other goals with Jack Jury assisting on a pair. Billy Angove saved the Leafs' fourth for the shutout with an unassisted marker.

CONVICTION UPHELD

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Three judges Friday upheld the conviction of Jake Lamotta, former world middleweight boxing champion, on prostitution charges.

Attorney Richard Gerstein said Lamotta will be picked up and start his six-month jail term as soon as a mandate is issued.

Lamotta was convicted on the testimony of a 14-year-old girl who said she met his Miami Beach bar to recruit dates.

Rory Calhoun Stops Boyd In 2nd Round

NEW YORK (AP)—Rory Calhoun, high-ranking middleweight contender, stopped Bobby Boyd of Chicago on a technical knockout Friday night in 25 seconds of the second round of a 10-round match at Madison Square Garden. Calhoun weighed 160, Boyd 159 pounds.

There was confusion in the ring when many thought referee Al Berl had stopped the bout after Calhoun had dropped Boyd with a hard right to the chin.

Although Berl waved his hands in a manner that sometimes means the bout has been stopped, he explained later that he was merely waving Calhoun to a neutral corner.

They squared off again and Calhoun landed another hard right to the side of the head that sent Boyd to the floor again. After the count reached three, Berl waved his hands to indicate he was stopping it.

On the first knockdown, Boyd got up at five.

Calhoun now owns a 31-3-1 record for 34 pro starts.

Boyd now has a 48-8-2 record. It was the sixth time he had failed to the route.

Calhoun is ranked No. 3 in Ring and No. 5 by the National Boxing Association as a challenger. Carmen Basilio's challenger.

Owners, Writers Blast Panel For Ignoring Ted Williams

BOSTON (AP)—Boston baseball writers, often at odds with Ted Williams, joined Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey today in blasting two unidentified scribes for slighting the 39-year-old slugger.

The Boston writers and Yawkey were irked by the votes of two out-of-town newspaper men who failed to give Williams an 8th and 10th in the balloting for the American League's most valuable player award.

New York's Mickey Mantle edged Williams for the coveted award, 233 points to 209 on the basis of 13 points for a first place vote, nine for second, eight for third etc. Three writers in each American League city picked 10 players in order.

Joe Cashman of The Daily Record, whose top choice was Williams, said it was "inconceivable" that any informed and experienced writer could select eight or nine more valuable players in the league.

"I can only attribute their action to personal animosity," he said.

Henry McKenna of The Herald, who also selected Williams for top, said he was surprised at the two lowly votes.

Hy Hurwitz of The Globe, Boston's third voter in the balloting, said he was surprised at the low vote for Mantle. Hurwitz said he named Gil McDougald of the Yankees as his MVP choice.

Williams record.

Yawkey said he didn't want to take anything away from Mantle but that he was bothered by those two last place votes for Ted."

"I do not think anyone who lets personalities interfere with his judgment is qualified or competent to vote," Yawkey said.

Williams, who hit .388 and clouted 38 homers, said "it doesn't make any difference to me one way or another" when informed of the vote.

McFarlands Strengthen Lead In Eastern Senior A League With 7-3 Win Over Kingston

KINGSTON, Ont. (Special) — The high-flying Belleville McFarlands strengthened their hold on first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "A" group last night in Kingston with a decisive 7-3 victory over the Frontenac Kingston CKLC's. The Macs lead the second-place Whitby Dunlops by three points. A poor crowd of 1,533 attended.

Capitalizing on several Kingston defensive lapses Belleville led 1-0 at the first intermission and 3-1 at the end of the second period.

Kingston outshot the Macs 15-10 in the first period and 14-11 in the second but Belleville had the edge in the third 19-10.

Bob Paul, Ed Marineau, Jean Paul Payette, Floyd Crawford, Russ Kowalchuk and Barton Bradley shared the Belleville goals, Roy Partridge, Mike Bukaschewski and Ted Toppazzini scored for Kingston.

Paul took a pass from Ike Hildebrand early in the first session and blasted a screen shot past Kingston netminder Dave Brailey for the night's goal of the period. Eight penalties were called in this period, including a late minute misconduct to Whitey Youngberg of Kingston for throwing his stick after the final whistle and one to Ike Hildebrand after the whistle ended the period for talking back to the referee.

Partridge knotted the count within a minute of the second period but Marineau put the Macs ahead a minute later and Brown scored at 5.10 to end the period scoring.

The Macs began to really pour on the pressure in the third, Kowalchuk getting his first with in two minutes. Toppazini drove back for Kingston but to no avail as the league-leading Macs added two more goals from Barton Bradley, Jean Paul Payette, and Kowalchuk.

Mike Bukaschewski beat Belleville goal tender Gord Bell at the 17 minute mark to end the scoring in the game.

The small crowd was due mainly to competition from televised Whitby – Russian hockey game in Toronto but felt short of record which was set last December when 1,433 fans paid to see Kingston CKLC's battle the Cornwall Cheviks.

Kowalchuk played an outstanding game offensively for Belleville and Moe Benoit starred on defence. Mike Bukaschwski played well for Kingston.

Davis stopped a three-man breakaway in the second period.

The line-up:

Belleville — Goal, Bell; defence, Bokey, Crawford; centre, Payette; wings, Marineau, Goldsmith; alternates, Marineau, Benoit, Brown, Kowalchuk, Goyer, Hildebrand, Bradley.

On the Tracks

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jockey Eddie Arcaro's memory might remind him to ride Misty Flight carefully in today's Pimlico Futurity.

He rode in the race for the first time in 1936 and won it with Calumet Farm's favored Pritzel ege. But the stewards figured Arcaro did it by fouling and and gave the then 20-year -old jockey for six months.

His present today will help Wheatley's Stable's Misty Flight to be at least second choice among the tall odds - favoring colds entered in the mile-and-six-furlong race worth a total $162,740.

Mrs. Elizabeth Arden Graham's Jewel's Reward looms as the probable favorite.

SADDLER NOW A SECOND

NEW YORK (AP)—Sandy Saddler, former featherweight champion of the world who retired because of an eye injury, worked as a second Friday night for the first time in a New York ring.

Sandy was in the corner of Rudy Sawyer, promising New York welter, who knocked out Charley Cotton of Toledo in the 10th round.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (CP)—Toronto's Al Balding was tied for record place Friday in the first of the 54-hole West Palm Beach Invitational open tournament.

'Toughies' Play For Grid Title

HALIFAX (CP)—The toughest teams in Canadian intermediate football kick off here today with Shearwater Flyers trying to knock over Fort William Redskins and gave Northerners their first Dominion championship.

Both clubs are depending on a style of play copied from Edmonton Eskimos. Neither is too concerned about weather conditions.

"We've played in cold, rain and snow, so I don't think weather will be a big factor," Redskins' coach Jack James said Friday.

Shearwater coach Moose Mills had little to say. But the naval air station club's unbroken string of 20 victories includes two championship tilts on soggy fields.

James said he is betting on quarterback Jackie Parker, rocks and Ray Malo and tackles Ray Antonian and Ray Negrie. Mills will be relying on his high-scoring Bob Hayes, Bruce Walker and Buck Taylor.

Flyers are slight favorites to cop their first Canadian title. Game time is 2 p.m. AST (noon EST). The weatherman offers sunny weather with the possibility of rain. A sellout crowd of about 6,000 is expected.

Teeps Trounce Biltmores 6-2

GUELPH (CP) — League-leading St. Catharines Teepees handed cellar - dwelling Guelph its seventh straight Ontario Hockey Association Junior B loss here Friday night, whipping Biltmores 6-2.

Bob Crowder and John McKenzie had two goals each to pace Teepees' attack. Jim Kostakis and Don Coshurn counted the other goals. George Ustalo scored both Guelph goals.

Teepees opened up a 4-1 lead in a wide-open first period of play with the five goals scored in less than seven minutes. The clubs split second-period tallies and Teepees closed out, scoring with 30 seconds remaining in the game.

Rochester Gets Leafs' MacNeil

TORONTO (CP)—Billy Reay coach of the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs, said Friday he is abandoning plans to use six defencemen in the first game of the season. He sent sophomore Al MacNeil to Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League.

MacNeil has been used sparingly for three weeks because Tom Thurlby, the fifth defence man sidelined with a knee injury.

Reay said his reluctance to break up his two top combinations, Bob Baun, Rick Ley and Ron Stewart and Jim Morrison, brought about MacNeil's layoff in Horton's absence. Now he will break up his pairings and attempt to use Horton to spell any of the four.

Tigers Favored Over Larks In Today's Gridiron Battle

HAMILTON (CP) — Either Hamilton Tiger-Cats or Montreal Alouettes come to the end of another football season today.

The oddmakers say it's coach Doug Walker's Als who will pack their bags away at the end of the game. They've made coach Jim Trimble's Ticats 5½-point favorites at 6 to 5 to win today's game.

Hamilton has a seven - point lead in the two-game, total-point Big Four Football Union finals, a result of their opening game 17-10 win last Saturday in Montreal.

All Ticats need do is protect that lead and they'll represent the East in the Grey Cup final at Toronto next week.

FIELD IS EXCELLENT

The forecast for today was cloudy skies with temperatures in the low or middle 40s and westerly winds of 10 to 15 miles an hour. Scattered snowflurries were reported but not in any amount to hurt the field, reported an excellent shape by groundsmen.

Hamilton was to be at full strength for the game. Guard Dave Suminski, whose hand was broken in the opener, was to play with a cast. Halfback Eddie Macon's shoulder, which handicapped him last week, was reported good shape.

Montreal was expected to miss halfback Jon Wells, who suffered cracked ribs.

Hamilton officials retained their clubs and removed 2,500 track seats to guard against any disorders such as the one that erupted after last week's game in Montreal, when players and officials were attacked by fans.

Police warned that anyone going on the field and interfering with play would be arrested. They also intended to watch for liquor drinkers.

If the teams were tied in total points at the end of the game two 10-minute quarters were to be played. If the teams still were deadlocked the title would go to Ticats as they outscored Montreal 30-20 in five regular scheduled games between the clubs. Hamilton won three of the five.

TAKE CARE FELLERS!

OSHAWA (CP) — Seven members of the Bachelor Club forced to vacate their rented quarters, moved into new offices across the street from the YWCA Adelaide House, which shelters 35 girls. The club, founded in 1938, would have been disbanded if a new home had not been found.

Jackie Parker May Not Play In Eskimos-Bombers Classic

By DON PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos entered the western football final against Winnipeg Blue Bombers with a bleak outlook today, wishing for firm footing and fearing that Jackie Parker may not be fit to play.

Unseasonable rain and mild weather has turned the playing field and the spots muddy at Clarke Stadium where Eskimos and Bombers remain at 2:30 p.m. MST (10:30 p.m. EST) in the deciding game of the best-of-three Interprovincial Football Union final.

The winner enters the Nov. 30 Grey Cup final, won the last three years by Eskimos.

Eskimos have upset Eskimos 19-7 in the first game in Winnipeg last Saturday and come within a yard of scoring a last-minute field goal in the Wednesday contest won 24 by Edmonton.

IVY FROWNING

Eskimo coach Frank Ivy met the prospects of the slippery footing with a frown.

"I wish we could have a good field out there," he said. "You can't tell what you're going to happen in the mud."

Bomber coach Harry (Bud) Grant said the mud shouldn't make much difference.

"We both have to play in it," he said. "They've got a bigger line and this might give them a bit of an advantage there."

More of the footing, however, Ivy was worried about the physical condition of Parker. The ace quarterback - halfback - punter - passer responsible for Eskimos in each of the last four years was suffering a deep bruised kheez.

WEATHER OUTLOOK GOOD

The weather outlook for the game is good. The forecaster said the temperature should be around freezing. It was about 10 miles an hour and the sky cloudy. Friday the temperature climbed to 49, melting any snow that remained and softening the playing field.

A crowd of nearly 22,000 is expected.

While Ivy worried over Parker's condition, the team medical staff seized that defensive end Frank Anderson, out for the entire series, won't start tonight because of a bruised shoulder. Mike Lashuk, who suffered a bruised ankle in the first game, won't play either.

Tackle Reed Henderson, halfback Rollie Miles; and several others also were suffering imperfect of various sorts, but they'll be playing.

Grant had his injury blues, too. He said defensive halfback Tom Hinton, suffering a sprained ankle, won't be ready. Fullback Charlie Shepard, whose hefty punts kept forcing Eskimos deep into their own end Wednesday, was limping from a reinjured hip. Nearly every player is badly bruised.

Brawls Mark Rochester Win Over Providence

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The American Hockey League has itself a ball of a brawl Friday night as Rochester defeated second-place Providence 4-2 and collected a fifth-place tie with Springfield by defeating the Indians 5-3.

The fights were staged at Cleveland, where the Barons blew a 4-1 lead then climbed into a fourth-place tie with Buffalo on Gerry Ehman's goal 10:03 after more than three minutes remaining.

Tony Schnieder of Springfield and Bo Elik of Cleveland had at it in the first match, in the second period. Then Cleveland's Pete Gogolan and Floyd Hillman of Indianapolis went at it in a rough third period that saw 10 penalties—four of them majors.

Buddy Boone counted both of Springfield's goals after Elik and Baron Pulaiani had given Cleveland the lead in the first two minutes and 19 seconds of play.

At Rochester, the third-place Americans erupted for three third-period goals for their win.

Benny Woit, Ken Girard, Gary Collins and Skippy Burchell were the Rochester marksmen. Zellio Toppazzini and Bill Sweeney counted for Providence, who now lead the Americans by only one point.

Referee Frank Udvari called 7 minor penalties and two majors.

Ron Stewart of Golden Gaels Only One of Team to Be Chosen on All-Star Squad

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The ground and passing attack used this season by McGill University Redmen in the Senior Intercollegiate Football Union has gained all-star recognition.

Halfback Jan Sandzelius, quarterback Dick Carr, guard Buster Brown and ends Joe Poirier and John Bennett represent McGill on the 1957 all-star team, chosen for The Canadian Press by coaches, sportswriters and sportscasters in the four union cities and announced today.

University of Western Ontario Mustangs, eastern champions, and University of Toronto Blues each placed three men on the team. Halfback Ron Stewart, selected for the fifth straight year, was the only player named from Queen's University Golden Gaels.

WOW SCORING HONORS

Sandzelius was the main cog in Redmen's running attack. The 23-year-old native of Montreal won the scoring championship with 72 points, including four touchdowns, eight converts and six singles.

Poirier, in his first year at McGill, and Bennett, an all-star for the third straight season, were the main targets for Carr's passes. Poirier scored 24 points on four touchdowns and Bennett had two touchdowns for 12 points.

Sandzelius, Poirier and Bennett together scored 74 of McGill's 86 points during the six-game schedule.

Carr, an American import from Beverley, Mass., and a former Columbia University player, was named to the team for the third straight year.

Brown joined Bennett and Carr as third-year man on the team. The 22-year-old, 205-pound - born guard entered McGill in 1955 after spending a season with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four and has been anchor man in the Redmen line-up.

SEVEN CROSSER IN 1956

Seven players returned from last year's selections. There were no unanimous decisions as the voting, which was weighted to give equal balloting strength to each player in the league—Toronto, Montreal, Kingston and London.

The team:

Flying wing—Tim Reid, Toronto
Half—Bill Britton, Western Half—Jan Sandzelius, McGill
Half—Ron Stewart, Queen's Quarter—Dick Carr, McGill
Centre—Ed Meadu, Western Guard—Curt Russell, Toronto
Guard—Buster Brown, McGill
Tackle—Jack Keenan, Western Tackle—John Casey, Toronto
End—Joe Poirier, McGill
End—John Bennett, McGill.

Along with Carr, two other players from the United States gained berths on the team.

Meads, who captained the University of Michigan Wolverines in 1955, entered Western this season as a medical student. Normally a guard, coach Johnny Metras decided to switch the 200-pounder to centre and the move was extremely successful.

Russell, a standout on the Blues' line, was born in Baltimore, Md. He entered the University of Toronto four years ago and after two seasons of interfaculty football was elevated to the Blues last season, when he was also voted an all-star.

SECOND FOR REID

All-star nominations are nothing new to Reid, Stewart or Roman. This was Reid's second straight berth although last season he was chosen for a halfback.

Roman was ineligible to play last season and had to relinquish a two-year all-star position. But he regained his honor as he played brilliantly for the championa. He was a fearless player in the league at 240 pounds.

Stewart needs no introduction to all-star fans. The fleet, 25-year - old Toronto high school graduate scored much of the load for Gaels, playing nearly 60 minutes in every game. His defensive work this season was more pronounced than in any of the four previous years when he collected up a total of 160 yards. He had one touchdown for six points this year when Gaels had all six of their starts.

Casey, playing his third season with his hometown Blues, was an outstanding defensive player. He narrowly beat out Rae Brown of McGill for the second tackle position.

Disgusted Duck Hunter Hangs 'Quit' Sign on Waders, Decoys

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A growing sigh of despair is rising over the whistling wings in the Southern Ontario duck marshes.

It's coming from a corps of assembled gunners who have witnessed the antics of their fellow purveyors after waterfowl with such mounting disgust they are beginning to wonder whether their once-favorite sport is still worthwhile.

Basically there are three reasons behind it, only the first of which is beyond remedy:

1. An ever - increasing number of hunters on the trail of a duck population, that is more or less static.

2. Ignorance, both of laws and ethics:

3. Callous disregard of both by bloodthirsty, trigger - happy characters who are a mile-wide curity but big enough—and seemingly growing in number to make the name of hunters in general.

SPREADING INFLUENCE

Worse to tell the increasing competition seems to bring out the worst in middle-of-the-road sidewalkers who would be hotly shocked if accused of unsporting behavior.

Among the latest to cry "enough!" is Jim Fairfield, outdoors columnist of the Galt Reporter. He says he is hanging a "quit" sign on his waders, decoys and other paraphernalia of the chase.

"No longer do I wish to be known as a duck hunter, to be tarred with the same brush as the duck-murdering hunter class of 1957," Fairfield writes.

"Unless something is done, next year will be worse. I can only suggest that there be no season at all in 1958."

RULES, IGNORED

Fairfield was among the witnesses of the opening - day barrage that was common in the Luther Marsh on the Grand River near Orangeville, the Turkey Point and Long Point duck grounds on Lake Erie, and countless other spots throughout the province.

The season opened at noon this year. Thereafter, shooting was legal from half an hour before sunrise to half an hour after sunset.

"The first signs of slaughter were heard too early," he writes. "Anywhere up to four hours too early." Closing time was just as loosely observed and ducks were slain after darkness wiped out their only defence.

Fairfield says many of his brothers in arms, has suffered the frustration of would - be ducks approach his decoys only to be driven off by out-of-range shots from the new, powerful guns—or the companion he'd known possibly three years. . .

"It was a bird hen swinging around fearlessly, miraculously being missed by the barrage of shot fired at him. He was a good range but inevitably he took a step forward, then he could take and he began a long quacking glide. Fantastically that brave Mallard glided down through at least another 10 shots until he reached water and fell, have been growing angrier ever since. . .

"I cannot remain an active duck hunter, not and sleep nights with the same pen of this unnatural and inhuman thing that is duck hunting—A.D. 1957."

AT THE PARK — Black Magic — Black, white or cool, Marilyn has that spell-binding magic whether she's in a romantic or comedy mood, both her specialties in "Bus Stop", in CinemaScope and Technicolor, the film that brings her back on screen after a too-long absence opens Monday at the Park Theatre. On the same program "The Girl Can't Help It", in CinemaScope and Technicolor starring Tom Ewell, Jane Mansfield and Edmond O'Brien.

Martin and Raitt to Star In 'Annie Get Your Gun'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Some years ago, singer John Raitt visited Mary Martin backstage while she was starring in Annie Get Your Gun in Los Angeles.

"I'd love like to do this show with you some day," he told her.

Next Wednesday night he'll do the show—but her behave what promises to be one of the biggest audiences of all-time. Martin and Raitt will star in Annie in a 90-minute spectacular via NBC.

TV rehearsals have been intense. Mert shows get only one day's work with cameras: Annie is getting seven.

"The two leading roles are better balanced than they have ever been," Raitt commented. "On the stage, there isn't much a young man can do up against Ethel Merman. And Howard Keel couldn't make too much impression on the picture with Betty Hutton.

"But we've switched the show to make Frank Butler a more rewarding character instead of a stock-type hero."

"For instance, the play originally had him make his entrance surrounded by girls. It was strictly operetta staging; I've been in enough operettas to know. So we let him make his entrance unobtrusively. When he leaves, he has the girls chasing after him. What better exit could an actor want?"

More motivation is supplied in the love scenes and duets, he added, so that Frank Butler becomes a more sympathetic character.

AT THE McCARTHY — Forceful Richard Basehart portrays the anti-crime crusader in Universal-International's "Operation Manhunt" which is co-hit to start with Jan Sterling, Dan Duryea and beautiful Irene Adams, opening Wednesday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre along with Lady Godiva Rides Again" featuring Dennis O'Keefe and Ann Sears.

TV NOTEBOOK

By John Wettlaufer

An view of the fact that in this electronic age of ours television rightly dominates the family living room, it must be recognized that there is a definite problem of sorts as regards what the youngsters are allowed to watch.

Growing minds can be influenced to television — at least in some ways and to varying degrees — as witness the fact that the small fry can be heard singing bouncy commercials more flawless the name of Santa (what bad?) At any rate, recognizing that a certain amount of sensible censoring of the youngsters' diet is necessary, the problem falls squarely in the laps of the parents. There is a wealth of worthy programs dishing out wholesome, innocent entertainment slanted strictly for the lollipop trade. As we see it it simply a matter of the parents steering the young ones to the programs designed in their behalf.

Speaking of steering — it's no bum steer when we suggest that you call on CHCH-TV SERVICE for expert and economical TV service and repair. Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER
(Author of the new "Astrology and You")

"The Stars impel . . . They do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to you."

Saturday, November 23, 1957

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Your subconscious is filled with wonderful ideas this morning and friends come up with others to add to your store. Seize the best and put in operation at once! Cultivate persons of determination and virtue.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) If you truly want to take advantage of the extraordinary chances available to you right now, it is best to make plans immediately and get to work on them. A. M. work. P. M. laughter and love.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) There is only one way to get at the real truth and stop worrying: Talk-over what is puzzling with fine associate. Once you know absolutely what the conditions are, you can arrive at a working solution happily.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) Such a mountain of unfinished little tasks requires your immediate attention. Don't procrastinate, get at 'em, and then you will have time to spend with those you appreciate. Be generous and have a wonderful time!

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Attuned properly to planetary influences, you arise feeling quite chipper and gay this morning. So, repair to beautician or barber, emerge your most handsome self and have a ripping old time. Restore your emergencies.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) This is a perfect Saturday for getting at that leaky pipe, those curtains, screens, etc. Then polishing brass, waxing floors, brush, paint, overalls, washing machine, etc. Tomorrow you will be happy you tired yourself out.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) You will have trouble doing all your marketing, calling on difficult people, writing important letters in the early hours. Then the deepening hours are ideal for socializing with comrades and cavorting imps. Have fun!

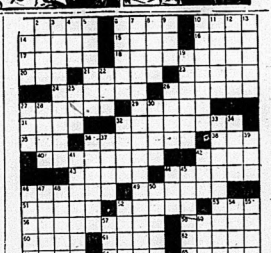
Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Applying the best lessons learned during your years of living so far, plus the finest standards inculcated by your parents, the benefits of this one day will be very great P.M. see authorities for best last-sure you have outlined any given task precisely and know that every detail is understood, or your youngster may leave you far behind and get lost in the crowd, perhaps for all time in early youth. Educate wisely for the traveller of tomorrow, the writer of fascinating travel tales.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) See that you scrutinize and study yourself today as closely as you do others for best solution to own immediate problems. Be friendly in seeking aid and support from intimates; sociability will get you more than you had expected.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Since ferreting out what puzzles you is a hobby, today you can enjoy yourself to the nth degree with current problems at hand. Think big and act big, however; and retrospectively you get wonderful results.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) This is an ideal day to pay great attention to fine information being released to you of great import, since it will lead to really big things in your life. Utilize quickly. P.M. rejoice and have fun with intimate tie.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) See that you are wide-awake to the many truly fine opportunities at hand for you to advance and increase abundance. Come out of timid lethargy. Also understand why important people react as they do and mollify.



If your child is born today . . . The dynamic child born today is the kind who will act so swiftly that he or she will appear to be travelling on wheels. So, be quite sure you have outlined any given minute advice.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was walking to school slow with Puds Simkins and Glasses Magee, and Puds said, Heck, I bet we would be going faster than this if we were walking away from school instead of to it.

Hay, let's pretend school is the most fun there is, I said. Let's pretend it's a candy store and we get there for arithmetic. Four hundred billion divided by a squillion times a wow, I said, and Glasses said, You cant beet geogrify, because it's the East by the Gerry ty River and on the West by the Spongy Mountains and the Soupy Lake and the Capital Strait, Hay boy, hurry up, school, he said.

And we started to run, me laffing at ourselfs, Glasses saying, The human body contains 3 thousand and 18 bones just like the big bone, the little bone and the middle sized bone. The stumick is in the middle of the body and the food is in the middle of the stumick, burrow for Zoology, he said.

The Eskimos live on fish scales and chewing gum, I said. They export cold ice and import hot lava. Oh boy, school, let's run, I said.

Which we started to do. Puds Simkins, Indians and discovered television in 1492.

Which just then we got to the schoolyard out of breth, being almost the only ones there yet, and I said, Heck, we must be crazy.

Sure, the doors aren't even open yet, Glasses said, and Puds said, Oh well, it was fun while it lasted.

Which it was, only we decided if we do it again we'll do it slower.

NO FOUL PLAY

BRADFORD, Ont. (CP) — An unidentified middle - aged man whose skeleton was found in an irrigation ditch near here Nov. 12 was not a victim of foul play, Inspector H. M. Purdy of the provincial police said Tuesday. He said the body had been in the ditch about six months before it was discovered by a trench digging machine.

Montreal Bank Victim of Second Armed Robbery

MONTREAL (CP) — Two armed bandits today staged a lightning holdup at a Canadian Bank of Commerce branch and escaped with an estimated $15,000.

The same bank was held up four months ago and robbed of $20,000.

Police said the men knocked down the bank manager, ordered the staff and customers to the floor, and emptied three tellers' cash drawers before escaping.

Manager J. L. Godbout said he was in his office when he saw one of the holdup men walk around the end of the counter.

"SOME NERVE"

"I thought he had some nerve to walk around there after that and I went out to talk to him," Mr. Godbout said.

"I told him he had no right to be behind the counter. He pulled a gun from his pocket and hit me on the jaw with his left hand, knocking me down."

Meantime, the second gunman was ordering the 10 bank employees and customers to lie on the floor.

They were scooped the cash into paper bags and were gone in a few minutes.

Says Russians Could Have Sent Man Into Space

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A missile scientist at Redstone Arsenal says the possibility that Russia may have sent up a man instead of a dog is "feasible."

The view was expressed by Billy Isbell, an engineering observer at the army ballistic missile agency.

"The technical aspects indicate that the Russians could just as well have sent up a man as a dog," he said.

He pointed to the weight of Sputnik II, which the Russians said is more than 1,200 pounds.

Isbell said the short life of Sputnik II, which the Russians said is more than 1,200 pounds. Isbell said the short life of Sputnik II, which sent from the second satellite raises a suspicion that the animal aboard the satellite was entirely fuled.

He explained he means that if which instruments sent up a dog, which would weigh about 30 pounds but would have less room for a power supply larger than that indicated.

This, said Isbell, "would indicate that there was room aboard for a man, say of 125 pounds."

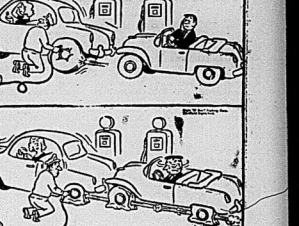
Urges Care So Schools Do Not Become Playpens

TORONTO (CP)—Allan Becker chairman of the suburban North York board of education said yesterday night the Ontario department of education is not fulfilling its role as a leader.

Speaking at the official opening of the new Northview Heights public school, Mr. Becker said the province demands only "that minimum educational standards be upheld."

Much of the curricula of secondary and elementary schools are padded with "irrelevant material" that has resulted in even bright pupils being told to "take watered-down standards."

He said care must be taken "that our schools will not become playpens, and our teachers babysitters, and our children in some places south of our border."



Britain Plans Giant Seaport For Oil Tankers

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain today took the first major step towards building a giant seaport in Wales capable of handling the world's largest oil tankers and making the United Kingdom less dependent on Suez Canal.

The House of Commons approved a bill to establish a port authority in Milford Haven at the tip of Wales. Virtually undeveloped at present, the site is one of the world's best natural harbors.

Besides oil tankers, the port will be available to all shipping of the future including transatlantic liners.

Garden Notes

Fall Care for Standard Roses

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

There is still enough warmth in the soil in November and it is usually in good working condition for rose planting. Roses will still have enough time to get settled before spring growth starts. The soil preparation should be the same as for bush roses. Any well drained soil, open area away from trees and shrubs that could shade plants and take nourishment from the roots. Light shade in the afternoon has been found beneficial to all roses.

Since standard roses are expensive plants they should be given every advantage. The lower soil should be thoroughly broken up and well rooted manure, or balanced plant food mixed in. The top soil should be the best possible. Replace the present soil with new earth if it is in poor condition. Old time gardeners kept on hand a burnt earth which they mixed in with the top soil. It was prepared by building a hot fire of turf or coal, onto this they piled soil in such a way that it was baked. The centre of the fire might be allowed for days with the earth raked out and replaced. This soil was stored for future use. This sterile soil became rich in potash and its effect on the plants was noticeable for a long period.

Standard roses should be planted with the junction of the root stock well above ground. The roots should not be more than six inches underground. If planted too deep the plant may be killed.

When planting, keep the roots covered until they can be placed in the ground. Drying winds can kill the plants if the roots are left bare. Should the roses arrive during a freezing spell bring indoors, unpack them in a cool spot and cover with damp sacks, or damp peat moss until a warm day when they can be heeled into the ground as soon as possible. See that the soil is soaked well around them before they are in then add a deep mulch of peat moss, ground pulp or leaves. Do not compress the soil a loose mulch is used such as spent hoof, lay a few branches of evergreen over the mulch to keep and a mulch in diameter if round. from blowing away.

The stakes are used. These should be placed firmly in the hole before the rose is planted. Driving the stakes in after the planting is done may damage the root severely. After the soil is in place and well tramped down tie the plant and stake together using a rubber or plastic tie sold for this purpose. Burlap may be used but this often works loose with the wind and the weather. See that the tree is firm and cannot be moved by wind. Check occasionally to see that neither the stock nor the head is being chafed against the stake. The stake should be long enough to reach one inch below the lowest branch of the head.

Suckers coming from the ground around the tree should be pruned off, and any growth below the head. If growth from either of these points is allowed to develop, strength will be sapped from the head, which is the only place you want new growth.

Keep the beds clear of leaves which may harbor disease spores. They will remain in the soil and spread disease as soon as the soil warms up.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

PROTECTING PREDATORS

Advertising is a modern "must", and conservationists are all in favor of it. But they require something else as well — an intelligent, co-operative public. For the last twenty-five years and more, bird authorities have been endeavoring to explain why predators need protection. Raptorial birds in Canada are largely beneficial owls, the diurnal and the nocturnal hunters that complement one another. To put it shortly, the great majority of them furnish the chief means by which rodent pests are kept in control. The leading items on the diet of most of these birds is mice; and other small rodents, grouped together, come next. Yet most provinces neglect their protection, and Mr. Citizen takes special delight in killing them and is prone to be patted on the back.

The Migratory Birds Convention Act, which came into being 40 years ago, gives protection to migrant game birds, insectivorous birds, and certain other non-game birds. Birds of prey are not included. Consequently, hawks and owls stand a poor chance of survival in New Brunswick and the Northwest Territories which have no special provincial lists of their own. Broad-winged and Swainson's hawks are both definitely migratory, while a dozen others are partially so: that is, some are migratory in Canada yet resident in the U.S., others are usually migratory in both countries but individuals occasionally remain on the nesting grounds. Yet, with a few exceptions, all lack protection.

A FEW SPECIES DESTROYED

However, Manitoba, Nova Scotia, and Saskatchewan specify that only certain species may be destroyed because they are actually the sinners that have given a had name to hawks in general. Included are gos hawks (unusual as far south as civilization), sharp-skinned (too small to have a detrimental effect), and cooper's hawks. But all hawks are definitely on the unprotected lists of Newfoundland, P.E.I., and Quebec.

So far, Ontario has not been mentioned, but only very recently that province took a step forward. With pressure from the Audubon Society of Canada, the legislature amended the Game and Fisheries Act so that non-raptorial birds will receive protection.

Increasing interest is shown in conservation throughout the continent. But quite as important as the law is the education of the population, which still seems to be the greatest obstacle to protecting birds of prey, whose destruction is one of the unbalances any harm they may do.

The Week's News

By The Canadian Press

State Secretary John Foster Dulles of the United States kicked off a small political volcano by saying in Washington that nuclear warheads were stored in Canada.

This came as big news to Canadians, including Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who made a polite denial. Dulles himself did a fast about-face, but that didn't stop talk on the subject.

The prime minister said there is no argument between Canada and the U.S. for the storing of nuclear weapons. But well-informed officials said Canada will make it clear at the forthcoming NATO meeting in Paris she would be willing to store nuclear weapons on her territory in the event of war.

And Ottawa officials also said Dulles may have had the right idea—but was a couple of years premature.

MASSEY'S TERM

Vincent Massey's term as Governor, again, to cover an important period of current global events.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced in an applauding House of Commons that life extension will be for one year, making a total of seven—but actually it will run longer than that.

One of his last major functions as Governor-General will be to greet Queen Elizabeth in May or June, 1959, when the arrives to open the St. Lawrence seaway and tour Canada.

Next summer, he will welcome Princess Margaret on her Canadian visit.

And the 70-year-old Governor-General hopes to make a 1,000-mile barge trip along the Mackenzie River to the Arctic Ocean

DERISIVE EATON

State Secretary Dulles felt a scorching blast of criticism, not Egypt announced it also was sending supplies to Tunisia. Russia announced $175,000,000 in aid for Egypt. Further Communist penetration of the Middle East and North Africa was feared.

GHOULISH CRIMES

Wisconsin authorities investigated the butchering of a woman and other matters ghoulish almost beyond belief.

Edward Gein, 51-year-old bachelor farmer, was charged with murder in the death of Mrs. Bernice Worden, whose mutilated body was found hanging by the heels at Gein's place.

Police said Gein—who pleaded guilty at the coast hearing—admitted under questioning the killing of Mrs. Worden and another woman. They said he looted graves for the cadavers of at least nine others.

They were finally sighted from the air and rescued by the icer-encrusted rescue tug John C.

Macmillan and Lloyd Fly To Paris on Tunisia Issue

Bevan Raps 'Social Climate' Of America

LONDON (AP) — Aneurin Bevan wrote Sunday that he found in the United States "a desperate feverishness, with no sense of direction, and certainly with no concept of social design."

Bevan, likely foreign secretary if the Labor party regains power, described impressions of his recent visit to the United States in an article in News of the World.

"The people of the United States are open, unsophisticated, generous and infinitely hospitable," he wrote.

"It would be churlish if I did not express my deep appreciation of the way in which I received the benefits of all these qualities.

"But in a curious way I do not add up to a total recipe climate that I found in the United States attractive. The frame is more magnificent than the picture within it. Even the picture inside is shallow, unrewarding and in places even tawdry."

Bevan asserted that American advertising created the climate of opinion in which the dominant note is fear.

"Fear that you will fall behind in the display of ostentatious personal expenditure, fear that dandruff or body odor will lose you your sweetheart, fear of this, fear of that, fear of everything," the article said.

The period of political witch-hunting, best known to history as McCarthyism, contributed another element—hate.

"Hate of communism, hate of socialism, hate of radicalism, and hate of anything that could be regarded as tainted by any of these."

Against this background, Bevan said must be judged the shock felt by Americans at the launching of the Soviet satellites.

"It will be a long time indeed before the American people can be brought to forget that they regard themselves as immaculate."

PARIS (AP) — France's resentment over British - United States arms supplies for Tunisia and fear that rebellious Algeria might get them spurred British-French talks today amid a sense of real urgency. NATO solidarity was at stake.

Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd were due here by plane for talks with Premier Felix Gaillard at his official residence on the Quai Branly. Fog delayed Macmillan's departure more than an hour today.

Gaillard has hinted strongly that unless some new and solid basis for discussion is found between France and her two main NATO partners, the Dec. 16 NATO "summit" conference will get a cold shoulder here in Paris.

Fresh yellow posters were seen around the city today proclaiming "The British and Americans have given arms to the Algerian rebels via Tunisia."

PUT ON ALERT

Two rightist parties have called for demonstrations and police officials were on the alert guarding against outbreaks in the Place de la Concorde, near the U.S. Embassy.

Two organizations called for the demonstrations.

One is the extreme rightist Poujadist movement, which called on its followers to gather at the embassy, just off the huge square.

The other is Jean-Baptiste Biaggi was a Revolutionary Socialist party, also rightist.

Biaggi in his call said "Not content to arm and train rebels by way of (Tunisian President Habib) Bourguiba, Macmillan comes to Paris directly to dictate orders to our government."

Five Are Killed In Car Crash At Wallaceburg

WALLACEBURG (CP) — Five persons were killed and four others seriously injured Sunday night in a two-car collision on Highway 40 about five miles northeast of here.

Dead are: Hector St. Pierre of Wallaceburg, Garnet Myers of Hamilton, Mrs. Ivan Mel, about 23, of Wallaceburg, Helen Trella, 18, of Port Lambton and Mrs. Barbara Delmotte of Port Lambton.

The serious condition are Ed Delmotte, of Port Lambton, Patricia Hannwen, also of Port Lambton, and Miss Helen Murphy of Wallaceburg. Mr. Delmotte's young son, Gregory, is in satisfactory condition.

Garnet Myers and Mel Myers was planned in the wreckage of the car he was driving, and police say he drove the vehicle taken to a Wallaceburg garage, to have the body cut out.

Police believe the car driven by Myers was northbound when it was in collision with the vehicle containing Mr. and Mrs. Delmotte and their son, travelling toward Wallaceburg.

TWO STABBED TO DEATH IN MONTREAL

Son, Mental Patient, Held for Questioning

MONTREAL (CP)—An elderly widow and her spinster daughter were slain with a knife in their east-end Montreal flat Sunday and half-way across the city a married daughter was attacked in her home and stabbed.

Police are holding the widow's son Victor, 40, as a material witness. A mental patient on a weekend pass from his hospital, he gave himself up to the RCMP and was turned over to the city police homicide squad.

Mrs. Mary Osborne, 70, and her daughter Agnes, 39, were killed. Mrs. Ann Johnson, 41, in the west-end Notre Dame de Grace area, the married daughter, was slashed in the back.

Hospital officials said Mrs. Johnson's wound was not serious and she was being questioned. She suffered shock and would be held "for a good night's rest."

ORDER INQUEST

Coroner Beverley Lamont has been ordered for Tuesday. No charges are laid in connection with the deaths pending a report after the inquest.

Police said Mrs. Johnson told them at 5:10 p.m. in a telephone call she had been attacked and stabbed by her brother-in-law, Victor.

Police asked police to check at her mother's first - floor apartment.

Less than 15 minutes later Constables Gilbert Gagnon and Jean Denis Lemieux arrived at the address dealing with unconscious patients bordering on life and death.

The spinster and her mother had the right to use modern apparatus for artificial respiration in such emergency cases. But, he added, the doctor is not obliged to use this apparatus unless it is the only way of fulfilling certain moral principles.

What is the family of a virtually dead patient asks the doctor to use artificial respiration to allow the patient to die in peace? Is the resuscitation attempt in fact a burden on the family, which, by prolonging useless efforts imposes on it," the Pope said, "the family may unlawfully insist that the doctor interrupt his attempts and he may lawfully agree to it."

"In such a case, there is no direct disposing of the patient's life and no direct killing (of killing), which would never be lawful."

The question of when a patient must be considered "dead" could be decided by doctors on religious and moral principles in particular cases and thus "these cases

Frost Increases His Demand For Federal Taxation Relief

OTTAWA (CP)—Premier Frost today renewed Ontario's demand for a better financial tax deal with the federal government and carried it a step further than previously.

While reiterating Ontario's objections to the present system, the basic proposition laid before the provinces last year, he also proposed that logging and mining companies be allowed to deduct from their federal tax liability the full amount of provincial taxation.

Mr. Frost said the natural resources exploited by these companies belong to the provinces and yet the federal government gets 60 per cent of the tax revenues paid by them.

"Such a division of tax revenue, coming from resources of a province, is unconscionable ownership and are saddled with the costs associated with conservation, protection and management. It is highly illogical and unsound to give the federal treasury all the federal-provincial fiscal conference.

"In this particular field of natural resource taxation," he said, "the provincial tax should be allowed as a full offset against the federal corporation income tax."

This would not be unreasonable, he added.

Mr. Frost reiterated objections to the present tax-rental formula under which provinces may rent their rights to some tax fields in return for federal payments based on 10 per cent of federal personal income taxes in the provinces, nine per cent of taxable corporation incomes and 50 per cent of succession duties.

He held out, as his previous conference, a 15-15 formula on personal and corporation taxes.

The objection Ontario has advanced to the present formula," he said, "is that the standard rate of abatement (deduction of provincial taxes from the federal tax) is inadequate to provide a reasonable field for the exercise of provincial taxation.

"Today, 15 years later, when the financial obligations of the provinces are vastly greater, the standard rate remains only nine per cent. Provinces cannot be expected to discharge these responsibilities adequately with a smaller share of corporation tax than has been deemed necessary 15 years ago."

Pope Says Artificial Methods Reviving Life May Be Halted

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—The Pope says artificial methods of reviving life may be halted when they do not come within the competence of the Church.

The pontiff said that if the doctor can assert that the stopping of blood circulation was the certain separation of body and soul, even when some organs continued to function, artificial respiration would be invalid because the recipient would no longer be a living person.

"This is an indispensable condition for the exercise of the pontiff said.

The Pope spoke in French to 300 doctors attending arranged by Rome's Gregory Mendel Institute for the Study of Genetics.

Eyewitnesses Tell of Slide That Swept Away Homes

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP) — A gale-driven deluge tore the top off a small mountain here Friday night, ripping eight graves and three homes into a nearby creek.

Today, despite unceasing search operations in steady rain, bodies are still being found.

One of the eight, 18-month-old Seima Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Murray, was rescued Friday by a sheer stroke of chance. Her father, a city fireman, said five months, was recovered nearly in several feet of mud and debris.

The three homes were at the foot of Mt. Hays. The graves are the outskirts of this British Columbia coastal city, and overlook Prince Rupert harbor.

They were washed by an avalanche of mud, rock and trees from Service Vantage Road and then another 300 feet into Cow Creek.

One person was John W. Krug, 37-year-old steam shovel operator, missing since the slide struck.

"First of all the trees started to slide about 11:00 and up they went, then she gained speed and started to pile up like a big snowball.

Trees, underbrush, rock and mud rolled up into the slide poured down the mountain's 45-degree incline.

"It was 50 feet deep when it hit the houses and just crumpled them ahead and crumpled them, and buried them. No one was inside the houses when they were hit.

"It was about four minutes from the time the slide left the top until it settled in a muddy, gooey mess at the bottom."

Dick Ayres, editor of the Prince Rupert Daily News, said the pounding rain—five inches in 24 hours—lifted a huge section from the top of the thickly-wooded hill.

"It was as if a monstrous hand had clawed the whole thing out," he said.

RCMP officers said continuous rain threatened further landslides and ordered ill families to evacuate homes in the area. About 25 persons left their homes.

Missing and presumed dead under the rubble are Mr. and Mrs. Murray and their two children; Mr. and Mrs. George Henderson and John Vandall.

Truck driver Leo Intemela of Terrace escaped the slide.

"I heard a child crying. We got out of the truck and the slide and we had to go through the woods to the creek where the bridge was," he said.

"I saw a hand sticking up out of the water and when I took some shingles and debris away I saw the baby sitting there as if she had been carried down in a crib or something.

"She appeared well and she was rushed to hospital by police."

She suffered from shock and cuts but hospital officials said her condition is good.

JORDAN-ISRAELI BORDER VIOLENCE AGAIN RAMPANT

Ask for Removal of U.S. Truce Observer

JERUSALEM (AP)—A Jordanian demand for the removal of a United States officer serving as United Nations truce observer Friday threatened a breakdown in the mediation of disputes along the Jordan-Israeli border.

As new frontier clashes were reported, Jordan announced that it no longer will accept the truce recommendations of U.S. Marine Maj. Byron Leary.

But a UN spokesman said Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold immediately told the American officer to keep his full personal confidence."

Jordan's protest for Leary's removal apparently was prompted by the officer's decision Wednesday to fly in an Israeli convoy incident last week which touched off a day of frontier clashes.

Jordan charged the Israelis violated the armistice agreement by sending a convoy into highly flammable benzine to a hospital on the Mt. Scopes demilitarized area within the Arab part of Jerusalem.

CITES AGREEMENT

Israel then asked to negotiate with Jordan, citing a section of the armistice agreement applying to the demilitarized Mt. Scopes roads in the Bethlehem - Jordan area.

Leary relayed the request. Jordan rejected it.

Jordan's government's republication of Leary as a truce observer Friday in a letter addressed to Foreign Minister Samir Rifai, commented that Jordan's people had been "informed of openly partial recommendations" of Leary. He added that the U.S. officer had been biased on previous occasions.

MAY TRY BOYCOTT

The demand that Leary be replaced raised the possibility that Jordan might boycott the UN truce body in the Middle East through which deals with its Israeli border clashes. Israel already boycotts the commission.

New trouble on the border followed Leary's decision. Jordan propaganda charges that Jordan's King Hussein was negotiating secretly with Israel.

The latest outbreaks were scattered. Israel reported exchanges with both Jordan and Syria. An Israeli spokesman said Jordan fired on Israeli police at two points.

Syria, meanwhile, moved toward a proposed federal union with Egypt. Several ministerial posts were announced as a draft plans for uniting the two countries' political, military, financial and economic systems.

Duncan Assails Stand By Panel Including Locke

Refused Farmer Leave To Appeal Vagrancy Case

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto lawyer Lewis Duncan complained today of disposal of a case Nov. 11 by a Supreme Court of Canada panel of which Mr. Justice Charles Locke was a member.

Mr. Duncan made his complaint in a 2,000-word letter to Justice Minister Fulton, dated Nov. 22, and made public by the lawyer today.

The letter did not mention an appeal Nov. 18 in another case before the Supreme Court when Mr. Duncan objected to proceeding if Mr. Justice Locke sat on the panel. The court rejected Mr. Duncan's objection but Mr. Justice Locke voluntarily withdrew from the case.

The letter dealt with dismissal by the panel Nov. 11 of an application by William Lyle Kennedy, farmer of Kennedy's Bruce County, for leave to appeal an Ontario Supreme Court judgment upholding his conviction on a vagrancy charge.

RULED ON IMPORTANCE

Mr. Duncan, represented by an agent in the Kennedy case, said the question for decision was whether the federal government has matters of sufficient importance to be considered by the Supreme Court of Canada."

Mr. Duncan said in his letter the appeal application involved the question "of whether the recent Ontario decision in Re Coral-false" and "touches the question of the magistrate's jurisdiction to try."

It also involved "the reputation and even the freedom of the subject."

The letter said the Kennedy case began after May 28, 1957, when Kennedy "had words with his solicitor owing to the way he was conducting his case in matter involving his wife and his farm, and he told the solicitor that he was 'through with him'."

ARRESTED ON HIGHWAY

Next day "Kennedy was stopped by two provincial police as he was being driven in his own car on the highway . . . was tried and convicted on under arrest . . . was instructed to drive to Wallaceburg to pick up his car . . . was arrested . . . was not told why he was arrested."

Kennedy had $340 of Kennedy's money was taken from him, he was refused the permission to telephone a solicitor and was "kept in jail for a week and."

On May 30, Kennedy appeared before Magistrate Otis Conrad McClevis at Walkerton where he was charged under the vagrancy section of the Criminal Code, "a section designed to deal with loiterers and idlers," the letter said.

"It is the first time within my knowledge that it has applied to a farmer in charge of a motor driven car on the highway, who has been living respectably and had upwards of $5,000 coming to him from the sale of his farm."

PLEADED "NOT GUILTY"

The letter continued: "According to the affidavits of responsible persons who were in the court, Kennedy pleaded 'not guilty.'

"Instead of proceeding with the evidence, the magistrate remanded him to jail for one week to enable Dr. Ross, Kennedy's consent to the Ontario hospital, London."

Prime Minister Remains Silent On Tax Deal

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker today remained silent on any details of his proposed better tax deal for the provinces.

At the opening of a two - day federal - provincial fiscal conference, he said he wants "to listen and learn." He wanted to get the provincial position and to leave a definite federal proposal until a second conference "in the new year."

Meanwhile the prime minister announced that the federal government is prepared to take in other provinces including:

1. Federal sharing of all provincial relief costs and not, as now, only when unemployment exceeds .45 per cent of a province's population.

2. Legislation to provide "an earlier and more definite date" for start of the federal-provincial hospital insurance plan, without any provision included to sign agreements and pass enabling legislation.

3. Inclusion of TB and mental patients in hospital insurance coverage shared by the federal government.

4. Provision of more federal funds for provincial hospital loans.

5. Special financial aid to the Atlantic provinces.

Mr. Diefenbaker's only definite commitment at the moment was that under say new plan "no province will receive less than it now is entitled to."

British Soldiers Given Whole Week To Beef to Brass About Army Life

LONDON (Reuters) — The war office today launched Operation Grumble, a week-long exercise when British soldiers get a chance to beef to the brass about the Army's ways to a panel of generals from the sergeant.

The campaign, designed to get the Army's opinion as a guide for a recruiting drive, is in line with a recent policy of measures to make army life more attractive for serving men and potential volunteers.

Government projects for Spurnage defence forces include plans to slash the numbers of soldiers, sailors and airmen from the present 700,000 to about 375,000 by 1962. But despite the big cut, the army alone needs 22,000 confidential.

French Best Diplomats in World, Change Medals to Winnie's Style

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill thinks the French are the world's best diplomats—and he has a good reason, his former secretary says.

Writing in The Sunday Pictorial, Mrs. Elizabeth Layton told of a visit with the former British prime minister to the French city of Nancy. Churchill was to receive the French Medaille Militaire, and he had been carefully coached in the same medal at a reception.

McGowan said he made ready Churchill's clothes with the medal ribbon in the left lapel of his cutaway coat. Churchill studied himself in the mirror and said it should be in the right lapel.

The valet explained he had checked with French authorities. Churchill didn't budge. He insisted the ribbon be in his right lapel, and it did.

When the reception was over, the valet related, Churchill returned to his suite with a broad smile.

"Rather sheepishly he said: 'Norman is the French are the best diplomats in the world.'" the valet related.

"Then he told me what had happened. 'I was introduced to all the holders of the Medaille Militaire in Nancy,' he said. They all wore the ribbon in the LEFT lapel.

"'But before the reception was over they had all discreetly changed it over to the RIGHT lapel for my benefit.'"

British Empire Dairy Show Started Today

The British Empire Dairy Show started this morning in the market building in downtown Belleville.

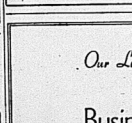
A team of judges began judging stilton class cheddar cheeses and tomorrow the mature class will be judged.

This show is believed to be the largest annual cheese display in Canada, with entries coming from all over the province and Wisconsin.

George Pollard, a dairy instructor from Frankford, is in charge of setting up displays. So far over 150 cheeses have been placed on exhibit, with more expected before the judging ends.

This morning he said, "The finishes (on the cheeses) are perhaps the best we have ever had."

Mrs. Lillian Mathews, secretary-manager of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association, extended an invitation to the general public to visit the show all day Tuesday until 9 p.m. and Wednesday and Thursday, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. The exhibits are well worth seeing.



Cheeses eligible for a total of 100 points, with flavor commanding 45 points, texture 25, cheeses 15, color 10 and finish 5.

Wednesday and Thursday the 13th annual convention of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association will be held in the Kiwanis Centre on Dundas St., East, with a banquet highlighting the event on Thursday night in the Masonic Temple on Front Ave. Guest speaker at the mixed banquet will be Professor N. J. Thomas of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

This year for the first time in a long while a mature class for cheeses has been included in the show. Reason for this class being available is because producers want to show how their cheeses kept during 15 months or more of storage.

Smiling So-Ed club president Bert Hiles, and two of his club members, Shirley Askey (left) and Lena Bradshaw, draw attention to the club's varied program for older teen-age and young adult group. Meetings are held Wednesday evenings at the YMCA with programs including lectures, games and dancing.

Fun, Frolic and Friendships Feature Activities of Belleville Y's So-Ed Club

Fun, frolic, friendships and activities are some of the features offered members of Belleville's YMCA-affiliated So-Ed club now completing its third fall session and two and one-half years of existence.

The Belleville branch of the national organization (So-Ed is now carried on in about 50 Y's across Canada), was started in the spring of 1955 by Jim Pearson of Northern Electric, an active member of the Y's youth work committee.

"He and a party of interested people attended a meeting in Toronto of the Central Y's So-Ed in the fall of '54 to see the organization in action." said club president Bert Hiles. The 12 then formed the first committee of the Belleville branch. "We now have 35 committee members to look after the extensive social and educational program," he said.

Eighty-nine members registered for the eight-week fall session which included a choice of three interest activites — color photography under Don McDougall of the Belleville Camera Club; South American dancing instruction by Barbara Diment of the Diment School of Dance and a games hour for those who registered too late to join the first two courses or who can only attend the odd time.

The interest activities are held for the first hour, followed by a guest speaker, a coffee break and a dance or party A getacquainted party was held during the first meeting on Oct. 9, and a semi-formal party and dance will be held Nov. 27 to close this session.

MEMBERS FROM ALL WALKS

Members come from all walks of life, and include stenographers, nurses, teachers, telephone operators, engineers, technicians, carpenters, draftsmen, salesmen, Air Force personnel, production workers, and even a mortician. They range in age from 18 to 45.

They come to make new friends, increase their skills and knowledge and have fun, explained Jean Vickers, secretary-treasurer.

"In fact several weddings and engagements have developed from So-Ed meetings," she added.

According to club reporter Lena Bradshaw past activities of the club included hobby crafts, amateur dramatics, dancing and films, (features of the Spring session held last March and April), a birthday party to celebrate So-Ed's second year of existence, and a tea to help raise money for the World Service organization. On June 8 the annual formal Blossom Ball was held at Tobe's. In early Sept. the club chartered Aragain Lodge north of Kaladar for their annual weekend Retreat.

PLAN ACTIVITIES

The Outdoor club which plans activities includes sessions, wind picnics, wiener and corn roasts, and hikes in summer, skiing, skating, and tobogganing in winter, as well as numerous parties and dances.

Bus tours are also part of So-Ed's program. On June 22 the Belleville branch joined with Bay of Quinte United Church Young Peoples' organization for a tour of the Thousand Islands. Members attended So-Ed conventions in Toronto last spring and in Sudbury on Sept. 21 and 22, and also made a pleasure jaunt to Syracuse last May.

Choir singing (they have their own Y-member choir called Sweet Choraleers, formed last Feb.) and publishing of the monthly bulletin So-Ed Informer, round out the club's program.

"The Choraleers is not restricted to So-Ed members . . . we want to make it a community choir," said Miss Vickers. Public engagements so far have included a taped broadcast over radio station CJBQ, entertaining the Point Anne Home and School Association and several So-Ed functions, she added.

PLAN DRIVING CLASSES

Future activities, according to club president Bert Hiles, include driving instruction, "if we can get enough members interested and if we can get the cooperation of the Traffic Board in allowing us to use the fair grounds for certain sessions."

A "new look" is tentatively planned for next spring's activities along with the inclusion of crafts and skills in place of interest activities. Rather than a variety of lectures the committee is also proposing a series of lectures on one topic (for example the financial, legal, religious, social and psychological aspects of marriage.)

Questionnaires are used to sound out theh members on the program they want for the next six months so final decisions regarding this "new look" program will not be known until the questionnaires are being completed and returned, Miss Vickers explained.

Future plans for the Outdoor Club include a ski weekend in the Laurentians some time in February and Christmas and Valentine parties, Miss Bradshaw said.

Foremen's Club Ladies' Night to Hear J. Halcrow

The Quinte District Foremen's Club's annual Ladies' Night will be held in the Knights of Columbus Hall tomorrow night. Guest speaker will be John Halcrow, personnel manager of the Y.M.-Y.W.C.A., London, Ont., whose topic will be "The Eternal Triangle".

This will be the yearly event when members bring their wives to enjoy an evening of fine entertainment and dancing, as well as to hear a noted speaker.

Mr. John J. Halcrow calls Hamilton his home town where he attended public schools and collegiate. He attended special courses at McMaster University in that city as well as Y.M.C.A. summer schools. When he was obliged to earn his own living he spent seven years with the International Harvester Company, three years with the H. J. Heinz Co. Since then he has been actively engaged in the Y.M. and Y.W.C.A. work. He was 11 years executive secretary of the West End Y.M.C.A. in Toronto, six years with the Hamilton Y.M.C.A. as physical director and adult program secretary, one year as general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. in London and for the past six years has held the post of personnel manager of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. in London.

Mr. Halcrow is married and has two daughters and is a member of the Kiwanis Club, Masonic Order, Foremen's Club, Chartered Institute of Secretaries, The Canadian Club and many others. He is a member of the United Church of Canada and, like most men, he is interested in many things besides his work. Swimming, skating, fishing, public speaking and travel he lists as among his hobbies.

Mr. Halcrow's topic "The Eternal Triangle" should prove very interesting and entertaining.

Few Elections Seen for County On Monday

With only one or two exceptions, acclamations are the order of the day this year for Hastings county municipalities holding early nominations.

One of the exceptions is the town of Deseronto where Mayor Dr. D. C. McVicker will be opposed by R. Kenneth Jackson. There is also a contest for reeve at Deseronto with Arnold C. Walker opposing former town constable Harry Pratt, while for the public utility post Frank Topping and Joseph C. Reynolds will run.

The nomination meeting saw acclamation for both council and for school board.

The village of Tweed will have an election for council but Douglas Spencer, member of last year's council is the new reeve, succeeding Clarence T. Graham who has resigned after eight years in office.

Contesting the four seats in council are Dr. A. G. Allen, James Halpenny, Robert Wood, Jack Rashotte and Tracey Quinn. There will also be an election for school trustee with Mrs. (Dr.) A. G. Allen opposing Rolf Palmateer for the consolidated school seat. Cathie Cassidy received acclamation for the public utility office.

At Madoc village, Reeve Murray Smith received acclamation for another term, while the school board and police offices were also filled without election.

FIVE FOR COUNCIL

Madoc village will still see an election however, with five candidates competing for the four seats on council, Running for council are Harlan Stewart, Thomas Burnside, Percy Derry, Kenneth West and Percy Dixon.

Marmora village and Marmora township, along with Huntingdon township will have no election.

In Hungerford James Kinlin received acclamation for another term as reeve, while Harold Varty was returned as deputy reeve without a contest. Councillors returned were Bernard Hunt, Morley Meeks and Vincent Healey.

Edmund Wicklow, William Lucas and Warren Sedore received acclamation for the public school trustees, while Leonard Jones was acclaimed as trustee for the Weed Consolidated School.

In Marmora village Reeve William Shannon received acclamation as did councillors Charles Campion, Jack Reynolds, Alex Fraser and Carl Heath. Acclaimed to the school board were Doug Coleman and Floyd Loveless, while Fred Mumby received acclamation for the hydro office.

In Marmora township Reeve Irwin McCoy was returned without opposition. Two of last year's council, William Doyle and Gordon Jones withdrew, but a new council of Dermont Bebee, Arthur Sheridan, George Fox and John Wilkes were returned by acclamation.

Arts and Crafts Club Holds Successful Exhibit, Sale

A large crowd was on hand Saturday afternoon to view the fine display of articles made by the talented hands of the members of the Arts and Crafts Club, as they held their second Annual Exhibit, Tea and Sale.

The exhibit was opened by Her Worship, Mayor Jane Forrester, who complimented the members on the fine work they are doing. She commented on the improvement in the quality of the work over last year's exhibit, adding that Belleville is very proud of this club and the work being done.

Among the many items displayed were leather wallets, key cases, gloves, silk screened Christmas cards, fabrics, aprons and towels; woven stoles with matching evening bags, place mats and purses, aluminum trays, coasters and planters, all different types of ceramic work including ash trays, jewellery, assorted dishes in varying designs and colors, copper pictures, and various pieces of driftwood all beautifully finished.

These are only a few of the many items on display and for sale. All were very reasonably priced and many Christmas shoppers found just what they were looking for.

All around the display room, up the stairs and around the tea room were hung many oil paintings, scenes of Belleville and its surroundings, most of them countryside as well as still lifes and some very life-like portraits.

The tea room was beautifully decorated in frosty blue and silver. The tea table with its gleaming silver tea service at each end, was centred with 14 tall blue candles. These were surrounded by silvery pine branches, decked with blue and silver ornaments. The guests tables each had as a centrepiece a miniature silver tree decorated with tiny silver and blue ornaments. Sparkle was added to the room by the silver and blue branches and leaves entwined around each pillar.

Debating Club Prepared to Hear Candidates

The members of the Wharf Street Debating Club will be agreeably surprised when they meet on Wed. evening to hear the candidates for municipal office present their views on why they should be elected.

During the summer the hard-working members banded together and completely painted and redecorated the interior of the clubhouse and as by the least the boys did an excellent job. For some years the roof has been a source of worry but that has all been rectified as a new roof has been placed and the building now is in good condition.

The meeting on Wednesday night will be another in an institution that was started many years ago and has stood the test of time. It is a meeting where all gathered let down their hair, joke everybody fore and aft and leave the hall the best of friends. It is probably the only in the club of its kind in existence and many of the members are only in the clubhouse once each year.

At the conclusion of the meeting hot dogs and soft drinks will be served and a social hour spent. Remember the debaters gather at eight at the Wharf Street debating club with Eddie George, the perennial chairman conducting the meeting.

Her Worship, Mayor Jane Forrester, opened the new branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada at 286 Front Street on Saturday afternoon. It was about her last official duty before municipal elections.

A small crowd of interested bystanders was on hand to hear R. W. G. Freestone, the branch manager, say he hopes the Imperial Bank will be of service to Belleville and district. Mr. Freestone extended a welcome to those present and suggested they inspect the premises.

Mayor Forrester brought the official greetings of the city and said Belleville is the commercial centre of a very large area. We look forward to more prosperity in this area now that the Imperial Bank is here and we wish bank every success and prosperity."

H. W. Thompson, assistant general manager of the Imperial Bank of Canada, thanked Her Worship for officiating at the grand opening of the branch. He congratulated the architects, Watson and Weigand and Mr. John Rankin who designed the building. Thanks were also tendered the contractors and sub-contractors.

Mr. Thompson was happy to turn the bank over to Mr. Freestone who was himself to manage this branch."

Mrs. Phyllis Judges presented the mayor with a bouquet of red roses.

Members of St. Thomas' Parochial Guild served refreshments. This morning at 10 o'clock the first branch of the Imperial Bank ever in this city opened for business.

JUSTICE FOR A JUDGE

A judge on the bench appears remote from all relationships, the austere symbol of even-handed justice. But the judge is also a man and of necessity a man mindful of his honor more than most, says the Ottawa Journal.

So it is that it must appear that the Law Society of Upper Canada has taken the action expected of it in calling upon Mr. Lewis Duncan to explain. This Toronto lawyer gave no reason when he moved in the Supreme Court of Canada that Mr. Justice Locke be excluded from the hearing of a case. Obviously the latter could not be considered closed when the judge, declaring he knew nothing of Mr. Duncan or the case, declined to continue as a member of the court in this instance.

Let this be clear, comments the Journal, there is nothing to prevent a lawyer challenging the right of a judge to sit on a case. Such challenges are not usual and it is part of the glory of our judicial system that they are so infrequent. What is extraordinary in this instance is that the lawyer gave no reason.

Obviously the Supreme Court could have taken the matter further. The Chief Justice, for example, might have requested explanation from Mr. Duncan. Mr. Justice Locke himself while judge is still a citizen and not barred from recourse to legal action or other steps should he feel his honor had been questioned. But courts have their dignity and a judge is not prejudiced even when his feelings may be disturbed. (Although it is rather unjust that Justice Locke's observation that Mr. Duncan he had no feelings whatever!)

Mr. Justice Locke withdrew, Mr. Justice Abbott took his place and the hearing continued to its conclusion—one with dignity, courtesy and respect for tradition.

Let how unsatisfactory it would have been to leave the matter in the mists of speculation and gossip gather around a respected judge even though he was given the unquestioned confidence of his colleagues and—when a question was raised in Parliament—of the Prime Minister as chief of government. The Law Society, in these circumstances, had a duty to act.

Justice has many pillars—judges, lawyers, precedents, respect and the confidence of millions of ordinary people. If any one of these should fail, the whole structure is endangered. In this instance the Law Society has the authority to make proper inquiry and demand satisfactory answer. And in so doing it serves us all.

TWENTY-FIRST CENTURY ENGLISH

Eight foremost American scientists recently predicted that the plight of our successors in the twenty-first century will be far different from ours.

One hundred years from now, say the scientists, people will be able to control their size, weight and shape and they will talk with their minds, not with their mouths. A further bit of enlightenment reveals that when folks wish to go on vacation they will merely stop a bus space ship with a pushbutton control on the moon.

Workers of all classes will have more leisure time through improvement in manufacturing processes. Office workers and all white collar groups will share in shorter work weeks.

It has been predicted, too, that prospective parents will be able to pre-select the sex of their children.

This sounds fantastic, but we must not recommend the scientists for admittance to a psychiatric institute, or did not people in the last century suspect mental illness when someone mentioned that some day man would ride in heavier-than-air machines?

One thing, though, of which we are quite sure is that our great-grandchildren will likely be old before their time through boredom. Likely they will wish they lived in the twentieth century when folks dwelt from day to day on their trials and tribulations and had to work hard for everything they got.

The freedom of the Indian press has been almost complete. The newspapers have never hesitated to criticize the Central and the State Governments according to their judgment. MARCHING ON TO CHRISTMAS

We're marching on towards Christmas
Just as fast as we can go,
Your weeks to do our hiking,
Just to let the people know
The things we want for nothing,
The things we hope to get.
We're marching on towards Christmas,
Oh, I'd like a shaving set.

We're marching on towards Christmas,
Christmas, Christmas,
See my warm gloves now are torn,
But there're folly to buy new ones;
So close to Christmas morn.

I will wait till Christmas morn.
I need some new suspenders,
But I will not buy a pair.
A friend, perhaps, who loves me
May send me some to wear.

We're marching on towards Christmas,
A hopeful, glad brigade.
Our socks in need of darning,
Our neckties sadly frayed;
Our fancy shirts are tattered,
Our slippers sadly worn,
But none will purchase new ones
So close to Christmas morn.

Ivan Is Peril, Not Sputnik

Montreal Gazette

The real danger to the world today is not that Russia has made great advances in science beyond any other nation. The danger is that Russia, in her political structure, is so very primitive.

Most other nations on the earth have been able to get away from the crude struggle for political power — or the struggle that is a chronic conspiracy. They have provided for orderly procedures, which even the most primitive may replace another, without plot and blood.

But here, in the middle of the 20th century, a nation attains scientific marvels that astound the world, but is still ruled, at its highest levels, by the law of the jungle, almost the same as in prehistoric times.

One distressing lesson that this teaches, is that there is no necessary relation between political maturity and scientific progress. As Harrison E. Salisbury, the correspondent of the New York Times, says, Russia's greatest progress has been made under a dictatorship — that of Ivan the Terrible, Peter the Great; Catherine the Great; Stalin. Each held authority by any means. None was a stranger to murder. Each built his empire to a new pinnacle of power.

But now when this primitive dictatorship is about to injure the whole earth the uneasiness is greater than ever before in history. For there is, in the last resort, only one way in which a dictatorship may be disturbed, within the circle of Russian government, and establish his authority. That is to create the impression that the whole nat on is menaced by attack from without.

There is always the possibility that a war might be launched as a gamble for power in the Kremlin. And Khrushchev's new policy has been described as, by nature, a gamble.

It is not the Sputniks that threaten the world, or the powerful propulsion that launched them into space. It is the shadow of a primitive dictatorship as old as the rushes as Ivan the Terrible.

Hippos Swing, Sway to Music

BBC London Letter

Music and song play a great part in the lives of the peoples of Central Africa, for "almost every African is a musician," declared Peter Fraenkl in a recorded broadcast in the BBC Third Program. Fraenkl has travelled thousands of miles in the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland recording music for transmission by the Federal Broadcasting Corporation Station, Lusaka, and, by courtesy of this station, he illustrated his talk with the results of these unique recordings.

Fraenkl said that the music played on European instruments such as the guitar, the banjo and the accordion, was a local variation than the traditional music of the tribes, which varies from one tribe to tribe and for different occasions — such as tribal dances, ceremonies, hunting and harvesting the young in correct social behaviour.

Perhaps its strangest use was illustrated by a song of the Sena tribe of the Zambesi Valley, many of whom live near the banks of the lower Shire River. "They grow tobacco and maize on the fertile banks of the river," said Fraenkl, "and the crop is often endangered by the hippo. They attempt to control this by the hippo song, which is sung as soon as a hippo is sighted in the gardens, and the men grab their clapper-sticks and rush out to sing. The hippo is very musical. It stops in its destructive path, pricks up its ears and listens. If the rhythm is good it does not turn them with a hips from side to side. It grunts contentedly and slowly wallows backwards, back to the river from which it came." Fraenkl had recorded several of these hippo-dances, though he made no claim to have seen the theory in operation.

A Dog's Life

Brockville Recorder and Times

The fuss among dog-lovers over the fate of Laika, the satellite-riding dog now part of the Soviets prompts the Rotary Bulletin to recall an old dog yarn that merits re-telling.

A would-be guest wrote to the Walt Whitman Inn in Camden, N.J., asking if dogs were permitted at the hotel, and received this reply from the manager: "I've been in the hotel business over 30 years. Never yet have I called the police to eject a disorderly dog during the small hours of the night. Never yet has a dog set the bed clothes afire from smoking a cigaret I've never found a towel or a blanket in a dog's suitcase, nor whiskey rings on the bureau top from a dog's bottle. Sure the dog is welcome.

The Convent School, the property of St. Michael's Parish, was destroyed by fire last evening. The building, a large brick structure, was situated on John Street north of Victoria Avenue. It was better known as the Loretta Convent building as for years the Convent occupied the building. For the past few years the convent has occupied the brick building directly north of the old building. The building destroyed has been used of late entirely as a school. It was built over forty years ago but was in good state of repair. The caretaker, M. Donohue reported that he was well when he made a tour of the building about five o'clock p.m. which was an hour before the fire was discovered by William Lazier. The Rev. Father Twomey said today that the loss will be heavy, as the buildings and equipment could not be replaced for $25,000.00.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

PURPOSE

I do not believe it was the Creator's purpose to put people on this earth, and then leave them alone to work out their way, the best they can, without endowing them with a will and a purpose.

We were put into this world to be of some use, to ourselves and to others. It is we follow this out we can expect a certain amount of personal satisfaction and a good share of happiness and a successful career, each one of us should recognize that our endowment will and purpose is God given.

The man or woman who has no purpose in life, and who follows it out, will have few complaints and a reasonable amount of happiness to keep him or her upon an even keel. Life with a will and purpose can be one in which a goodly share of success is sure to be meted out. All success has as its base — usefulness and if we are useful we are bound to be happy. If follows as the night does the day.

Purpose must have a "forward look." It must have an objective, and that objective must be the very power behind it. The mind and heart must be co-partners. All of us should be far more happy than we are. All idle worries and fears have no place in the healthy human body. They are resented!

We must have an ever increasing purpose to guide us over the rough spots in life. We must take advantage of every opportunity to be useful, and we should give it every ounce of heart, and we ourselves should have the kind of success that never measures, nor attains, no matter how high or how far away! Have purpose and you will inspire it.

Editors Await Tranquil Times

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

Newspapers today devote much space to what are known as human interest stories. The child who lost a hand. A puppy for a sick boy. The marriage of so-and-so and so-and-so.

There is a logical explanation. Newspaper editors have become surfeited with war and rumors of war. Statements by statesmen, political manipulations at home and abroad.

If the men responsible for the daily selection of published news had their way they would banish Khrushchev to the ice floes with their pages. Murder and crime have become a commonplace they fail to arouse the old enthusiasm for sensation.

There are those who appear to believe newspapermen find satisfaction in happenings in a world gone crazy. But that is far from the truth. They are, as a matter of fact, kindly souls who would prefer news about the wholesome aspects of life, instead of the dreary. To a man they hope for a return of more tranquil times.

Farmyard Cats Can Be Fierce

Ian Niall in London Spectator

Is there anything more wild than the first kitty born to a farmyard cat? They scamper for shelter at the slightest alarm, and glare from the depths of jungle light in their eyes. As acquaintance may be shifting from how he had been helping to capture one of these broods at a farm, a few months ago, "Wild cats, they were living in the cavities of Othuose walls," he said, "and they were so fierce that we dared not put our hands into the holes to extricate them. We tried everything to lure them out, but without success.

"In the end somebody remembered the bee-smoking outfit. We gave them a few puffs and reached for them with seed bags over our hands. That snarling, spitting furies they were! Scalp-down tigers, someone called them.

They ripped the fibres of the close-woven bags to shreds and it was relieved when they were all safely in the bags. Blinded to the fireside cat, they must have been, but they were about the wildest things I have ever handled."

Squeeze Tubes Hold Lunch

Stratford Beacon-Herald

No wonder U.S. scientists got behind a bit with their missile program. They've been busy developing all kinds of tinkering gadgets, and now they have come up with a lunch that can be squeezed from a tube like toothpaste. The new food tubes are designed for astronauts, but also that they can enjoy meals even when sealed up inside pressure suits.

Included on the menu are "delicious" meat and fish and "delicate" form — dispensed through a fore-arm valve to the mouth by a device operated like a woman's lipstick dispenser; that is, twist one way and out comes the sticks moves along the tube.

Another food is dehydrated and developed to the consistency of a good thick "chocolate malted" and dispensed by gravity through a tube from a can the pilot would hold above his head. This sounds like a bit risky. We can imagine some pretty distressing accidents, if something were to jiggle the pilot's arm while he was holding the can of liquid food above his head.

Nevertheless the idea of packaging food in toothpaste tubes has something to commend it, and merits wider application than the feeding of U.S. astronauts, important that undoubtedly is. Many a busy housewife would welcome the chance having a supply of sandwiches in tube form stowed away in the deep freeze. Instead of scraping in time for lunch, he could squeeze out the sandwich filling in solid or liquid form, and carry right on with the business in hand.

It Hinges On Flavor

Windsor Star

Sometimes science, in spite of itself, must take a step back. Here are the latest words in the our weekend health column by Dr. H. N. Bundesen, who said that although he has written an article against use of the baby's pacifier some years ago, he has since fallen in line with a new trend and now accepts it. Not only does it help toss restful and happy, he concedes, it's preferable to the thumb.

Tests show it's more sanitary and, being softer, its effect on developing teeth is better. And it's outgrown more quickly than the thumb.

The mouth will say she knew that all along.

Why does the thumb retain its allure and tranquillizing qualities longer than the soft-textured pacifier? Doesn't seem to extend to know. But when asked why she still sucked her thumb, a charming child of six once replied with finality: "Because it's good." Its particular flavor at that time was not identified.

Personal Health Talks

For The Steenteenth Time

"I have taken two pints of B-Nutron which you recommend in place of digitalis for heart trouble. I have just started on the tonic. Please advise if I should stop after using the third pint or keep on taking more, as I feel fine."

You can decide about that better than I can. How are you now feeling? Fine and dandy- If so, forget it. Or set it aside, in a cool place, not necessarily the refrigerator, until you feel the need of a heart tonic.

B-Nutron is a combination of vitamin B complex with vitamin B-12, iron and manganese.

A true tonic restores enfeebled function. I doubt that digitalis does that, but there can be no question that vitamin B complex does so. That's why I call it the only real heart tonic. Old-town tigers, somehow called them.

They ripped the fibres of the close-woven bags to shreds and it was relieved when they were all safely in the bags. Blinded to the fireside cat, they must have been, but they were about the wildest things I have ever handled."

Never better? Then put the tonic back in the refrigerator or the medicine cupboard or give it to some poor soul who needs it. On the other hand, if you're not up to par, you had better continue it another $5.

Function, it does that, but there can be no question that vitamin B complex does so. That's why I call it the only real heart tonic. Old-town tigers, somehow called them.

Here, for the nineteenth time, let me repeat that this is not medicine, but just vitamins and minerals which everybody should get every day and which most of us get, in the sufficient quantity, in their poor diet.

Whether you should take such "dietary supplements" daily, weekly, for a month or for a year, is for you, yourself and doctor to How're you feeling? Never better? Then put the tonic back in the refrigerator or the medicine cupboard or give it to some poor soul who needs it. On the other hand, if you're not up to par, you had better continue it another $5.

POWER OF PRAYER

Benjamin Franklin is noted for his rare common sense. Probably nothing he ever said, however, had more sense to it than a statement he made while in the midst of a debate during the future of the country.

Said Franklin: "I have lived, Sir, a long time, and the longer I live the more convincing proofs I see of this truth — that God governs the affairs of men. And if a sparrow cannot fall to the ground without His notice, is it probable that an empire can rise without His aid? We have been assured, Sir, in the sacred writings that except the Lord build the house they labor in vain who build it! I firmly believe this, and I also believe that without His conquering aid, we shall succeed in this political building no better than the builders of Babel."

"I therefore beg leave to move that henceforth prayers imploring the assistance of Heaven and its blessings on our deliberation be held in this assembly every morning before we proceed to business and that one or more of the clergy of this city officiate in that office at this rush — that God governs the affairs of men. And if a sparrow cannot fall to the ground without His notice, is it probable that an empire can rise without His aid? We have been assured, Sir, in the sacred writings that except the Lord build the house they labor in vain who build it! I firmly believe this, and I also believe that without His conquering aid, we shall succeed in this political building no better than the builders of Babel."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Lost hunters each hunting season, and there are always hundreds and in others thousands of dollars, where aircraft are employed, in search and rescue operations. It has been suggested that the hunting fraternity should pay for this out of its own pockets of insurance. And one proposal is that with each hunting licence be sold a small survival kit which every hunter would be obliged by regulation to carry with him at all times in the bush. If this were to be sold at the same time as the licence, it would be a small outlay, but would in a few seasons probably build up a substantial reserve fund for search and rescue. The proceeds would contain much the same material as the army or air force survival packets contain, only in minimum quantity and packed into a foot flimsy plastic sheet of bright yellow which the lost hunter who believes he is about to die instead of his rescue kit could thus be used by searching planes to point out of his rescue or to be subject to a fine payable into the search and rescue fund.

Old hunters, who feel they never get lost and will still refuse to pay paying insurance for greenhorns. But the funny thing is that each hunting season a fair proportion of those lost are old timers of the type-most scorned of by the newcomers. With that increase in the hunting fraternity, it becomes more obvious that the public should not have to bear the cost of private sport.

Farewell Sermon of Mission Given at Bridge St. Church

By GLADYS WARD

At Bridge Street United church the closing service of the week-long mission was held on Sunday afternoon with all the United churches of the city participating. Rev. H. M. Davis took charge of the service in place of Rev. A. McDowell, who was ill.

Mr. T. K. Franklin, chairman of the committee, which had arranged the mission, warmly thanked the missioner, Rev. Dr. G. Ernest Thomas for the splendid work he had done. Summed up, Mr. Franklin said, "I have been commissioned by the committee to convey our gratitude and sincere appreciation for your wonderful leadership and the wondrous works you have wrought in this mission. It will affect the lives of those who have listened and the lives of those around them in the things that matter. We can all see that God is using you mightily. Our prayer is that you and yours will continue in health and service."

The congregation stood to sing, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" as a farewell to Dr. Thomas.

Dr. Thomas said his heart was filled with gratitude to all those who had helped to make this such a happy week by their words and presence, and that any victory for what had been accomplished was God's victory. He had sensed in the United church an integrity, strength and faith and hoped that they would continue to be strengthened by God.

MRS. BURGOYNE SOLOIST

Congregational singing was led by Mr. Linton Read with S. Alec Gordon at the organ. The soloist for the afternoon service was Mrs. W. J. Burgoyne who sang, "If We All Said a Prayer for Each Other Each Day".

The flowers arranged at the front of the church added grace and beauty at the altar.

Dr. Thomas told of a survey made by a radio station when listeners were asked to pick their favorite sacred song, and the choice was overwhelming for "The Stranger of Galilee."

"There is something in that phrase that strikes a responsive chord in our hearts," continued the speaker. "Yet Christ has always been regarded as something of a stranger. It is possible to know something about a person or a community, and then come to realize that after all you had not really known them. It is possible for us to know about Christ from early childhood, in our growing up years, to be in church for a good many years, and still not know Him.

CHRIST NO STRANGER

"If Christ is a stranger to you, if you do not know that His birth, life and death were for you, God's gift to bring you close to Him, then Christ is still a stranger. He came to earth for you to give you a hope everlasting.

"At first we may think the message is for somebody else, until like Zacchaeus we realize the summons is for us. Then we can say in the words of the song, 'I feel I can love Him forever, so gracious and tender is He; I claim Him this day for my Saviour, the Stranger of Galilee.'

"You cannot know Jesus and go on your way concerned only with pleasure and material things. If you do not feel a driving, longing desire to invest your life in service to God, then you do not know Him. When a man knows Jesus he wants his influence, large or small, to be on the side of God.

"It is a wonderful thing to come to know Jesus. Then our lives are going to be used for that which is holy and right. Knowing Christ will make life finer, purer and more courageous.

"Some people claim that it is becoming more and more difficult to tell the Christian from the non-Christian. This could mean one of two things. Either non-Christians are getting better from the impact of Christians in lifting men up or the members of the church are gradually lowering their standards to those of the world. A good question for Christians to ask themselves is 'Is it easier to do some things which ten years ago I could not do?' Many have compromised and dropped their standards. Many who bear the name of Christ have fed on evil. They want to be what God wants them to be, but they find that they are gripped by evil and cannot get away. Our lives must be held up to the light of His presence. When you really meet the Master you want your life day by day to be different."

Wedding

FULFORD — COURNYEA

TRENTON (Special) — The Salvation Army Citadel, Trenton, was the scene of a very pretty wedding ceremony on Saturday, November 23rd, when Shirley Ann Courneya, a Belleville bride, was united in marriage with Melvin A. Fulford, of Trenton. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Bernice Glass, 107 Belleville, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Fulford, Trenton.

The ceremony was performed by Captain William Brown of the Salvation Army, Trenton, and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Stanley Mitchell, of Belleville. The bridal party were in Salvation Army uniform.

The radiant young bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Jim Glass, of the Salvation Army uniform, and carried a white Bible, crested with a corsage of red roses, with yellow, red and blue streamers, and white bows.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Nora Brown, Huntsville, the bridesmaid, sister, was also dressed in Salvation Army uniform, with a corsage of yellow roses, and carried a white Testament, with yellow, red and blue streamers, and yellow and white bows.

The groomsman was Mr. Leonard Crooker, Trenton, and the ushers were Mr. Eric Smith, and Mr. Josh Peirce, both of Belleville. The Salvation Army flag was borne in by Mr. M. Howes of Belleville.

The wedding reception was held in the Salvation Army Young People's Hall. The bride's table was centred by a three-tiered wedding cake, which was decorated with baby chrysanthemums, and swans, and white candles in crystal holders.

The guests were received by the bride's mother, who wore a navy blue gown with a corsage of pink carnations.

The bride chose a powder blue dress with navy accessories, a black coat and a corsage of red roses for travelling to Belleville, Ontario.

For those guests were present from Chanterville; Ottawa and Belleville, and a large number of guests from Trenton were also present.

Mrs. M. Howes, Belleville, held a miscellaneous shower honoring the bride recently, and the friends of the Salvation Army in Trenton also held a bridal shower for her.

On Thursday afternoon, the bride was honored at her place of employment, C. H. Cappe Co., Trenton, when she was presented with an electric kettle, a luxurious pink blanket, and a love bird ornament, the gift of her fellow workers.

Quiet But Lavish Wedding For Cecile Dionne Is Held

By GEORGE FRAJKOR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CORBEIL, Ont. (CP)—Cecile Dionne, now Mrs. Philippe Langlois, has left the cold and snow of northeastern Ontario for a three-week honeymoon in California.

She and her husband drove off in the midst of a snowstorm late Saturday after a quiet and lavish wedding in Corbeil, home parish of the quintuplets.

Cecile, 23, and Philippe, 26, took leave of friends and relatives after a reception in nearby West Ferris, Ont., where they cut a three-layered cake. Cecile gave her bridal bouquette to her sister Annette, only one of the four surviving quintuplets able to attend the wedding, and last of the other one married.

Daniel Dionne, an older brother, playfully tweaked Cecile's nose as she entered Philippe's car. "You be careful," she replied in English.

LEFT EARLIER

Her parents Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne, had said their farewells and left the reception earlier.

The couple left their exact destinations a secret, pleading for the privacy they said they sought and seldom received for most of their lives.

"It's supposed to be a private affair," one of the family said.

All photographers but one press the North Bay Nugget and the wedding's official photographer were barred from the private reception. Reporters, however, were invited to the open guest and were invited to the banquet.

Cecile entered the church on the arm of her father, Oliva Dionne. Her trailing white gown and veil of Brussels lace, lent by the bride, and Cecile seemed to shudder a little from the 22-degree below zero.

SNOWY SETTING

Snow from the previous day's storm covered the roof of the single-spired church, set on a small rocky hill amid whitened pines and rough terrain. More below to fall as the wedding party left.

Cecile and Phillipe did not seem to be bothered by the dazzling floodlights of television interviews that played over the altar and the front part of the church throughout the ceremony.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Paul Sylvestre, the priest who first met the Dionnes as a newly-ordained curate. It was he who taught them their catechism.

Cecile's blue gowned attendants were Louise Proux of Montreal, a friend; Mrs. Daniel Dionne of North Bay, a sister-in-law, and Mrs. Gaston Genest of Quebec City, the groom's sister. Laurent Langlois, brother of the groom, was best man for Daniel Dionne and Pierre Lemelin of Montreal ushers.

For reasons of health, quints Yvonne and Marie did not attend. Yvonne only recently was cured from a case of influenza that sent her to hospital for more than a month and Marie telephoned at the last minute that she had caught a severe cold and would be unable to make it.

SISTER ABSENT

Also missing was Pauline, one year older than the quints, who is busy with her art studies in New Brunswick.

After the honeymoon, they plan to live in a rented seven-room home in the Montreal suburb of Lachine. Philippe is an audio-technician for CBC-TV in Montreal.

They were married after a three-year courtship. Unlike Annette's wedding to Germain Allard in Montreal last month—a simple affair to which only about 20 persons were invited and at which Annette and Germain wore plain brown suits—Cecile's wedding was formal and stately.

Philippe wore a dark jacket and striped trousers and Cecile wore a perfectly beautiful gown of peau de sole covered with lace and pearls.

Alpha Lambda Gives Degrees At Jewels Meet

Last Monday evening was a memorable night in the history of Alpha Lambda Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi when the chapter held its annual "Virtual Jewels" dinner at Hotel Quinte. Mrs. William Simpson said grace and Mrs. Robert Smith composed the menu. Mrs. Clive Ryan, director, and Mrs. John Lennox-Smith, social sponsor of the chapter.

Mrs. H. House introduced Mrs. R. W. Middleton, Bayside, guest speaker for the evening. Mrs. Middleton, in her introductory remarks, expressed pleasure in finding a group whose principal purpose is the study of beauty in social and cultural things. "A thing of beauty is a joy forever," quoted Mrs. Middleton, and pointed out the joy and beauty that could be found in fun, food and fellowship. The soul is nurtured on beautiful things, visions of which the inner eye is able to retain through many years. The realization of joyous occasions, meals prettily served, works of art and pleasant Middleton made her address most entertaining by illustrating her remarks with poetry or an amusing anecdote.

Dr. John Brunskill thanked Mrs. Middleton for a most timely and informative address.

Following the dinner, the president, Mrs. Vincent McLean, conferred the "Virtual of Jewels" degree upon Mrs. Fred Bradley, Dr. Joan Bronskill, Mrs. Donald Coleman, Mrs. John Hayman, Mrs. Robert Irvine, Mrs. Murray Johnson and Mrs. Charles Lovett.

Prior to the dinner, Mrs. Vincent McLean entertained the chapter at her home when all the girls welcomed back Mrs. Earl Kunitze of Nahawa. Mrs. Kuntze is a past president of Alpha Lambda Chapter.

Monthly Report Given by Women's H.A.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary Mrs. W. H. Fluske, president, called upon Mrs. Mervyn Jones, delegate to the convention of the Ontario Association of Hospital Auxiliaries recently held in Toronto in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Ontario Hospital Association, to report on this convention.

Mrs. Jones thanked the Belleville Auxiliary for giving her the opportunity of attending these interesting meetings and hoped her report would be of some value in creating enthusiasm and interest in the local organization. She said, that Mrs. John Buchan of Belleville, as president of the Ontario Association, presided at the annual meeting and that Mrs. Harry Fuke, of Belleville, as convening committee, had the same organization, also gave splendid annual report.

DISCUSSIONS HELD

Mrs. Jones reported that various groups during the convention were attended at the annual discussions held on such matters of interest to the new Hospital Insurance Plan, and how the Women's Hospital Auxiliaries would be affected by this; the place of the Blue Cross in the new plan; reports and discussions of Auxiliaries in other towns and cities. Some of the work included in Auxiliaries' activities; work with mental patients; work with the aged; and work in shops. These subjects were all dealt with and studied by the members at special groups.

Mrs. Buchan in her address stated that about $500,000 was raised by the 160 auxiliaries in Ontario representing the work of 10,000 members.

Reports from representatives of auxiliaries included: number of auxiliaries; volunteers in many and varied fields; with mental patients; in emergency wards; desks in clinics; telephone assistance in Blood Banks; production of surgical carts; wagon shops, coffee shops, snack bars, hairdressing, transportation, opportunity shops, and for the smaller clubs just friendliness and good cheer. All this and probably many other services that will be up to a tremendous total amount of money and help to the hospitals of Ontario by the volunteer workers.

Mrs. Jones in summing up her report said that the whole convention was most inspiring and together with Mrs. Finkle and Mrs. Ryder, who also attended hoped that the help and enthusiasm gained would be passed through them to the local organizations.

FASHION FIESTA

The business meeting conducted by Mrs. Finkle and Mrs. Ryder, Mrs. Burley, over-all convener of the coming Fashion Fiesta, the arrangements for this show were becoming satisfactorily finalized. The committees had been given the most energetic and the response to ticket selling both for the raffle and admission tickets was gratifying. Mrs. Burley has been busily undertaking the work necessary to make appreciative of her untiring efforts.

Mrs. Finkle announced that the date of the annual meeting would be the regular monthly meeting date December 19th and would take the form of a dessert and coffee party in the nurses residence at 8 o'clock.

The buying and wrapping of the gifts given by the auxiliary to the indigent patients was kindly undertaken by Mrs. Arthur Simpson and the group at Mrs. Allcorn.

Mrs. Finkle closed the meeting.

St. Margaret's Guild Sponsors Successful Yutitude Bazaar, Tea

That Christmas is but four weeks away was evidenced on Saturday afternoon at St. Margaret's Guild Evening Branch bazaar and tea held in the lower auditorium of the church. On the outer door a glistening, frosty wreath of evergreen plaid greeted the guests, and inside each window was a miniature Christmas tree, while graceful garlands of entwined red, green and white extended from each ceiling corner meeting in streamer effect in the centre.

To further accentuate the Yuletide theme, the tea table was centred by a jovial snowman with tall black hat flanked by red candles resting from clustering white snowballs, while the guest tables carried small replicas of the tea table's central motif.

Receiving the guests were: Mrs. L. Arthur Page, wife of the rector, and the president, Mrs. Arthur Watson, whose gracious efforts were most heart-warming on the cloudy and windy day.

Mrs. A. Stark was ale charge of the kitchen; at advertising, Mrs. J. Platt, and of the poster advertising, Mrs. D. Allan; while Mrs. J. Bindle at the decorating, to whom goes appreciation for an attractive setting.

The general conveners were: Mrs. F. Robinson, Mrs. H. Mumford and the tea room convener, Mrs. A. Paradis.

As usual with St. Margaret's Guild the booths were most attractively and displayed a variety of articles beginning with that of the homebaking table which included pies of all descriptions, spicy pastry; taffy tarts, large and generous with their filling; cakes, plain and iced; fruit, white and chocolate cakes lavishly sprinkled with shredded cocoanut; and chopped nuts; date loaves, cookies and cup cakes in white and chocolate. PRETTY APRONS

Pretty aprons adorned the wall, the boosh and continued on into a table. All were useful and servicable as well, made from colorful prints with old-fashioned designs in blue roses on white grounds, others in green checks, red checks and white check ginghams; red Terry towelling with large pockets attached; children's aprons prettily bound in contrasting bias bindings; organdy cocktail aprons in yellow with appliqued floral motifs and frilled aprons. This booth was in charge of Mrs. K. Hanna, assisted by Mrs. D. A. Kaye and Mrs. W. Cotton. Near at hand were children's clothes, to meet both day and night time needs. These were convened by Mrs. B. Bishop, Mrs. A. Watson, and Mrs. G. Watkin.

The novelties comprised Artican violets, Christmas corsages, red felt Christmas stockings, pot holders, boxes of Christmas cards. Pat Parsons the clown, a mound of surprise packages, stuffed animals, Peter Rabbit, Snow Queen in full fledged organdy and pretty handmade sprays of apple blossoms. Mrs. J. Kerr, Mrs. T. A. Roswell convened.

The dolls' booth would delight the heart of any little girl, for here were some pretty dolls, some all dressed in fancy crochet dresses and play suits; dolls with bobbed curls and others with dark hair, and even a piquant little black Topsy, the whites of her eyes flashing. Mrs. Scales' host of dolls' clothes; dolls ridden on sleighs drawn by little "Donald Ducks" and a Little Red Ridinghood. Mrs. R. Wells, Mrs. R. Bowen assisted by Mrs. R. Vaneverdingen and Mrs. R. V. Daniel, were in charge.

The candy booth, in charge of Mrs. B. Bailey, displayed a bevy of delicious homemade sweets of maple creams, chocolate fudge, peppermint patties and little red strawberries, all nicely boxed and in cellophane bags.

PAKISTAN EMBROIDERY

An unusual display was that which graced the piano. Here were tray cloths, beautiful runners in white organdy all hand embroidered in the colors of Pakistan. These were not for sale, but samples on which orders might be taken. Mrs. J. Bennett had charge of these.

In the bazaar there was a stand of hot dogs for the little ones, or big ones for that matter, were selling fast by Mrs. W. F. Ford, assisted by Mrs. J. Jeffrey. Fish ponds, where the grows old, was also run by the Girls' Auxiliary, under the leadership of Debby Fowler. Mrs. A. Auxiliary, and Mrs. Fewtrell.

In the bazaar tea was most successfully culminated.

Two Senior Citizens Club Members Wed Saturday

There was no thought of a Lonely Hearts Club when the Belleville Recreation Commission established its Senior Citizens Club back in 1953, but romance has come for at least two of the club's members.

And Saturday afternoon a quiet wedding ceremony at Alliance Tabernacle saw the culmination of the romance begun a few months ago.

The principals in Saturday's wedding were Mrs. Ada Henderson, 161 Station street, and Harold Harry Scales, 46 Murney street. Both have been members of the Senior Citizens Club for about a year and it was during one of the club's meetings that they met.

Before her marriage to Mr. Scales, Mrs Henderson had been a widow for 14 years and has four children and 13 grandchildren. Mr. Scales' first wife died 14 months ago. He has one daughter and four grandchildren. The only hobby for both has been the monthly get-together of the Senior Citizens Club in which they both are active.

Retired for ten years, Mr. Scales is a veteran of both world wars and came to Canada from England in 1903.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Scales plans a short honeymoon and on their return will reside at 46 Murney Street.

Saturday's ceremony was the first wedding of two members of the Senior Citizens Club, organized as a social outlet for citizens over 60.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS BEECKMAN

TODAY'S COURTESY HINT . . . ABOUT GLAMOR

It was a very wise person who said, "The most glamorous thing you wear is your manners."

HOW TO ADDRESS MAIL TO CHILDREN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please answer several questions that have been to address mail to children I have nieces and nephews, from 8 months old to teenagers.

1. When does a boy stop being "Master" and become "Mr."?

2. Is it correct, when addressing envelopes or cards, to write "Baby" before the first name until a child is around two years old?

3. On Christmas card envelopes, when you wish to include the children of the family in your greetings, is it proper to write, for example, "Mr. and Mrs. John Baker and Family"? — B.B.

1. "Master" is a title not very much used today . . . and I'm sure that this disuse meets with the complete approval of young boys, who generally resent having envelopes addressed to them as "Master John Robinson", prefer simply "John Robinson." However, if you prefer to write a title, it is quite correct to write "Master" before a boy's name on a letter up to the age of twelve only. When he reaches his teens he is just "John Robinson," the title before his name. When he is twenty-one or thereabouts, letters are addressed to him with "Mr." before his name.

2. No. No matter how young the girl is (one year old, or even younger), address an envelope or card to Miss Cynthia Ellen Blank. You may address a letter or card to the baby boy with his name only, or with "Master" before his name. (See answer to Question 1.)

3. No . . . I strongly avoid addressing an envelope or card to "Mr. and Mrs. — and Family." If possible, send one card to "Mr. and Mrs." and, thoughtfully and politely, any individual card to each child. A gracious gesture that will be appreciated. However if you are sending only one card to the family, address the envelope to "Mr. and Mrs." and, on the enclosed card, write something like this: "Dearest Christmas greetings to you two darlings and to Carol and Polly and Tommy."

THE GOLDEN WEDDING CELEBRATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother and father are going to celebrate their Golden Wedding anniversary next month. They want to keep it very simple, and in their home. House on that day. They plan to send formal invitations to about thirty, the closest relatives, the wedding party, closest friends.

(1) Will you please give us some suggestions about table decorations?

(2) What refreshments would be appropriate?

(3) What gifts would be suitable for us to give to our parents? — F.N.

(1) Feature golden colors in your table decoration: A lovely gold-color tablecloth (satin, too, would be a handsome and appropriate background, or, for a buffet table-setting, an informal material of golden shade. The centerpiece may be of roses, the rich Talisman shade if possible, perhaps combined with small white flowers; or golden-bue chrysanthemums.

(2) Simple refreshments for an afternoon "Open House" would be: small, slim sandwiches made of various kinds of breads, simple fillings — some open sandwiches, and or canapes; small cakes and/or interesting cookies; tea and/or coffee; and perhaps such accessories as mints, nuts, perhaps one or two kinds of particularly delicious packaged tidbits. And always two special Features: (a) As handsome a Wedding Anniversary Cake as possible, be it ceremoniously, by "the bride and groom," this cake to be decorated with golden icing and golden roses and a dramatic 50 — or the years 1907-1957! — and the couple's initials; (the cake flanked by candelabra or candlesticks flowing with deep yellow candles; and (b) a cold drink of some pretty colored punch for — ... toasts.

(3) The gifts for this important occasion may be of gold, or of old color, or gifts radiantly packaged in gold-color paper. Whatever they should, of course, be for the enjoyment or comfort of both.

You children of the guests of honor might like to consider giving them a gold-color electric clock, perhaps a wall clock, of boldly stylized design. Or a handsome scrolling design. Or a pair of long, comfortable chairs, upholstered in a material with rich gold background, for television set or radio or phonograph for an especially comfortable "placing." Or a desk set, or one item for a desk used by both.

Put Cheese In Your Apple Pie

By Mary Moore

Cheese is a must on buffet and smorgasbord tables. When you have a party there is an aftermath of dishes to clean up. When you serve a variety of cheeses you have leftovers. Cheese dries, hardens and are unappetizing to look at but most of them retain their original rich flavor and nutrients.

Beef and Kidney Pie; Biscuit Topping; Buttered Broccoli; Baked Squash; Radishes and Carrot Strips; Lemon Snow with Custard Sauce; Coffee.

My friend Dulce telephoned me yesterday to pass on some ideas on using ends of leftover cheese. She said they had scrambled eggs for breakfast every child old cheese in and over them and her four young ones thought it must be Sunday. My niece Beverley sprinkles finely grated cheese over French toast after it is fried. Mom runs it under the hot broiler before serving.

There are two methods of combining cheese with apple pie that are more subtle than serving a slab of cheese with it. Put finely grated cheese in the pastry or sprinkle finely grated cheese between the apple layers right in the pie. Most of you know you can do these things to apple pie but frankly now, have you ever tried it? Let's shake ourselves loose and do something that will surprise the crowd.

APPLE PIE COMBINED WITH CHEESE

1). Cheese-in-Pastry Variation: Two cups all-purpose flour sifted before measuring, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup water, 3-4 cup shortening. Seal one finely grated sharp Cheddar cheese. Sift flour and salt into a bowl. Stir in grated cheese. Do not use a packaged cheese. Take out 1-3 cup of the flour mixture and mix with the 1-4 cup water to form a paste. Cut shortening into remaining flour mixture until the pieces are the size of small peas. Add flour paste to blended shortening and flour mixture. Mix with a fork until the dough comes together and can be shaped into a ball. Divide in half, roll out both crusts about 1-8 inch thick. Line 9-inch pie plate with one crust, fill with 6 or 7 tart apples, pared, cored and sliced, and sprinkle with 2-3 cup sugar mixed with 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon or nutmeg. Dot with one or two tablespoons butter. Seal on top crust. Bake at 400 deg Fahr. for 40 to 50 minutes.

2). Cheese-in-Filling Variation: Use plain pastry (just omit cheese from recipe for pastry above). When apples are being sliced into pie, between layers sprinkle 1-3 to 1-2 cup finely grated old cheddar cheese. Bake as above.

Naturally cheese would not be served with these two variations of the pie. Serve a dollop of ice cream atop makes mighty fine eating.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Grace N. — Our boy must get instruction in two religions.

Mark N. — It's too confusing for a 6-year-old.

Grace N. — My husband and I have been married for six years and have two children. We are of different faiths, but this has never been a cause of any trouble between us since neither of us has held a religious upbringing.

Our plan was to bring up our children with some knowledge of all religions. They can decide when they are older whether they will belong to some faith or none at all.

Now, however, our 6-year-old boy wants to go to the Sunday School of my husband's faith. This is because we live in a neighborhood where all his friends go to this Sunday school. I think, in view of the complications involved, he is too young to start getting any religious instruction, but that if he is started in one faith, he should also get instruction in the other. My husband is against it.

Mark N. — Grace seems to be trying to accuse me of "kidnapping" the children into my faith. Nothing could be further from my mind because I simply have no interest at all in what religion or nonreligion the kids want to follow.

I am interested, however, in having normal, happy children. It's natural for our little boy to want to go to Sunday school with his friends and I'd be all for it, even if the school happened to belong to my wife's faith. But I do think it would be wrong to start giving him instruction in a second faith at the same time. This is entirely too confusing for such a little boy.

As far as I'm concerned, I would just as soon have our son go to Sunday school entirely and anyway, I intend to let him know that a lot of the stuff he learns in Sunday School is "junk" at once! That's too much.

The Council: We're glad that Mark has awakened to the fact that teaching two faiths at once to a small boy may be "too confusing." We think he should go at least one step further and recognize that telling his child what he learns in Sunday School is "junk" is also likely to be confusing.

These parents have outlined a plan for educating their children that is vague and unrealistic. At the first contact with reality — namely, a child's desire to go to Sunday school — the whole plan is about to collapse.

If Grace and Mark are far from unique. Their problem has been considered seriously by educators and religious leaders. This could owe it to their children to seek a clear answer to their problem, based on sound advice from clergymen and seasoned educators. They may not easily find a simple solution to their problem, but at least they will be aware of imposing too many of their own confusions and conflicts on the children.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

"MIRROR, MIRROR ON THE WALL . . . . ."

Constant exposure to mirrors kept her conscious of her looks.

We heard a nice little story the other day about a mother's advice to her child. Said Mama: "If you want to be happy, you have to look 'happy.' This sage advice stuck in the child's mind and later in life when she got herself a job, she really took it seriously.

Her job, you see, was pasting labels in bottles in a perfume shop. Naturally, she saw a lot of herself while working! She soon felt very well face up to a mirror in order to paint it without getting a good look at her own face. She began to notice that she didn't look very happy with those lines at the corners of her mouth and looking at her own faces for hours at a time by taking a good long look in your own mirror! Ask yourself if your skin doesn't need an honest cleansing with soap and water, some extra lubrication; perhaps a better choice of make-up. See if your hair wouldn't look better after a shampoo, a new coiffure.

It's a bit easier to look happy if you look well groomed. When you know you've made the most of your appearance — skin, hair, nails, clothes — you have a far more assured expression on your face. You feel happier because you know you look your best. A happy expression has to come from within. But how you look outside can affect how you feel inside. The two just go together.

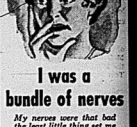
Soap Best Leather Cleanser

Use pure mild soap or saddle soap to clean leather upholstery or leather surfaces on tables, advise specialists for United States Department of Agriculture.

They have found that the best way to clean leather is simply to dampen a cloth or sponge in warm water, wring it out, then rub it over the bar of soap or the saddle soap. Rub the leather briskly. Then rub with another moist cloth until soap. Rub dry with a clean, soft cloth. Any gloss which disappears will be restored by friction of the last rubbing.

The home furnishings specialists warn against using furniture polishes, oils or varnishes on leather because these preparations frequently contain solvents that cause leather to become sticky.



If leather appears to be drying out, rub it with a small amount of a leather dressing with the fingers and palm of the hand. In humid weather leather mildews easily. It's a protection against mildew to keep leather as clean as possible and free of dry place. Wash mildew off promptly, then dry with an electric fan.

Leather shoes, handbags and book bindings as well as leather upholstery need to be kept in a dry place to prevent mildew.

Kennedy was returned under rest to Walkerton Jail June 26 er hospital superintendent ton the magistrate that Ken- had been quiet and well- ducted and there was no in- tion of mental illness or men- deficiency."

Kennedy was "imprisoned for other six days without bail" d on July 4, appeared again e Magistrate McClevis.

"What occurred on that occa- as described by the affi- vits of Kennedy and a num- r of responsible persons, in- ding his counsel, is that the gistrate stated that he had sidered the case . . . that he h binding Kennedy over to ep the peace, and granting su- sided sentence on bond of $500 th two sureties.

QUESTIONED BOND

"When Kennedy and his bonds- en went into the magistrate's ice to sign the recognizance, e of them pointed out that no one was mentioned; and he ked what period of time was volved. According to the affi- vit evidence on this point the gistrate stated that it should for 10 years, 'but that they usually for six months.'

"This would indicate that the gistrate had been in receipt information not sworn in court, d that he had reached an 'opin- adverse to Kennedy on such admissible material.'

Application was made Oct. 1 fore Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson the Ontario Supreme Court for order quashing Kennedy's nviction.

"Counsel for the attorney-gen- l objected to the affidavits ing read. He submitted that the ourt could only look at the rec- d of what was said to have ccurred as certified by the mag- trate and his clerk, Maude rusla. According to the latter ennedy had pleaded 'guilty' on uly 4, and his counsel had re- uested that no evidence be ven.

ENIED IN AFFIDAVITS

"This was denied by the affi- vits of R. E. McAvoy, QC, and Kennedy and a number of her persons in court. "If these affidavits were true, e record certified to by the agistrate's clerk was a fabri- ation."

Mr. Justice Wilson denied the pplication "but he directed that e conflict between the evidence d the record be brought to the ttention of the attorney-general for Ontario."

This decision was appealed to he court of appeal for Ontario, hich held that in this province he record may not be contra- icted."

Provincial Premiers Ready To Hammer Out Better Deal In Tax-Sharing Agreement

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Ten provincial premiers meet here today and Tuesday to ask for the payment on Prime Minister Diefenbaker's election promise of a better tax deal for the provinces.

But it is virtually certain that one or more further conferences will be necessary between federal and provincial governments before a new tax-sharing agreement is hammered out among them.

At the opening session today Mr. Diefenbaker is expected to give some general indication on how far he is prepared to go in carrying out his election campaign assertion that the present tax arrangement, in effect for less than a year, is unfair to the provinces.

His opening statement at the meetings in the Parliament Buildings' big railway committee room, will be followed by statements from the 10 premiers.

All 10 want a bigger share of the $2,000,000,000 tax pot provided by personal and corporation income taxes and succession duties. Under the constitution, federal and provincial governments have joint claims to these direct tax fields.

However, Mr. Diefenbaker is not expected to propose definite dollars-and-cents formula at this conference, either in the public meeting or in closed sessions which are likely to follow on Tuesday.

WANTS END MEETING

He has said he wants first to hear what the provinces say, and has suggested it would be better to consider specific proposals at a subsequent meeting.

Because an immediate solution to the tax problem is unlikely, much of the interest may shift to another matter: The possibility of a speedup in the start of the federal-provincial hospital- insurance plan.

It has been generally considered that federal payments toward provincial hospital care plans will start Jan. 1, 1959, when Ontario's scheme goes into operation.

But last Tuesday Mr. Diefenbaker told the Commons he will discuss the matter with the premiers. If there were "reasonably unanimous" agreement among them, the plan would start "at a far earlier date. . . ."

POLITICAL ISSUE

The conference on tax-sharing undoubtedly will have political overtones.

The Liberals, for example, will be looking for evidence to bear out their election campaign charge that a Progressive Conservative government at Ottawa would favor Ontario's Conservative Premier Frost, at the expense of other provinces.

Premier Frost has stated that his province needs another $100,000,000 in federal tax concessions. Experts estimate that to meet this demand, another $350,000,000 would have to be provided to the other provinces if they were to be treated equitably.

EXTRA SPENT ALREADY

The federal government's problem is heightened by the fact that it already has committed itself to spend an additional $100,000,000 or more a year for increased old age pensions and other social welfare. And it still has done nothing yet on an election promise to cut taxes.

The eventual agreement on a federal-provincial tax-sharing plan could involve changes in the two major taxes of the present arrangement, put in effect last April 1 by the former Liberal government.

One feature, in effect, provides the provinces with a certain share of the three direct tax income tax and death duty—and increase in the sharing formula would mainly benefit Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia.

WANT EQUALIZED DEAL

The other feature is unconditional equalization payments by the central governments to bring the per-capita direct tax income of the less-wealthy provinces up to the average of the two wealthi-

Diego Rivera Noted Artist, Dies in Mexico

By CHARLES H. GUPTILL

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Diego Rivera, famous violent painter and defiant politics made him a charging bull in the world of art, died at a heart attack early today in his studio at suburban San Angel.

He would have been 71 Dec. 8. Until Pickaltic paralyzed his right hand and arm several weeks ago, Rivera was working on three paintings with the zest which characterized his work for 50 years.

A heart specialist said Sunday that the artist's condition had worsened, but friends thought he might live until the end of the year.

Only members of his family and his physician were present when he died. He is survived by his fourth wife, Ama Hurtado, and two daughters, Ruth and Guadalupe.

WAS A RED

Rivera had been in an out of the Communist party since 1922. He returned only last year from Russia and proclaimed a painting which the Mexican government had commissioned for an exhibition in Europe. Government officials were appalled when they learned that the painting showed U.S. soldiers committing atrocities in Korea. The work was withdrawn from the art show.

Whitby Gets by Chevies 4-2 Pembroke Defeats Kingston

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Claude Ruel, 19-year-old Ottawa-Hull Canadiens standout defenceman, today awaited a verdict on the future of his career.

Ruel, struck over the eye with a stick during a weekend Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Eastern Division game at Belleville, may lose the sight of the eye. He has six stitches in the upper and lower lids. Dr. Gerald McWalcot said he can not tell the extent of the damage before Tuesday.

Ruel's injury cast a shadow over what should have been a jubilant Ottawa squad. They handed Belleville McFarlands their season's first home defeat, 4-3 in overtime.

SWEET REVENGE

McFarlands, however, got their revenge in a big way Sunday, crushing the Canadiens 7-1.

Other action Saturday saw Whitby Dunlops fresh from the 7-2 walloping they handed Moscow Selects Friday, beat Cornwall Civics 4-2 and Pembroke Lumber Kings beat Kingston CKLC 4-2. On Sunday Chevies beat Kingston 2-1.

John Claude Tremblay spear headed Canadiens' attack in their first meeting with Belleville, scoring three times. Ralph Backstrom supplying the other. Eddie Marineau, Minnie Menard and Wesley Brown scored for Belleville.

Russ Kowalchuck, with four goals, headed McFarlands' blitz in the return game. Bob Pulford and Gerry Marineau scored the others. Tremblay scored for the Canadiens.

At Whitby Bus Gagnon, Jack McKenzie, Tom O'Connor and Charlie Burns scored for Dunlops. Pete Payette and Frank Dorrington were the Cornwall marksmen.

Payette's overtime goal gave Chevies victory against Kingston. Kingston's Roy Partridge and Cornwall's Don Bingley each scored in the first period.

Pembroke, after taking a 2-1 first period lead against Kingston, cruised to victory with goals in the second and final periods.

Lionel Barber, with two, Jim Maxwell and Jack Giesebrecht were the Lumber King's markers. Bob Tilley and Ken Lindman scored for Kingston.

No games are scheduled for tonight. Tuesday Canadiens visit Pembroke, with Kingston at Whitby.

Flyers Take Intermediate Football Title

By JOE DUPUIS

Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP) — Shearwater flyers, seemingly unalarmed at prospects the navy team may be broken up by transfers of key players, reigned happily today as Canada's intermediate football champions.

Flyers won the title here Saturday with a final-quarter 27-21 victory over Fort William Redskins.

But no sooner had the new champs moved off the field and into victory celebrations, when word came of the pending break-up.

Saskatchewan Roughrider scout Dean Griffing announced he had signed Shearwater's Dale Rissen, 22-year-old offensive tackle and defensive guard. Griffing said he also is negotiating with Flyer offensive end Bill Harper.

REFUSES OFFER

The team's big star, 34-year-old fullback Bob Hayes, turned down a Griffing offer. The London, Ont., native, married with three children, says he prefers the security of the navy.

Ironically enough, Hayes will still be lost to the team next year along with guard Al Cuthler. An official source said the two will be transferred.

Meanwhile the new champs were described by Redskins as the "best team we've ever met."

Fort William's diminutive coach Jackie James had no excuses to offer. "We were beaten all that's all." He was visibly shaken by the loss. Coach of the club since it was formed 10 years ago, he has been in four Dominion finals and lost them all.

Hayes, Bruce Walker and Buck Taylor scored Shearwater's four touchdowns. halfback Hayes picking up two. For Redskins Ted Blake, Jacko Hall and Ike Smith and Larry Lychowyd each got a touchdown.

On the Tracks

NEW YORK (CP) — Jewel's Reward, owned by Canadian born Mrs. Elizabeth Arden Graham, won the U.S. two-year-old championship and set a record for money earned in the first year of racing Saturday by defeating five other horses in the $182,760 Pimlico Futurity at Baltimore, Md.

The win was worth $115,347 for Jewel's Reward, and boosted his total earnings to $340,642. The previous record was $277,126 won by Hasty Road in 1953.

Jewel's Reward led through the 1 1-16 miles. Nala came from last place near the end to take second place, a length behind the winner.

Flaysall was third and the favored Misty Flight, owned by Wheatley Stable, fourth.

Jewel's Reward, ridden by Willie Shoemaker, was timed in 1:44 3-5.

At New York's Jamaica track, Bill Harlack and Promised Land's nose across the wire in a five-horse photo finish to win the $27,500 Idlewild Handicap.

With the win, Harlack boosted the 1957 total of purses won to a record $3,022,298—the first jockey to earn more than $3,000,000 in one year.

The photo showed only heads separating Oh Johnny, who was second; Third Brother, third; Tick Tock, fourth; and Eddie Schmidt, fifth.

Promised Land, owned by Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs of New York, ran the 1¼ miles in 1:50 3-5 on a bad track.

Greyhounds Win Over Trappers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Goaltenders in the OHA-NOHA Senior A series can be excused a few flutterings of the heart when the Sault Greyhounds are mentioned.

The Greyhounds—76 goals in 13 games—have been mighty unfriendly to the men in the nets this season, slamming home goals at the rate of almost six a game.

The once league-leading North Bay Trappers were the latest to come under fire, toppling 5-3 Saturday.

Only other weekend action in the series saw second-ranking Kitchener — Waterloo Dutchmen get goals in 10 games—also go on a goal spree, whipping Windsor Bulldogs 7-2.

Johnny Offdael paced the goal-hungry Greyhounds against North Bay, scoring twice. Other Soo marksmen were John Bailey, Gus Karyey and Ivan Tennant. Cues Koneczny and Cabana replied for the Trappers.

A defenceman—Ted Maki—topped Dutchmen scorers against Windsor, getting two goals. The Dutchmen stormed to 8'-5-1 first period lead, adding singles in the second and third.

Jack Stoddard, Bill Wylie, Jim Uzelac, Ken Kerry and Ivan Tennant were the other Kitchener scorers. Al Millar got two for Windsor. Elmer Skor scoring the other.

He was the first Canadian to win a PGA - sponsored tournament in the United States.

Marr had to a 76 that dropped him to 215 after a five-way tie for 12th place.

Balding was out and in 34-34. Par is 36-36—72 on the West Palm Beach Municipal course.

Baldingsaid he felt he had the match won when he went one-up on the 16th hole with a birdie when Weaver was one over par. They both took a five on No. 18.

STARTED FAST

Balding and Peter Cooper of Lakeland, Fla., were 4-under 67 they were the ones going to battle it out for top money as both moved in a stroke in front of Weaver who went one over par on the first three holes. Balding carded two birdies and a par and Cooper one birdie and two pars.

Cooper had all of the first nine, Cooper was two strokes out front and Balding was even with Weaver, Cooper, in second place starting Sunday's play, made the turn in 33 but soon after that he blew.

Carding three straight birdies after the turn, Weaver went three up on Balding. The Canadian then played spectacularly under pressure to take the lead on the 17th.

Cooper wound up at 213 in a tie for fourth place.

Colts Corral Frisco 27-21; Giants Win

NEW YORK (CP)—Baltimore Colts took over sole possession of first place in the Western Conference of the National Football League Sunday, defeating San Francisco 49ers 27-21 on a last-minute touchdown.

Detroit Lions, who had been tied for the leadership with Baltimore and San Francisco, were unceremoniously dumped by Chicago Bears 27-7.

Colts now have a 6-3 record, while Lions and 49ers are 5-4. Cleveland Browns, with rookie fullback Jim Brown scoring four touchdowns and setting an NFL rushing record, overcame Los Angeles Rams 45-31 to maintain their one-game lead in the Eastern Conference.

Second-place New York Giants ripped through Chicago Cardinals for four first-half touchdowns and held on for a 28-21 victory.

Blues Dicker With Boston For Goalie

MONTREAL (CP) — The Gazette says it ...as learned "on good authority" that New York Rangers of the National Hockey League will trade goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley to Boston Bruins shortly.

The newspaper says Rangers are seeking Boston goalie Don Simmons and a left - winger, probably John Bucyk," in exchange.

Worsley now is playing with Providence of the American Hockey League. He was generally credited with New York's fourth-place finish last season.

Marcel Paille is the current Ranger goaltender.

Players' Body Hearing Is Laid Over

TORONTO (CP)—The question of whether the National Hockey League Players Association is the type of organization that can be certified remains the main question in a hearing before the Ontario Labor Relations Board.

The question arose Saturday in the second day of hearings on an application to have the association certified as bargaining agent for Toronto Maple Leaf players.

Maple Leaf Gardens Limited is opposing the application, Garden counsel Norman L. Matthews contended: "We're saying it is not a trade union."

But David Lewis, Toronto counsel for the association, maintained the association could be certified and Milton R. Mound, New York lawyer and association counsel, listed the association's demands.

REJECTED DEMANDS

He testified that these demands had recently been rejected by the garden in a letter signed by Conn Smythe, managing director.

The main demands asked that: Players be advised on the benefits they might one day receive from a pension plan to which they contribute;

The standard player's contract be revised;

A minimum wage be established.

The hearing, before Chairman Jacob Finkelman and a four-man commission, was adjourned until Dec. 11.

Bisons Upset Hershey 4-2; Barons Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The five rivals of the Hershey Bears in the American Hockey League can take heart. Bears can be beaten.

Just when it appeared Hershey never would lose another game, especially on the road, Buffalo Bisons upended the league leaders 4-2 Sunday night. It was Bears' first setback of the season on the road after six victories and a tie. It also was there first defeat since Nov. 9 and only their third of the campaign.

After losing to the Bears 3-1 Saturday night, Bisons took a 2-0 lead after only 15 seconds on goals by Lee Jankowski and two assists. Bob Blaker picked up one goal and assist while Ted Rollins and J. Onderdonk also scored. J. Lupinek and Wes earned single assists. Gary Reid scored for the Habs on a play from Rutherford.

Jimmy Woodcock fired the Rangers' third goal as they shaded the Maple Leafs 3-2. Wes Bourette and Don Hendrick had Ranger goals and K. Flander the only effort. Garry Benson and Norm Richards tallied the Maple Leaf goals with Jay Kiser helping on one.

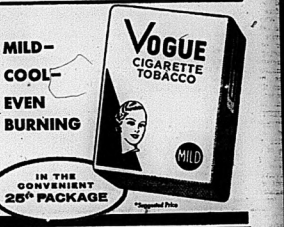
Players' Body Hearing Is Laid Over

TORONTO (CP)—The question of whether the National Hockey League Players Association is the type of organization that can be certified remains the main question in a hearing before the Ontario Labor Relations Board.



The question arose Saturday in the second day of hearings on an application to have the association certified as bargaining agent for Toronto Maple Leaf players.

Maple Leaf Gardens Limited is opposing the application, Garden counsel Norman L. Matthews contended: "We're saying it is not a trade union."

But David Lewis, Toronto counsel for the association, maintained the association could be certified and Milton R. Mound, New York lawyer and association counsel, listed the association's demands.

POWER PLUS!

Some time ago a member of the Rooster Club, we forget his name for the moment, remarked on how low the scoring had been with the Rams despite the fact they were winning their share of the games.

He felt the team had a goal-getting potential but up to that moment it had not shown itself. He said that some day soon somebody or some line would break out in a scoring rash. He was right.

Yesterday afternoon down in Hull, Quebec, the line of Russ Kowalchuk, Barton Bradley and Eddie Marineau gave upwards of 4,000 Quebec fans a neat lesson in how to score goals and hit the assist column.

The big Russian from Edmonton, who was not overly impressive in his first few outings, has come into his own lately. He came here with the reputation of being a hockey player who did not show his ability until in the heat of schedule battle. Sunday big Russ whipped that puck into the net four times for what he offered to be a game record for the loop up to the moment.

And right on his heels with what is probably another league game record, came diminutive Barton Bradley, who chalked up no less than five assists while his mates were pumping home the rubber. And last but by no means least is the "trailblazing" Eddie Marineau, a wandering minstrel of hockey who wrote all clubs in the league for a tryout and received word from only one that he could. You can guess the name of the club. Anyway most fans believe the club made a ten-strike when it signed Eddie to a contract—and that goes for this department.

Eddie made good almost from the start. Yesterday he scored the fifth goal of his line and was credited with assists on three others. The entire line garnered 14 scoring points —not bad for any line in any man's league.

And backing up this fine offensive effort was that of Gordie Bell, the ole reliable, who seems headed for one of his best seasons with the Maes. Gordie was terrific both Saturday night and Sunday against the fast-skating, hard-shooting junior Canadiens.

AN OPEN LETTER TO HOCKEY PARENTS

Dear Pop or Mom:—

Junior is having a whale of a time these Saturday mornings and Wednesday nights playing with his chums, Tom, Dick and Harry on the peewee, bantam or juvenile team.

As long as he is having a good time, scoring the odd goal or helping a tem-mate get one, there is nothing to worry about.

But hovering in the background is the possibility that he may come home one day with a couple of teeth missing, a cut arm, leg or face or injuries that necessitate hospitalization.

Maybe the subsequent doctor or hospital bill, or both would make a dent in the family budget.

Or perhaps you have some form of hospital plan which will cover such injuries.

But there are a lot of families which are not blessed with such fortunate circumstances. How about them?

The Ontario Minor Hockey Association in its wisdom adopted a hospital plan which has proven a blessing to a number of families. Last year the deductable amount was $10. This year it is $5.00.

The insurance protects junior while he is playing, or enroute to and from a game while under the supervision of his coach, manager or another official.

The cost is one dollar per player. The insurance can be obtained at individual players. His team need not be necessarily insured as a whole.

So how about it?

A dollar will give junior the protection he should have. Besides—look at the peace of mind knowing the kid will be safe. We hope you never have to collect—but there is always the possibility.

Just give junior a dollar, or take it yourself to his coach—and he will take care of the rest.

There has been a noticeable laxity on the part of parents to insure their hockey-playing sons under the OMHA plan this year, according to Belleville Minor Hockey Association president Mel Richards.

"Last year at this time," Mel said, "over 300 youngsters were insured. Up to this moment some 25 have paid their $1.00."

The BMHA does not derive one cent from these premiums. They are sent direct to the OMHA registrar, Jim Hutton, and he arranges for the policies.

You see no do it now. There may come a time when you will regret you did not take advantage of this fine offer.

Do it now!

Costly Esk End-Zone Fumble Gives Peg Winning Score; Bengals Crush Montreal 39-1

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HAMILTON (CP) — Gerry McDougall, who almost became an early-season cut from the Hamilton Tiger - Cats squad, carved himself a big slice of football glory Saturday in leading Hamilton to the Eastern Canada title with a 39-1 squelching of Montreal Alouettes.

Given perfect support by a hard charging Hamilton team, McDougall romped to three of Hamilton's five touchdowns and the Cats' record to be the same, total-point Big Four final was never in danger.

Hamilton will meet the Winnipeg Blue Bombers in Toronto next Saturday in the Grey Cup classic.

HOOK GOOD

On their show Saturday, the Cats looked good enough to beat any team in the country. Before a home crowd of 18,000, they had everything. They had letter-perfect blocking and jet-propelled ballfield that withered the Als in a hurry.

Cookie Gilchrist and Ray (Bibbles) Hewitt cashed in a touchdown apiece in the Hamilton cause. Steve Consolmo, whose accurate booting gave Hamilton 10 points on three field goals and a convert in Montreal, kicked a field goal and converted all five touchdowns Saturday. Can Prudence Kowalchuk's solitary single for the only score of the fourth quarter.

Avatus Stone kicked over the deadline in the third quarter, when Als were trailing 31-0 on the game, for Montreal's lone point.

Coach Jim Trimble of Hamilton aptly summed up the game when he said rushing should be the basic principle of any football club.

"A team that depends upon passing for its bread and butter in football makes for lazy players," said Trimble. "Rushing has got to be the basis of an offence. Poor Sam Etcheverry was looking in vain for receivers once Hal Patterson, a wonderful player, was out of the game."

HURT IN FIRST

Patterson, all - star Montreal end, suffered a hip injury early in the first quarter. The hip was frozen and Patterson gamely came back for a few minutes in the second quarter but had to retire.

With or without Patterson Saturday, the Als were a beaten club. They never threatened. Pete Neumann, Vince Scott and Harry Lampman had the rush on Etcheverry, Montreal quarterback, from the start.

The Als got as far as the Hamilton 27-yard line with an offensive drive in the first quarter and to the Cat 15 in the third quarter on two completed passes. Outside of that, the ball game was in the capable hands of the Tiger-Cats all the way.

The Cats forged ahead on McDougall's 70-yard pass-and-run touchdown gallop in the first quarter and led 24-0 at half-time. They added two more touchdowns and a field goal in the third quarter and then coasted through with a flock of second stringers in the final 15 minutes.

SETS WORLD MARK

LONDON (AP) — Moscow Radio said Sunday Peter Matyukhin of the Ukraine set a world middle heavyweight weightlifting record Saturday when he pressed 148 kilograms (326 pounds) in Kiev.

The former record was 147½ kilograms (324½ pounds) pressed during the Olympic Games last year by Russia's Arkady Vorobyev.

Teepees Nip Peterborough; Marlies Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines Teepees knocked off one challenger in their Ontario Hockey Association Junior A lead only to find another team closing fast.

Teepees defeated the fast-moving Peterborough Petes 5-3 Saturday when a Peterborough win would have left the clubs tied at the top.

But Toronto Marlboros grabbed a win and a tie in two games and edged into second place holding the St. Catharines lead to two points. Marlboros defeated Barrie Flyers 5-3 Saturday and tied Hamilton Tiger Cubs 3-3 Sunday.

In a second game Sunday, St. Michaels Majors moved into fifth place by beating Cubs 5-2.

COME FROM BEHIND

Peterborough held a 3-1 lead after two periods but Teepees put on a second-period burst to tie the game and scored twice in the third for the two victory.

Ed Hoekstra paced the winners with two goals. Stan Mikita, Jim Hayward and John McKenzie scored one each.

Barry Brigson scored twice for Petes and Bill Mahoney scored the other.

Marlboros scraped and scrambled to three points in their two Ats. Hamilton Cubs were tied three times by Barrie before Marlboros scored goal in the last minute of play.

Marlboro scorers were Jack Kirkfield, Bob Bell, Bill Kennedy and Gord Houghton.

Hamilton goals, Al Crossland and Bill Forhan scored for Barrie.

LOST IN FINALE

Sunday Marlboros and Hamilton battled through two scoreless periods before the teams counted twice each in the third period.

Hank Marcuk and McMaster for the Marlboro scorers. Gary Luyben and Brian Smith scored for Hamilton.

Lou Angotti counted twice to pace St. Michaels and they missed several other chances. Bob McKnight scored the other goal for Majors.

Bernie Cote rang up both Barrie goals.

Canada, USA To Send Teams To Russia

WINDSOR (CP) — Col. Pavel Korotkov, president of the Soviet Ice Hockey Association, announced Sunday night the United States will send a hockey team to Russia next year while a Russian team will play in the United States.

He also announced in an interview that the U.S. entry in the world hockey tournament at Oslo this year will play two games in Moscow March 15 and 17.

Korotkov, who is in charge of the Moscow Selects, presently touring Canada and playing exhibition games, invited Canadian Amateur Hockey Association officials to send a Canadian team to Moscow next year.

Korotkov said a tour of the U.S., playing college and amateur teams, was being arranged for next November. The U.S. team would play in Russia at the same time.

He said "seven or eight games" would be played by the Russians in the U.S.

Col. Korotkov, commenting on Sunday's 5-5 tie with Windsor Bulldogs Ontario Hockey Association — Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A club, said he thought the Russian team outplayed Bulldogs and should have won.

However, Windsor goalie Mary Edwards had played "marvelously."

He said he felt the Russian team's play would improve steadily and they would show well in the remaining games of their tour.

McFarlands Still Top Eastern Senior Loop Despite Split Decisions

Whip Ottawa Canadiens 7-1 After Dropping 4-3 Verdict; Russ Kowalchuk Scores Four

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The McFarlands still rule kings of the Eastern Ontario senior "A" league roost despite split decisions in recent engagements.

They blew a 3-0 lead against the speedy Ottawa-Hull Canadiens in Memorial Arena Saturday night and lost an overtime 4-3 decision to Sammy Pollock's youngsters.

But they avenged the setback in decisive fashion in Hull Sunday afternoon disposing of their young Saturday night conquerors by a 7-1 score.

Spearheading a driving attack was the line of Russ Kowalchuk, Eddie Marineau and Bart Bradley. Kowalchuk scored four goals, Bradley had five assists and Marineau a goal and three assists, accounting for 14 of the Macs total 18 scoring points. Gordie Bell turned in another sensational performance.

The game in Hull was played in the Quebec city's new arena before some 4,000 fans. Hundreds of others were unable to obtain admittance.

BELLEVILLE 7—OTTAWA 1	OTTAWA 4 — BELLEVILLE 3

The McFarlands, hungry after their overtime setback Saturday night, scored twice without a return in the first period. Ottawa got one back, their only goal of the game, in the second period, but the McFarlands reared back with two more to clinch the verdict. Three insurance markers in the third period salted the victory away.

The McFarlands defensive work stood out in this battle. There were twelve penalties handed out by the referee, ten of them going to the Macs, all minors.

The game was not three minutes old when big Russ Kowalchuk drew the first scoring blood of the game teaming with linemates Marineau and Bradley to whip the puck past Eric Reid in the nets. The big winger scored his second goal of the night taking Bart Bradley's pass to give the Macs a 2-0 edge just before the period ended.

Halfway through the period, G. Tremblay brought the Ottawa crowd to its feet in a roar of cheering when he beat Gordie Bell with a hard shot after taking Rousseau's pass near the blueline.

Six minutes later Bob Paul ripped his way up ice with blueline buddy Floyd Crawford taking Floyd's neat lay-down to beat Reid and bring back the Macs 3-1 edge. With less than two minutes to go Gerry Goyer and Ike Hildebrand sorted down the ice with Gerry racing to the goalmouth where he got a piece of Ike's pass, the rubber barely but trickling over the goal-line. But it was, and the marker counted. The Macs drew five of the six penalties handed out in this session and great defensive work by Gordie Bell kept the speeding Ottawa forwards off the scoresheet.

Remembering their experience of the previous night, Macs raced to the offensive early in the final chapter. The Kowalchuk - Marineau - Bradley line practically took over the scoring chores this frame, Kowalchuk with his line pattern whipped the puck past Reid at 5.05 to give the Macs a 5-1 lead and that was good as to all intents and purposes at this point.

However, halfway through the Eddie Marineau climaxed one of his "Gallopers" rushes, skated by Bart and Russ, and hurled the puck home to make the score six to one.

That they were not through was the line's cue in scoring ace. The line was in scoring mood and it stayed that way to the end. At 16.47 Kowalchuk slipped home his fourth goal of the game with his mates assisting to make the count 7-1 and that was it for the afternoon.

Goyer and MacDonald drew the only sentences of the period but no damage was done.

The teams:

Belleville — goal, Bell; defence, Benoit, Crawford, Paul, Bailey; forwards, Menard, Payette, Guidolin, Kowalchuk, Marineau, Bradley, Hildebrand, Mavrinac, Goyer, MacDonald.

Ottawa-Hull — goal, Reid; defence, Tremblay, Tardif, Begin, Lemieux; forwards, Boucher, G. Tremblay, Backstrom, Gray, J. C. Tremblay, Annable, Carter, Carter Rousseau, Sarrazin.

First Period

Belleville—Kowalchuk (Marineau, Bradley) 7.58
Belleville—Kowalchuk (Brayley) 18.12
Penalties — Tardif, Guidolin, Benoit, Crawford.

Second Period

Ottawa—G. Tremblay (Rousseau) 9.17
Belleville—Paul (Crawford) 15.07
Belleville—Goyer (Hildebrand) 18.43
Penalties — Menard, Kowalchuk, MacDonald, Bradley, Backstrom, Murdich.

Third Period

Belleville—Kowalchuk (Bradley, Marineau) 5.06
Belleville—Marineau (Bradley, Kowalchuk) 11.25
Belleville—Kowalchuk (Bradley, Marineau) 16.47
Penalties — Goyer, MacDonald.

A freak goal and costly penalties were the factors in the McFarland's 4-3 defeat here on Saturday night.

The "freak" counter came after 30 seconds of the third period when the Macs were out in front 3-1. Rousseau in tight to the boards whipped a high high shot directly across the nets in front of Gordie Bell. The puck struck Jean George Tremblay and ricocheted off him into the net behind a surprised Gordie Bell.

The Macs were slightly off their Whitby-Cornwall form despite the fact they held a 3-0 lead early in the second period.

A couple of goals apparently sparked the Ottawa Canadiens and they skated themselves dizzy in a successful attempt to overtake the score before the end and win the game in overtime.

The Macs were two up in the first period and should have had at least four more. They got a pair in the second heat, and then too they should have had more goals. So much so did manager Pollock pulled Hansen out of the nets for the third period and sent in young Eric Reid.

It was one of the fastest games seen here this season with Backstrom, Tremblay, Carter and Boucher being the shining lights for the Canadiens.

Jean George Tremblay was the Ottawa scoring hero potting three goals with Boucher getting the winner in overtime. Backstrom had two assists, Rousseau and Boucher one each.

Marineau, Menard and Brown were the MacFarland trigger-men with Kowalchuk, MacDonald, Bradley, Payette and Goyer getting helpers.

The Macs blew the three goal lead and failed to hold a 3-2 advantage in the third period when the Canadiens tied it up midway through the heat.

Marineau with Kowalchuk and Bradley scored the scoring at 3.50 and Menard with Payette made it 2-0 four minutes later. "Weiner" Brown, helped by Goyer and McDonald, gave the Macs a 3-0 lead just after the second period started but Tremblay got that one back with Backstrom, eleven minutes later. The third period had just started when the fluke goal came to put the margin to 3-2.

The Canadiens scored all the gadgets in a dazzling burst of speed and at the 9-13 mark Backstrom scored the tying marker. The Macs came close to scoring the winning goal but were outshot 20-15 in the period.

Penalties to MacDonald and Hildebrand, the latter drawing a misconduct, did not help the Macs' cause in the overtime period, although in desperation they hit the posts and came close on set a few occasions. The same goes for the Mac goalie who at times was barraged with puck.

The game was fast and clean with nine penalties handed out by Referee Stan Bosier of Toronto, seven going to the Macs, four Hildebrand's misconduct and a major to Kowalchuk.

Claude Rud, starry young Canadien defenceman, was seriously injured with a slash in the eye. The extent of the injury will not be known for a day or so. The young star is in hospital here.

Ottawa — goal, Hansen; defence, Begin, Rud, Longarini, Tardiff; forwards, Carter, Rousseau, D. Tremblay, Dawson, Backstrom, J. C. Tremblay, Annable, Richard, Gray, Sarrazin, Reid.

Rangers Cling to Loop Lead Despite 5-1 Loss to Leafs; Canadiens Point in Arrears

By MARTY GOODMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

If there's an advantage to home ice, five National Hockey League teams today are pondering what it might be.

The five — all except Montreal Canadiens—acted as hosts during weekend play. Two managed ties. The other three lost.

Even those who split the points found it tough. Chicago Black Hawks scored with 48seconds left to gain a 2 - 2 tie with Boston Bruins. Detroit Red Wings had to come from two goals behind to tie Montreal 3-3. In a third contest Sunday, Toronto defeated Rangers 5-1 at New York.

Saturday Montreal moved into Boston and beat the Bruins 4-2. Detroit edged Leafs 3-1 at Toronto.

RANGERS ON TOP

Despite its loss New York stayed in first place, one point ahead of Montreal. Canadiens have three games in hand.

Boston and Chicago are tied for third, seven points back. Detroit is in fifth, nine behind, and Toronto trails Wings by one point.

Sunday the revitalized Wings led behind 2-0 as Bert Olmstead and Marcel Pronovost each scored while Detroit was a man short. Then Gordie Howe sparked Detroit to its finest rally this season. He scored twice and set up Norm Ullman for a 3-2 Detroit lead. The assist was the 400th of Howe's career and tied the NHL record set by Elmer Lach of Montreal.

Canadiens came back 36 seconds later when Don Marshall scored his ninth goal of the season.

Hawks and Bruins matched single goals in the second and third periods. Ed Litzenberger scored for Hawks and Fleming Macell for Boston in the second. Doug McKenney gave Bruins the lead in the third but Eric Nesterenko, who earlier had 10 stitches taken in his face, scored with 48 seconds left.

MIGAY LEAD STAR

Toronto scored three goals in the first period against New York. Bill Gadsby's long shot bounced past Ed Chadwick for an early New York lead before Dick Duff, Billy Harris and Rudy Migay scored for Leafs.

After a scoreless second period Migay scored his second goal early in the third. Barry Cullen's last-minute counter completed the scoring. Migay had an assist to go with his two goals and George Armstrong had three assists.

Saturday at Toronto Red Kelly and Gordie Howe each scored as Wings won 2-1.

Dick Duff was Toronto's marksman.

At Boston, Canadiens were slow starting after a week's layoff but exploded for three goals in the third period, two by Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion.

Moore gave Montreal the lead and Boston's Gerry Toppazzini tied it. Geoffrion scored and was matched by McKenney.

Henri Richard chalked up the winner with six minutes left and Geoffrion got his second after Bruins goalie Don Simmons was taken off in favor of a sixth forward.

Boston is at New York Wednesday

Bombers Get Warm Welcome From Peg Fans

WINNIPEG (CP)—About 12,000 football fans swarmed over the Winnipeg Flying Club's landing strip at Stevenson Field Sunday to welcome home Winnipeg Blue Bombers, following their 17-2 overtime victory over Edmonton Eskimos Saturday night.

Before the arrival of the TCA Viscount carrying Bombers from Edmonton, thousands of automobiles, buses and trucks were lined bumper to bumper for miles down the thoroughfares leading to the airport, while hundreds of persons walked down the sides of the roads in the chilly 13-degree weather.

Shouts of "here they come" went up as the plane appeared in the cloudy skies and then came in for the landing. Hundreds of kids climbed up the lookout tower and over roofs to get a look at their heroes, who now enter the Grey Cup final at Toronto next Saturday against the Big Four champion Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Banners and signs bearing the words, "Yea Bombers," and "Tame Those Tigers," added to the color as did the Bomberettes drill team and band.

Two injured Bomber players Ed Kotowich and Jack Hutchinson, who had remained at home and Mayor Stephen John, who slipped out of the hospital where he was admitted for a checkup last week, were among the first to greet Bomber officials and players as they alighted.

'The Innocent Years' Best Creative Project in Years

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the fascinating aspects of The Innocent Years on NBC-TV was that we never would have had this intimate portrait of an era if it were not for the invention of television.

The Project 20 production was one of those occasions when a snob who does not believe that television can provide artful entertainment should regret his refusal to buy a TV set.

The movies never have — or would have—undertaken this recreation of the age between 1900 and the First World War. Even the old films and we noted by Daniel Jones, who led the long search for the material. Did you notice the vigorous actions of the people in the days of grandfather's prime?

So we are indebted to the creative spunk and exacting labor displayed by Henry Salomon and his excellent staff in bringing The Innocent Years into the home.

The narration, spoken by Alexander Scourby from a script by Salomon and Richard Hanser, was absorbing. Adaptations of musical scores by Jerry Bilk and Robert Russell Bennett helped recapture the authentic atmosphere.

Personally, I was especially struck by one aspect of The Innocent Years—an aspect that came through unconsciously on the old films and was noted by

FULL OF ENERGY

Although films were run faster 50 years ago, resulting in jerky motions, the full-swinging gestures of people still are obvious. They were forever at the scene with energy in those days. When Teddy Roosevelt chopped a tree he slaughtered it. When William Howard Taft hit a golf ball, he killed it.

It's interesting how our understanding of the past has grown—and how creations like The Innocent Years help it to grow. In the 1920's Americans scorned the life of the 1900's in an open revolt against the past. In the 1930's most Americans looked at the last 30 years previously as an era of social injustice. In the 1940's the last era was largely ignored.

Lauren Betty Bacall's Name Linked in Marriage to Sinatra

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—On Jan. 14, 1957, Humphrey Bogart died, robbing the screen of one of its greatest talents and of its leading non-conformist.

As the official mourning period nears an end, Lauren (Betty) Bacall, Bogie's beautiful widow, is linked in marriage talk with Frank Sinatra, in later years Bogart's closest friend.

It can be written of Sinatra that he too is one of the screen's major talents, and heir to Bogie's non-conformist crown.

CYNICS PROVED WRONG

Prince Mike Romanoff, longtime intimate of Bogart and Sinatra, says of Betty and Frank:

"They are just as good friends now as they ever were. I know anything can happen but I believe Frank and Betty are too good friends to marry."

But there is no law that says only enemies must marry or that good friends must not. And Betty Bacall is the type of friend that most any man could love.

She is witty, gay, loyal and has already proven that her husband's happiness was more important to her than her own career. For 12 years of marriage to Bogie was one of Hollywood's great love stories. Yet, the cynics gave it six months at best at the start.

BOGIE'S TRIBUTE

Shortly before he died, Bogart confided:

"Those three weeks I was in the hospital, she was never away from my side more than hour at a time and then only to see the kids. There aren't many girls around here, especially the actresses, who would do that.

"Don't tell her you heard it from me but she's one of the great women. I wish you could see the movie offers she turned down when I got sick."

And then in a typically Bogart tribute:

"In Hollywood, that's how you separate the broads from the ladies."

A ringside observer to this devotion was Sinatra. He couldn't help but be impressed. Any man would.

COULDN'T GO ON

When Bogie returned home from hospital, the crooner-actor was a nightly visitor when in town. There the Bogie and Betty and others lifted a few drinks, toasted their friends and roasted their enemies.

Sinatra was working at the dates.

AT THE PARK — Jayne Mansfield, who was dubbed "Broadway's Smartest Dumb Blonde" when she starred in "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?", makes her Cinemascope screen debut in Twentieth Century-Fox's "The Girl Can't Help It", which will open tonight at the Park Theatre. She shares starring honors with Tom Ewell and Edmond O'Brien in this hilarious comedy, which features fourteen of the top rock 'n roll singers in the country today. Also on same program in Cinemascope and Technicolor, Marilyn Monroe in "Bus Stop".

Margaret Truman on Coast To Re-enter Musical Career

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Comeback?" says Margaret Truman. "I didn't know I had been away."

That was her reaction to comments on the resumption of her career as a performer. Absent for more than a year because of the birth of her son, Clifton Truman Daniel, she was here to perform a dramatic role in Matinee Theatre and do some singing with Gisele McKenzie.

"I must admit that I was more nervous before the matinee show than I've ever been in my life," she said. Despite this, she drew good notice from the reviewers.

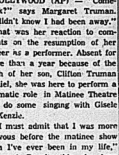
Miss Truman also drew unexpected praise from Ethel Barrymore, an inveterate TV fan who caught the show and said her work was "exceptionally good."

All this has helped spur Margaret on to new activity — she's spunk she word "comeback."

"I still have from nine to 12 shows to do for NBC each year," she explained. "It is basically the same contract I have had since 1950, though we let one off last year. I guess they didn't want a very pregnant lady appearing on their shows."

She was asked about other possibilities—for a TV series or a broadway show.

MUST NOT INTERFERE



"I'll consider them as they come along in one light—if they don't interfere with my family life," she said.

She is married to Clifton Daniel Sr., arristant to the managing editor of the New York Times. Does he approve of her working?

"I wouldn't be doing it if he didn't," she replied dutifully.

Margaret seemed happier and more at ease than she has on previous visits here, and she admitted that she enjoyed her new life.

"I've been close to the newspaper life, but always on the receiving end," she remarked. "Now I'm on the other end ! find it very enjoyable. About half our friends are in the news field and half in show business. But we're not all married to each other. We know many people in other fields, too; you can do that in New York."

AT THE PARK — Dave Freeze — For Marilyn Monroe only, when caught in these shimmering scanty spangles of a honky-tonk artist, she suddenly finds herself touring through the wintry Ozarks. Get-up and go-with-it is the theme of this comedy based on the Broadway hit "Bus Stop". Film opens tonight at the Park Theatre. On the same program in Cinemascope and Technicolor is "The Girl Can't Help It", starring Tom Ewell, Jayne Mansfield and Edmond O'Brien.

She admitted that it was a shock to her husband to find himself on the receiving end of the news.

She hinted that he received another blow after their marriage: her cooking.

"Like a lot of girls in my generation, my training in the kitchen was overlooked," she said. "We used to laugh at the girls who took home economics in school, but we don't any longer.

"Fortunately, my cooking has improved since we've been married. Still, anyway,"

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

(Author of the new "Astrology and You")

"The Stars Impel . . . They do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to you."

Monday, November 25, 1957

Aries (March 21 to April 19) While tempted to do otherwise, be sure you obey every regulation with extreme care today which concerns you, or you get in Dutch with important persons. Self-control brings respect from vital ones.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Escaping your obligations today can cause such ill will from those who depend upon you that friendliness from others that it is impossible to calculate. Roll up your sleeves and go to work. Your chance will come soon.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Absolute care must be exercised with all those to whom you owe money or things will go bad with you. Also, see that romantic tie is a dither is placated on emotional side of your life. Think out your situation seriously.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) This day is touched off with emotional dynamite, so try to avoid a pitched battle with an associate in a bad mood, or getting involved in altercations with others who are important to you. Show devotion, though you do not agree with them.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get that temper under control fast, otherwise you may by crying over that expensive vase, Chinese candelabra, beyond repair after a prima donna bit of satisfaction. Learn control and increase mental

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) Are determined to howl no matter if you empty the pocketbook or dig into the candy jar. Planetary forces are against you, and you may even lose your shirt, so be content with mate, find some simple pleasure to amuse you.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) Don't add fuel to that emotional fire under a member of your household by stating some truism in sarcastic fashion or the old roller coaster flights. Be the sweet, cooing Libra instead and use plenty of sugar.

Scorpio (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) It's best you do little driving today and stick to desk work or typewriter and avoid any possible mishap. Keep very busy, make the day count, and if you feel like saying unkind things because you are tired — don't!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You feel that simply by bringing out the wallet you can get that situation cleared up quickly and easily. You may have to sweat it out for some time, so be sensible and wise. Get advice of lawyer or authorities.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have real cause to want to strike out in several places and in certain areas, but the wisest thing right now would be to relax, get appearance and health at ease, and don't scatter your forces.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you don't quickly let that wonderful mind of yours take hold of the present frustrating situation, much will be lost of value to you. Help other persons and forget own worries, but impersonally.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) One of your friends is in a fighting, unhappy mood and wants to air his or her real or imaginative worries, so be patient and listen with feigned complete interest as you plan menu for the week. Then all is well.

If your child is born today . . . The fighting spirit the child born today will inherit is either the result of inheritance or indigestion, but your progeny will forever be at it for he or she will be early convinced it is the only way to get ahead. Teach your youngster to use energy on constructive, material things early and then wisdom will teach that words are mightier than the sword. Fine for government, sport, science professions.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was doing my homework and wishing I wasn't, and I said, Aw heck, I cant do these problems. Certainly you can do them, ma said. Why els would your teatcher give them to you? she said. And I said, That's just exactly why. She bets we cant do them, and she's just trying to prove it. I said.

Now listen, young fellow, pop said. Just relax and you'll find you can do anything within reason. Why do you suppose high powered executives can get through as much work in one day as 6 ordinery men? he said. and I said, Because they get paid as much as 6 men, I reckon.

Not at all, it's because they relax & timer more easily, pop said. They relax mentally from their cerrebum to their cerrebelum, and they relax fisically from their balt spot to their toes. Now relax and do your problems, he said.

Sounding like a good idea and I started in to try it, and the first thing I knew I was imagining I was floating on my back on a cloud, licking a candy apple on a stick and holding a peece of chalk with my toes and doing an arithmetic problem with it on a blackboard and the 2nd thing I knew somebody was shaking me awake.

Being pop, saying, For Peet sake what's the big idea?

Well Jimminies, pop, you told me to relax and you cant say I didn't do it perfect, I said.

The result being I kept on staying so relaxed that pop had to help me finish the problems.

FLYNN, FRIEND FREED

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Drunk charges against actor Errol Flynn and his actress friend were dismissed today by the city attorney's office because of insufficient evidence. Flynn and Miss Maura FitzGibbon were arrested Oct. 20 by an off-duty policeman at the annual Screen Publicists Ball.

WHALES TRAPPED ON LAND

MELBOURNE (CP)—A school of nearly 100 black whales became stranded on the coast of Port Welshpool nearly 120 miles by road from its Gippsland district of Victoria. It is thought the school, which had been feeding off the coast for several days, may have been driven ashore by high tides and gale-force winds. One landed on a roadway above a three-foot wall.

Mayor R. Burtt Is Acclaimed For Third Year

TRENTON (Special)—Mayor Ross Burtt was returned to office by acclamation Monday as other nominees failed to qualify on nominations day last week.

The three are Gerald A. Weaver, Jos. Gould and Senator W. A. Fraser.

Seeking re-election as councillors are Vagn Lang, D. James MacDonald and Charles H. Hilton. Joseph Gould, who was on the council in 1956, will also run for a council seat. Others seeking election as councillors are Ray Pan, Lloyd Worrall and Charles Sills.

The new council will consist of six councillors.

Running for posts on the Board of Education, four to be elected, are: T. S. Ketcheson, Colin Crews, F. J. Aziz, Frank A. Filion, Alvin A. Tuppings and Alex Wilson.

Clifford Baker, chairman last Year of the Public Utilities Commission, will seek re-election and will be opposed by Ernest R. Smithrim and Archie McNeill.

Mr. Smithrim is a former manager of the Public Utilities Commission and retired four years ago.

It is expected that all candidates will attend the rate-payers meeting tonight to present their platforms.

The meeting will be held in the auditorium of the Community Gardens commencing at 8 p.m.

WILL HOLD "DRY RUN"

Mayor Ross Burtt pledged co-operation in holding one or two "dry run" council meetings sometime after the first of the coming year. Other members of council have also agreed to the proposal made at the last council meeting.

The purpose of the informal forum would be to discuss and explain the duties and operation of the town council.

EXPENSIVE C OF C PROJECT

Around 5,000 bags of candy, colored lights and a Nativity scene will cost the local Chamber of Commerce in the vicinity of $2,850 this Christmas.

The program, which will include a Santa Claus parade, will be sponsored by the retail merchants' section of the local Chamber and will be held on December 17 at 10 a.m.

Following the parade, which will end at St. Peter's School, the candy will be given out to the children.

SMOKE CONTROL BY-LAW

First steps towards a smoke control by-law for this town have been taken by the town council. The council has decided to go ahead with a plan to call in a provincial government representative to assess the smoke situation here. Following the report the councillors will then consider their next move, which is expected to be in the form of a by-law.

CONTEST LEGION PRESIDENCY

Terry Devonshire, Horace Ketcheson, Orvelle Smith and John Farrell have been nominated to fill the post of president of the local branch of the Canadian Legion.

Mr. Farrell is at present ending his second year in this post.

ENCOURAGING CENSUS

"The results have been most encouraging" were the words used by the Rev. G. J. Miniely in describing the recent month-long religious census of this town.

Rev. Miniely is president of the Ministerial Association in Trenton, sponsors of the census.

Traffic Crashes Take 30 Lives, 4 Hunting Deaths

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Traffic accidents, headed by a two-car crash which claimed five lives at Wallaceburg, Ont., accounted for 30 of Canada's 36 accidental deaths during the week-end.

Four shooting and hunting deaths, three falls, a fire death and a drowning made up the others.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight showed Ontario with a third of the country's fatalities, 13.

Heading Ontario's list was the Wallaceburg crash, which also injured four persons. All of Ontario's fatalities except a man killed in a hunting mishap were traffic victims.

Quebec had seven deaths, five in traffic. Saskatchewan had five, Alberta and New Brunswick four each, Newfoundland and Manitoba had two fatalities each, Nova Scotia and British Columbia one each.

Ontario fatalities

Victims of the Wallaceburg crash were Hector St. Pierre of Lambton Line, Jean Mel, about 23, of Wallaceburg, and Hellen Trella about 19, and Mrs. Barbara Delmotte, both of Port Lambton.

Eileen Halarawich, 21, was killed Sunday night in a collision in Toronto. She suffered a fractured skull when she hit the pavement after being thrown from a car.

Arthur Harrington, 34, was killed Sunday night on Highway 14 near Springbrook, 20 miles northwest of Belleville. Passenger James Wood escaped injury when Harrington's car went out of control and hit a tree.

Two-year-old Johnny Mikolic, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roko Mikolic of Bowmanville, was killed Sunday night when he unlatched a rear door in the family car and fell into the path of two cars on Highway 401 about four miles east of Oshawa.

Police said the boy was apparently run over by one car, then struck by another.

CAR SKIDS

Richard Bouffard, 19, was fatally injured early Sunday when a car skidded off icy Highway 544 near Sudbury.

Wilfred Robbins, 45, of Toronto was killed Saturday night when he stepped out of his panel truck on Highway 10 near Victoria, 11 miles northwest of Toronto, and was apparently struck by a car.

Provincial police said Robbins quarrelled with two passengers, Sydney Alexander and Hugh Curryer of Toronto over the speed at which he was driving. He slowed his southbound truck and stepped out. Police said he was apparently struck by a north-bound car which did not stop.

Maurice Clouthier, 20, died of a broken neck Saturday when his car struck a parked car at the foot of a hill in North Bay.

Ken Yacobuck, 29, of Korah Township near Sault Ste. Marie was shot while deer hunting Saturday 31 miles north of the Sault.

Thomas H. Bramah, over 70, of Barrisfield near Kingston was killed Friday night while crossing Highway 2 with an eight-foot timber across his shoulder. A car hit the timber, breaking his neck.

Promise France To Consult Her On Tunisian Arms

Britain Will Not Promise End to Shipment of Guns

PARIS (Reuters)—The British and French prime ministers today decided "to make arrangements" designed to avoid any fresh quarrels over British-American arms shipments to Tunisia.

The decision was announced in a communique winding up two days of talks between Britain's Harold Macmillan and France's Felix Gaillard.

A British delegation spokesman said this does not mean Britain will send no more arms to Tunisia. He said the decision meant Britain will consult France if Tunisia asks for more arms.

EACH OTHER'S VIEWS

Both British and French officials said full identity on all aspects of the Tunisian crisis had been brought about but "both sides now know each other's point of view better."

Macmillan told reporters the talks had been a success.

The communique declared: "In a spirit of solidarity between the two countries both prime ministers expressed their determination that Quebec should continue to discharge her special responsibilities in North Africa where they had traditionally a leading position and where she could make a valuable contribution to the common defence of the free world."

On the matter of arms for Tunisia, both prime ministers declared to make arrangements designed to avoid the recurrence of difficulties similar to those which recently arose. Consultations on this subject between the two governments are proposed.

DIFFERENT ATTITUDE

The friendliness of the communique contrasted with aroused feelings in France last week over the arms shipments. French officials had feared the arms might fall into the hands of Algerian insurgents across the Tunisian border.

Besides discussing North Africa, the two premiers went into the Suez issue in a far for the NATO heads of government meeting with the United States in December.

On the NATO meeting, which President Eisenhower is expected to attend, the communique said:

"The ministers agreed that the December meeting should give a more precise definition to the principles of interdependence and to the solidarity of the alliance as exemplified by the spirit of equity which underlines the treaty.

"They considered in particular that this solidarity should result in increased pooling of resources and knowledge, especially in the field of research development and production.

"They also agreed that everything possible should be done to develop the system of consultation in the alliance."

BRITAIN'S CONTRIBUTION IMPORTANT

The Macmillan - Gaillard meeting this morning lasted 3½ hours following two almost full day of talks Monday.

Want No Favors But Just Rights Duplessis Says

OTTAWA (CP)—Quebec's Premier Duplessis, unfathomable as ever on tax-sharing issues, has placed his long-standing plea for a definition of taxation fields before the federal-provincial fiscal conference.

Like other provincial premiers, Mr. Duplessis said he seeks a larger share of the national tax dollar but unlike most of them he made no specific tax-sharing demands, or any detailed proposal for a federal-provincial agreement.

He passed up the subject of Quebec's possible participation in a national hospital insurance plan, a question he discussed in the Quebec legislature last week, saying he has nothing new to say or has any opinion in mind on the matter.

He took the position that Quebec should be the federal government's to do some back-stepping in the rich direct taxation field but, unlike Ontario's Premier Frost did not say how far back he thought the federal authority should move.

IN ONE FIELD

He made a suggestion covering a single field of taxation, succession duties. He said the federal government should move out altogether and leave it to the provinces.

"We are not here to seek favors but to claim our rights—nothing more, nothing less."

What these rights are Mr. Duplessis has only outlined in general terms: Exclusive rights to direct taxation for matters that "fall into the hands of legislation. But he has never given an estimate in dollars and cents.

Since the Union Nationale party's election in 1944 Mr. Duplessis has rejected federal-provincial tax - rental agreements and repeatedly asked for federal-provincial talks to set down the respective taxation powers of the central and provincial governments.

Boost Amount Available for Low-Cost Homes

OTTAWA (CP) — The government served notice today it intends to ask parliament to provide an additional $150,000,000 for new low-cost housing and to make possible lower down payments.

Works Minister Howard Green, in a Commons order paper, gave notice of legislation to amend the National Housing Act. He proposes increasing to $400,000,000, from $250,000,000, the aggregate amount that may be lent out of the consolidated revenue fund under appropriate sections of the act.

The legislation also would provide for reduction of down payments, his notice said.

Car Driver Killed

BROUGHTON, Ont. (CP)—Ernest John Brooks, 46, of Greenfield Park, Que. was killed Monday in a car-transport accident on Highway 401. The accident occurred near this St. Lawrence River village about 25 miles southwest of Cornwall.

Terry Simpson of Prescott, Ont., driver of the transport, escaped with a shaking up.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis:

Colder al: is moving southward slowly and will cover most southwestern counties this morning accompanied by clearing skies. Temperatures in the north were decidedly cold with 35 below reported at Nakina and Pagwa and 20 below at Timmins. Snow will spread over most of Ontario Wednesday and will likely be mixed with occasional rain in southern sections.

MEMBERS FAVOR TRANSLATING OF HOUSE DEBATES

Liberal Motion Is 'Talked Out'

OTTAWA (CP) — Practically everyone in the Commons is in favor of providing the translation of debates.

But they took so much time on the principle of the question Monday that they never got around to voting for it.

As a result the motion of Maurice Breton (Lotbiniere - Laprairie-Montcalm) calling on the government to initiate speedy translation of House of Commons for simultaneous translation was "talked out."

Mr. Breton kicked off the debate—on the first of six Mondays reserved for private members' resolutions — by proposing that the government consider establishing committees to study the possibility of setting up a system to translate debates into French or English. The proposal would include consideration of extending such a system to Commons committees, too.

Other Liberal members supported his plan. But Progressive Conservative speakers had some reservations.

INTEREST SHOWN

State Secretary Ellen Fairclough and Labor Minister Milton Macdonald have already shown an interest in the proposal and would be entrusted with a study of problems involved.

Similarly, Prime Minister Howard Green said officials of his department already have in mind a study of the technical aspects and cost of such a system.

Conservative Jean-Jacques Balcer said the Commons internal economy committee has made use of members from all parties in the Commons, has the question under consideration.

There were a few downright dissenters.

Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East), among others, said a system of simultaneous translation would reduce the incentive of members to learn each other's language and speak a second language, whether French or English.

Woman 'Thrilled', Sold Book Valued at $400,000 for $20

VICTORIA (CP)—How does it feel to sell an old sketch book for $20 and then learn it is worth $400,000?

"I'm just thrilled to death," says Mrs. Jessie Mitchell.

She owned the sketchbook which sold at an auction three years ago for $20. Victoria rare collector J. P. Klaverweyden, who bought the book recently, had the sketches judged by experts as genuine Goyas and worth about $400,000.

Mrs. Mitchell, great grandaughter of Spanish painter Francisco Goya, said she found the sketchbook in a trunk in the attic of her home filled with little insects and I nearly threw it away but finally I killed off the insects by spraying and brought it back with me to Victoria. Then the following year."

Records show the book was put up for auction Feb. 26, 1955. The company's books verifying the sale also carry the notations: "Possibly 19th century? Spanish?"

"I thought it might be worth something . . . it was so old," Mrs. Mitchell said.

Doctors Will Make 'Further Evaluation' Of Eisenhower's Illness, First Called 'Chill'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today President Eisenhower is "progressing satisfactorily" but that doctors are making "a further evaluation of his illness."

Associate White House press secretary Anne Wheaton said at 10:22 a.m. a report of the doctors' findings would be made "as soon as possible" meaning later today.

Eisenhower suffered what the White House described as a "chill" Monday shortly after he returned from the airport where he welcomed King Mohammed V of Morocco.

The latest White House announcement raised the question whether the illness might be more serious than originally thought.

Asked if indications were that the president's condition might be more serious than originally indicated, Mrs. Wheaton declined any comment.

The latest statement followed an earlier announcement, at 8:55 a.m., that the president "is progressing very well."

Eisenhower suffered a heart attack in 1955 and last year underwent an operation for ileitis.

Mrs. Wheaton declined to say whether any doctors besides the two who ordinarily attend the president have been called in. Eisenhower's doctors are Maj.-Gen. Howard M. Snyder and Lt.-Col. Walter Tkach.

Mrs. Wheaton said no thought was being given to the president's delivering from the White House the speech on international co-operation which he originally planned to deliver at Cleveland tonight.

The speech was cancelled Monday night after the president became ill, along with all of today's appointments.

The ailment forced Eisenhower to cancel his plans to attend Monday night's dinner for King Mohammed V, and a conference with the king today. State Secretary Dulles sat in for him at the latter session.

While the dinner was going on, acting press secretary Anne Wheaton said, a press conference the president had—no fever—then or earlier, but his pulse rate, blood pressure and respiration were normal and that he was sleeping "quietly and comfortably" under what she termed mild sedation.

Truckers' Spokesman Asks Stricter Traffic Enforcements

TORONTO (CP)—The spokesman for Canada's trucking industry has called for stricter enforcement of traffic laws.

President Curtis Bonnyman of the Canadian Trucking Association told the National Truck Roadeo luncheon Monday that policing is needed to reduce traffic deaths even more than driver education.

He asked everyone to support National Safe Driving Week, Dec. 1-7. Ontario's safety commissioner, W. B. Reynolds, also called for public support of the campaign.

At the annual convention of Ontario Automotive Transport Association of Ontario, held at the same time as the roadeo, Highways Minister Allan described as "unprecedented" a $2,000,000,000 highway programs planned to take care of the province's road needs for 20 years.

All cities with a population of 4,000 or more would be served by 4,999 miles of trunk line highways. Some would be four-lane highways, others would be two-lane roads.

This, along with the trunk line highways, would provide a complete network of highways interconnecting all important regions and urban centres throughout the province."

He said this highway program is geared to serve all important traffic volumes and all towns with a population of 4,000 or more.

We must build the most modern multi-lane, controlled-access highways which will bypass our urban centres and provide nonstop through traffic with the safest, quickest and most economic route possible."

John Magee of Ottawa, executive secretary of the Canadian Trucking Association, warned railroad monopolies on freight handling could wipe out low transport costs."

Mr. Magee said "highway transport has proved, in the West and in the Maritimes to be the sole form of competitive relief from the railroad overland transport monopoly."

Father and Son Drivers of Cars As Three Killed

GUELPH (CP)—Three members of one family lost their lives and another was critically injured in an unusual car accident Monday.

Dead are John Hauser, Sr., 70, well - known Wellington County farmer, his brother Frank Hauser, 83, and his grandson, Paul Hauser, 3. John Hauser, Sr., was alone in one of the cars when his vehicle and one driven by his son collided on the brow of a hill.

The son, John Hauser, Jr., is in St. Joseph's hospital here in critical condition. Two others of his children, Mark, 4, and Catherine, 2½, were unhurt in the accident on Speedside Road, just west of the Guelph city limits.

The cars were almost demolished.

Commonwealth Party Starts Antarctic Jaunt

LONDON (Reuters)—Two terse messages from the Antarctic today signalled the start of a Commonwealth bid to make the first land crossing of the world's last unexplored continent.

Dr. Vivian Fuchs, leader of the attempt to travel the 2,100 miles around "the bottom of the world" cabled the long headquarters of the Commonwealth trans - Antarctic expedition:

"Have received message a few hours ago from Shackleton party departed in grand style . . . three Snowcats, two Weasels, one Muskeg (snow vehicles) pulling 29 tons."

Setting out from Shackleton base on the Vahsel Bay of Weddell Sea, the Commonwealth group is due to travel across the Pole to Scott base, via the South Pole by February.

Charges Police Broke Into Home Terrified Wife

TORONTO (CP) — Police said today two plainclothes officers who broke into a downtown house Monday without a search warrant will apologize to the tenant.

Lorne McLarty complained to police that his pregnant wife was so upset by the intrusion that she had to be given pills by a doctor to quiet her nerves.

Police said officers Cyril Cooper and Frank Barletta burst into the McLarty's home looking for a suspect in the $1,800 robbery of an Etobicoke man.

One report said a lock on the door was broken in the incident but Cooper denied at 3:45 a.m. The McLarty's said they were roused from sleep.

McLarty said he asked the officers if they had a warrant and that they replied, a warrant was not needed.

McLarty said he was told it was none of "his business" when he asked what the trouble was.

The officers were led to the McLarty residence by the address of a man who owned a car believed used in the robbery. Police said the man, subsequently released, was not the McLarty house.

In the Etobicoke robbery, salesman Alexander Kelly said five masked men attacked him as he put his car in his garage.

U.S. Willing to Listen to Advice, Dividend for West From Sputnik

LONDON (Reuters) — A major result of Soviet Sputnik successes and Communist advances in the underdeveloped world is that the United States now is "willing to listen to advice," The Times says today.

The Times, an independent newspaper publishes a long editorial beginning up the effect on the United States of Russia's scientific triumphs, the "shattering" effect of Communist successes in the Middle East and the "holocaust" of the last congressional session.

"The Russian successes have set free that gift of self-criticism which is a saving American quality.

"A whole range of values—from the worship of material values and applied science to the almost sacred American school system—have for the first time been brought into question."

The U.S. administration was "left groping" in its first reaction to the satellite challenge. Treating the Sputnik as a scientific toy was "a grave misjudgment" and is now "shattered by the challenge."

The Times adds that President Eisenhower's prestige "has been eaten away by evidence that Americans themselves, after their long love-feast, are becoming disillusioned and dissatisfied with a leader who too often seems deliberately trying to catch up with the march of events, whether they be those at Little Rock or in outer space."

Provincial Govts. Wind Up Case For Fatter Tax Share

Diefenbaker Not Divulging How Far Govt. Will Go

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker has postponed making any solid federal offer of a new tax-sharing deal for the provinces but promised, in the interim, greater aid from Ottawa on hospital insurance and unemployment relief.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he sees "no serious obstacle" to federal sharing of all provincial relief costs instead of, as now, sharing only where a specific unemployment exceeds .45 per cent of population.

He also announced that legislative action will start this week in the Commons to put more money to the $150,000,000 advanced by the federal treasury in late summer to provide more loans for construction of lower-cost houses. Much of this has already been loaned.

Published reports said $200,000,000 or more in extra lending money would be provided. However, on this government source said this was "guessing."

At least two of his proposals, dropped in the laps of federal-provincial conference Monday for study, could affect the amount they will receive under any new tax-sharing deal.

Three others apparently could be financed entirely by the federal government on its own.

HOSPITAL DATE

Perhaps the most important offer was the Prime Minister's statement that — unless there were "strong" provincial objection—his government was ready to set "an earlier and more definite date" for the start of federal hospital insurance payments to provinces.

This would involve setting aside the present prerequisite that six provinces, with 50 per cent of the population, must have hospital insurance plans in force.

Both Premiers Douglas and Bennett indicated approval for such a move. Premier Frost of Saskatchewan and B.C. have hospital plans in effect which could be brought under federal cost contributions.

Mr. Diefenbaker also indicated he is prepared to extend federal sharing payments to TB and mental hospital patients now excluded from the federal plan. But he qualified that the $68,000,000 cost of going so would be counted in the total amount of aid his government will extend to the provinces.

Fractures Skull

TORONTO (CP)—Eileen Halcrow, 4, suffered a fractured skull when she was thrown from a car in collision with a streetcar.

Police said the impact spun the car around twice and threw the girl from the passenger side door. Another vehicle struck the woman, police said. Her condition was described as skull fracture when she hit the pavement.

HORSES FED TOO MUCH HAY

The youthful love for feeding animals is having an ill effect on milk delivery horses at Reid's Dairy in Belleville.

Some time during the weekend children were in the horse stables at the dairy and apparently kept the manger so full of hay that the animals could not eat.

The result yesterday was that a couple of the dairy delivery horses were down with the colic.

India Tenth Among Leading Industrial Nations of World 'Y' Speaker Tells Rotarians

A contest between democratic and communist governments is being staged today in Asia to show the world which has the most effective method of solving the age-old Asian problem of ignorance, poverty and disease.

The combatants are two of the world's most densely populated countries, India and China, and the results of this contest are as vitally important to the people of Belleville as to everyone else in the world, Edmund S. Wybourn, YMCA World Service secretary recently returned from India and Ceylon, told members of Belleville Rotary club at their regular meeting Monday.

Mr. Wybourn, on a cross-country tour of YMCA associations urged local Rotarian and YMCA members to continue supporting organizations such as their own fostering international brotherhood as a means of aiding the promotion of democracy in these countries.

Vancouver-born Mr. Wybourn has spent six years, three and one-half years as regional secretary for India, and one-half year as program director) with the Council of YMCA for India and Ceylon. In 1951, he was made American World Service secretary for 30 countries where he is to train local YMCA leaders in the countries to which they are invited to help and run their own YMCA organizations. Active in YMCA work for 12 years, Mr. Wybourn was appointed to the International Committee of YMCA in 1951, a post he still occupies, which loaned him to the Indian and Ceylon Council.

The speaker has led an active and varied life — as a London "bobby" — a miner in the Yukon, and a meteorologist with the Dominion Government and University of British Columbia and holds an MA degree in religious education from Columbia University.

STATISTICS GIVEN

Mr. Wybourn disclosed some vital statistics on the second most populated country in the world — India. The seventh largest in area, India supports a population of over four hundred million (20 times the population of Canada).

Indian babies today have an average life expectancy of 32 years and one in five babies born die before they have reached their first birthday, he said.

India possesses a comparatively young population, with 75 per cent under the age of 35. Only 16 per cent of this population is literate.

The vast majority of Indians (83 per cent) live in villages, and 90 per cent speak at least one of 14 major languages, although there are 845 different languages and dialects spoken in India.

Hinduism is the most popular religion, claiming 85 per cent of the population, while two per cent (around eight million) are Christian, and the remaining 10 per cent, Mohammadan.

Disease takes a heavy toll in India — around 500,000 die yearly from tuberculosis and one hundred million are incapacitated from malaria. "Although the entire population could be inoculated against these diseases, the cost of this program would be enormous," he said.

"For example, if everyone were inoculated against cholera, it would cost the government around $303,000,000 since two shots per person would be necessary and each would cost around $1," he explained.

Although Indians know the value of an education, only 25 per cent of the population are able to read because there are not enough teachers and schools, Mr. Wybourn said.

"A study made of Calcutta by the University of Calcutta, showed 66 per cent of the population are living on an income of less than $20 a month, while 34 per cent are living on less than $6 a month," he said. "Sixty per cent have houses with no kitchens and 50 per cent have no bathrooms in the houses."

WILL FORM OWN STATE

"These are people, not exercises in mathematics," he emphasized.

"Yet with none of the so-called tools of power they were able to free themselves from British colonial rule, and are well on the way to establishing a social welfare state," he said.

"They are people with potentialities" and within the past 10 years have used "herculean efforts" in bringing about a start toward their objective of a socialized state.

India now ranks among the ten leading industrial nations of the world.

A social and economic revolution is taking place but it is too early for the results to be known, he said. The government is increasingly aiding villages in running their own financial programs. Laws have been passed making it illegal to discriminate against those of other casts (although cast barriers still exist in the Indian mind), and women have been given virtual legal equality.

Mr. Wybourn stated India was "economically sick" when he had at the helm a prime minister who retained one hundred per cent political control and who was a self-confessed agnostic.

"Because he was an agnostic, he was free from the inhibitions (elements rooted in Hindu religion and faith," he explained. "He therefore, pursued a progressive liberal policy in public issues."

LOOKS TOWARD WEST

In foreign relations India is looking toward the west but will not voluntarily join either "the east or west, the speaker said. Community or voluntary leadership groups, such as Rotary and Y.M.C.A., working with the Asian governments can be effective in promoting better relations between these countries and the West.

Local Rotary and 'Y' members can do their part by continuing to support their organizations and others promoting international brotherhood. The brotherhood of man is no longer just an ideal — it is a practical fact," Mr. Wybourn concluded.

The speaker was introduced by YMCA president Di Diamandis and thanked by Rotarian Don Cox.

Prior to Mr. Wybourn's address president Joe Demeza expressed the club's sadness at learning of the death last week of charter member Mackenzie Robertson, whose illness was announced at last Monday's meeting. President Demeza thanked the Rotarians for the large turnout at the funeral.

One minute's silence in memory of the late Mr. Robertson was observed.

Mrs. Pearl Oliver, Madoc, Killed; Car Rolls Over

Mrs. Pearl Oliver, 49, of Madoc, was fatally injured and six other persons were injured when shortly before midnight last night their car left the highway east of Belleville, plowed through a ditch and rolled over.

In Belleville General Hospital suffering from injuries are Clarence Tobin, 44, of Madoc, owner of the car and Betty Chalmers, 26, of Yarker, believed to have been the driver.

A fourth occupant of the car, Albert Moore, 41, of Madoc, escaped with a shaking up.

Provincial police said the east bound car left the highway on a curve near the intersection of the Point Anne lane and plowed through the ditch before overturning.

Mrs. Oliver and Mr. Tobin were pinned beneath the car, while the other two occupants were free of the vehicle when police arrived. The injured were taken to Belleville General Hospital by Bush's ambulance.

Coroner Dr. J. S. Stock went to the scene. The accident was investigated by Provincial Police-Constable E. Graves, assisted by Constables Kenneth Williamson and Ivan Tinkess.

Police Blotter

The smash and grab theft of a quantity of cigars in the Lake Bunnett grocery store on Byron street in Hillcrest, was reported to provincial police by Mrs. Ella Hall.

Officers said the party responsible had apparently smashed the window then reached in and took the cigars.

Glass breaking also extended to two public schools and a green house over the weekend.

Yesterday principals at the public Charles Sinclair and the Queen Mary School reported windows in the schools broken, while a Station street resident complained of windows broken in his green house. In all three accidental incidents, boys throwing coal were believed responsible as broken pieces of coal were found inside the greenhouse.

Another hour later, Emil Urynick, a teacher at Kenora-Keewatin High School, walked out of the bush by following his own tracks.

U.S. Scientists Hope to Launch Satellite Dec. 4

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists hope to launch the first United States satellite in a week from Wednesday—just two months another Russia's pioneer Sputnik was fired into distant space.

A source high in the Vanguard satellite project said Wednesday Dec. 4 has been picked for the attempt to send aloft a six-pound sphere six inches in diameter.

The attempt, he said, will be made about dawn at the U.S. missile test center at Cape Canaveral, Fla. If conditions are not right at that time, the source said, another effort will be made perhaps two days later.

FOLLOWING SET PLAN

Such a test firing Dec. 4 would be in line with plans previously announced. Those plans call for a series of unsuccessful rocket spheres in December, with a fully instrumented 21-pound satellite to be fired into orbit in March. There has been some talk of a January launching of the fully-developed satellite if the test succeeds.

Russia's first Sputnik, launched Oct. 4, was described as a 184-pound sphere about 22 inches in diameter. The Russians have said their second satellite, fired into the skies Nov. 3 with a dog aboard, weighs about half a ton.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market moved down today in light morning trading.

Prices in all sections were generally easier and the indices recorded moderate declines. There were not as many active issues priced mines today.

Ford A led industrial index stocks lower with a 1¼-point decline to 77. Losses held a wide edge over gains, which ranged to a point.

Senior base metals were generally lower in narrow fractional range. International Nickel, however, gained ¼ points at 72¼. Thompson-Lundmark, a feature of the mining list last week when it gained nearly 20 cents, was hit by profit-taking and lost 18 cents at 95 cents.

Western oils had a few 20-25 cent gains among slightly-traded stocks but the general trend was to the downside.

Hunters' Faces Getting Redder Every Day

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)— Hunters are maintaining an embarrassed silence about the deer in the Rock Creek area they can't kill. The big buck has had its horns and hide tanned and during a day as many as 100 bullets have been pumped into it.

Some hunters fire from beside their cars. Others crawl on their stomachs to within a few yards of the deer before shooting. Invariably they leave quietly and crestfallen.

The deer is stuffed and mounted. Its practical-joker owner repairs it each day as it stands near the highway.

TRENTON NEWS

Ratepayers Hear Candidates For Offices Give Views

TRENTON — Nearly 100 ratepayers turned out to a meeting in the Memorial Gardens' auditorium Monday night to hear candidates for town offices pledge to do their best if elected to the respective posts.

O. W. Larry, town clerk, introduced the speakers in turn after explaining the purpose of the annual meeting. This, he said, was to give the town citizens a chance to hear the platforms of the various candidates. He also told the meeting that questions from the audience would be entertained.

(There were, however, no questions asked by those in attendance.)

Mayor Ross Burt, who has been acclaimed for another term, thanked the councillors, secondary and citizens of the town for giving him another year as mayor. He also thanked the councillors for their co-operation in the past years.

He said this term would give him five years as head of the town government, and during those years he has helped to handle millions of dollars of the town's money with very little criticism.

He mentioned briefly the recent criticism which had appeared in a local paper concerning the way the council has been operated.

Following a brief review of the past year Mayor Burtt praised the work of the various town committees and boards for their excellent work in the past.

Councillor Brown, chairman of the finance committee, warned that Trenton is no different from other fast growing towns and with this will come expansion of public services. He gave an account of what had been done during the year and urged the new council to make every effort to obtain more aid from the province.

NOT RUNNING AGAIN

Mr. Brown will not be seeking re-election as councillor in the new council.

Councillor C. V. Graham, who has held a seat on the council table for the past 10 years and is considered the dean of the town council, said he has seen many changes in the past year with both the fire department and public department growing steadily.

He praised the work of both these departments, saying they both have very good records. He stated that during the past year fire losses in the town were very low and this he felt was chiefly attributed to the efficient work of the local fire-men.

Councillor C. H. Hilton, chairman of the Sanitation and Waste Committee, reviewed the work of this department during the past year and said getting sewage and water facilities for the unserviced area of the town has been his chief aim. He praised the co-operation he had received in this, although some snags had been hit in various cases.

Councillor Vagn Lange, chairman of the Public Works committee, and Councillor James MacDonald, chairman of the Recreation and Community services, also reviewed the work of their groups over the past years and tendered recommendations for the coming term.

Councillor Hubert Strong was not present due to ill health and the mayor informed the meeting it was because of this Mr. Strong was not seeking re-election to the next council.

Candidates who qualified to run for councillors, Ray Fox, Lloyd Worrall and Charles Sills, also spoke briefly and pledged to do their utmost for the town if elected on election day.

Ex-councillor Joseph Gould, who will seek another term on the council, was not present at the meeting.

The water shortage here last summer and its remedy for future years was the main platform of the three townsmen seeking election for the one post vacant on the Public Utilities Commission.

They spoke at the annual ratepayers meeting held in the auditorium at the Community Gardens last night.

C. A. Baker, chairman of the board, reviewed the work of the commission over the past two years and gave taxpayers the why of the water shortage during the past summer.

He said it came about by the increase in consumption at a time when one of the longest and driest summers had hit.

He said he and the board did not feel the piping of water from Lake Ontario was the answer. To do this it would cost about $3,000,000. A filter plant would have to be set up to clear the water before it could be piped into the town mains.

But the possibilities of sinking wells was believed a better and cheaper method of increasing the town supply. If this were done, he said, good clean spring water could be pumped into the town's water line without the costly filter plant being used.

The three candidates for the post, A. McNeill and Ernest Sheirin, spoke briefly stating they would do their utmost for the town and would do all they could to rid the citizens of any water shortage in the future.

BOARD CHAIRMAN HEARD

"All the schools in town are in excellent condition," Ralph Weaver, retiring chairman of the Board of Education, told the annual meeting of the town ratepayers.

Although Mr. Weaver is not seeking re-election to the board, he was on hand to give the annual report of the group.

He said school spending last year went higher than the money budgeted for this purpose, but this he contributed to the expanding of the high school, the increase in teachers' salary and the new kindergartens.

He also told the ratepayers more new classrooms will have to be built to handle the increased enrollment in town schools at the beginning of the 1958 term.

Candidates to speak at the meeting were F. Aziz, Colin Crews, Frank A. Filion and Edward Keeping. E. C. Fetherstonhaugh, who is also running for a post, was not present at the meeting.

The candidates all pledged to do their best in services to the town in seeking a better education for the youngsters without adding to the cost to their parents.

There are four posts to fill on the Board of Education.

Reserve Lake Land For Nature Study

TWEED — In keeping with the policy of preserving wildlife habitat for nature study groups operating out of various boys' and girls' camps, the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests has withdrawn from disposition a 400-foot strip of land surrounding two lakes in Hastings-Prince Edward County. They are are Kishkebus (Dyer) Lake and Shabomeka (Little Buck) Lake.

The abundance of wildlife near these lakes, particularly the heron rookery on Kishkebus Lake, attracts many nature study groups and also provides naturalist camping sites for canoe trips. Therefore, the Crown will not accept any applications for any Crown shoreline on either lake.

Two Break-Ins Reported But Loss Negligible

TRENTON—A thief or thieves got nothing for their work Sunday when they tried to break into two safes in separate businesses here.

The first robbery attempt was reported to police about 11.15 a.m. when the stock parts manager of Weaver Motors found the safe in his office with an entering the office during the morning.

Investigation of the attempted robbery disclosed the thieves or thief had probably gained entrance to the building by using a bar and prying a small door near the large service entrance. The glass in the hallway door was also broken out.

The dial of the safe had been knocked off but the huge door was not opened.

The second break was reported about 1.30 Sunday afternoon when Carl Weese of Weese Motors on Front Street, told police of damage to the safe in the office of the firm.

Entrance to the building was believed to have been gained through a small window, which showed signs of being forced open. The fasteners securing the window had been broken off.

The lock on the safe had been left open as no money had been kept in the safe over the weekend. However, a small cabinet door inside the safe had been pried open as were two drawers.

No money was reported missing in either of the breaks. Both were believed to have been done by amateurs.

The breaks are being investigated by Inspector R. J. Rutherford of the Trenton Police Force.

Not Missiles But Scientists Seen Key to Real Security

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Lyndon B. Johnson (Dem., Tex.) said today Russia's lead in missile production is "only a symbol of an even greater danger" that the United States may fall behind in weapons of the future.

The Senate Democratic leader spoke out in an interview as the Senate preparedness subcommittee he heads called Dr. John P. Hagen to testify in its inquiry into the satellite and missile program. Hagen is head of project Vanguard, the U.S. satellite program.

Johnson said he is convinced it is possible that by the time the intercontinental ballistic missile is fully developed "it will be fully obsolete."

"We must, of course, catch up with Russia in missile development," he said.

"But catching up in this field alone is not enough to safeguard our security. We must raise our level of technology to the point where we are not only ready to meet the Soviets on any ground that they choose.

"There is no security in any field of science for the defense. The real security lies in a highly trained corps of engineers and scientists capable of meeting any threats."

Three prominent scientists told the subcommittee Monday the United States is lagging far behind Russia in the training of scientists and technological experts. The three, Dr. Edward Teller, Dr. Vannevar Bush and Dr. John Chapman, agreed that it is necessary for the United States to try to speed up its missile production.

After hearing their testimony, Senator Leverett Saltonstall (Rep., Mass.) said he felt the American missile and satellite programs ought to be placed on an overtime basis "where that is at all practical."

Agreeing, Senator John Stennis (Dem., Miss.) said Congress might as well face the fact that the U.S. program is more considerably more money than now is being spent on defence.

Gordon Aiken (PC — Parry Sound - Muskoka) said he has started taking lessons in conversational French with the hope of speaking in French in a year or so. Simultaneous translation would take away the need for members to learn a second language.

ARGUMENT NOT VALID

Lester B. Pearson (L—Algoma East) said the argument that simultaneous translation likely would discourage English-speaking members from speaking French is not valid because those who really wanted to learn it probably would.

As an aid, they would be able to listen to French translation of English speeches — which he added, tongue-in-cheek, might be an advantage in some cases.

By the regular 10 p.m. EST adjournment more than 40 speakers had taken part. But no vote was taken. Unless the government should bring the matter up before the sessions ends, it probably will not come up again.

THE SOFT SELL

Recently there has been a subtle change in selling methods in some businesses on this continent. The technique of the "soft sell" has been winning more adherents and high-pressure salesmen are no longer the type sought by all business houses.

Television probably has played a major role in this swing to the "soft sell." Advertising experts began to suspect that the viewing public was becoming immune to the barrage of orders to rush to this or that store "right away" and buy, buy, buy. So they tried a more gentle approach.

It may be, though, that this discovery by Madison Avenue of the power of the "soft sell" is only another instance of the adoption on this continent of a technique already well known abroad.

Last week, as a group of Canadian newspapermen were visiting the plant of the Vickers-Armstrong Aircraft Limited at Weybridge, Surrey, the managing director of that company was explaining to them the advantages of the forty turbo-prop Vanguards, which Trans-Canada Air Lines has ordered and which will go into operation in 1961. The cosy theory that the future belongs to jet aircraft is, in the opinion of Sir George Edwards, "a lot of bunk." For short-range economy, up to 500 miles, turbo-prop planes will come into their own, he said. He then explained why he believed that BOAC had chosen his firm to supply the planes it would use on its domestic routes, carrying the bulk of the airline's traffic.

I think BOAC is used to our products and knew the worst," he suggested.

The soft sell.

A moment later he revealed one of his company's planes will be 10 per cent more efficient than anticipated.

That's because the engine (made by Rolls-Royce) is better; we don't take any credit for that at all."

After those two examples of modesty, Sir George could have told his audience that the Vanguard would be able to fly to the moon and back on one engine and they would have believed him.

Well, almost.

They were sold.

TIME FOR DEEP THINKING

For the past ten or twelve years the human race had heard warnings to strengthen its faith or chance losing all in a war to end all wars. A strange thing about these warnings is that although most come from theologians, many came from scientists — some men who feared be classed as unbelievers.

Since that fateful day in 1945 when an American bomber unloaded the world's first atomic bomb on Hiroshima, people of the world have been shocked into serious consideration of their obligations to God. Prior to the unleashing of explosion the world-at-large had been listening, rather half-heartedly to be sure, as clergymen pleaded with them to draw closer to God.

And now with the launchings of earth satellites and the knowledge that other countries have guided missiles capable of demolishing large cities, man is gradually re-occupying his per pective. It seems a pity, though, that it has taken the atomic and hydrogen bombs to shepherd people back to church especially when God has given us so many things for which to be thankful. We do not imply that churches are neglected or that the majority of people regularly attending church now has increased since the Atomic Age made its introduction to the Japanese.

Shortly after the dropping of the A-bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki, scientists, directly or indirectly, began telling people to start taking stock of themselves. Although many scientists do not see eye-to-eye with theologians, they still believe there is a divine power that is capable of shaping destiny and allowing science to discover new things occasionally.

In the scientist and theologian we have two types of professional men who, although they may not agree with each others' theories about the Creator, both realize an imperative need for man to analyze himself."

Never before in the history of the world has humanity been faced with so many complex and terrible things. And, on the other hand, never has man reached such dizzying heights of achievement for the betterment of his fellows.

In the last twelve years the world has reached the Atomic and Hydrogen Ages, and now it is passing into the Space Age. This is, indeed, amazing and it gives one cause to do some serious thinking. The next age could very well be a repeat performance of the Neanderthal era, if man does not quit his talk of war.

ADVICE

If you would live in gentle peace
In home and love your wife,
If you would like to get along
Without domestic strife,
If you would dodge the many ills
That along life's double track,
Just let your wife say all she wants—
But don't talk back.

If you believe divorce is wrong
And would have none of it,
When wife expressed her beliefs,
'tis better to submit.

Should you declare the food is burned and show her glances black,
She'll want to argue it's not
—o—
But don't talk back.

The sea of matrimony is not hard to navigate;
Just train yourself to hold your tongue if wifey should berate.
You'll live in calm and peaceful life and safe from all attack.
Divorce will never get you, if—
You don't talk back.

Pictures of the Moon

By Lucien Neret in UNESCO Features

Not long ago, news agencies announced that the Soviet scientist Nicolai Kuprevich had obtained a televised picture of the moon. Stated in this way, the news appeared fantastic or, to say the least, very confusing. Could it mean that a TV camera had been landed on the moon, that pictures and transmitted them back to earth where they were picked up by receiving sets? Nothing of the sort. The viewer, of course, is no — at any rate, not yet! But Professor Kuprevich's experiment is well worth describing.

He told us about it in his laboratory at Pulkovo Observatory near Leningrad, where he was busy putting the finishing touches to a new TV receiver.

"It happened this way," he said. "One day in 1952, I was reading an American magazine when my colleague sitting next to me side by side on the page, suddenly caught sight of a printed picture of the same young woman. But whereas one was an ordinary photograph, the other had been taken by photographing the reproduction of the original picture with a camera onto a TV receiver screen. Yet, there was no difference between the picture taken by the television process was much more lumin ous and clear than the ordinary photograph.

"This gave me the idea of applying the process to astronomical photography. For some time past I had been grumbling bitterly about the difficulties we were having in obtaining decent photographs of the moon. The biggest photographs we had — obtained with powerful scientific telescope — were never more than 12 centimetres (about 4 to the inch) in diameter. And even then, the enlargement had been obtained at the expense of definition, or precision in detail. You see, to accentuate the contrast between light and shade you have to increase exposure times; but this is often impossible due to atmospheric disturbances. The same thing would happen if you tried to photograph a tree on a very windy day: if the exposure time is long, the leaves of the tree will be invisible."

Nicolai Kuprevich was certain that television provided the right answer to his problem. But between his discovery of the two pictures in the American magazine and ultimate success lay years of research and experimentation.

A special camera had to be fitted to the eye-piece of a telescope, an iconoscope had to be built, then an amplification chain and, finally, a special receiver. But in January 1956 the apparatus was ready and the first pictures were taken with a small lens.

Today, a large telescope originally built for solar observations, has been fitted out for this work and the Russian scientists have been able to obtain photographs (equivalent to a negative nearly five feet) in diameter of the illuminated portion of the moon, in which such details as craters, etc., stand out very distinctly.

Alongside these pictures in Professor Kuprevich's laboratory story was another set which seemed out of focus: "An unsuccessful experiment," commented wryly, "I tried to photograph the moon enlarged to a diameter of 5 metres (16 feet) with not very satisfactory results, as you can see. I shall have to change the illumination procedure, and that's very difficult."

Is Professor Kuprevich's method likely to influence future astronomical observations? Not for the present, yet. But applied to lunar observations it should certainly provide important data for the moon's physical characteristics.

For the present time, many astronomers confess sad gaps in their knowledge with regard to the moon's orbit. A few years ago, sensational articles appeared in the press spoke of large constructions which were said to have been observed on the face of the moon.

The facts are as follows: In 1954, two British astronomers H. P. Wilkins and Patrick Moore perceived what they took to be a gigantic bridge spanning the Mare Crisium. Speaking on the BBC Wilkins reported that its total length was about 18 miles: that it stood at least 200 feet above the moon's surface on which it cast a shadow; and that it narrowed towards the centre, its width varying from about 1 to 2 miles.

Other observers have reported seeing lights in different parts of the moon. This fact is mentioned in the report of the Royal Astronomical Society of Great Britain which organized permanent observations of the Mare Crisium over a three-year period.

* * *

As far back as 1826, the astronomer Gruithiser reported alignments of lights on the moon. These were so regular that he thought they might even be the streets of a town illuminated at night. But modern astronomy rejects this as pure fantasy. Speaking of the alignments, the famous British astronomer, Ferd Hoyle, said that the brilliant streaks were probably lets of molten matter that had fused, projected, on the same explosions which produced the neighbouring craters.

But the real object of such observations is not the "canals and lenties" or alleged moon-dwellers. The moon is a dead planet, with no water, atmosphere or vegetation; and it is being constantly bombarded by meteorites and by ultra-violet rays. What astronomers are interested in today is the moon's geological characteristics some of which are undoubtedly similar to those of the earth. So similar in fact that some astronomers have put forward the theory that the moon broke away from the earth. Osmond Pitcher and later George Gamow have both said that the earth still bears the scar of this separation under the waters of the Pacific Ocean. But most scientists nowadays reject this hypothesis for it does not seem easy to understand. For example, Alexandre Dauvillier, professor at the Sorbonne in France, commented: "The volume of the (Pacific) Basin is three times smaller than that of the moon, and the separation occurred at a period when the moon was completely molten could not have left a scar."

Fred Hoyle, for his part, believes that the earth and the moon were formed from one gaseous mass while Vladimir Krat, head of the astrophysics department of Pulkovo Observatory shares a similar view: "The moon", he says, was formed by condensation like the earth, but at approximately the same distance from the sun as our own planet."

Viewed in this light the moon is perhaps not a satellite of the earth, but a "twin sister" planet. And when the era of interplanetary travel arrives, it will become a kind of "suburb of the earth". For the moon's importance for spaceships bound for far distant destinations. The first men to land on the moon will probably find nothing there but silence, dust and desolation, but what their weight reduced to one-sixth of what it is on earth, they will be able to rush around at the speed of an express train. When that time comes, television cameras will surely reveal some strange pictures of the moon.

Romans Once Used Nettles?

BBC London Letter

The poison mechanism of the common nettle is extremely efficient, as many a healthy child knows, who have brushed against it in the summer months. This weed though not very harmful-stings. Speaking about poison-making plants in a recent edition of the BBC program "The Naturalist", Dr. L. Lousley, well-known botanist, explained that some of the cells of the epidermis of the leaves and stem of the plant are long, hollow hairs with a small bulb at the base. These hairs are stiffened with silica, and their walls just below the knob are thin and brittle and break off on the slightest touch. The base of the hair is surrounded by a bulb which holds a store of poison under tension, so that it is ejected when the knob is hit. It is the sharp, hollow sting of the lesser nettle, or black nettle as it is called in some parts of Britain, is more virulent, while the Roman nettle, which is very rare in Britain, is the mildest still.

"There's no pleasant, though hardly creditable, story," said Lousley, "that Roman soldiers imported this nettle in order to give themselves stings as a means of warming up in our chilly climate."

The PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of my friends has the habit of reading all the financial papers he can lay hands on as well as the daily financial pages in the newspaper, though he has only the vaguest knowledge of finance. All he is interested in is one aspect of finance—and finance, dealing, the promotion, or the coming under new ownership of companies, and amalgamations of our enterprise. He has the idea that the present day financial world is a kind of "racket only" and interest is to buy out some thriving industry that has a name and stabilize amongst us consumers and then milk that reputation for millions by reducing the quality of the goods.

You take that stove," he said, pointing to the big old-fashioned range, as we sat enjoying a pot of tea in his kitchen. "That was made by a firm, father and son, that over forty years built up a family

Personal Health Talks

by DR. WM. BRADY

Hold on, There, You'll Queer My Pitch

A reader asks about Varicose Veins and Varicose Ulcer and athlete's foot.

The woman reader added a statement which, I hesitated to print last week, here it is for whatever you may make of it:

I want to tell you how wonderful your calcium and vitamin D is to my family. One of my daughters had giant hives and almost died from shock from eating acid food. Another daughter had eczema. I had sinus trouble because of which I could never have a window open in a car. It started with arthritis. Now we take our daily ration of Ca, and D, 385 days in the year and we are all 100% better. I can't find words to tell you how grateful we are."

All right, all right. Call me a nut about calcium and vitamin D if you want to. All I have to say is that in any case, I have yet to see which the lady and her daughters supplement their diet 385 days in the year can do no harm. If you are sure you know better than to do about that, you don't have to follow my advice — after all, this is a free country.

Giant hives (basement bargain diagnosis of angioneurotic edema), urticaria (another name for giant hives), eczema, chronic joint disability ($50 a month), sinus trouble, headache, adult tetany (nocturnal cramps in legs or arms), real or spurious hay fever, asthma, real or spurious chronic sinusitis, excessive tooth decay, boils, flashes, so-called "growing pains" and osteoporosis (excessive fragility of the bones in elderly persons) are common manifestations of calcium and D deficiency, in my opinion.

The reason why most persons get insufficient calcium from day to day is because they do not consume enough milk, eggs, cheese, yeast, beans, green leafy vegetables, nuts and peanuts These are the richest food sources of edible Ca. Any child or adult who takes less than 1½ pints (three glasses) of whole milk, skim milk or buttermilk daily probably gets insufficient calcium to maintain normal growth, vim and do functional efficiency and prevent manifestations of malnutrition such as mentioned above.

Milk, cream, butter and cheese are the best sources of vitamin D in the ordinary diet. But even an optimum diet provides only hardly enough D to insure normal assimilation and utilization of calcium in the body. Therefore some extra vitamin D must be supplied in one form or another. In the fall of, irradiated foods, synthetic D concentrates or produced in the body by exposure enough of the skin to sunshine or skyshine.

The complications mentioned by the writer are only a few of the complaints which respond to correction of calcium deficiency. So please don't assume that I advise taking calcium in any form or combination with sufficient vitamin D to insure its assimilation and utilization in the body.

Bankruptcy Or Security?

Globe and Mail

In the six and a half years it has been financed on its present basis, Canada's old age pension fund has gone into the red by $374,000,000. The federal government, in addition to its contribution, has had to borrow that much short of paying its way. The fund, in short, is bankrupt — and has been bankrupt every fiscal year, by annual deficits as high as $59,500,000.

When the previous Administration set up the old age pension fund on the present basis, Canada's old age pension fund has gone into the red by $374,000,000. The federal government, in addition to its contribution, has had to borrow that much short of paying its way. The fund, in short, is bankrupt — and has been bankrupt every fiscal year, by annual deficits as high as $59,500,000.

When the previous Administration set up the old age pension on the present basis, the impression was created that the fund would come to be a gift from a generous Government; hence the source was not made readily visible. It came, of course, from the taxpayers. Wherever, and as it is to all intents over seventy, it is partially or wholly taken back in income taxes in a great number of cases. It thus becomes, in fact, not a pension at all but a taxable dividend, paid to its recipients without relation to their contributions.

By comparison with this bogus contribution, a trust fund of $22.5 billion, constantly accumulating, has been built up for the aged in the United States by their own and employers' contributions through the Social Security Act. Each American starts collecting from it, as of right, at sixty-five (women, if they choose, at sixty-two); and $.500,000 are now drawing on it.

It is intrinsically theirs because each month or salary receipt pays 2½ per cent of his income tax, and a like amount is paid by his employer; and self-employed persons pay 3½ per cent—all payments being based on an overage income received over a period of years. The amounts paid out average $76 a month to single men, $128 to couples, $61 to widows.

The U.S. system is not perfect. It needs to be revised from week year; for outgo is currently exceeding collections, and must intensify in the future. There will be called on to bridge the gap temporarily. But this has been foreseen and hither rates, running upward from 2½ per cent in 1949 by five-year increases to 4½ per cent in 1975, are calculated to be ample by 2010.

Thus the Social Security program is projected into the future; at all times the aged are financially secure, and provided for and decided to them by their own contributions, our own aged, on outside and unrelated sources for their support. The U.S. system is built on actuarial principles; ours is built on guesswork.

Every election campaign last spring, Prime Minister Diefenbaker promised to increase pensions, and a study of the U.S. system will lead to the same conclusion to Canadian needs. The first of these promises has been fulfilled. The second may be already in the process, through departmental study. We trust it is, and that the findings will duly be made known. Canada's senior citizens will have no real security until their pensions are put on a sound, contributory, self-supporting basis.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON FORGIVING

I have known many people who seemed to delight in those with whom they had differed in a bitter argument. The person who forgives another takes a seat in the high ground. I am reminded of a statement Stevenson once wrote. He said: "I am one who cannot forgive any mortal thing is a green hand in life."

It was said about President Grover Cleveland that he was loved because of the enemies he made. This is the American who once stated a public office was a sacred trust. Cleveland made enemies because of his integrity we do ought to pay him tribute and honor.

I don't think any of us should have any enemies or harbor bitterness or unkind feelings toward anyone. I believe in forgiving enemies no matter what the charge. We can't hope for happiness so long as we have a grudge toward anyone. Thinking kindly of everyone is the only thing that ought to become a habit.

Two brothers took a trip to Europe together. On the way back they had a quarrel and separated. The brother wrote several me to write something that his brother would see. "I love my brother," he said. I did as he suggested. In a short time he wrote me that all was forgiven. He and his brother were very happy again!

That old saying "To err is human but to forgive is divine" still remains as a great truth worth striving for. We can't expect to be happy if we have made another unhappy.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

HIGH COST OF FAITH

One of the ideas which we need most to put out of our minds is that we can cultivate religious faith and develop moral character entirely apart from sacrifice. There is a type of piety today which is undergirded by the conviction that religion is to be used to relax and all the spiritual graces will steal into our lives while we are thinking upon our minds. There is, of course, a place for mysticism in true religion, and mysticism involves among other things the maintenance of a mental mood which will permit the Spirit of God to speak to the hearts of men—but mysticism is only a small part of religion. Most religion involves real discipline, sacrifice. The cross would not have held the center place it does hold in our faith were it not true that it is the symbol for something very real. The crucifixion of Christ was a great redeeming act, but it was also a great symbol. It sets forth the truth that there can be no spiritual victory without sacrifice, no faith without a cross.

Every now and time you find yourself complaining how hard it is to be religious these days and live righteously, just remind yourself that it was intended to be that way. God has ordained, by the God of love. We were not put into this world to grumble, to be happy but primarily to learn how to grow souls that will grow and glorify God throughout all eternity.

Care, Well Being of Patients Women's Auxiliary Program

"To assist the hospital in every way possible, particularly in furthering the care and well being of the patient" is the worthy objective of the Women's Auxiliary to the Belleville General Hospital.

This Auxiliary is a community organization, one which welcomes as members all women who are aware of the vitally important part the hospital plays in the lives of our citizens; women who wish to contribute to the maintenance of a high standard of care and equipment in this institution. But these members know that more than this, they can bring into what must always be a scientific and somewhat impersonal establishment, the warmth and interest of sympathetic, compassionate human beings.

All money raised by the Auxiliary is spent further this objective. When you patronize their Coffee Shop in the hospital, donate to or purchase goods from their Opportunity Shop, when you buy their enchanting puppets or enjoy a fabulous evening's entertainment at their Fashion Fiesta, you are providing the means to carry out this program of community assistance.

Many important pieces of equipment have been donated to our hospital by its Auxiliary. The impressive sum of $10,000 was contributed to the Building Fund. A hospital room was furnished in honor of Mrs. W. C. Mikel. A Coffee Shop was established in the hospital and is now being operated for the convenience of visitors and staff. Donations are made to student nurses, not only in the form of bursaries but also in improvements to their residences. Recreational facilities are promoted and contributions made to their social life. The paediatric ward is catered to through the gift of puppets and treats on special holidays.

A live expression of concern for those of our community who are not only ill but also needy is shown by the special favors donated at Christmas and Easter and the comfort which is maintained for small necessities for these patients.

The goodwill and hard work of the Alpha Lambda Chapter of the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority makes possible the never-failing supply of layettes in the Samaritan Cupboard which is financed by the Auxiliary. These layettes are provided for infants of needy patients.

That the outstanding service given by the Auxiliary to its hospital is appreciated, is attested to by the fact that president of the Auxiliary automatically becomes a member of the Hospital Board of Governors, with full voting powers.

The eagerly anticipated Fashion Fiesta, which is being presented at the Collegiate on Wednesday evening, November 27th, is an annual fund raising project of the Auxiliary. To add to the attractiveness of this year's program, Miss Leona Riggs will be heard in three different numbers during the course of the evening.

Puppets, enchanting Christmas gifts for the junior members of the family, will be on sale. Nine door prizes will be given away, any one of which is worth many times the price of admission. The fabulous $200 wardrobe, purchased by the Auxiliary, will be drawn for. This wardrobe to be chosen by the winner at her convenience. Admission tickets for this event are selling very rapidly. Get yours now and avoid disappointment.

B.G.H. Nurses' Alumnae Hold Formal Dance

"Around the World in 80 Days" was the theme of the annual Belleville General Hospital Nurses' Alumnae formal held last Friday night at the Club Commodore.

A large crowd turned out to enjoy the music of the Commodores and to view the numerous paintings and silhouettes depicting the life in many countries around the world.

The tinsel-covered pillars and directional markings added greatly to the theme. Vera Brunner was there in person with only 3692 miles to Siam, while Jayne Mansfield posed in front of the bar, having been around the world in only 28 days.

Members of the reception party were Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Loynes, president of the medical staff, Mr. Kenneth Box, administrator; Miss M. L. Peart, director of nursing; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fiskin, president of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary; Miss Elinor Boyce, president of the Alumnae; Dr. and Mayor J. H. Forrester were also guests at the dance.

SPOT DANCES

Many spot dance prizes were given throughout the evening. The winners were: Miss Betty Peterson, Mr. Jack Lynn; Miss Clara Hull, Mr. Don Davenport; Mrs. Helen Loynes, Mr. Bill Holway; Miss Glenna Vaughan, Mr. Bob Mitchell; Miss Margaret Potter, Mr. Bill Berry; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Buchanan; Miss Glenna Riley and Mr. Arthur Elliott.

The door prize winners were Mr. Gerald Wager and Mr. John Lennox.

The event was directed by Miss Joyce Hoig, social convener, who was assisted by other Alumnae members in organizing the dance and decorating the club.

Wedding

McCREARY — MOSSEY

A lovely double-ring wedding was solemnized on Saturday, November 2nd, at 11.00 a.m. at St. Dennis Roman Catholic Church, St. Catharines, Ontario, when the Reverend J. Caruthers united in marriage Phyllis Therese, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Mossey, of St. Catharines, to John Milton McCreary, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McCreary.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charming in her ballerina-length bridal gown of white nylon and net over white taffeta, fashioned with molded bodice and full skirt. She wore a Juliet cap of beaded satin and fingertip veil of nylon net, and carried her mother's white, satin prayer book crested with red sweetheart roses, and rosebud knotted, cascading white satin streamers.

She was attended by Mrs. Dorothy McCreary, of Port Dalhousie, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, who was attired in Caribbean blue crepe, with white headdress encrusted with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white carnations.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Charles Mossey, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother received wearing royal blue crepe with pink accessories, and corsage of pink carnations, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in beige lace and crepe with brown accessories, and corsage of yellow carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. McCreary are residing at 413 East Bridge Street, Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Glenn Miller are pictured following their recent marriage in the First Presbyterian Church at Fairbanks, Alaska. The bride is the former Marjorie Elizabeth Foster of Belleville.

MILLER — FOSTER

In an afternoon candlelight ceremony in the First Presbyterian Church at Fairbanks, Alaska, a wedding of wide interest was solemnized by the Reverend Victor Alfsen, on October 20, when Marjorie Elizabeth Foster, of Fairbanks, formerly of Belleville, became the bride of Richard Glenn Miller, of Seattle, Washington. Pastel-tinted gladioli and ferns graced the chancel rail.

The wedding music was provided by Mrs. Victor Alfsen, who accompanied the soloist, Mr. Tom Roberts in his rendition of "Because."

The bride was attractively gowned in pale pink lace over pink taffeta in waltz-length featuring a fitted bodice with empire waistline and round neckline. The slightly puff sleeves were in elbow length, accentuated by matching wrist-length gloves. She wore a matching Juliet cap encrusted with white sequins and carried a white Bible crested with orange blossoms and white satin streamers.

Mrs. Ernest Westman of Fairbanks, as matron of honor, was attired in blue taffeta, also in waltz-length, with matching headdress, and carrying pale pink baby 'mums.

Mr. Dean Ayers, of Fairbanks attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Henry Banks of Fairbanks, was candlelighter and ushered

China Making Outlined to Women's Club

Prince Edward – Belleville Club held the November meeting at the YMCA with the president, Mrs. Wannamaker, presiding, and welcoming the guests.

Mrs. Parliament read the minutes and gave the treasurer's report.

During the business period, Mrs. F. Lent conducted the election of officers for 1958. The list is still incomplete and will be published later.

A most interesting program was convened by Mrs. Bedell's group, with Mrs. L. Sharpe presiding.

Mrs. Lee's recitation brought thoughts on Remembrance Day.

Two lovely solos were rendered by Mrs. Dow with Mrs. Wensley as pianist. The club is most grateful to Mr. Blackburn of Stroud's Gift Shop, Belleville, who so kindly gave an address on the making and history of rare and beautiful china, showing pictures of English manufacturing of Spode and bone china from the raw material to the finished article, the hand painting and finest color blending.

The slides showing the beautiful characteristic figurines and collections were also most interesting.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Sharpe, who also thanked all those assisting.

Refreshments were served by the group, Mesdames Bedell, Sharpe, Calnan, Wensley, Osborne, Graham, Mastin, Stewart, Bellamy and Trumpour.

It was the birthday of Mrs. Bellamy, and the group presented her with a large vase of flowers, while all sang "Happy Birthday To You."

'Psychology Mainly Interested In Personality' Says Speaker

By LENA U. BRADSHAW

The last regular night of So-Ed took place on November 20. A group from the Peterborough So-Ed club was present.

The interest activities came to a close, as follows: The dancing class, under Barbara Dimont, continued with five and reviewed the samba; the photography class was given a talk on black and white films by Don Macdougall of the Belleville Canera Club and the games hour took the form of various card games.

The speaker for the evening was Mrs. Douglas Bateman, who gave a talk on psychology. Mrs. Bateman graduated from the University of Toronto and for the last three years has been working with the Children's Aid Society.

Mrs. Bateman stated that psychology is mainly interested in personality, although there are many other things as well.

"In dealing with psychology the question immediately arises: "What is a normal personality and what is an abnormal personality?" The answer to this is difficult, because the words "normal" and "abnormal" have a different meaning for different people. According to statistics anyone who diverges much from the average is abnormal. An abnormal person also has no goal and tries to shut himself away from reality, whereas a normal person has some socially acceptable goal, finds pursuit of this goal worthwhile and gets pleasure out of living. However, what may be acceptable in one society may not be in another. The line between normal and abnormal is very fine.

TYPES OF ABNORMALITY

Abnormality may be either functional or organic, functional having no known organic basis.

Psychoneurosis is a mental disorder characterized by abnormal anxieties, compulsions and obsessions. People who suffer from this are not institutionalized, and they may be found in the homes and schools. They are definitely not dangerous.

Psychoses are of two sorts: functional, characterized by lack of apparent organic cause and principally of a schizophrenic or manic-depressive type, and organic, characterized by a pathological organic condition such as partial paralysis and alcoholism.

Schizophrenia is a mental disorder characterized by indifference, withdrawal, hallucinations and delusions.

A manic-depressive person is one who has a psychosis with alternating periods of mania and mental depression.

Psychotics are institutionalized. These people occupy more hospital beds than all other ill put together. Not all of them are dangerous, but they are unable to take care of themselves. Some treatments used are insulin and shock treatments. These people are rarely cured completely. These who are released are usually unable to face the reality of the outside world and return to the institution after a short time.

Some people find an escape from reality through sickness. Illness also used as an excuse for their failure or as a means to avoid their obligation! Although it is to their mind, they actually do experience pain.

Psychasthenia — People who suffer from this type of neurosis experience extreme difficulty in making decisions, are full of doubts, turn to stealing. They have a morbid anxiety that something terrible is about to happen. In many instances the treatment for this is psychoanalysis.

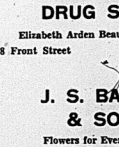
Hysteria is a state of dissociation. Some of the symptoms are stimulated blindness and deafness, which are temporary; twitching of muscles; and paralysis. They also experience memory disorders and fits (laughing, crying, rage). These sometimes leave spontaneously.

Mrs. Bateman is presently working with school-age children giving I.Q. (intelligence) personality tests, to help the children get better adjusted. I. Q. tests can be given as early as two months of age, and the accuracy has been proved through comparison with later tests with the same child. When a child is having trouble keeping up with the other children in school, an I. Q. test will indicate what his mental capacity is, and prevent the teacher from trying to push him beyond his capacity, which will result in frustration. In Toronto they have special classes for the mentally retarded, as well as for the mentally gifted children.

Heredity and environment play an important part in determining a person's I.Q., although it is not known which bears the greater significance. The importance of environment was proven when identical twins, which are born with the same I.Q., were separated and put into two very different environments. When tested a few years later, it was found that the child in the more stimulating environment had a much higher I. Q. than the child in the less desirable environment, even though they both started out at the same level. In this case, the I.Q. of the latter child could be increased under more ideal conditions.

Mrs. Bateman also stated that the number of people with low I.Q.s has decreased greatly in the last few years.

After the question period, Mrs. Bateman was thanked by Herb Cooper.



Following the talk, Bert Hiles, president, welcomed Peterborough So-Ed. He also announced that the boys' gym class of the YMCA was selling candy to raise money to buy a trampoline and asked for the support of So – Ed members.

The Christmas party to be held next month was also announced.

Following refreshments, the dancing portion, in the form of a Sadie Hawkins' dance took place entitled, "Schmoolgans."

Next week will be a semi-formal dancing party with various forms of entertainment including a singer, dancing numbers and a skit.

CHAPPED LIPS A BEAUTY LIABILITY

To prevent — and to heal — chapped lips, apply a pomade lipstick just before retiring.

No matter how smooth and velvety a woman's complexion, if her lips don't match in texture, the whole effect is spoiled. Nothing so mars the facial appearance as chapped or cracked lips. And no amount of lipstick can conceal the condition! In fact, the more lipstick that's applied, the worse it looks.

Cold blustery weather takes it's toll of lip beauty, of course, which is why more women suffer from chapping and cracking at this season than at any other. And why special lip care is needed. However, there are other contributing factors. Nervous habits, such as biting and constantly wetting the lips with the tongue, causes chapping and cracking. Long-lasting lipsticks, which contain more dye (up to 15 per cent more) frequently cause dryness. And then there are women who though often unaware of it, are actually allergic to certain lipsticks. So, take a look at your lips, feel them gently with your fingertips. And, if they're dryer than they should be, start caring for them now.

One of the most important things to remember is that every last trace of lipstick must be removed at night. Even if it takes half a dozen applications of soap and water or cream to do the job, keep at it. Then, when giving yourself your nightly facial cleansing massage a little extra cream into the lips and let it remain there until you have completely finished the rest of your face and neck — and even a little longer if you have the time. Just before retiring, tissue off the cream and apply a pomade lipstick. Our favorite is a white one which doesn't soil pillow cases.

In the morning, before applying lipstick, use a thin coat of the pomade stick underneath your regular lipstick. You can use either pink or red in this instance

During cold weather it's also better to use a greasy lipstick than one of those guaranteed "greaseless". You may have to apply it more frequently. But it's worth it to keep your lips smooth and soft. If you suspect that you may be allergic to lipstick — and you can reasonably suspect this if your lips are chapped and dry all year round — try one of the hypo-allergenic lipsticks. You can choose from many at your favorite cosmetics counter, and you'll be surprised at the difference in the texture of your lips. These too, have to be applied frequently since they're low in dye content.

If chapping or cracking is due to nervous habits, such as biting, we don't know quite what to tell you except: — stop it! It may have a little will power, but that's what you have will power for — to use it. Maybe it will help, if we mention in passing, that cracked lips invite infection. And you wouldn't like that, would you?

Read it and weep like I did—Either from laughing or crying — I couldn't say which: "Dear Mary Moore: I've lost the Christmas Cake recipe I clipped . . . 3 years ago . . . Every mail brings the same kind of pleas. So it could be the '54 cake outshines all others. Here is Mary to the rescue.

thicknesses of brown paper or wax paper and butter last one. Fill pans not more than ¾ full. Bake at 275 deg. Fahr. from 2½ to 4 hours. Time depends on size of cakes. Three pans of same size require 3 hours. Have waterpan in oven throughout. Replenish water as needed.

NOTE FROM GRANDMA

I am receiving good-natured complaints about leaving you up on the air about Davey. As I write he is 5½ weeks old and weighs 8 lbs. — seems to be gaining nearly 2 oz. per day. At his present rate of growth we can put him in a circus at the age of 6 years.

My preoccupation with him and Gary and Marianne's interests and the urgency of Christmas baking with Marilyn's absence's blessed help, has caused me to forget to report to you. Davey smiled at me this morning at 4.30, and if any unbeliever er says it's gas it's a sure bet I'm isn't a grandmother. I'm so full of happiness I send love to all of you today, and thanks for your interest.

CHATTERTON W. I.

Mrs. H. Bloor was hostess to the Chatterton W. I. for the November meeting, with the president in the chair.

Business: a letter was read from Care and discussed; it was decided to hold this over until the December meeting. the members were requested to bring the penny bags to the next meeting. Members were also reminded to bring a present for Friendship Sister, and a gift for the Salvation Army Christmas cheer boxes.

A hand painted picture was donated by Mrs. Gardner; tickets to be sold on the draw to be made the last of November.

At the close of the business period, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Gardner the convener. A reading was given by Mrs. Dixon on the 'flu, how it was carried and precaution to be taken. Mrs. Gardner gave a reading on skin cancer, stressing the need to see a doctor at once if a lump appeared on the body or a sore which did not heal, all skin cancer being curable if taken in time.

Mrs. Gardner, the delegate to the area convention gave an interesting report.

Mrs. Mitts and Mrs. Gardner attended the local leader training school held in Stirling on "Old Lamps Made New" and brought back a report. It was decided to have a class in the branch with Mrs. Gardner and Mrs. Mitts as instructors.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Bloor and the assistant.

BRIDE'S TWO LITTLE BROTHERS AS RING-BEARERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Would it be correct for me to have my two brothers, ages 6 and 7, as ring-bearers in our wedding party? It is to be a church wedding. I will wear a formal satin wedding gown, and my maid of honor and the two bridesmaids will also wear formal dresses.

— Bride-to-be

I certainly understand how thrilled you would be to have these two young brothers of yours as members of your wedding party! If you are to have a double-ring ceremony, you may, if you particularly wish, have the two boys as ring-bearers, one to carry you wedding ring on a small pillow, and the other to carry the bridegroom's ring on a matching pillow. However, since these boys are a bit old to be ring-bearers, and if also they are a bit above the usual age boys are likely to be these days), I suggest that you have them as pages, instead of ring-bearers.

In today's weddings, it is not often the custom to have ring-bearers . . . but it is quite customary now to have a little boy as a page, or two little boys as pages, to walk together. This is an attractive procedure and, I think, deserves its increasing popularity. And these very young gentlemen, who certainly like to be members of the wedding party, usually prefer to be simply dressed pages (with no responsibility except to be well-mannered and respectful . . . re: the ring-bearers with the often-bothersome responsibility of taking care of the rings.

BRIDE'S NAME ON PRINTED MATCH-BOOKS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At several wedding receptions, I have seen napkins, match-books, and similar items printed with the names of the bride and groom. The names appear, for example, as "Joyce and David" or "Mary and Richan " It seems to me that the man's name, the groom's name, should be first: for example, "David and Joyce." Please tell me which is correct.

The bride's name first is correct . . . Joyce and David." Thus a polite bow to the bride.

Cecile Will Be Happy With Five Children

MONTREAL (CP)—If a singly-born woman has one chance in 53,969,235 of bearing quintuplets, what's the percentage for a quint?

What are the chances of a quintuplet bearing twins at least?

Such questions have invited some speculation here with the second wedding among the four surviving sisters of the Dionne quintuplets. However, science tends to think the Dionnes will have about the same chance of producing twins as other women about one in 88.

"I am happy among children and I'd like to have five—but one at a time," Cecile said here before her Corbeil, Ont., marriage Saturday to Philippe Langlois. Annette was wed in October to Germain Allard.

CHANCES NOT INCREASED

Two Montreal authorities, commenting on the prospects of either having multiple births, agreed the quints' own rare birth doesn't add to their chances of bearing twins, let alone quintuplets.

Both Dr. Marcel Ferron, obstetrician, and Dr. Jean Beaudry, biologist, stressed the quints are indeed identical—or developed from a single egg.

"It doesn't appear that multiple births which are called identical are any more prone than others to have twins," said Dr. Ferron. "The quints should have the same prospects for twins as other women."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Margaret M. — Mother keeps giving the kids goodies and treats.

Mrs. F.H. — Margaret brings them up in an atmosphere of anger.

* * *

Margaret M. — My father died a few months ago and my mother came to live with me at my insistence and that of my husband. We all always got along wonderfully well together, so I never thought there would be a problem.

Since she has come, however, things haven't worked out as well as I had hoped. My mother has always been crazy about the children and given them good times and nice treats. That was fine when it was a once-in-a-while kind of thing, but as a daily diet it's just no good.

I don't try to explain to my mother that the children can't be brought up on goodies and treats alone, she accuses me of feeling hurt and jealous because she gets more time with them than I can.

* * *

Mrs. F.H. — I never realized until I came to live with Margaret what a hard time she has had with those kids of hers. She is nearly always yelling at them or having a disagreement over something one of them has done.

I realize I am not supposed to interfere, but it is awful to see children brought up in an atmosphere of anger. Margaret knows that I never used to yell at or hit her or her sisters and brothers. They were given plenty of "goodies and treats" and it didn't do them any harm.

My grandchildren come running to me for a change of pace and I can make them be quiet for a little without so much as raising my voice. I don't see why Margaret should object.

The Council: Well, we see why Margaret should object.

It is fine for everyone concerned when a doting grandmother gives the children some extra attention or more love or special treats, but it is not so good when she, in any way, challenges the authority or ability of the children's mother.

Mrs. F.H. does not conceal the fact that she is critical of her daughter She doesn't hide it from Margaret and she probably does not hide it from Margaret's children. This is an attack at the very foundations of Margaret's life, and it probably causes her to be particularly impatient with her children

Mrs. F.H. should recognize that only a short time ago Margaret was herself a little girl, depending on her mother. Now it is her turn to be queen of her own home and to have her children turn toward her as their main source of love and care. Mrs. F.H. must expect her daughter's presence needs and rights.

It is difficult for Mrs. F.H. take on her new role in life — a role in which she has little active power and is not needed as vitally as she was in earlier days. She will find, however, that it also gives us fighting the inevitable she can enjoy this new phase as well as any other. She can have freedom from responsibility, peace of mind and a thousand little pleasures that are denied to those who are still in the active phases of their lives.

Yes, Mrs. F.H., is entitled to give her grandchildren goodies and treats — but not when their mother disapproves.

Waterfronts on St. Lawrence Will Soon Be Deserted, Quiet As Winter Weather Sets In

By GERRY FREEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — St. Lawrence River waterfronts, bustling now with ships and sailors from many lands, will soon be deserted and quiet.

The threat of ice in the river and lay-packs in the gulf is expected to clamp off shipping out of the St. Lawrence ports by mid-December.

Montreal, Canada's biggest port, is 1956 had its last ship on Dec. 15. The port season usually begins again in April.

Further downstream, Quebec City, may stay open a few days later than Montreal but probably will be closed by Christmas. Last year it closed Dec. 21.

READY FOR WINTER

The Maritimes benefit from the freeze-up. The bulk of Canada's east coast shipping shifts to Halifax and Saint John, N.B., when navigation closes in the St. Lawrence. Both ports are expecting a winter season at least as good as last year's.

The St. Lawrence season was slow compared with 1956.

Passenger movements were up this season, but otherwise St. Lawrence shipping activity was depressed. However, the next few weeks are expected to be busy as shippers rush to complete commitments. Last year 20 per cent of Montreal's port business was done between mid-November and freeze-up.

A total of 4,761 ships — 1,990 ocean, 229 coastal and 2,511 inland vessels—used Montreal up to Nov. 7 this year. Total for the same period in 1956 was 4,962. In addition 663 grain vessels were unloaded here up to Nov. 11 compared with 838 to Nov. 11, 1956.

Grain, the most important commodity, showed the most marked decrease: to 74,000,000 bushels from 117,000,000 at of Nov. 11. Authorities said this was caused by ships operating out of West coast ports offering cheaper rates.

Inward and outward foreign cargoes at Montreal up to Oct. 31 this year were 3,490,399 and 3,187,779 tons. Last year they were 4,333,531 and 4,163,748 tons for the corresponding period, the decrease is more than 20 per cent.

Also for the same period this year's inward and outward domestic tonnages were 2,144,350 and 2,275,693 compared with last year's 3,654,254 and 3,225,415.

Total inward and outward, domestic and foreign cargoes were down about 2,500,000 tons—to 12,-728,203 from 15,206,253. This was blamed on economic conditions in general.

Two commodities showed absolute changes. Cement shipments through Montreal fell to nothing from 568,000 tons last year. But pig iron rose from nothing to 150,000 tons.

An increase in immigration and the number of passenger ships running into Montreal boosted the port's ship passenger total to 218,137 over last year's 190,776.

This year 122,730 landed and 95,407 embarked — last year the figures were 110,903 and 86,380.

SIMILAR AT QUEBEC

Trends were similar in Quebec City, where a total of 2,966 ships called to Oct. 20 compared with 3,940 for a similar period last year.

Exports were down to 710,675 tons from 1,054,028 in 1956.

Passenger departures were down about 2,000, to 28,365 from 31,866, but passenger arrivals rose to 57,222 from 48,014.

Port manager J. R. Mitchell of Halifax says things look good there—apart from grain—for the winter season.

Grain is anybody's guess, he said. The 12,000,000 bushels moved through Halifax before the end of October is down 40 per cent from last year.

Passenger traffic is already ahead of 1956, mainly due to heavy movements of immigrants early in the year. To the end of September 62,000 passengers had moved through Halifax compared with 57,000 for all of 1956.

MEANS MORE TRAFFIC

A new vegetable oil storage plant at Halifax to handle Far East shipments for transfer by rail to Vancouver is expected to bring some extra traffic.

Port commissioner H. H. Smith of Saint John, N.B., also is optimistic.

Columbus line plans to open a monthly service from Saint John to South America and Saguenay terminals plan to increase sailings to the West Indies, United Kingdom and elsewhere from seven to 10 calls a month.

Nine calls by Empress vessels of Canadian Pacific Steamships will begin with the arrival of the Empress of Britain Nov. 28.

No wheat is shipped through Saint John during the summer but 3,000,000 tons are in storage there to ease the strain on west-ern elevators.

Saint John opens the winter season with a flourish. Its second annual port day will be held Dec. 11 to draw attention to the advantages — including $2,500,000 worth of new harbor improvements—the port offers as a transportation centre.

One of World's Richest Men Dies in Africa

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Sir Ernest Oppenheimer, 71, South African mining magnate and one of the world's richest men, died Monday.

Oppenheimer, chairman of the huge mining combine, the Anglo-American Corporation, had been in failing health for several months.

He was not only South Africa's most powerful mining and financial figure but took an important part in the country's political and national life.

Oppenheimer had a fabulous career since leaving his birthplace of Friedeberg Hesse in Germany at the age of 18. Beginning work as an office boy in a London diamond firm he moved to South Africa and became the world's "Diamond King." He was knighted for his services to South Africa and the Commonwealth.

HEADED COMPANIES

He was chairman of De Beers Consolidated Mines Limited which brought stability to South Africa's diamond mining industry and as chairman of the Anglo-American Corporation played a leading part in developing South Africa's fabulously rich gold fields.

He was also chairman of several Rhodesian mining companies with large holdings in Rhodesia's copper belt.

His son Harry Oppenheimer is a leading figure in the opposition United party. He undoubtedly will assume the heavy burden of his father's mining interests now and his political future is uncertain.

Oppenheimer had not been very active in recent months but in July, after returning from one of his frequent trips to London, he formally opened what will become the world's deepest gold mine southwest of Johannesburg.

He looked more than usually feeble on that occasion and in recent weeks had been living quietly at his sumptuous home here.

When youngsters raided vineyards, some smeary tincky dye refuse, rumored to be poisonous, was splashed over fruit. Raids stopped, but surprisingly blights and disease stopped, too. Material was refined, named Bordeaux Mix, and remains an excellent fungicide

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Robert Temple, lawyer, sportsman, sponsor, alderman, athlete, and a gladiator in the upcoming battle for the seats of the aldermanic mighty was a spectator at the Russia-Whitby Dunlops game in Toronto the other night.

Bob's impression of the Muscovites jibed generally with that of the experts. He, like they, received a startling surprise in the first minutes of the game when the Russkys whipped two lightning goals into the Whitby net. But he, again like they, settled back in his seat and saw the Allan Cuppers whip in almost easy fashion a score that would have been hard pressed, on the night's play, to defeat a Canadian senior "B" squad.

"The Russians," he said, "are splendid skaters and brilliant stickhandlers, although as the game progressed their plan became stereotyped. Their defence compared to a good Canadian bevy of backline players, looked poor!"

"The McFarlands flashing their best both-way potential, would have beaten the Russian team I saw play in Toronto, and on the strength of that night's play, before or eight goals," was Marse Robert's frank opinion.

The Reds played a game-weary Windsor Bulldog team to a five-all tie on Sunday, coming back strongly to square matters after spotting the Canadians three goals in the early periods.

Well over 4,000 fans from all parts of the district will likely see the Reds tangle with what has been dubbed a Kingston All-Star team. This All-Star team will have the Kingston club as a nucleus, augmented by players from Belleville, Cornwall and Pembroke. Ottawa Canadiens will play the Russians two games as an entity.

So far no word has come out of Kingston as to the identity of the Eastern Senior "A" League representatives. Speaking with CKLC manager Dick Allan a few days ago, this department was informed that the Eastern squad will be composed of eighteen players, nine from Kingston and a forward line from Trenton, Cornwall and Kingston.

We are not trying to belittle the Kingston squad, but it is a well-known fact, proven by performance that the Limestone defence is not exactly the best in the league. It could be improved for the Russian game by additions from the CKLC club. And at the risk of being called a homer, there is no better blue-lineman than one Moe Benoit.

However, perhaps Messrs. Allan and Cook of the CKLC's are depending on speed and body-way checking to stop the Russian threat, but it should be remembered these Redskin can whistle that puck at a goal from practically any angle in a rink. And again trying not to be a "homer," Gerdis Bell is the best goalie in the league, and has that record to prove it.

Back to those Russian games for the nonce, this department liked what it saw in the no body-checking-in-centre-ice regulation. If someone has ever kept such a record, we believe it could be proved that some 60 per cent of the brawls and a larger percentage of injuries incurred in hockey games stem from centre-ice activities along the boards.

Okay, okay, so Canadian fans like their hockey rough, rugged and rambunctious. They can squeeze enough of this stuff in behind the blueline, if it is necessary. As a matter of fact the best hockey game played in Memorial Arena in the last two years was that played between the Whitby Dunlops and the McFarlands. That was the fan and official consensus, yet there was a minimum of penalties and no fisties.

The other night there was a jam along the boards in the McFarland-Ottawa game and a young hockey star came out of it with a severe eye injury. In fact there is a possibility he might lose the sight of the optic. This occurred in the centre ice zone.

We are not trying to make a panty-waist pastime out of the game but we would like to see the CAHA or the OHA test the no-boarding-in-centre-ice rule. After all there is nothing to lose by trying it out.

Glover Leads American League

NEW YORK (AP)—Fred Glover of Cleveland Barons has cracked the five-week monopoly of Willie Marshall of Hershey Bears who had led all American Hockey League scoring departments, statistics released today showed.

Glover, the league's top scorer last season, took over the lead in assists with 17. Marshall, from Kirkland Lake, has 15 and a league-sending 15 goals for 30 points, tops in the league. Glover scored his 600th point, highest for any active, AHL player, last week. He has five goals for 22 points, fifth best in the league.

Marshall scored two goals last week to stay ahead of rookie Bill Sweeney of Providence in the point race. Sweeney trails with 26 points.

Hershey's Gil Mayer and Bobby Perreault continued to lead the goalies. Mayer has allowed 14 goals in seven games for a 2.00 average and Perreault has allowed 22 goals in 12 games for a 2.23 average.

Blue Bomber Coaches Taught By Tiger Teacher Trimble; Use Similar Attack Methods

HAMILTON (CP)—If the students learned well from the teacher, then coach Jim Trimble of Hamilton Tiger-Cats is in for a rough afternoon Saturday.

That's the day Tirats play Winnipeg Blue Bombers at Toronto in the battle for Canadian professional football supremacy and the Grey Cup.

And lined up on opposing teams will be Trimble, the teacher, and coach Bud Grant and assistant Wayne Robinson of Winnipeg, the students who led Bombers to the championship in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Grant and Robinson both played under similar attacking methods, stressing control of the ball and strong running attacks.

Trimble Four Four Players had a couple of tricks up his sleeve His Tiger-cats brought the season running up the middle so much Trimble was rapped by the fans for not giving them a versified offense.

Then they had to come un with something new against Ottawa Rough Riders to come out on top of the Big Four Football Union and they did. Trimble popped up with a base of a kick formation and Ticats ended first.

Against Montreal Alouettes in the league finals Trimble again came up with that something extra — a passing attack built around fullback Tommy Grosz all—and it clicked for a 39-1 victory in the course of the two-game, total-point series.

HAS SOMETHING NEW

Trimble emphasizes he hasn't exhausted his bag of tricks yet. Even for former students, he says, he's got something new they can learn.

The coaching staff undoubtedly had such things in mind Monday when they watched movies and filmsand mimeographed new offensive formation for the big day.

Medical reports reflected the general air of optimism pervading the Hamilton camps There are no serious hurts outside of Dave Sumner's broken hand—he'll play any way—and a leg ailment that will keep Art Darch out of the game.

Shooting for a second Grey Cup victory along with a group of Ticat veterans who helped defeat Bombers in 1953 will be first - year quarterback Jack Delaney. Delaney called the signals for Edmonton Eskimos in 1953 for the first of their three straight national titles.

CASEY TO BLUES

TORONTO (CP) — Ron Casey, a three-year veteran on defence with Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, has turned out with the University of Toronto Blues.

Casey joined the first part of this season with Whitby Dunlops, Canada's entry in the world hockey championships at Oslo in February. He saw limited action against Moose Selects here Friday and has decided to forgo the trip in favor of his studies. He is third-year Arts at Victoria College.

Bomber Coaches Taught By Tiger Teacher Trimble; Use Similar Attack Methods

WINNIPEG (CP) — Fast action to give "oomph" to the band wagon of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers was under way here today among happy supporters from the city council down.

While the western football champions prepared to take on Hamilton Tiger-Cats Saturday for the Canadian championship, it was obvious that many of their supporters had not thought enough of their chances to make plans to support them in Toronto.

On top of a last-minute rush for transportation, there was a push to beef up the side show that will travel with Bombers.

Plans already had been made for a float financed by the province, the city and the junior chamber of commerce to roll in the Grey Cup parade. But the outlay was modest compared to those made by some other cities.

MAY SEND BAND

Five aldermen were expected to propose at a special city council meeting today that the Winnipeg Rifles band be sent on the 2,196 members also be sent along.

Mayor Stephen Juba was expected to follow some bearing the day about the Grey Cup celebrations which ordered immediate further Winnipeg contribution to the non-football activities in Toronto.

A Blue Bomber spokesman announced Monday that the 2,196 ticketed guests on the club had been allotted to members and season ticket holders. Their allotment was still poured into the club office. The scramble for transportation that followed was bearing the day planned special trains and extra cars for regular runs.

FILL 10 CARS

The CPR said enough passengers to fill 10 cars had been lined up in the special reservation-making. The CPR's special train was to leave here Wednesday night, arrive in Toronto Friday morning. But the first Cup passengers started leaving here Monday night on regular trains. There will be extra sleepers on the CPR regulars Wednesday and Thursday.

The CNR said it had enough extra passengers to run a special out of Winnipeg Thursday, arriving in Toronto Saturday.

Amid the rush to see the game, Bombers went on with the serious business of preparing to play it. With, the liniment, bandages and other equipment in their training room ordered as much of a workout as the practice field, they planned to take close to home base until Thursday morning when they will leave by plane for Toronto.

BIG QUESTION MARK

Fullback and kicker Charlie Shepard was the biggest question mark as he nursed a badly-bruised hip and a knee injury suffered in the last game of the western final. Indications were that Shepard there be will be used only for kicking.

Linebacker Pete Mangum, who resisted an ankle in the previous game of the best-of-three western final and missed the third game, will also certainly see action in the Canadian final.

Trainer Jim Ausley was confident he can tape up fleet halfback Leo Lewis well enough to give him some form on Saturday and other Bombers on the wounded list also are expected to be all up for the big one against Tiger-Cats.

Auburn Moves To Top Spot, Buckeyes Next

NEW YORK (AP)—Alabama's Auburn College, unbeaten and untied Southeastern Conference leader, moved into the top of United States college football rankings in The Associated Press weekly poll as Michigan State fumbled away its hold on first place.

The defensively - stubborn Auburn team, a close second a week ago, polled 1,826 points on the ballots of 227 sports writers and broadcasters. Michigan State, which led by nine points a week ago, dropped to third place after a fumbling performance against Kansas State last Saturday while Ohio State, Big Ten champions and bound for the Rose Bowl, moved into second.

The national college champion will be decided next week in the final AP poll, Oklahoma was chosen last year.

Only one of the three top contenders in the championship is scheduled to play this week although six others ranked in the first 10 get final opportunities to make an impression on the voters.

Auburn, an easy 29-7 winner over Florida Saturday, undertakes on Alabama in the season-ending game. All three ranking teams meet Big Ten foes, Michigan State, Michigan State and Iowa—a game between their regular seasons last week.

Auburn so far has won nine times since games and has allowed its opponents only four touchdowns—no more than one in a game. The Plainsmen haven't been a high scoring team, themselves. Ohio State, loser to Texas Christian in its opening game but undefeated in Big Ten competition, finished its season with a victory over Michigan. This performance should give some of the support that formerly had gone to Michigan State. The Spartans lost four fumbles and had to stage a last-period rally to beat Kansas State 27-9 in their last game.

Completing the first 11 were Texas A and M, Oklahoma, Iowa, Mississippi, Navy, Rice and Army. Alabama and Iowa moved up from sixth and eighth rankings after last Saturday's victories. Mississippi and Navy, both idle, dropped back a notch or two.

MP's Contract 'Cup' Fever

OTTAWA (CP) — The triumphs of Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the Eastern and Western football finals highlighted a brief session in the Commons by Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre). The two teams meet in the Grey Cup final this Saturday at Toronto.

Mr. Knowles said he wanted to join with Hamilton MP's in congratulating the Ticats. The two are Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, secretary of state and member for Hamilton West, Bobby McDonald of Hamilton South), a former Hamilton player.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Canadiens High-Scoring Trio Leads National Loop Race

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens' current high-scoring trio each picked up three points in National Hockey League action last week to hold their top places in the scoring list, with Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard heading the parade.

Henri scored one goal and contributed two assists as Montreal's two games, running his point total to 27. His brother Maurice, the Rocket, is still in second place with 23 points although he has been sidelined since Nov. 13 with an injury.

Jean Beliveau collected three assists and Dickie Moore a goal and two assists to remain tied for third place with 22 points.

Henri Richard is setting the pace for goal scoring, with 15 and is tied, at 14, with Beliveau and Moore for the most assists.

MOVES AHEAD

Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers, tied a week ago for fifth place with Bronco Horvath of Boston Bruins, raised his total to 21 points on two goals and one assist. Horvath went without a point and dropped to an eighth-place tie with his total of 18.

Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings, league scoring champion five times in the last seven seasons, jumped from a ninth-place tie to sixth spot with his five-point production on three goals and two assists.

Howe's total now is 20, one point more than Fleming Mackell of Boston who had a one-one count and remained in seventh place.

Eddie Litzenberger of Chicago Black Hawks duplicated Howe's five points, on two goals and three assists, and moved from a 14th-place tie to the eighth-place bracket with Horvath, Camille Henry of New York, with one goal, dropped from eighth to 10th place.

CLING TO TOP

New York Rangers hung on to top place in the league race. They won, lost and tied in their three games and now have 25 points, one more than Canadiens. The Montrealers, who have played three fewer games, won and tied in their two outings last week for the best percentage among the six clubs—three of a possible four points.

The four other teams had no more luck in bettering their positions. Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks each could salvage only one point and remained tied for third place with 18 points. Bruins lost and tied in two starts while Hawks dropped two games and tied one.

Detroit Red Wings pulled out two ties and a win in their three games and maintained a one-point lead over last-place Toronto Maple Leafs. Leafs won two and lost one and now have 15 points to Red Wings' 16.

On the Tracks

NEW YORK (AP)—Bold Ruler, the colt who was counted out of thoroughbred racing's championship picture two months ago, became the toast of the turf world Monday when he was voted "horse of the year" in the annual poll of The Morning Telegraph and Daily Racing Form.

In addition, the colt from the stable of Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps of New York and Palm Beach took the three-year - old championship by a slim edge over Ralph Lowe's Gallant Man.

The turning point came Nov. 2 at Garden State Park, when Bold Ruler—trained by Sunny Jim FitzSimmons and ridden by Eddie Arcaro—won the Trenton Handicap by 2¼ lengths from Gallant Man, with Kerr Stable's Round Table another 8½ lengths back in third place. It was the 11th victory in 16 starts, with two seconds and two thirds for Bold Ruler during the season.

Mrs. Charles Ulrich Bay's Idun, the undefeated two-year-old filly champion, was named the best two-year-old and top filly of her division, and Mrs. Jan Burke's Dedicate was voted the leading handicap runner.

Bold Ruler received 16 votes in the 22nd annual poll of champions, with nine for Gallant Man out of a total vote of 33 turf experts of the sporting publications.

Dedicate, forced out of the Trenton scheme of a foot injury, got four votes for the No. 1 horse honors, with two for Idun; one each for Round Table, and one for Fair Gay Frake's Swoon's Son, the mild-west star.

Mrs. Ana L. Rice's Pucker Up won the handicap mare crown; the Dixiele Farm's Decathlon won the sprinter title for the second straight year, Round Table, winner of the American Derby and United Nations on the turf course, was voted the grass horse champion.

Tigers Favored at 5-6 Odds, Hayman Wants 2-Game Series

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Grey Cup odds Week is off to its usual stereotyped start. Things won't warm up until Saturday or Sunday or Thursday.

You can't buy a ticket and you can't get a hotel room. The bookies climbed off the western bandwagon and new Hayman bubs thumped for a two-game total-point final and the linking of the sudden-death affair. Ticket Man Harry McIlrien sought cover from friends and foes alike.

Reports from the principals' camps presented two entirely different pictures. Hamilton Tiger-Cats are liking their chops in anticipation of a big win Saturday and the amazing Winnipeg Blue Bombers are soothing their wounds.

GAMBLERS IMPRESSED

The gamblers were impressed by Hamilton's all-round performance against Montreal Alouettes and, coupled with reports of Winnipeg's walking wounded, quickly changed their minds. Two weeks ago they were 5-4 and 4-5 favorites but Edmonton Eskimos coming east and installed the West as 7-to-12 favorites.

Today, with little money showing here they've made the switch, figuring Tiger - Cats at 5-to-6 for the second game.

Meanwhile, Hayman who holds the distinction of winning more cup finals as a coach than any other, came up with his brainchild of making the classic a two-game affair. "The only drawback," he said, "is that no one to play with me."

HAS SEVERAL REASONS

Hayman, who led five teams to Dominion titles from 1935 to 1949 and who now is managing director of Toronto Argonauts in the Big Four, said the two-game final would:

Satisfy more season ticket subscribers; eliminate alibis by losing teams after sudden - death games; double the revenue received by the East and West football clubs and the Canadian Rugby Union and give the city staging the games a chance to recover the cost of a week-long festival. "Probably, the Canadian Football Council intermediate football finals could be played that week. It would give the kids a big lift ago they'd see anybody but Edmonton Eskimos coming east and installed the West as 7-to-12 favorites.

Today, with little money showing here the switch, figuring Tiger - Cats at 5-to-6 for the second game.

Lone Canadian Makes Grade In ORFU All-Star Selection

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Only one Canadian player—Bob Smith of Sarnia Golden Bears — was selected for the 1957 Canadian Press all-star team of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

The other 11 players all learned their football in the United States. The team, chosen for CP by coaches, sport writers and sportscasters in the Union cities and announced today, had equal representation from Sarnia, Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen and London Lords.

Toronto Balmy Beaches, who finished last with 13 straight losses, failed to place a member on the team. They experimented with an all-Canadian team while the other three clubs had a backfroom of 13 American imports.

MAIN OFFENSIVE COG

Smith, a Sarnia product who played with Bears in 1955 and 1956, won the flying-wing berth. He scored six touchdowns for 36 points during the regular schedule and was one of the main cogs in Bears' offensive power.

Three players returned from last year's team. They voting, which was weighted to give equal balloting strength to each of the four ORFU cities, produced no unanimous results.

The team:

Flying wing — Bob Smith, Sarnia

Halfback — Leroy Thompson, London

Half—Ron King, London Waterloo

Quarter—Bob Celeri, Kitchener Waterloo

Centre—Veryl Scott, London

Guard—Lorne Richardson, Sarnia

Guard—Jon Lightfoot, Sarnia

Tackle—Ed Heuring, London

Tackle—Tom Mooney, Kitchener-Waterloo

End — Al Romine, Kitchener-Waterloo

End—Frank McDonald, Sarnia Celeri, whom many critics say is good enough for the Big Four Football Union, was returned to the team for the third straight season. The triple-threat quarterback spent his fourth term with the league-champion after weaving a Hamilton Tiger-Cat uniform in the Big Four in 1953. He had little competition in gaining the berth, receiving 41 of a possible 48 points.

Havana Hurler Had Top ERA In International

MONTREAL (CP) — Miguel Cuellar, 20-year-old Havana lefthander, had the best earned-run average in the International League during 1957, league statistics show today.

Cuellar, in his rookie season, had an average of 2.44 runs scored off him to become one of the youngest pitchers in the Triple A baseball league to win the ERA title.

Walt Craddock, Buffalo lefty, and Humberto Robinson, a right-handed Toronto pitcher, had most wins with 18 each.

Richmond's Jim Coates, a right handed speedballer, fanned 161 batters to win the strikeout title and led in shutouts with six.

Lovenguth and Craddock teamed in the most complete games—15—the lowest high for completions in the league's history.

Ray Semprosch of Miami had the best percentage mark with 12 wins and four losses for .750.

Bob Tiefenauer, Toronto, appeared in the most games, 56, and Bob Wiesler, Richmond, gave up the most walks, 116.

Leftfielder Jerry Fred Kipp, a 20-game winner and all - star pitcher—in 1956, lost the most games in 1957—17.

Help Wanted, Canadians Only; Apply Alouettes

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes hung out a "Canadians wanted" sign Monday as the first step in a gigantic rebuilding program.

"We have realized from the start of this season that we are in a rebuilding era," said vice-president Ted Workman, who directs the operations of the Big Four Football Union club.

"It's going to be an all-out process from here on. The best possible Canadian talent will be paramount. Actually we have two programs, long and short term."

Workman declined to go into details but said he may be able to make a more complete statement in three weeks or so.

PEAREAD WILL STAY

But he made it plain that coach Douglas (Peahead) Walker will remain with the club and that the management has every confidence in him. Walker still has a year to go on his current three-year contract.

Workman said also that the club will look around for a first-class tine coach who can help Walker and assistant coach Jimmy Dunn.

Walker will attend the Grey Cup game in Toronto next Saturday. Then he will head south to start digging up new imports. He will return to Montreal in about a month when the rebuilding groundwork will be laid.

ENDED UP THIRD

Even before Alouettes lost to Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Big Four final, rebuilding has been in the discussion stage. Alouettes finished third in the league this season, defeating Ottawa Rough Riders in the semi-final.

Alouettes were in the last three Grey Cup games, losing to Edmonton Eskimos each time.

Alouettes' failure to win the title had nothing to do with the rebuilding plan.

"We realized throughout the season that we would have to start rebuilding," said Workman. "We are working on certain plans. When coach Walker comes back from the south we will know better how we stand and will go into every detail."

Patrick Denies Rumors of Worsley Trade

NEW YORK (AP)—Muzz Patrick, general manager of New York Rangers, said "nothing to it" over a report Monday that he plans to trade goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley to Boston Bruins.

The Montreal Gazette said it had learned on "good authority" that the National Hockey League Rangers are ready to swap Worsley to the Bruins for goalie Don Simmons, and a leftwinger, "probably John Bucyk."

Worsley, once Rangers' regular netminder, has been playing with Providence of the American Hockey League since Marcel Paille made good for the New Yorkers in a sub role.

Paille stepped into the job 11 Rangers games ago when Gump was injured out with a broken jury. With Paille in the net, Rangers have won six, lost two and tied three games.

Kingston Juniors Take 10-4 Win Over Belleville Lambert-Rollins

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Belleville Lambert-Rollins suffered their third setback in as many starts at Memorial Arena last night as the Kingston Frontenacs crawled away with a 10-4 decision in an Eastern Ontario OHA junior "B" fixture.

The construction crew held their own during the opening stanza, holding 1-0 and 3-2 leads in the early minutes and trailing only 5-4 as the period ended. Kingston took advantage of poor defensive work and a shaky exhibition by goalie Jack Gilby however to score a pair in the second and three in the third to win going away.

The victory was Kingston's third in four outings.

The game was clean for a junior contest, referees Vern Goyer and Harry Morgan assessing but nine penalties. Each club drew three minors and a major while Art Culloden of Belleville was given a misconduct for "bawling his stick on the ice in the first period.

Defenceman Gerry Mann gave Belleville a brief 1-0 lead at 1.02 of the first on a breakaway from centre ice. Bob Gilby and Ray Gazely of Kingston were serving a two minute minister and Don Senior tied the score seconds after Mann's goal, scoring on a long slapshot. Dunlop added one at 3.01 for the Frontenacs.

Don Wood knotted the score at 2-2 when he tipped in Jack Thomas' passout at 4.04 and Chuck Rowbotham flipped home another at 5.31 for a 3-2 Belleville lead. Mann and Stovell were off for fighting when Hegarty tied the game at 8.21.

Gary Rowbotham scored Belleville's final marker at 16.15, banging in brother Chuck's rebound, just fifteen seconds later. During made it 4-4 and at 19.57 Doug Senior pushed home a loose puck for a 5-4 Kingston lead.

In the middle session Gilby got the scoring back sliding shot at 4.04 and Aylesworth make it 7-4 from the side of the net at 14.45. Doug Senior tagged on other pair and Lynch one in the third to wrap it up at a 10-4 count.

Doug Senior, younger brother of Kingston's Don Senior, had a field day with his slapshot, scoring four goals and setting up shot other pair for the winners. Bill Dunlop had two goals and as many helpers, Earl Lynch also scoring twice with Phil Hegarty and Ray Aylesworth claiming one and one. Bill Gibson assisted on three markers, John Ibey, Frank Lajanski, Don Pappa and Bob Chamberlain on one each.

The Rowbotham-Rowbotham brothers booked after most of the Belleville scoring. Chuck and Gary Rowbotham each had a goal and assist while Dennis Kerruish picked up two assists. Don Wood and Jerry Mann had the other goals with Jack Thomas earning one helper.

Kingston goalie Ray Gazely turned the beers back in fine form after the opening period.

Ruel Injury Not Yet Ascertained

It will be a few days before it is ascertained if Claude Ruel, starry young defencemen of the Ottawa-Hull Canadiens juniors will retain the sight of his eye, the attending physician said this morning.

Ruel received the injury in the Ottawa - Belleville McFarland game here Saturday night when accidentally struck in the eye with a stick.

"The eye is still full at blood and we cannot judge the extent of the injury until this condition clears up," the physician said. "It is a very serious injury which required stitches in both upper and lower lids. He must be kept very quiet for a few days."

Rugby Union Loves John Fan His Cup Gift Is $393,600

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—It might be appropriate to start Grey Cup Week with a notice to people who pay from $5 to $10 a seat for Saturday's East-West final that the Canadian Rugby Union loves you. Moreover, the CRU knows you will behave yourselves.

However, just in case some over-exuberant fans wish to take part in the proceedings on the field, they'll bump into trouble in the form of off-duty Toronto policemen. There will be 100 fellows in blue inside the park, no more than usual at Grey Cup time.

"We don't expect trouble," says CRU Secretary Harry McBrien. "Why, the Cup game is in the nature of a festival and we haven't planned on extra police."

CAN BE CONFUSING

The CRU didn't expect trouble in Vancouver's Empire Stadium in 1955. But Saturday's final stands witnessed an unusual Cup final sight when scores of fans swept into the end zone and gobbled up the ball after an attempted Edmonton field goal was wide on the posts.

Officials went into a huddle and decided to award the Eskimos a point. It happened in the fourth quarter and the single jettisoned Edmonton lead to 31-19 over Montreal Alouettes. The game ended a few minutes later with the score 34-19.

Wonder what the fan reaction would have been if the point awarded meant the difference between a win or a tie?

BIG BUSINESS

Incidentally, the CRU loves the fans because they've helped make this spectacle the greatest financial business in Canadian sports. Before Saturday's 1 p.m. EST kickoff, the CRU is assured of gross revenue of an all-time $393,600.

Broken down, it is:

Net income from sale of tickets, after taxes of approximately $250,000 and stadium rental of $13,000, is $183,600. Then, there's $125,000 for the television rights, $27,500 for radio, $20,000 for film and $2,500 for program sales right here at the $328,600.

CRU expenses will be in the neighborhood of $250,000, the Western Interprovincial and Big Four football unions will receive about $115,000 each and the CRU about $33,000. The money to the eastern and western leagues is cut up and given to their teams and the CRU uses its share to help develop football on a national scale, from pros to minors.

AERIAL VISITATION

Still on football. . . Have you heard about the case of the snow geese who almost blacked out a football game at Varsity Stadium? It happened on Oct. 26, 1955, in a Big Four game between Toronto Argonauts and the old Montreal Winged Wheelers. Argos won 16-15.

T. M. (Terry) Shortt, chief of arts and exhibits at the Royal Ontario Museum, Toronto, was a spectator that afternoon when hundreds of the white birds with the black - tipped pinions swooped about 100 feet over the stadium, darkening the sky and filling the air with the high, clear babble of their calls.

Mr. Shortt says: "Argonauts were winning and the crowd, barking the signals, was losing interest in the game. As the snow geese swooped low over the stadium the spectators rose as one mad, welcoming the diversion with a mighty cheer."

Mervyn Rose Sends Seixas To Sidelines

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—Mervyn Rose, Australian left-hander with a safecracker's style of serving touch, sent veteran Vic Seixas of the United States to the sidelines today and turned South Australian tennis semi - finals into an all-Australian affair.

Further rocking the United States' already reeling Davis Cup hopes, Rose put the skids under an uninspired Seixas 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5.

It was the most ragged and uninteresting of the four quarter-final duels the spectators were to top-seeded Ashley Cooper, Mal Anderson and Neale Fraser.

Cooper eliminated the other foreign threat when he beat Belgium's Jacques Brichant in an exciting match, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4.

Anderson played his best tennis since his dream all U.S. title triumph at Forest Hills, N.Y., last year when he downed young Rod Laver of Australia 6-3, 6-1, 6-3.

Fraser cut down fellow Australian Roy Emerson 6-3, 6-1, 6-4.

Members of the United States, Belgian and Philippine Davis Cup teams thus will be on the sidelines when the Australians play the doubles semi-finals Wednesday and the singles Thursday. The singles line - up has Cooper against Anderson and Fraser against Rose.

Y. Weightlifters Win Trophy Over Bar-Bells

The Belleville and District Weight Lifting Championship took place Saturday night at the Y.M.C.A. A determined team of lifters from the Apollo Bar-Bell Club met their match when they attempted to take the Paul Meeler Trophy home. The trophy, presented in 1954 to boost Belleville weight lifting will be retained by the team for its fourth consecutive year. Apollo Club piled up team total of 2212 pounds, only to be exceeded by the YMCA, boys with a total of 2349 pounds. A difference of 137 pounds is considered a large margin in team weight lifting.

The individual totals of lifters in their class as follows:

132 lb. class: Bill McMurter, YMCA, 465; Bob De Genova, Apollo, 350.

148 lb. class: Bill McKay, unattached, 500; Bob Langabeer, Apollo, 485; D. Scrimshaw, Apollo 335.

Heavyweight divisions: Pete Green, YMCA, 570.

Cards Offered Nearly Million For Willie Mays

ST. LOUIS (AP)—It comes out now that the St. Louis Cardinals offered $750,000 and several players last June for Willie Mays.

The Globe-Democrat told the story today and Horace Stoneham, owner of the San Francisco (ex-New York) Giants, confirmed it in San Francisco.

"We made four offers for Mays, now totalling $1,000,000," The Globe - Democrat quoted Frank Lane, who was general manager of the Cardinals until he resigned last week and became general manager at Cleveland.

One of the Cardinal players involved was reported to be outfielder Wally Moon.

Lane said as he recalled it the Giants turned down the deal because they were in the midst of negotiating their transfer from New York to San Francisco and they feared a bad reaction from fans on the coast if they traded Willie off and then made the move.

Stoneham said this didn't have anything to do with it.

"We want to keep Willie because he's the best of all," Stoneham declared.

Joe Erskine Wins Empire Heavy Crown

LEICESTER, England (AP)—Fast - moving Joe Erskine of Wales outpointed Jamaican Joe Bygraves in a 15-round Empire heavyweight boxing title bout Monday night.

Erskine, after holding his own through three rounds of solid slugging, switched to longer-range tactics—and never looked back.

The Welshman clearly was the master by the sixth round. He pocketed the punches and had Bygraves fighting a ragged, retreating battle as he piled up points.

The 23-year-old Erskine, the new heavyweight champion, fought the fight of his life over the 15 rounds.

The weight in the fights were not officially listed.

SALARIES SLASHED

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers announced cuts in salary Monday for pitcher Don Drysdale, Duke Snider and Roy Campanella.

Buzzy Bavasi, assistant general manager, said Snider, although he had a good year in 1957, had agreed to a "token" cut in salary and that he would get in the neighborhood of $42,000 for the 1958 season.

Campenella, said Bavasi, had "miserable year, and I think Roy agrees with me on that, and he will get approximately $36,-000."

Reay Uses Watson Methods, Goalie Chadwick Benefits

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Coach Billy Reay of Toronto Maple Leafs recently adopted some of New York Coach Phil Watson's peculiarities and the apparent result last week was bad news to opposing National Hockey League snipers.

Reay publicly blasted the work of goaltender Ed Chadwick, saying Leafs were not getting big-league netminding. In Leafs' last two games they beat the best in the league.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press showed that Chadwick had the best "fielding" average among the six netminders. He stopped all but four of 72 shots for a .945 percentage. That boosted the season's mark seven points to .896 and put him in fifth place behind that of Montreal Canadiens' Jacques Plante.

It was Chadwick's best three-game performance of the season and Leafs won two of those games, losing another by a 2-1 score to Detroit Red Wings.

Meanwhile, Marcel Paille of New York Rangers had his worst week since replacing Lorne Worsley Nov. 2. The rookie was beaten eight times out of 88 shots for a .909 mark. Worsley registers league-leading percentage 12 points to .932.

It was Worsley who got a much-publicized blast from Watson last season. Leafs' time was not refreshed apparently worked because Rangers, with Worsley starring, went on a winning streak.

The only other goalkeeper to play in last season's record was Terry Sawchuk of Detroit, the most shot-at man in the league. Sawchuk, who handles an average of 32.3 shots a game, kicked out 28 of 88 drives aimed his way for a .943 percentage which placed four points behind last year's record of .912.

Player Demands Will Be Met By Grid Brass

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National Football League will grant all of the Players Association demands, probably by unanimous vote, it was learned Monday from reliable sources.

Commissioner Bert Bell recommended to league owners last month that they give the players what they want—two-platoon football, a pension plan, an injury protection clause and a minimum salary.

The source showed an actual copy of the commissioner's bulletin of Oct. 16, dealing with all phases of the league-Players Association squabble. The source said Bell had the 10 necessary votes to pass the measures and that the vote probably would be unanimous.

Bell's recommendations, if adopted as expected by the owners at either their Dec. 2 or mid-January meeting, probably would negate the $4,200,000 law suit threatened last week by Creighton Miller, attorney for the Players Association.

The source emphasized that Bell's recommendations were made long before Miller's threat to sue the league for treble damages" in support of the players' demands.

Hoekstra Tops Junior Loop Points Race

TORONTO (CP)—Ed Hoekstra of the league-leading St. Catharines Teepees picked up five points during the last week to put him in top spot in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series individual scoring race.

Hoekstra deposed teammate Stan Mikita to a tie for second place with Jerry Brisson of Peterborough Petes.

Hoekstra's 12 goals and eight assists for 20 points give him a one-point margin over Mikita and Brisson.

Brisson, who was in a three-way tie for fourth place last week, picked up six points to give him a total of 12 goals and seven assists.

Cesare Maniago allowed only two goals to break a tie with Bruce Gamble of Guelph Biltmores for sole possession of first place in the goaltending division. Maniago has allowed 34 goals in 10 games for 2.50 average.

Individual scoring:

	G	A	Pts.

Dutchies Play Russ Tonight Before 8,000

KITCHENER (CP) — First string goalie Nicholi Puchkov is expected to play many games in the current seven - game hockey tour of Eastern Canada by Moscow Dynamo.

It was learned here Monday that Puchkov, who suffered a fractured jaw in a game in Moscow on Nov. 3, has not been given medical permission to play tonight against Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

The Russian party arrived here Monday afternoon and within an hour the team and a 35-minute workout on Kitchener Auditorium ice. Coach Anatoli Tarasov said he was pleased with the ice which was much harder than that on which the team had played in Toronto and Windsor.

Tonight's game, a sellout, will be played before 8,000 packed into Kitchener auditorium as Dutchmen attempt to even up a 2-0 shutout handed them by the Russian national team at the 1956 Olympics in Cortina.

Kim Novak Stages Sitdown And Gets Better Contract

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Kim Novak says she staged a sitdown strike against her studio because "I don't like to have anyone take advantage of me."

All is cozy now between her and Columbia pictures. But a month ago they were at stiletto points after Kim refused to report for a haircut to Alfred Hitchcock for a new James Stewart movie, now called "Vertigo."

Backed by her new agents, she demanded an adjustment in her contract. It was granted.

Now she's ready to name calling, she got it.

"I'm on top now," she explained. "But who knows how long that will continue. I've got to start participating in the profits, too."

ENDS WOULDN'T MEET

"After all, you work hard so you can do the things you want, such as providing things for your family. But I couldn't do that on my salary. I couldn't do a lot of things."

"My salary was $1,250 a week. That sounds like a lot of money, but my take - home pay was around $600. Where does it go? You'd be surprised how easily it can go. And when you're well known, people think you're able to contribute more than others to charities."

"I was unable to buy sufficient clothes for myself. When I wanted to go to a party, I'd have to go to the studio and ask to borrow a dress that Rita Hayworth had worn in a picture. I'd have to get the studio's okay to buy hats, too. They'd complain and ask why I couldn't get it done myself on my own time. I'd have to explain the whole thing to them.

INDEPENDENT TYPE

"I'm a very independent person, and I didn't like that. Also, I don't like anyone to take advantage of me. The studio was making a great deal of money off me, and I was seeing very little of it.

"I didn't think that was fair. I don't feel an actress should have much advantage in a contract. I'd rather have it slightly on the disadvantage, so I can continue to fight hard. To have it in my direction would be bad. There I'd have an inferiority feeling and think I has to produce—or else."

Kim didn't know exactly what her new salary was, but it apparently is $2,750 a week. That puts her in the 25 per cent tax bracket, she admitted, but at least she is able to buy clothes, hire a secretary and have other deductible expenses, as well as do things for her family.

About her most recent release, "Pal Joey is a good picture—wonderful for Frank (Sinatra). But I hated my part. She didn't have the guts to fight for him or give him up. I hate weak women."

African Adventure Series Real Challenge to Westerns

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Bernard Schubert, "who has a reputation as a television program creator, took a look in the crystal ball the other day. He saw:

"African adventure series are the coming challenge to TV westerns—if they're done in an adult manner. I don't think they'll ever ride westerns off the range, but the chances are that we'll see an increasing number of them."

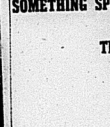
Schubert, producer of White Hunter, a series of African adventures filmed in Kenya, said: "Africa is both the most untouched part of the world and at the same time the most tremendously publicized part of the world. In Africa you have combinations of many things—of animals and primitive emotions, for example. These things capture people's imaginations.

"I think that's why movies with an African background have made more money percentage-wise than any other type of movie."

There are difficulties connected with managing TV films in Africa, Schubert said.

"Animals are poor actors. They don't take directions well." At witness, for example, a rhino that bowled over a camera Jeep of the White Hunter production company.

"And many Africans themselves are difficult actors. They want to watch the camera and they think that making films is hilarious fun instead of work."



In one program a group of Africans were supposed to chase a couple of white actors to a cliff over which the actors were to leap. The Africans thought it was great fun. They chased them so fast that they kept catching them before the hard-running actors could reach the cliff.

By the time the Africans agreed to follow directions, the white actors were tired to run. So the sequence had to be postponed until the next day.

Hammarskjold Has Good Chance To Ease Tension

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) Diplomats said today United Nations Secretary-General U Thant Hammarskjold has a good chance of easing border tensions and may tackle two other big problems on his visit to the Middle East.

The Palestine refugee issue and charges that Turkey threatens to invade Syria were regarded as subjects Hammarskjold might take up.

He announced Monday night he will leave Friday for Jordan and will go to Israel and cities in the area if his one-week schedule permits.

UN officials indicated that visits to Damascus, Cairo and Jerusalem may follow the trip to Amman. Syria, Egypt, Israel and Jordan all have been involved in recent flareups threatening a new crisis.

AFTER LEARY FUSS

Hammarskjold's decision to go to the Middle East apparently was spurred by Jordan's rejection of U.S. Marine Gen. Byron Leary as a UN mediation officer. Jordan said Sunday it considered Leary biased for Israel and no longer will accept his recommendations. New exchanges of gunfire on Israel's borders with Jordan and Syria also appear to have played a part in the decision.

Shooting was reported on the Syrian-Israeli border Monday. Israel charged that Syrian troops fired on settlers and on a car near the Israeli village of Dan, close to the area where an Israeli field worker was reported killed Sunday.

Another version came from Damascus. A Syrian military spokesman said Israeli forces pursuit unit entered the demilitarized zone and fired on Arab shepherds near Daeir el Moghawer. The spokesman said the Israelis "interfere" to Dan, but he mentioned no gunfire there.

DRIVER CHARGED

CORNWALL (CP) — Sandra Nidovitch, 5, was killed Wednesday when struck by a car while on her way to school. Police charged Edward Parent, 18, with careless driving.

St. Laurent Looks Anxious to Return to Work

OTTAWA (CP) — Rt. Hon. Louis Stephen St. Laurent looks like a man who can hardly wait to get back to work.

For nine years, he was Liberal prime minister of Canada. Now as Opposition leader in the Commons, he has no government work to do and he gives the appearance of hardly being able to put up with the inactivity.

Mr. St Laurent is 75—he looks much younger—but when his successor as Liberal party chieftain is chosen in January, he plans to return to his law practice in Quebec City.

One might have thought that once Mr. St. Laurent announced his intention to retire as Liberal leader he would encourage Ottawa for a well-earned rest.

ATTENDS FAITHFULLY

On the contrary, however, he has clearly been determined during this session probably more faithfully than any other member of the House.

In some ways, Mr. St. Laurent appears a forlorn figure in the Commons chamber. It is obviously hard for him to get used to his new role after years of making decisions which affected the lives of all or nearly all Canadians.

He has said little in the Commons in the first six weeks of the current parliamentary session. He has made only one public address — that in the throne speech debate—and has otherwise been content to put a few questions to cabinet ministers during the daily question period.

But it is obvious who is still the boss. When a matter affecting Liberal policy crops up in the Commons, the former Liberal cabinet ministers immediately huddle with Mr. St. Laurent to get his advice.

The contrast between Mr. St. Laurent and Prime Minister Diefenbaker is marked.

Mr. Diefenbaker has been likened to that between a corporation lawyer (which Mr. St. Laurent is) and a jury lawyer (which Mr. Diefenbaker is).

Mr. St. Laurent in the Commons has always been quiet, polite and courtly and it takes a great deal to get him riled. Mr. Diefenbaker, on the other hand, is really flamboyant and has the facility for arousing the deskthumping approbation of his followers.

Fee-Splitting Case Taken to Supreme Court

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada has been asked to rule on the validity of Windsor, Ont., bylaws governing its medical staff and prohibiting doctors who use its facilities to engage in fee-splitting or lose their hospital privileges.

Notice of the appeal has been served by counsel for Drs. Harold Hoverson, J. H. Spence and Donald B. Ferguson, Windsor doctors who have already carried their opposition to the bylaws unsuccessfully through two courts.

The three doctors, who are supported by other London and district medical practitioners, maintain that the hospital has no power to legislate on matters concerning medical practice.

Counsel for the hospital trustees and the medical staff have argued, as far successfully, that the trustees can legislate on any moral matters that affect the welfare and control of the hospital.

Arthur Roberts, manager of the auction firm, said he remembers selling the book.

"This is the first time anything like this has happened in the firm's 56 years; during which time we have sold 1,400,000 lots," he said.

INHERITS BOOK

Mrs. Stevenson inherited the book from Eleanor Dunsmuir who died in 1938, Miss Dunsmuir, who travelled extensively, had had the book bound in leather sections in a house at Comox, B.C. "I've talked to the family about it and we feel she must have bought it while travelling in Europe," Mr. Mitchell said. "But the book really has been to Van-couver Island twice."

She added:

"I can't help laughing about it. There I was in Monte Carlo almost flat broke and not knowing that all the time I had a book worth almost half a million dollars kicking around."

PROVINCIAL

Premier Bennett of British Columbia said the federal government took a somewhat different stand on dividing the tax fields. His plan would bring the provinces a total of $927,553,000 compared with Finance Minister Campbell's $986,872,000 scheme.

SHOW UNITED FRONT

The three Maritime provinces were the same group which presented a united front on a major request: Special: "adjustment grants" from the federal government to cushion declines in the provinces' revenue from the federal tax fields.

Premiers Stanfield of Nova Scotia, Flemming of New Brunswick and Shaheen of Prince Edward Island all argued that the present equalization payments formula, with special payments based on average personal income level, fell below their national average.

None of the three put a specific tag on what it would cost to offset that disadvantage in their governments, although Mr. Matheson called for an extra $5,000,000 per year on top of the $4,793,000 the federal government pays P.E.I. now. They seem suggested any specific split on taxes.

Quebec Premier Duplessis made no specific claims either, except to say the federal government takes too large a share of the national revenue and that taxing powers should be redefined.

"We are not here to seek favors but to claim our rights," he said in a free-wheeling speech.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his team called the conference at his first since taking office—to "listen and learn" about what the provinces want. The federal tax proposals would come at a later meeting.

But in his speech preceding the premiers he said: "Obviously we cannot do everything that all the provincial governments would wish us to do . . ."

His only commitment was that no province under any new tax-sharing arrangement would receive less than it now does.

The federal tax - sharing arrangement, put in effect last April 1 for a five-year period by the former Liberal government, provides provinces with this share of the three direct tax fields: 10 per cent of federal personal income tax collected in a province, nine per cent of taxable corporation income and 50 per cent of succession duties.

This 15-15-50 formula received the endorsement of Premier Premier Douglas.

B.C.'s Premier Bennett proposed, in effect, a 25-11-50 formula. The 11 per cent of corporation taxable income would be equivalent to one-quarter of the present tax on corporations.

None of the provinces suggested a change from the present arrangement which gives Ottawa an option between "renting" the tax fields to the provinces for the government and collecting their share through tax - rental payments, or leaving the provinces taxes with a corresponding reduction in the federal tax paid in the province.

The existing equalization payments are also controversial, with less wealthy provinces with a high income level than the other tax fields equal to the average of that received in the two wealthiest, Ontario and British Columbia. The payments, without strings, now are made to all provinces except Ontario.

Manitoba's plan was to hoist the general level of this scheme by basing it on the per capita tax yield in the wealthiest province, Ontario.

Ontario's Premier Frost did not repeat a demand he has made on earlier occasions that the equalization payments should be based on the average of the top four provinces. The effect of this would be to cut the plan's general level of assistance.

There were a number of side proposals made by the premiers. Ontario called, in effect, for a bigger share of taxation on commodities exploiting mining and forestry resources. Premier Frost said the provincial taxes paid by these companies should be deducted from their federal tax payments.

Provincial Chiefs Leave Ottawa Empty-Handed

Early Federal Action Indicated by Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial premiers are leaving Ottawa empty-handed on immediate tax-sharing proposals, but with indications of early federal action to sweeten their treasuries in other ways.

The 10 provincial chiefs got no federal commitments on basic changes in existing tax arrangements at the federal-provincial conference that ended late Tuesday, but they received assurances of federal aid in some directions.

And they were told that a new conference will be convened as early as possible in the new year to receive the central government's decisions on a multitude of treasury-dipping propositions advanced by the provinces at the conference during the last two days.

Finance Minister Donald Fleming estimated for the conference Tuesday that all the provincial demands could add up to well over $1,000,000,000 a year, against some $600,000,000 which the central treasury now is paying out in various forms of grants and tax rental agreements.

CHILLING FIGURE

His whopping figure — around one-third the annual $3,000,000,000 budget — appeared to throw cold water on some of the claims of the provinces, particularly in the light of the new Progressive Conservative government's avowal to cut taxes.

However, informants said after a final private meeting between Prime Minister Diefenbaker and provincial premiers that no big decisions on the provinces' proposals were delivered to the provinces.

Mr. Diefenbaker announced to reporters that, while considering provincial propositions, the federal government intends to go ahead on its own on a number of matters not directly tied to tax-sharing to help out the provinces.

A major one would be special "grants-in-aid" to the four Atlantic provinces, which Newfoundland their present relatively unfavorable economic position as against the general level of income in Canada.

While the prime minister specified nothing publicly about this, informants said privately that the grants might run to between $20,000,000 and $35,000,000 a year, to be handed out on the five provinces later by discussions between them and the federal government. They would be in addition to any tax-sharing agreements.

Expectations were that the Bank Interest Rate Reduced By ¼ Per Cent

TORONTO (CP)—The interest rate charged by Canadian banks on prime loans will be reduced by ¼ per cent from the present 5¾ per cent to 5½, effective Dec. 2, it was learned in banking circles today.

The present rate has been in effect since Aug. 26.

The prime rate is the one charged by favoured borrowers and is the governing rate which in effect decides what other rates will be.

Accordingly, it is understood that the reduction in the prime rate will influence rates on all other bank loans downward.

United Nations Tackles Tangled Algerian Problem

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) United Nations diplomats tackle the festering Algerian situation today amid new talk of direct negotiation between France and the North African rebels.

The heated question was before the UN General Assembly political committee for renewed debate.

Arab delegates expressed hope that the United States and Britain will support mediation of the three-year rebellion. The delegates attached considerable importance to current talks in Washington of King Mohammed V of Morocco.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP)—Synopsis: A weak weather system developing over Lake Michigan this morning will pass through Southern Ontario today. The chief effect of this disturbance has spread over most of Ontario and some is falling north of Lake Superior and Georgian Bay. Southern Ontario will have sunny intervals this afternoon with increasing cloudiness this evening followed by a few scattered showers late tonight. Temperatures are considerably higher throughout the province today than those recorded Tuesday but cloudy and cold weather will return to the entire province Thursday.

DUNCAN URGES WELSH TO RESCUE CANADA FROM U.S.

Economic Dependence Seen Threat to Liberty

CARDIFF, Wales (CP) — A Canadian spokesman has called on the industrialists in Wales to go to Canada to help offset the economic pull of the United States.

"It is only a short step between the loss of economic liberty and the loss of political liberty," James Duncan of Toronto, deputy minister of trade and commerce, said Tuesday night in a speech to the Welsh Industrial Development Association.

"Canada's total loss "must never happen to us," he added, urging Welshmen to concentrate all their efforts on exports to Canada even if this should mean curtailing home sales.

Welsh speakers agreed every effort should be made and a concerted move be undertaken by them to find out what Canadians want. They visiting centers in Canada.

But Alderman J. H. Morgan Cardiff's lord mayor, while praising the mission's visit, said that Canada should follow Australia's lead and make greater use of Cardiff as a port for the movement of goods to Britain.

NOTES SALES DROP

At the same time he urged greater Canadian purchases of Welsh coal, noting that there has been an "alarming" drop in shipments to Canada to about 65,000 tons in 1957 from 1,000,000 tons in some previous years.

Duncan spoke at the conclusion of a gala welcoming banquet held for the mission in the ancient banquet hall of Cardiff Castle.

The Welsh Minister Gordon Churchill, mission leader, said it never entered his head that he would be dining in a castle with such an historical background. Parts of it had been established in the times of the Normans.

Leonard Bloomington of Toronto, 69-year-old mission member and a native of Cardiff, also spoke to the audience but became ill earlier in the day. He was in hospital at Cardiff, not north of Bristol. Churchill said his condition was improving.

The mission started its month-long tour Tuesday in the midst of luxury and enthusiasm.

Two Perish In Windsor Fire

WINDSOR (CP)—Two persons are dead following a fire Tuesday night in their apartment.

Mrs. Arthur Shafer, about 35, was found dead and her husband, 69, died in hospital of burns and exposure.

City firemen who broke into the locked ground-floor apartment, found Mrs. Shafer's body in the den which was in flames.

British Papers Predict Eisenhower Will Turn Over Presidency to Nixon

LONDON (CP)—Some newspapers predict today that President Eisenhower will be the first United States president to resign from office.

Shocked and saddened by news of Eisenhower's illness, Western Europe halfway expected an early announcement that the ailing 67-year-old president has decided to turn the government over to Vice-President Nixon.

Official reaction to the illness was more restrained than that of newspapers. The press filled columns with medical texts, feature articles and personality sketches on Nixon.

In London, a front-page headline in the mass-circulation Evening News asks: Will He Resign?

It adds in another headline: "If Health Fails, I go."

In a dispatch from Washington, The Daily Express assumed the president's resignation is only a matter of time. The story says: "President Eisenhower's latest illness almost certainly means that he will quit the White House compromised."

TALKING TRADE IN GREAT BRITAIN

The Hon. Gordon Churchill, minister of trade and commerce and leader of the 50-man trade mission to Britain, talks to Sir William Goodacre, governor of the dollar exports council, in London. The Canadian delegation is trying to find a way to switch 15 per cent of Canada's purchases from American markets to Britain. So far British press reaction has expressed scepticism.

Russia Privately Indicates Willingness to Resume Talks

OTTAWA (CP)—Russia has indicated privately to Western nations it may be willing to resume East - West disarmament negotiations next spring, it was learned here last Tuesday night.

Informants said that though the Russians have said at the United Nations they will not participate in deliberations of the UN disarmament commission as now constituted, the Soviets have told some commission members privately that they may well be prepared to resume disarmament negotiations in four or five months.

However, the Russians apparently want to conduct negotiations exclusively with the United States, the world's other major nuclear power, and may go over the head of the UN commission in the hope that fresh agreement with the U.S.

Sources here stressed that the understanding given by the Russians privately at the UN regarding resumed disarmament negotiations could be countermanded by Moscow.

At the same time, however, there appeared new hope here that East - West disarmament talks, stalled since last summer, may be resumed next year.

There is a growing body of opinion here that chances of a disarmament agreement might be improved by bilateral negotiations between the U.S. and Russia.

It is not known whether this is the Canadian government's view, Britain and France likely would object to being excluded from disarmament negotiations.

Disarmament talks have been conducted in the main by the representing the U.S., Britain, France, Canada and Russia. Canada has made it clear it is willing to quit the subcommittee if this would aid negotiations.

The view here is that the Russians may be behind the U.S. in the testing of small tactical atomic weapons and want to conduct more tests before resuming disarmament negotiations.

The West has insisted since 1946 that any disarmament agreement must include provision for inspection to make sure that the agreement is lived up to. By postponing negotiations, the Russians would avoid inspection until the tests were completed.

NATO Nations Given Choice Of Nixon Now or Ike Later

PARIS (AP) — The United States is willing to go ahead with next month's NATO summit conference with Vice-President Nixon sitting in for ailing President Eisenhower, if the NATO allies prefer, it was learned today.

Whether the conference will be held on that basis is up to the other 14 nations in the alliance, a first reported reaction was that they would agree.

Informed sources in London said the British government feels the conference should go ahead as scheduled with Nixon as the top U.S. representative. They said the British view is that the big meeting still should be held at the heads of government level and that there should be no postponement.

Similar reactions were expressed by France, Italy and The Netherlands.

The U.S. spokesman said the American office will be communicated to the NATO council Thursday at the regular NATO council session here.

A spokesman for the U.S. delegation to NATO said that instructions from Ottawa in addition to market losses in New York Tuesday.

Paris newspapers bemoan Eisenhower's temporary removal from active direction of U.S. policy. Says the independent Figaro: "The presidential inspiration, which should animate the entire American governmental machine after long months of inefficiency, is suddenly interrupted.

In Stockholm, the newspaper Tidningen quotes a Swedish brain specialist as saying Eisenhower's illness is grave.

Rome's official Communist newspaper Unita says the president probably has "a form of arteriosclerosis" and predicts "the physical and intellectual effort of the president must be drastically reduced in the future, if his health is not to be definitely compromised."

FOREIGN POLICY FULLY DEBATED IN PARLIAMENT

Unanimity on Canada's Approach to Problems

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons today turned from the chilly world situation to a chilling domestic problem—unemployment.

The government hopes the commons today will put through all stages legislation to extend to 24 from 16 weeks the period in which seasonal unemployment benefits may be paid. This extension, at the end of the period which now runs from Jan. 1 to April 15 would cost about $13,000,000.

Tuesday's sitting was entirely occupied by a foreign policy debate. With a few major exceptions, there was unanimity on Canada's approach to world problems.

External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith, making his maiden speech with some aplomb, declared that the alliance's duty to the free world

T.S. Aicken of Belton Wins Cheese Show Championship

The 30th annual British Empire Dairy Show is almost over for another year. Judges have finished their work with well over 150 cheeses in the market building.

This year's show is bigger and better than last year's and it appears as though the dairy show may be regaining some of its old esprit de corps.

Entries this year came from many parts of Ontario and Wisconsin. The Wisconsin cheddar cheeses, called daisies or long horns because of their shape, won fourth, eighth and ninth places in the universal class. This was the first year that American cheesemakers have entered the show.

The general public will have access to the display today and all day tomorrow until 6 p.m.

This morning the cheesemakers' convention started in the Kiwanis Centre on Dundas St. east. Tomorrow night a banquet will end the convention.

Foremen's Club Ladies' Night Much Enjoyed

"In the life of every man and woman there is a place for dreams, but they must sort the worthy dreams from the unworthy. When we cease to dream, we cease to grow", said John Halcrow last night at the annual Ladies' Night of the Quinte District Foremen's Club.

Mr. Halcrow is general manager of the London, Ont., Y.W.-Y.M.C.A. and he addressed the mixed gathering in the Knights of Columbus Hall here.

He said there are times at rooms and at work when a "little bit of creative thinking and judicial thinking" help people along the way in this rapidly changing world.

"The changes of the past are going to be insignificant in comparison to the changes of the nation of Mr. Sauerow.

Last recruary he heard a group of scientists discussing a man a eventual conquest or outer space. At that time the scientists were successful in getting an animal in an artificial earth satellite into space by the 1960s. Human beings would be fired into space aboard pistol-borne rockets by 1970 years. However, since Russia has already launched a dog 'we have shown we could what we can do.

Last recruary he heard a group of scientists discussing a man a eventual conquest or outer space. At that time the scientists were successful in getting an animal in an artificial earth satellite into space by the 1960s. Human beings would be fired into space aboard pistol-borne rockets by 1970 years. However, since Russia has already launched a dog 'we have shown we could what we can do.

Because man is changing the world so rapidly, Mr. Harcrow sees a need for the human race to achieve happiness so that further success will allow man to face those changes without over-straining his emotional makeup.

"In order to achieve happiness we must succeed," he said, "we must know ourselves. Someone once said that man, in a lifetime, used 10 per cent of his talent and he doesn't come close to using that. Therefore, you can see how important it is that we have good leaders and — God bless them — some good followers."

Mr. Halcrow recently spent a week at the United Nations and "what I saw there makes me ask you to pray for that worthy organization and its leaders so that the UN will continue to function."

WISHED SUCCESS

In conclusion, Mr. Halcrow wished further success to the Foremen's Club and YM-CA-YWCA.

Prior to Mr. Halcrow's address, women of Tabernacle United Church prepared and served a turkey dinner. Thanks were extended to the caterers by Lionel Blaker, president of the club.

Di Diamantides introduced Mr. Halcrow and Doug McLean thanked him for his address.

The invocation and sermonette were said by the Rev. Andrew MacKenzie, principal of Albert College.

In the sermonette, Dr. MacKenzie pointed out that it is necessary for couples to "keep their children that marriage is a "glorious mystery ... a union of life ... a school that exercises virtues and is the nursery of the family."

"Family life," he said, "is an important bulwark of society but many parents are neglecting to prove to their children that marriage builds character, cools and heaven itself."

Gerald Hyde, the Y.M.C.A.'s official representative at the banquet, extended greetings and best wishes for the future.

A toast to the ladies was proposed by Lionel Blaker. Mrs. R. Mitas replied.

After the dinner meeting adjourned, members and guests spent the remainder of the evening dancing and enjoying a few Chinese sections. Tap dancers, trained by Dorothy Dickey, entertained.

The entertainment committee, headed by Frank Grandame, was responsible for the festivities.

Fire Destroys Melrose Store And Contents

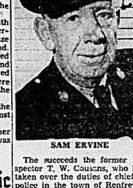
The Melrose district, 15 miles northeast of Belleville, lost another general store Tuesday afternoon when fire completely destroyed store and contents owned by Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Pascoe.

Belleville firemen were unable to save the store and concentrated on protecting the Pascoe residence and barn close by.

Origin of the fire, which quickly razed the Pascoe store was not determined. Neither was the extent of the loss estimated.

Store owner Mr. Pascoe told Belleville firemen that he had gone to the house for about ten minutes and on his return to the store was met by a wall of smoke and fire as he opened the door.

He tried to check the fire with water but was unable to determine the location of the blaze and it was quickly out of hand.



Belleville firemen were called and although the fire was beyond control and as firemen neared Melrose smoke and flames were rolling through the roof into the area.

Nothing was saved from the store and Mr. Pascoe even lost his accounts and records.

Several years ago the former Pringle Store at Melrose was burned.

Mother, Child In Hospital After Collision

A Belleville mother and her two-week-old daughter were taken to Belleville General Hospital this morning after their car was struck broadside by another vehicle at the corner of Victoria and Bleecker Avenues.

In hospital with chest and shoulder injuries is Mrs. Leslie Lennox, 38, of 159 Bleecker Ave. Her daughter Bonnie, age 2, suffered a cut ear and possible other injuries.

The Lennox car was completely wrecked as it was struck broadside on the driver's side, then spun around, knocking over a hydro pole and rolling on its side.

Reports were that rescuers lifted the pole off the car, then tipped the car back onto its wheels. A passing motorist took the girl to hospital, while Mrs. Lennox went to the hospital in Bush's Ambulance.

Police said Mrs. Lennox was southbound on Bleecker when her car was struck by a westbound car on Victoria Ave. driven by Robert George Schamerhorn, 21, of the second concession of Thurlow. Damage to the 1954 model Lennox auto was estimated to be $200 and to the Schamerhorn vehicle, $200.

Police Constable Robert Bland investigated.

Diamond Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Trudeau Of Tweed Receive Greetings From Queen on Anniversary

With six stalwart sons forming a family guard of honor and friends and other relatives paying congratulatory tribute, Mr. and Mrs. James Trudeau of Tweed celebrated their diamond wedding jubilee on November 23.

Sixty years of happy marital life were marked by a High Mass of thanksgiving celebrated at St. Carthagh's Church, Tweed where they pledged their wedding vows three-score years ago.

Later a jubilee dinner was served at the Tweedsmuir Hotel attended by the immediate family, their wives and children, the Very Reverend Dean L. B. Garvin, Very Reverend Dean J. L. Shannon and the Reverend Father Peter Murphy.

Following congratulations by the priests in attendance, a toast to Mr. and Mrs. Trudeau was proposed by the Very Reverend Dean Shannon. Responses to the toast were given by each of the six sons.

Messages of congratulation were received from Her Majesty the Queen, Lee Grills, M.P., and Mr. and Mrs. Michael O'Connor (nee Jeanne Trudeau).

SEVEN CHILDREN

Seven children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Trudeau. The six sons are Michael of Cloyne, Jack J. and Martin of Belleville and Stanley, Ambrose and Aloysius of Tweed. An only daughter, Cecilia, is deceased. Members of the family include 15 grandchildren and twelve great-grandchildren.

True people of the soil, Mr. and Mrs. Trudeau lived in an agricultural atmosphere all their lives until they retired eleven years ago to reside in Tweed. They are enjoying very good health and carry on their usual household duties.

Mr. Trudeau was born in Bonar, in 1874 the son of Mitchell Trudeau and Mary Rashotte. Mrs. Trudeau is a daughter of John Cassidy and Mary E. McGrath and was born in Erinsville.

Following their marriage in St. Carthagh's Church, Tweed, at which the Reverend Father Fleming officiated, they started farming at Stoco. A year later they moved to a farm north of Tweed where they resided until their retirement.

LOW PRICES RECALLED

Retentive memories recalled the many changes in living conditions since that wedding day sixty years ago. When they started farming hogs sold for 5 to 6 cents per pound dressed. In the fall and winter they brought three cents per pound from lumber camps. Cheese sold at six cents, but delivered to Larkin's Station brought $6.00 per ton. Oats delivered were worth 25 cents per bushel. Wages in lumber camps were from $8 to $14 per month with board and harvest laborers received 50 cents per day and board. A man and team got $3 per cents per day in logging camps.

Mr. Trudeau recalled the first team of horses he purchased cost him $25. His first grain binder cost him $145.

One of a family of four boys and three girls, Mr. Trudeau recalled his father was a member of a family of 21. Mrs. Trudeau is one of a family of five girls and five boys. Her father John Cassidy born in Newburgh died at the age of 102.

Mr. and Mrs. Trudeau were "at home" to their many friends and relatives in Tweed on Saturday afternoon.

The annual meeting of the Belleville Community Concert Association was held Monday evening at the YMCA. The president, Mr. Clifford Templer, acted as chairman.

A review of the year's work was highlighted by the reports of various committee chairmen and members of the executive. Messrs. J. E. Moore and W. J. Vandervoort were appointed assistors for the year.

A lively discussion ensued concerning the coming 25th anniversary of community concerts in Belleville. Several suggestions were forthcoming for a suitable recognition of this event. A silver jubilee committee, headed by Mrs. W. H. Finkle, was appointed, to report at the January meeting. Those serving on this committee are: Mrs. H. Blakely, Miss Leona Riggs, Mrs. R. E. Brown, Mrs. T. R. Dolan, Mr. R. H. Tanner and Mr. Clifford Templer.

The report of the nominating committee submitted by the chairman, Mrs. Finkle, was received and accepted. The new slate of officers is as follows:

President, Miss Leona R. Riggs; first vice-president, Mr. R. H. Tanner; second vice-president, Mr. J. G. Demess; third vice-president, Mr. G. R. Cameron; secretary, Mrs. W. J. Vandervoort; treasurer, Mr. W. D. LaFrance; publicity chairman, Mrs. H. S. Robbins; campaign co-chairman, Mrs. R. L. Warren. The five incoming directors are: Miss Evelyn Coulter, Mrs. S. Jones, Mrs. Vandervoort, W. S. Turner, Rev. H. M. Davis and Lt.-Col. E. S. Fairman. The artist selection committee will consist of: Mr. C. Templer, Mrs. Finkle, Mr. J. Mayhew, Mrs. A. C. Locke, Mr. J. W. Deacon, Mrs. E. O. Butler, Mrs. Egerton Boyle.

The retiring president thanked Mr. Templer, in his capacity as incoming president, mentioned that the renewed membership for Miss Riggs to head the organization in its 25th year, for the fine work and the guiding spirits in its founding. Miss Riggs graciously responded, saying the association has always been near and dear to her heart. She felt honored in being president in this anniversary year.

Mr. R. H. Tanner voiced the thanks of the association to Mr. Templer for his able leadership.

Major Motion Picture Studio Sold to Arnaz

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz Tuesday agreed to buy a major motion picture studio.

A spokesman said only minor details remain to be worked out for their purchase of RKO Studios from the General Tire and Rubber Company which bought it from Howard Hughes for $25,000,000 two years ago, made a few pictures, then let it lapse into idleness as far as theatrical films are concerned.

The RKO properties are being sold for $6,000,000, said a spokesman for General Tire in Akron, Ohio.

Martin Leeds, executive vice-president of Desilu Productions, said Miss Ball and Arnaz will broadcast out into production of films for television after the success of their I Love Lucy show, will use the studio for an expanded production program.

Stock Markets In N.Y., Toronto Show Gains

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was showing gains yesterday as high as $2 a share in active dealings today.

Action in the market contrasted sharply with late Tuesday, when prices plunged following news of President Eisenhower's illness.

Among the many large opening blocks were 4,000 shares of Radio Corporation, up 87 cents at $30; 4,000 shares of U.S. Steel, up 62 cents at $53; 2,500 shares of Chrysler, up $1.37 at $67.75; 2,000 shares of Anaconda, up 75 cents at $43.37.

TORONTO (CP)—Prices on the Toronto stock exchange were generally firm in opening trading today as buying appeared. A last minute selling wave Tuesday pounded prices lower.

Most of the buying was confined to interlisted stocks—issues which are traded both here and on the New York market—which were the heaviest losers in the sell which occurred following the medical bulletin on President Eisenhower late Tuesday afternoon.

Aluminium, Imperial Oil and International Nickel each scored $1 gains among key issues. There were, however, a few losers in the same range but these were among lightly traded stocks.

FARM PRODUCTIVITY INCREASES

In these inflationary times, businessmen are always talking about the need for increased productivity per man-hour, to justify the continual requests for higher wage rates. But there is an industry in Canada which has seen its man-hour output raised by almost 75 per cent in nine years, yet whose workers are probably worse off, in terms of real wages, than they were back in 1946.

This startling picture can be deduced from an article in this month's issue of "Canadian Business," published by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

The industry in question is agriculture. The figures quoted in the article were taken from the report of the Gordon Commission and are thus not "news" in one sense of the word, but it is probable that few Canadians realize the enviable record the farmer has established in increased productivity since the end of the war.

The physical volume of output per farm has increased by 30 per cent, and this, coupled with the fact that the number of farmers and hired men has declined, results in an increase in gross physical output per man-hour of almost 75 per cent.

The farmer, of course, has had assistance in establishing this record. He has been able to make greater use of electricity. It was used on half the farms in Canada in 1951; five years later this percentage rose to 73.5 per cent.

More farm machinery has helped increase productivity per man-hour. In 1951 there were 64 tractors for every 100 farms in Canada. A gain of 25 per cent in the number of tractors and a decline of 48,000 in the number of farms resulted in there being 87 tractors for every 100 farms by 1956, with the prairie provinces reporting around 120 tractors for every 100 farms.

Accompanying the increase in the use of tractors, there was, of course, a decline in the number of horses. There were fewer horses, 40 per cent, in 1956 than in 1951. While 72.5 per cent of Canadian farms had a horse in 1951, five years later almost half the farms, 45 per cent, had no horses at all. The most severe decline in the number of farms with horses was in Ontario, drop in the number of farms with a horse in 1951, only where 59 per cent of the farms had a horse in 1951, only 43 per cent in 1956. Quebec remained the province with the most horses, 73 per cent of the farms there still having a horse by 1956. It is interesting to note that a study by the Department of Agriculture showed that some operations on small Quebec farms actually required fewer man-hours per acre with horses than with a tractor, so that the high percentage of farms in Quebec still using horses does not necessarily mean that farmers there are failing to take advantage of the opportunity to increase productivity per man-hour by greater use of machinery.

Partly offsetting the high man-hour productivity of the farm worker has been the decline in the number of those engaged in agriculture. In 1946 the average number of paid (not family) farm workers was 147,000; by 1956 it was only 101,000. Farmers and their families were also becoming less numerous, there being 48,000 fewer farms and 165,000 fewer people on them.

The article in Canadian Business also deals with the increase in productivity resulting from the greater use of fertilizers and of chemicals used to protect seeds, crops and livestock from insects, fungi and weeds.

The article does not deal with the end result of this increased productivity — but it is fairly obvious that the farmer has not reaped the full benefits of the larger amount of goods he produces, because prices have declined.

In one sense, this fits in well with the law of supply and demand. But it does seem a shame that a man who has learned to produce more should not derive more benefit from this increased productivity than the farmer has done. Moreover, it should be noted that increased productivity per man-hour does not necessarily mean that the cost of producing a given quantity of goods has been lowered by a proportionate amount. Electricity, farm machinery, fertilizers and pesticides all cost money and this cost must be charged against the increased productivity they make possible. The increased productivity has, in many cases, fallen far short of making the farmer rich but has been just sufficient to enable him to remain solvent in his battle with falling prices.

MAKE GOOD

The man who like is the man who wins,
The man with a mighty will
Who plods away, through the heat of the day,
And journeys up the hill.
His is the hand we fix to grasp;
He is the man we would
Clasp to our breast with friendly zest—
The man who is making good.

For whether he is on land or sea,
In peace or the bloody fray,
The men we cheer are the men who steer
A straight-way course each day.
Not the man who falters and drops aside,
But the man who has boldly stood
In the thick of the fight for the cause of right—
The man who is making good.

Then here's to the man, today, say I,
Who strives with a heart of cheer
With his red blood warm in his manly form
Though envy's at his heel.
Yes, here's to the man who toils right on
Though he be misunderstood.
I make my bow to him right now —
The man who is making good.

Eggs Not for Throwing

By John Gould in the Christian Science Monitor

The new Russian accomplishment of hurling matter into outer space seems to have a brave American, counterpart in brawny eggs at Secretary Benson—a sport which may not only be jolly to those who do it, but in the light of that gentleman's public utterances, may even be amusing to him. As for me, I think the egg as a missile or weapon merits some reflection, for I have tried it.

The egg, in spite of superficial similarities, is not a true missile. It tends to loop. It is heavier on one end, and with a side-arm or shy delivery it will curve as much as a boomerang although it happily does not come back. To score a direct hit with an egg requires careful practice with speed and distance. The aerodynamic quality is erratic. I threw eggs many years ago, and have not done it lately, and it would take a lot today to tempt me to throw one at anybody except in a cabinet crisis.

My thoughts were peaceful in those days, having been brought up with an egg myself; parents and I used eggs only in self-defence. I was, in fact, belligerent. But I did not start by throwing eggs at people, but rather at a target, and my aim was not good in the early stages of my development that I would one day use eggs at people.

What happened was that my father had a surviving pen of a doomed breed of poultry — Anconas, they were called. They are now gone, or at least I wouldn't recognize them and say, look it's contributed the better qualities of their nature to numerous handsome creatures now famous. The Dominique was the "little speckled hen" of olden tales, and merited more than oblivion, but when all the world is hybrid, who shall be pure? The Dominique went his, or her, way and this was the end.

I guess my Dad had the last of them, and he was sentimental. But he decided to let the hens were eight and ten years old, and tired. The young were tender, and relinquished their enthusiasms. The reproduction system of the hens was failing, so many an egg to make a batch. Dad could have switched to Orpingtons, or Reds, and made money, but he liked his little Anconas, and he hated to quit on them.

Now these hens would sit around a good deal, and then one of them would up and lay an egg. Then there would be a burst of industry and afterward would go to setting. If anything came of it, they would come off in three weeks with a brood of chicks, but if nothing happened, as usually did, the old hen would sit there and sit there and start a crack in a boarding and persist and persist. When all hope was gone, we'd stick the unlucky old girl in a broody-coop and "break her up," and presently we'd go into a mouth and sit on a roost for months and get all ready to try again.

Fortunately, Father didn't depend on his hens for his revenue, although he did win all the prizes at poultry shows in his class and I suppose nobody else had Dominiques any more, and certain income kept up to feed the bills.

The upshot was that we always had a lot of eggs on hand which had failed to hatch. They would not get up to the market to the ordinary channels of trade, and it was my chore to dispose of them, and I was doing it from time to time and dispose of them. I buried them, mostly. Out on a knoll, near the edge of the woods and away from the buildings, we had a little hencoop about eight-by-ten feet square, and I buried in that decided to set. This kept them quiet, away from the burning of the eggs exploding, which meant our accumulation of unsuccessful eggs built up out there.

One day I was cleaning out this hatching house, and I chanced to scale an egg off against the greenward at a mossspot on a yellow birch tree in the edge of the woods. It was a heave of maybe 100 feet, and I missed the tree by a mile. I was not then on the baseball team at the time, and had a good peg. I could throw like a bag just right for a quick tag. But an egg is not a baseball, and I missed.

This interested me, and I drove another. After a number of eggs I got the hang of it, and found an underhanded toss was better than any other kind of throw. In time, using a few eggs whenever I had to clean out the hatching house, I got so I could hit the moss-spot very well, and our Apostle pen of Dominiques dwindled and dwindled.

Now it chanced we had a gang of lads in town who liked to play in the woods — something boys don't do so much now — and they had organized themselves Wah-wah-tay-see Tribe. Juvenile delinquency was not yet isolated, and the Wah-wah-tay-see Tribe never had anything but fun. They built wardock leaves for scalps, and played settlers and sachems, and roamed and hooted.

On this day of which I speak they discovered my mother was surrounded me, and undertook a massacre. I was now a pioneer settlement, and how else could be expected. I discovered the Wah-wah-tay-see Tribe gulched when a green apple from a wild tree hit the henhouse roof, then a shower of rotten apples, and accompanied by wild, wild yells. My manner was chilled at the prospect and I looked about for defence.

Now this was my hour, really. I ever used an egg as a weapon. But I drew aside the discreet curtain over the details of the horrible fate that befell the Wah-wah-tay-see Tribe that pleasant afternoon. They bit the dust, as they say in fiction. The settlement was saved.

The Wah-wah-tay-see Tribe never struck again. I have never since quit this service and I would have to be awful mad at anybody to take it up against me. I should hesitate to be a vile and mean character. An egg is not a nice thing to throw. It is contemptible. It wobbles as it comes and you can't duck. You just stand there. I know.

Some Drivers Hitchhikers

Windsor Star

When motor vehicle owners pick up their 1958 drivers' licences they will have to pay another $5 for filing evidence.

Most motorists will welcome this. They have been carrying responsibility while at the same time paying originally 50 cents and lately $1 to the Safety Fund to take care of those who haven't been insured and who have been involved.

These uninsured people have been hitchhikers on the backs of the motorists who have paid their own way. They have been a nuisance and a menace on the highways because all too many of them are financially irresponsible without being responsible enough to provide against such contingencies.

There is no reason why these hitchhikers should bear the financial responsibility for these parasites of the highways. The $5 fee is a very modest one for those so irresponsible as to be uninsured. Other motorists still will have to pay $1 on their behalf.

On a recent weekend gathering more numerous than ever, filled with a wonderful inventory of cameras of every kind, and another film today, both black and white and color, has reached us from the gathering. Doubtless the number of camera fiends is greater than ever before, but who they are their pictures tell? Who is interested? It must be ten or fifteen years since anybody tried to entertain me for the evening by showing me snapshots. Shortly after the early years ago, everybody had a snapshot album.

What about the snapshot album in the modern home with the TV right there, turned on?

Users of telephones in Picton will not have to wind them up after next year, when the crank system will be replaced by the battery system as is now in use in Belleville, Kingston and other cities.

From our file copy at this time in 1887: "Many people here are up early at the present time to see the bright star in the east which may be seen between 4 and 6 o'clock a.m. It is claimed by astronomers to be the star mentioned in the Bible in connection with the birth of Christ and will not appear again for 315 years."

We had electric street cars here one time, but prior to that time we had horse drawn cars and the following is from our file copy in 1887: "Our citizens are tired of its humdrum life yesterday and varied the monotony of their existence by balking and it balked for keeps. No manoeuvering, no persuasion could induce the animal to go. Finally it was removed and another horse put to work in its place".

Mrs. M. J. Maclean, Mrs. Asher Bruce, Mrs. Gertrude Nightingale have left to spend some time at St. Petersburg, Florida.

World's Happiest People

National Geographical Bulletin

The happiest people on earth may be living in Thailand.

No one can say for sure, because science, of course, cannot measure happiness. But the joy of life is certainly the most frequently mentioned in observers' report.

Thailand — formerly Siam — has plenty of problems, but its Buddhist people long ago to let trouble do its own worrying.

When disaster strikes, a Thai says "Mai pen arai" (It hardly matters). He picks himself up, and soon is smiling again.

Thais are among the gentlest people in the world. They never have a revolution without anybody getting hurt. Many literally refuse to kill. Thais have welcomed foreigners with such kindness that missionaries sometimes mistook courtesy for imminent conversion. Yet Thailand has never fallen under western domination.

"Our people in Thailand are far happier than yours," said a Thai on a visit to America. "We have to give them social help, but not in the search for happiness. We don't have to teach them the art of being happy."

The Thai formula seems to be: Don't worry about what hasn't happened. If trouble comer, wait and it will soon depart."

An American correspondent wrote from Bangkok that he has never seen a Thai lose his temper or show the slightest irritation. Not surprisingly, this worried the foreigner.

"Thais seem so relaxed," he reported. "Are they frightened?"

Thais seem convinced that all do on a Sunday.

their enemies will eventually disappear. Yet this feeling has not prevented them building up their defenses in the meantime.

Thais are devout followers of the Buddha. Thousands of temples dot the country. Each has its "Enlightened One", who is believed to have been reincarnated numerous times during his earthly existence.

Almost every Thai man — from the Prime Minister to the peasant — spends at least a few weeks of his life in a Buddhist monastery. He wears a saffron robe and goes into the streets with a bowl to beg for food. His fund raising, for Thais are generous.

"To give all one's goods to feed the poor is common in this country," observed King Mongkut, the hero of "Anna and the King of Siam."

Thais also want to give away their secrets of happiness and have expressed hope for more contacts with foreigners, who seem especially vulnerable to complexes, ulcers and high blood pressure.

This is the advice of a Thai: "Stop and listen and laugh. Why worry about what has not happened yet? And, when it happens, why worry? Wait, and troubles will soon blow over."

How's Your Osteoporosis?

Steele's Textbook of Physiology, published many years ago, said that in youth the proportion of animal and mineral in the bones is nearly half and half, while in advanced age the mineral is greatly in excess.

This was a mistake.

Howell's Textbook of Physiology, published 24 years ago, said there is some evidence that the amount of calcium in the tissues increases with age. This is certainly true of the bones, which become more brittle in advanced life, and is stated also for the arteries" — there you have a fine example of what's wrong with medical literature. That "is stated" trick is characteristic — a sneaky way to propagate an idea or suggestion without either assuming responsibility for it or telling who made the statement. Thus "medical science" is not scientific, and medical literature leaves every body more be less confused.

Most of the three pounds of calcium in the body of a healthy adult is in the bones and teeth. The bones are like a reserve kind of storehouse of calcium, upon which the other tissues draw for their needs. Any time the daily intake of calcium is inadequate to meet the requirements of growth, work, play and growth.

That most of us get insufficient calcium from our ultra-refined diet is now well recognized. That everyone needs enough vitamin D daily to insure absorption and utilization of calcium, is also known, at least by physiologists, nutritionists and biological chemists. But both medical and dental practitioners, for the most part, still regard the bones and teeth as mineral unaffected in composition and milk."

TODAY'S TALK

THINGS MISSED

In this life, which is all too short at its longest, many are the things that we miss. I miss the chrill my boys had in going to Toronto each year to see the Grey Cup game. I miss the thrill my boys had in going to the big car that carried the boys to my first circus — the one big car that contained it all.

My father took me to the great Thomas orchestra musical entertainment. I missed out on that, and so could not meet the great conductor when it was over. I missed the joy and thrill of many a great actor when a youth. I missed the joy I knew to hear the great Jefferson in Sheridan's "Rivals," however, missed out on that treat.

I could enumerate many things I missed out in interesting "fe, but perhaps I am the better for it. In the Sunday School rooms as little as I look back upon it I bless my father and mother for having guided me toward the finer things in life, and so made my later years the more enriched.

I am lucky for having lived under conditions that gave me the experience of knowing what hunger, disappointments and loneliness contributed to me in my early years. I had to work through the Public School, High school and college, but I took it all in its stride, and enjoyed it as much as I might otherwise never have known. When we live through difficulties they never seem difficult if one has courage and the will to win through.

It would do many a boy good to read Fred Allen's book, "Much Ado About Me." It is the story of a boy and man who never lost his courage, who never lost his head and the will to keep going on until he had reached a high place in the amusement world, leaving at his death endless friends and admirers.

THE LITTLE PEOPLE

The traffic policemen was holding up the cars going east and west in front of the grade school building. The boys, as they came across the street when the officer gave them the signal, would step off then stopped to give him a friendly slap as they passed, or a noisy hello.

We sometimes speak of the really important people as the great sources of our nation. Of course the great resources are the personal resources in the human bodies. And of all these human values the value of childhood is the greatest. The most important thing any country ever has is babies. Valuable as are the great mineral resources of our country and its varied life, the latent powers of childhood are even more precious. The boy tearing along on a bicycle may someday be the country's leading industrialist. The little girl playing on the sidewalk with a playmate may someday be President. The young chap pitching baseball on the corner lot may eventually become the most prominent leader of his generation. Municipal and national leaders are coming to our schools to use the valuable possession we have in this world — the children of the nation. The germ of the future lies in them. The hope of the future greatness depend upon what we do with them, for them, and to them.

The resources of a nation consist of its people, and the most valuable of all people are the little people.

Bell Pioneers Enjoy Evening

Pioneers of Belleville region held a social evening and games night on November 25 at the Knights of Columbus hall when 110 members and friends sat down to try and bring home the bacon. Popular MC Ted Kelly ably assisted by Norm Condliff, Charles Marriott, Bob Long, Jim Ritchie and Bill Gander, kept the ball rolling and customers happy.

At the conclusion of the games ladies of the club served tasty sandwiches, cake and coffee, which rounded off a very enjoyable evening.

Thanks to the ladies were tendered by the entertainment committee, who in turn were congratulated by the executive on a job well done, exemplifying the creed that "Being a Pioneer is a certificate of character and a diploma of service."

Hockey Stars Get Warm Reception At K of C Father-and-Son Banquet

"Whitby defeated the Russ'an team and I think we have a better team than Whitby".

The remark in answer to the query "Can the McFarlands defeat the Russians?" made by Barton Bradley, Macs' centre ice star, touched off a mild explosion of boyish and not so enthusiasm here last night at Belleville Council No. 1008 Knights of Columbus father-and-son banquet.

Bradley and Moe Benoit along with Manager Drury Denyes were among the special guests at the banquet. The hockey stars were warmly applauded by their young-older audience and afterwards answered questions from both father and son. Later they were surrounded by boyish admirers, answering further questions, shaking hands and signing autographs.

The father-and-son banquet, the first held in years took the place of the regular meeting of the Council.

Lecturer Tom Clancy was chairman of the banquet, introducing the head table guests prior to the festivities. These included the hockey representatives, Rev. Peter Murphy, Rev. T. J. Jackley, Rev. William McGee, Jack Devine and George H. Carver. Deputy Grand Knight Jack Chappelle was also a head-table guest.

THANKED FOR SUPPORT

Manager Denyes in a brief address thanked the fans of the city for their wonderful support. "It has been terrific. The Macs will keep trying to give the fans their best until the end of February, and I hope, until late in April."

The K. of C. Hall rang to the applause of father and son as Benoit and Bradley spoke briefly. Brief addresses were also given by the three priests.

Jack Devine was the guest speaker. He outlined the operations of a hockey broadcast and the transmission of sports news through various outlets. He urged the youngsters present to put education before sport, and their fathers to take more interest in leadership. He was introduced by Don Barrett and thanked by youthful Casey Soden.

Mementos of the banquet were presented to the three hockey representatives and the speaker by chairman Tom Clancy.

Women's S.G. Discusses 'Big Business'

Women's Study Guild met in regular session at the home of Mrs. A. Archibald, Monday with a good attendance.

During a short business session it was decided that a special collection be taken at the December meeting for a Christmas Thank Offering.

Mrs. N. Meldrum led in a devotional service on stewardship. Reading from the Old and New Testaments, the gifts of God were called to mind and the admonitions for the wise use of these gifts. Stewardship covers all of life —the giving of money is only part of it. A closing prayer asked Divine help in the use of wealth and abilities to the furtherance of God's Kingdom.

The topic of the evening "Big Business — should it be curbed?" was introduced by Mrs. G. Wilson, taken by Mrs. G. Wilson, Mrs. S. Geneja and Mrs. E. Risto. In the time at their disposal it was impossible to do more than skim the surface. Mrs. Williamson started by describing the operation and influence of cartels. She defined such terms as "monopoly", "combines", "cartels", "trusts" giving examples of each.

The control which big business exerted were not able to prevent the depression of the 1930's. Methods that cartels encourage war, for a market for heavy industries. They received a big boost from the Second World War by the German manipulation of power through U. C. Farben.

There are suggested ways to control cartels. These are by arrangements filed and made public; governments to be represented on boards; or entirely ruled by government; to form cartels operated by government with representatives of business and labor on the boards.

Canada has a combines investigation law which is used from time to time to prosecute firms for price fixing infractions.

INFLATIONARY PERIODS

"Canada is now in its third inflationary period", stated Mrs. Geneja. "The first was caused by the buying spree of the public following the release of money and war restrictions. The second was caused by the tremendous stock piling of business firms at the time of the Korean War. Now we have want a repetition of scarce commodities. The third and present one is caused by activities exceeding our supply of capital for investment and having to borrow from outside sources.

"The general public, with debts ranging higher standards of living and luxury commodities which are bought with future earnings is the greatest influence towards inflation. Women in the great percentage end up buying. High interest rates should be a curb, as up to 34 per cent is charged for instalment buying, but the constant bombardment of advertisers encourage it so successfully that the dollar is steadily devalued."

Mrs. Risto presented the serious problem facing the government which requires the big business portion of the country. They provide employment, technological advances, profit on investment and aid education through scholarships and research. But enough control must be used to prevent such things as glut markets or severe depression.

Mrs. Risto summarized the brief submitted by the chambers of commerce and touched on the problems of tariff regulations.

"We do not want war to occur to advance prosperity; we do want a more stable currency; we do want some way to move surplus commodities, such as wheat, to those who need them without upsetting a whole economy; we do want a wise use of Canada's rich natural resources and man power." A lively discussion took place over the teacups on the many points brought up in the papers which were presented.

Next month the activity will be a Christmas play and in January the topic of "Education" will be undertaken.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

It does not seem to matter where you turn these days of challenge and counter-challenge, threat and counter threat, boast and counter boast, you inevitably see or hear comment about our educational standards of efficiency. All segments of our society are involved. It is a universal problem which will be discussed by a brilliant panel from Queen's University tomorrow night in the auditorium of the Quinte Secondary School. The school staff, in co-operation with the school's Home and School Association, has opened this meeting to the whole community and for this reason T & T contacted the university for brief biographical sketches about the panel. When we spoke to Mrs. Jere Edmison, assistant to the principal, he spontaneously acceded to our request and commented, "Kellestine is certainly to be congratulated for an all star cast on this panel." Thanks to Mr. Edmison T & T passes along the following brief outlines of the four people who compose the panel that tomorrow night's discussion on education-al standards."

Miss Jean I. Royce, Registrar, Queen's University.

Miss Royce was born and brought up in St. Thomas, Ontario. She chose library work as her vocation after graduating from St. Thomas Collegiate Institute. She ranked highest in the province in the examinations for entrance to the Ontario Library School, Toronto. After a brief period as cataloguer with the St. Thomas Public Library she entered Queen's in honors English and History course, graduating with a B.A. in 1930. During the next three years she taught at Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, worked on the staff of the London Public Library and subsequently in the documentation division of the Douglas Library at Queen's. She was appointed registrar in 1933.

She has occupied many important posts in university and women's organizations. She is past president of the Kingston University Women's Club; held the convenorship of the committee on vocational leaflets of the Canadian Federation of University Women; honorary president of the Alma Mater Society of Queen's; secretary of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs and president of Queen's Alumnae Association.

He is dean of the Faculty of Applied Science as well as Professor of Mechanical Engineering and head of the Department of Mechanical Engineering.

Dean Conn's mother and father were Queen's graduates from the Ottawa Valley but he was born in Napanee. He graduated from Malvern Collegiate, Toronto. In his final year he was member of Malvern's rowing crew that won the Dominion championship. He was a crack shot winning the King's bronze medal in the British Empire rifle shoot for open competition. He graduated in mechanical engineering from Queen's in 1931 and until 1938 his abilities were recognized in industry. Prof. Conn returned to Queen's as lecturer in mechanical engineering in 1938. He served with the R.C.O.C. from 1939 and saw service in Sicily and Italy. He holds the O.B.E. and rank of Lt.-Col. On his return to Queen's one of his first tasks was to provide plans for McLaughlin Hall. In 1955, at the age of 43, he became Dean, one of the youngest men ever to receive such distinction. He is a member of the Canadian Advisory Council of the Institute of Mechanical Engineers (London), a member of the Society of Mechanical Engineers, a member and councillor of the Engineering Institute of Canada, and on the Board of Examiners of Ontario Engineers.

DR. R. O. EARL

Dr. Earl is one of the best known and beloved of Queen's professors. He is Dean of the Faculty of Arts and head of the department of Biology.

Born and educated at Brockville, he comes from U.E.L. stock. He graduated from Brockville Collegiate, being awarded the Leitch scholarship in English and Chemistry by Queen's. Graduated in 1914 ranking first in botany and animal biology, second in physics and chemistry. He enlisted three days before Britain declared war on Germany. He went overseas with the First Canadian Contingent. He returned to instructor at Khaki University in London after service in France. On discharge he took a post in civil service. Dr. Earl is primarily a botanist and was awarded the Ph.D. by the University of Chicago after returning to Queen's and was offered an appointment in Chicago. He has retained an active interest in military affairs.

In 1940 Canadian Universities set up a military committee with Dr. Earl as chairman. Another primary interest of this remarkable man has been in youth organizations. He has been examiner-in-chief in botany and zoology for the Ontario Department of Education. He has been a member of Rotary and up to twelve science courses and has held various offices in teachers' associations.

PROFESSOR R. L. JEFFERY

Prof. Jeffery is the N. F. Dupuis Professor of Mathematics and head of the department of mathematics. He is president of the Canadian Mathematical Congress. Prof. Jeffery was born in Overton, Nova Scotia. In 1914, he graduated from Yarmouth Academy and taught until 1917. During the next four years he was vice-principal of Horton Academy and a student at Acadia. This phase of his life is similar to the early life of Alexander Schoenfeld, who died in 1943 Dr. Jeffery was professor of mathematics at Acadia. He was one of the keenest and most fruitful minds in Canada and has published many mathematical papers and monographs. In 1935-36 he was visiting professor at the University of Wisconsin, during 1938-39 he held the same post at the University of Saskatchewan. He was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada in 1941. Prof. Jeffery came to Queen's in 1943. His important posts are too numerous to detail, but it is noteworthy that he is the founder and director of the Summer Research Institute of the Canadian Mathematical Congress and the institute is now one of the top organizations of its kind in the world. He is one of Canada's greatest mathematicians and his Alma Mater, Acadia, has conferred on him an honorary Doctor of Science degree.

Family Honors J.A. Wright on 77th Birthday

A short time before November 24, Mr. Harold Wright and wife of the Avondale section of Belleville, together with their sister, Mrs. Ken Twiddy and Mr. Twiddy, near Foxboro, made plans to surprise their father, Mr. J. A. Wright, on the occasion of his 77th birthday.

Mr. Wright is spending the winter in Belleville and Harold told him he would like him to spend the day with them. The two couples arranged to have a family gathering at Harold's home with a turkey dinner. When Mr. Wright was ushered in he found 25 people ready to wish him a "Happy Birthday."

The gathering included his only sister, Mrs. Harry Foster, and Mr. Foster, of Tweed; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Treverton, brother-in-law; Mrs. James Sine, his friend; and Mr. Sine, of Wallbridge, and the families of Mr. Wright's daughter and two sons, altogether of their young friends.

Mrs. Harold Wright and Mrs. Twiddy provided a most delicious repast after which gifts were presented to the honored guest, and a most enjoyable afternoon was spent in visiting.

Mr. J. A. Wright is the only one of the six sons of the late Alex and Charlotte Wright, who brought up their family at Queensboro.

In due time J. A. married Miss Millie Parks, and they formed in South Hastings, Mrs. Wright passed away some five years ago on their farm at Wallbridge after a life of great devotion to her family and of highly useful service to the community in which she lived, to be long remembered.

Mr. Wright is a man who wished to "hoe his own row," made his home on the farm, having a tenant part of the time in part of the house. He is carrying on alone in spite of the fact of one blind eye and the other nearly gone. As he is not able to drive a car he finds it much more pleasant to be in town for the winter where he meets many old friends and can secure what he needs to furnish his little apartment and his table. He has the best of health and is looking forward to many more birthdays.

ST. JOSEPH'S P.T.A.

The November meeting of St. Joseph's P.T.A. was held at 8 p.m. in St. Joseph's school. The Rev. J. Buckley opened the meeting.

Mrs. R. Holland read the correspondence and Mrs. R. Chipman gave the treasurer's report.

It was the wish of the Club leader, Mr. W. Sweet, that a Scout pack be formed or the boys going from Cubs to Scouts would have to travel to St. Michael's for Scout meetings.

Anyone interested in helping to organize a Scout pack was asked to get in touch with Mr. T. Kelly, Crestview Ave.

Sister M. Noreen gave a most interesting talk on how each and every parent has a duty to the spiritual welfare of his or her child and showed two films on religious life of the young boy preparing himself for seminary life.

The meeting was closed by Father Buckley.

Refreshments were served by the mothers of Sister M. Noreen's room.

LONDON (CP) — The headmistress of a girls' school at Honor Oak says more pupils are staying on after school - leaving age. "Parents have come to realize that employers stress the value of as long a general education as possible," she said.

Neighbors' Aid Headed by Evelyn Bird

The November meeting of the Avondale Neighbors' Aid was well attended on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ed. Hall, Trent Road.

The devotional part of the meeting was conducted by Gwen May with Ruth Denike reading the Scripture. Gwen also read an inspiring reading.

The nominating committee brought in the following slate of officers for the coming year which were installed by Irma Reid: president — Evelyn Bird; 1st vice-president — Doris MacLean; 2nd vice-president — Marjorie Hall; secretary — Bernice Hall; treasurer — Dora Whelan; corresponding secretary — Ruth Denike; flower and gift — Marie Wettlaufer; press reporter — Ruth Ackerman; social committee convener — Ruth Ackerman; assistants — Phyllis Hall and Ethel Day.

A home baking and white elephant sale followed with Shirley Griffith acting as the capable auctioneer. The amount realized was most gratifying.

It was decided that an executive meeting would be held at a later date to discuss plans for the Christmas meeting.

Refreshments were served.

The December meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Don Hall, Trent Road.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

THANK-YOU NOTES OR GIFTS BEFORE YOU NEW HOME

Dear Mrs Beeckman:

My husband and I are happy to be able to say that, after eleven years of marriage, we are the proud owners of a new home, all our very own! We had it built "to our dreams," and very shortly it will be completed. We are also happy to say that we have many, many friends and relatives who will wish us every happiness in our new home. And if some of them bring us gifts "for good luck," I would like to write these kind people the right kind of thank-you notes. Will you please give me some suggestions about these notes? — Reader.

First: have your opening words make a fine bow of appreciation of the giver's thought-behind-the-gift. This is most important, because it charmingly places the emphasis on the kind thought, rather than on the article itself. For example:

Dear Aunt Jane and Joe,

How wonderfully kind you two dear friends were to have such a thoughtful plan for our happiness in our new home! It was so delightfully characteristic of you both. Frank and I thank you with all our hearts for your gift to our home thanks you too."

Next: mention the gift by name (not vaguely "your gift") . . . and make some enthusiastic comments about its beauty or usefulness, or both, if possible. For example, you might say something about the "handsome design"; or the "lovely color" (perhaps your favorite or a color particularly harmonious to the color or colors you have used in the room where the gift is to be used); or that it fits a special need your hobby has; any comment that will assure the generous donors that what they chose was just the right gift. Your letter to me was so full of a happy spirit, such a glorious reaction to your good gift . . . that I'm sure you will have a good time writing with gusto your words of gratitude!

Last: your closing how should be a few words of devotion, and naturally, I should think, a loving invitation to come to the new home. For example: "To you two cherished friends, Frank and I send our dearest love . . . and please come soon to let us welcome you over the threshold of our new home. Soon, please!"

ARE HER PARENTS RIGHT IN THEIR ATTITUDE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married in the Spring, and I will soon begin to make the preparations for my wedding. Please set me straight about a very important question that has arisen between my son and me. For the past four years I have been working steadily, earning a substantial salary, due to extravagance I have never saved any money. My parents have always paid my bills, even to my cleaning expenses. I have never contributed at home in any way. Now my parents have told me that they will not pay for my wedding reception since I have been told time and again to save money. Are they right in taking this attitude? — Of course, your parents have the right to take this attitude if they wish to. But I do think they would have been wiser to clamp down on you and your persistent extravagance before such an important occasion as your wedding reception was to be met and paid for. If they had definitely decided some time before this question arose, that you, not they, were to pay these expenses, then they should have made this completely clear to you and firmly guided you to establish a Savings-Fund for this. If you refused to follow this guidance, then certainly they had the right to take the attitude they are taking.

However, if they don't relent (and they have been so super-generous with you that I imagine the chances are they will!), you still have a lot of time before your spring wedding to save for the reception . . . so hold on to that "substantial-salary" position!

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Freda S. — I want to continue our friendship.

James S. — I can't see Freda making a fool of herself.

* * *

Freda S. — My husband and I have been seriously feuding over a social question which bothers us very much.

My dearest and oldest friend is married to a very eccentric man. He has decided opinions on almost every subject in the world and is ready to fight for them. Every time we all get together there is a terrific argument. Last time he practically threw us out of his home.

Naturally I expected my friend to call up and apologize the next day, but she didn't. I feel she was just too mortified. I want to show her that we bear no ill will to either her or her husband and I want to call her and continue being friends. We shouldn't let unimportant things come between us.

* * *

James S. — Freda has refused to look the truth in the face for years. This is not a case of a nice woman being married to a nut. This friend of Freda's is just as bad as her husband, and I can't see Freda making a fool of herself in front of this woman.

The husband in the case has insulted us dozens of times and his wife has never said a word to soften things or apologize. She has never sought Freda's friendship, but just condescends to see her if Freda keeps after her long enough.

I can't understand why Freda is so sentimental about this old school chum. When I tell her to see her friend woman-to-woman over tea or something, Freda admits that they have nothing to talk about.

* * *

The Council: Although there is a limit to how much one person can pursue another's friendship without reciprocation, we don't think Freda should give up trying until she has satisfied herself that there is no possibility of forming some pleasant relationship with this woman.

A man, working in the larger world, has opportunities for a multitude of relationships and may not see why a woman should try so hard to cultivate or hold on to a "difficult" person. But Freda like many women who lead a more confined life, cannot readily give up a relationship that once meant something to her. Her old school chum is an important link with her own past and her emotional associations are probably richly connected with this friend.

We are inclined to accept Freda's view of her friend's behavior. This woman may be so mortified by her husband's actions that she cannot face the friends he insulted. Furthermore, she cannot apologize for her husband without implying disloyalty to him.

This may be the reason that Freda and she have nothing to say to one another when they are alone together. They cannot speak about the thing that is uppermost in both their minds.

If Freda wishes to make a further effort on this relationship, we'd suggest that she arrange some outside activity, such as going shopping, to the theater, or to a lecture. This will take the strain off things. Freda's friend will not feel the necessity to apologize for her husband or to offer any confidences about her marital life.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

YOU'RE A VISION IN LACE

Utterly lovely and feminine is the lace ball gown.

Winter brides will have the loveliest lace wedding gowns to choose from this year because designers have found that lace is just about the last word in flattery. It looks so fragile yet it's easy to care for. And most brides want to wear their wedding gowns many a season after the ceremony.

A girl puts quite a bit of money into her wedding gown so she wants fabric and styling that will not only make her romantic at the altar, she also wants a dress that continues to flatter her after she's converted it into a dinner gown or evening gown.

And lace, of course, is a good traveller. It doesn't wrinkle. It needn't be ironed ever, if it's dried properly and smoothed out while damp So consider lace if wedding bells are in the offing. And bear in mind that you've made a good investment.

You don't need to be a bride, however, to enjoy the luxury of lace. If you're a home sewer and haven't looked around at lace yardage lately, by all means give yourself a treat.

It's really amazing how many different types of lace you can find in fabrics departments these days. Orlon lace, nylon lace. Cotton-and nylon lace, Dacron-and-cotton lace, metallic threaded lace, lace with embroidery — and our old favorite, just plain cotton lace. It certainly goes to show how popular the idea of lace is with fashion-conscious women.

What has helped to make lace so fashionable, of course, is not only it's easy care, being always washable, but the fact that it wears so well and drapes so gracefully — whether made up into a slim sheath dress or a bouffant ball gown.

Of course, lace has a tradition that dates back, goodness knows how far. It has always signified luxury, preciousness and feminility — and it still does!

The November meeting of the Bethel-Zion Institute was held in the home of Mrs. Roy Sills, with Mrs. Elmer Tufts in charge.

A welcome was extended to the guests. The correspondence was dealt with.

Mrs. Elmer Tufts gave a few highlights from the convention.

Mrs. Carleton Cronkright, the convener of "Citizenship and Education," took charge of the program.

Miss Dianne Cronkright gave a poem, "Back to the Fold", Mrs. Cronkright read a paper telling of the education of retarded children and adults. Mrs. Cronkright also gave a paper on "Citizenship," based on "Love Thy Neighbor." Two articles, "Encouraging Education Plan" and "Push Button Education" were given by Mrs. Freddie Wellman.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Roscoe Robson introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Jack Parrot, who displayed some of her own ceramic work and gave an article on ceramics and demonstrated to the group the making of the roses and leaves from the putty-like clay one begins with. Mrs. Parrott also demonstrated the making of plastic flowers which were most lifelike.

After the meeting closed the hostess and her assistants served light refreshments.

Women's Institutes

WELLINGTON W. I.

WELLINGTON — The November meeting of Wellington Women's Institute was held on Tuesday evening with 35 members and a few visitors present. It was moved by Mrs. W. Jackson that the drivers of cars who went to the area convention in Belleville, and to the rug hooking school, Picton, be paid. Business letters were read. Thank-you cards were received from Mr. and Mrs. H. Bedford and Ross, Beatrice Smith and Mrs. Zufelt, Mildred Boyle, Mrs. Jolley and Mrs. A. Goodmurphy. All outstanding bills are to be paid.

The birthday box was presented by Mesdames Moore, Harris and MacDonald.

Mrs. Jackson read a thank-you letter from Mrs. Timmins, CNIB, for the canvassing of the village by members of the WWI. Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Moore gave a report on the Rug Hooking School which they attended. It was decided to hold a meeting in the town hall on Wednesday evening to organize a class at which these ladies will preside. Any lady, whether she is a member of the Institute or not, may attend. No charge will be made, only the ladies must furnish their own materials for their rugs. It was suggested by Mrs. Harris to invite anyone who would like to come to the next meeting. It is the annual Christmas potluck supper and exchange of gifts meeting.

Mrs. Yourt and Mrs. F. Harris, hostesses for the evening, presented the following program: a sing song; the poem of the month was given by Mrs. C. Broadbridge and current events by Mrs. H. Dick.

Highlights of the area convention were given by Mrs. William Callow and Mrs. J. Denard and an interesting account of the convention was given by Miss Edith Ward.

Several ladies had brought some interesting antiques with them. A dish, a glass tray with the inscription "Give us this day our daily bread," on it. Another was a beautiful big, pewter teapot, and a sewing bird, used in the olden days, to hold the cloth tight, a tintype over 80 years old were among those shown. Many ladies told of the antiques they have at home.

A contest was put on by Mrs. Harris and with Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Whitney each receiving a nice prize.

Refreshments were served by the ladies. The next meeting will be in charge of Mrs. William Jackson and Mrs. William Adams, in the form of a potluck supper with exchange of gifts.

Cookie Press Session

By Mary Moore

I earnestly hope that if and when you make cookie press cookies you finish before midnight and everybody in town does not call on you while you are baking them.

Golly! We didn't burn one but it was like the barber who kept on shaving through the tornado — I kept my mind and my eye on them and my hand on the oven door handle constantly. Mind now, it was hard, for with my other two hands I was shaping cookies from the cookie dough and sheet at the same time.

But when the results were totted up we had green Christmas trees decorated with "silvers", pink wreaths ditto, little spice dogs with brown beads and tails and cocoanut medallions.

But they were all from one batch of dough which was divided equally into four bowls and kept cool. We were away to a fine start on our Christmas cookie baking. Two facts I must emphasize. Don't let your dough warm up. Don't try to form cookies on a warm cookie sheet. Both dough and sheet should be cool — preferably below room temperature.

COOKIE PRESS COOKIES:

Basic Dough: One cup butter 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 3½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon almond extract. Cream the butter, gradually adding the sugar. Blend in eggs, vanilla and almond extract. Beat well. Sift together the flour and salt and add to mixture. Mix thoroughly. General Directions for Shaping: Press dough through cookie press, into which it has been firmly packed, onto ungreased cool shiny aluminum baking sheets, using any plate to make desired shape. General Directions for Baking: Bake in moderately hot oven of 400 deg. F. for 8 to 10 minutes until barely tinted with gold.

If you divide the dough into 4 bowls here are 4 variations: (1) Christmas Wreaths: Tint ¼ of basic dough a delicate pink. Using "star" plate shape into little wreaths and decorate with 3 or 4 "silvers" or tiny bits of red and green cherries to form Holly sprays. (2) Green trees: Tint ¼ of basic dough a definite pale green and using "tree" plate shape into trees on cold cookie sheet. Decorate 3 outside points with "silvers". (3) Spice Dogs: To ¼ of basic dough add ½ teaspoon cloves and all-spice and ½ teaspoon nutmeg. Using "dog" plate shape on cold cookie sheet. WHICH:

Color a small amount of dough with cocoa and spread it in a narrow strip on 3 sides of inside of cylinder. Push in spice dough. When it is forced through the dark dough roughly colors beads and tails brown if the plate is turned to match colored dough. Use a piece of chocolate shot for an "eye" on each cookie. (4) Cocoanut Medallions: To ¼ of basic dough add ½ cup very finely chopped or ground cocoanut. Shape through medallion plate. Decorate tips with a sprinkle of colored sugar.

Woman Recalls Trip by Raft Down Peace R.

PEACE RIVER, Alta. (CP)—Mrs. M. J. McDonald of McBride, B. C., recalls with a sparkle in her eyes the days when as a young woman she made a trip by raft down the Peace River from this town to Fort Vermilion—nearly 200 miles by water.

Visiting here, Mrs. McDonald spoke of a month spent camping at the old immigration hall here, while her husband and sons built a raft large enough to carry all their worldly goods.

That was a good many years ago — Mrs. McDonald admits to being "more than 80."

But mention of "adventure" brought a twinkle to her eyes.

CALM PIONEER

"There was nothing to it," she said. "We just floated down stream and there we were—on a homestead for the next nine years."

Other trips to Peace River, three coming and two going back apparently made a great impression on this frontier woman.

These were made behind a team of horses overland and in mid-winter. Several days, sometimes as much as a week or more were required on a journey that now can be made over the Mackenzie highway of northwestern Alberta in hours.

"I still own a farm at Fort Vermilion," says Mrs. McDonald. "And I still love coming back to the north. I wouldn't have missed those early days for anything."

From Mother Children Learn To Tell Planes

MYRTLE, Ont. (CP) — Martha Anne Lawrence, 5, and her brother Tommy, 7, are probably the youngest in the ground observers' corps in Ontario. They learned aircraft recognition from their mother, Mrs. James Lawrence.

Mrs. Lawrence, 38, became assistant district supervisor for this area northeast of Toronto four years ago when her husband, an aeronautical engineer and insurance inspector, gave up the post.

A registered nurse and former pilot, Mrs. Lawrence is one of the few to hold such position with the ground observer corps in Ontario.

"Often the children come in from playing and tell me the type of airplane flying overhead," she says. "They have keen hearing and can usually tell when a plane is in trouble."

Part of the job of the corps, which is briefed regularly on latest aircraft recognition methods, is to watch for planes reported to be in trouble. Sometimes the RCAF places members of the corps on 24-hour alert.

"It's a small way in which a housewife can serve her country," says Mrs. Lawrence.

ANGLICAN CHURCH GUILD

FRANKFORD — On Thursday afternoon members of the Frankford Anglican Church Guild met in the parish hall with the president, Mrs. A. Caskey, presiding.

Mrs. Caskey led in prayer, followed by the Scripture reading by Mrs. E. Anderson from St. John 4. The secretary, Mrs. T. Burkett, gave the secretary's report and Mrs. R. Foster gave the financial statement.

After a short business discussion, the meeting closed.

Mrs. G. Striker gave a reading and Mrs. T. Burkett and Mrs. E. Green rendered a vocal duet.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. E. Green and Mrs. G. Striker.

The hostesses for the December meeting will be the losers of the copper contest.

WELLINGTON W.M.S.

WELLINGTON — Mrs. Poulter was hostess at the parsonage on Tuesday for the W.M.S. Afternoon Auxiliary. Mrs. Hazel chaired the meeting. Mrs. Hicks played for the hymns in the absence of Mrs. Mayber. Quiet music called the meeting to order.

Mrs. Hamel read an extract, "Good Neighbor Policy," followed by a special prayer for the "Mission of the Month" this week in Bridge Street Church, Belleville; a hymn, a welcome and thanks to the hostess for her hospitality. Mrs. Hicks called the roll which was answered by the number of calls made and the number of books read.

Mrs. Bishop read a letter from the supply secretary with instructions for 1958. It was decided to send the children's socks, which had been knitted for the bale, to Norway House in addition to the generous gifts which were on display for the yearly Santa Claus parcel to that post.

Mrs. Tayler distributed the books for reading.

Subscriptions for the Missionary Monthly were received by Mrs. Yourt. The president asked Mrs. Yourt, Mrs. Hicks and Mrs. Stoneburg to act with her on the nominating committee.

It was decided to have a quilting day to do a quilt for Mrs. Spencer.

Mrs. Poulter introduced the program. Devotional by Mrs. Teskey on the topic, "Unto Him Every Knee Shall Bow"; reading by Mrs. Bisbrow; and summary of the second chapter of the study book on Japan, by Mrs. Nash.

Following the Hebrew benediction refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by the group in charge.

WALLBRIDGE W. A.

WALLBRIDGE — The W.A. of Wallbridge held its monthly pot-luck dinner in the church dining hall recently with a good attendance. A number from Foxboro school enjoyed a good hot dinner.

After dinner, their meeting was held with the president, Mrs. Sam Nicolson, presiding. Plans were made for their bazaar on the 27th of November and also catering to Scott's Sales barn. Mrs. W. McMullin invited all to their home in the evening for their W.M.S. meeting when a large number attended. The president, Mrs. Morley Phillips, opened the meeting reading the theme, "Glory". Mrs. Charlie Fair presided at the piano. Mrs. Barton Hinchliffe read the Scripture lesson a reading followed summing up facts brought to mind in the theme. Mrs. Nicolson led in Prayer.

A few handed in their thanksgiving offerings and were recorded by the treasurer, Mrs. Lawrence Ketcheson.

An afternoon tea was planned for December 11th to be held at the home of Mrs. H. Fisher, members to bring refreshments and to bring items to sell.

Mrs. McMullen gave an interesting talk on their experience as missionaries in Korea, telling of the slow and uphill task of progress they had in bringing Christianity to the homes as it was so broken apart during the Korean Campaign, with the communists looting and burning down their hospitals, schools, factories and churches. Finally the missionaries were advised to leave as they had nothing left with which to carry on their work.

A social half hour was spent with refreshments served.

Mrs. Phillips moved a vote of thanks on behalf of the Wallbridge ladies to Mrs. McMullen for opening her home.

C. W. L.

DESERONTO — The November meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held at the home of Mrs. E. Roach. Everyone was complimented on the recent rummage sale and bazaar.

Plans for a Christmas treat for the children and older members who won't able to get out, were discussed.

Tickets were given out to members to sell on an electric frying pan.

There will be no December meeting. Plans were made for the January meeting which will be the form of a potluck supper to be held at the home of Mrs. Marion Witcuski.

Mrs. Rowe told a short story on "How to be polite in Japan", and showed pictures.

Mrs. Chase then assisted each member in planting a flower bulb to take home and grow explaining the importance of flowers in Japan.

Children Best Sea Travellers Says Surgeon

MONTREAL (CP) — Children are the best sea travellers says Dr. Jan Sarnecki, surgeon aboard the Polish liner Batory which docked at the Atlantic.

"They have wonderful resistance and are adaptable to conditions," he said in an interview when the vessel docked here recently on its last crossing of the season.

Dr. Sarnecki said that while children gave him the least trouble, women are most prone to seasickness, the basic illness he has to fight.

"Actually, the majority of passengers on the average trip are never seasick," he added. "Some crossings are so calm you wouldn't even notice you were on a ship if you didn't look out a porthole."

Dr. Sarnecki, 46, has been with the 16,000-ton vessel for less than a year, but began work as a ship's doctor seven years ago, mostly on Far Eastern runs.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

FOXBORO W. I.

Mrs. M. C. Jamieson was the hostess when the Foxboro Women's Institute met for its regular monthly meeting in November.

Mrs. C. Hubble presided and opened the meeting in the usual manner.

Thank you letters from Mrs. M. A. MacPhee and the daughters of the late Mrs. Delaney were read.

Mrs. Rombough was given money for her supplies as card secretary.

It was decided that Mrs. C. Hubble, Mrs. C. H. Le Rue and Mrs. W. L. Johnston should be the committee to make inquiries regarding a new waters for the school.

It was also decided to have a party for those who had so kindly helped the Institute members cater at the fair.

Mrs. J. Reynolds, as program convener, called on Mrs. B. Hollinger to give the motto, "Old may come and men may go but Canadian Industries go on forever." She also gave some helpful hints on the care of plastics and nylon.

For her report on Canadian Industries Mrs. Reynolds told of the different kinds of trees, and some of the uses of the lumber from these trees, also some uses of the plywoods made from these woods.

As a most appropriate conclusion to the program on Canadian Industries, Mrs. A. Churchill showed a film on Canadian Industries along the St. Lawrence River.

To conclude an interesting and educational meeting refreshments were served by the hostess and lunch committee.

MOUNTAIN VIEW — Mrs. William Burkitt opened her home for the November meeting of Mountain View Women's Institute. There were about 25 members in attendance, with the president, Mrs. Neal, presiding.

Business details were discussed and dealt with.

The topic for the meeting was "Historical Research," under the convenership of Mrs. Clarke Sprung, assisted by Mrs. E. Hall, who gave some interesting material on this subject, including an account of the Royal visit to Ottawa and the United States. Mrs. W. Burkitt gave the motto, which was most interesting.

Mrs. W. Motley and Mrs. G. Nesbitt gave splendid reports of the recent convention, which was held in Belleville.

The meeting was closed after which the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. G. Minaker and several other ladies served delicious refreshments, and a social hour was enjoyed. The president thanked the hostess for her hospitality.

On Monday afternoon Mountain View Women's Institute entertained Brownsville Institute. The occasion was a demonstration of salad making by a lady sent by the department, which proved interesting and the ladies had an opportunity to sample the salads at the conclusion of the demonstration.

The Mountain View ladies served other refreshments and everyone enjoyed a social time.

Members were pleased to welcome back Mrs. E. Henline, formerly Mary Hamilton, now of Coutts, Alberta. Mrs. Henline, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Harrington, and brother, Mr. Seymour Hamilton and families, spoke briefly and brought greetings from a newly formed Women's Institute of Coutts, Alberta.

UNIONDALE W.I.

5th SIDNEY — The November meeting of Uniondale Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. H. J. Frost, 5th concession of Sidney. There were 18 members present, also three children and three men. The roll call was answered.

Business was dealt with in the usual manner with letter from Mental Health being read. "Thanks-you's" from Roo and Dorothy O'Connor and Francis Frost.

The collection from the three concessions for the "Blind Canvase" was most generous. The song leader, Mrs. M. Grills, led in a song "The Institute Rally Song," she also put on a contest, answer being the surnames of members, which was won by Mrs. Harry Bleecker.

A demonstration on a plywood step table which had been made by George Frost, a Junior Farmer member, was shown by Mrs. H. Frost. As this day Nov. 7th, was Harold Frost's birthday, the Institute members sang "Happy Birthday" to him as a surprise.

The delegates to the area convention, Mrs. M. Martyn and Mrs. G. Harrington, gave their reports. Selection of the convention were also given by other members as follows: Mrs. K. Frost.

A report of the dinner hour: Mrs. G. Pollard on the "Old Curse" said: Mrs. M. Sine on "Slides," by Miss Eadie.

Mrs. George Burkitt gave the highlights of the national conference she had attended at Ottawa. The Home and Country will be reviewed at the December meeting by Mrs. M. Sine. Bring your books.

The December meeting will be at Mrs. C. Ward's, 5th concession of Sidney, and a gift to be donated to the Salvation Army from each member will be collected.

Refreshments committee will be Mesdames K. Bush, R. Dafoe, G. Burkitt, H. Bleecker, G. Burkitt and A. Martyn.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. H. Frost for opening her home.

A social half hour was enjoyed.

Hadassah Told WIZO Bridge to Aid Immigrant

TORONTO (CP) — A senior member of the Women's International Zionist Organization says that WIZO is the bridge in Israel between every wave of immigration and every section of population.

Mrs. Fay Grove of Israel, chairman of the organization and culture department, said Monday that WIZO has established 200 kindergartens and schools where Israeli children are being taught a modern and progressive way of life.

She told members of Canadian Hadassah at their convention that they have played a great role in integration by establishing women's clubs throughout Israel.

"These clubs bring relief, instruction and social nearness to their isolation," she said.

She stressed that this work must be carried on.

"If we cannot give practical help to an ever greater number of newcomers, morale would drop and the happiness which now fills their hearts for being in Israel would turn to bitterness.

"We want the new youth coming into Israel to grow up in the same spirit which fills our integrated youth today," she said.

She urged Canadian Hadassah to take a greater share and interest in integration.

The Haddashim Children's Village is one of the most progressive schools in the world, said its director, Mrs. Rachel Shapiro of Israel. Supported by Hadassah for 10 years it has primary and secondary education for children and a normal school for its graduates.

Members adopted a budget of $2,250,000 for aid to Israel at earlier sessions. National treasurer Mrs. Charles Eisenstat of Montreal reported that $2,000,000 has been spent since 1925 in aid to Israel.

FIERY TOP

HITCHIN, England (CP) — A woman entering a shop here said she could smell something burning. An assistant said: "Your hair's on fire." A cigaret butt dropped from a window was the cause.

PIONEER RESIDENT

DRAYTON, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Ralph Close celebrated her 96th birthday in this community near Guelph. A pioneer resident, she has five grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

Carmel A.G. Holds Annual Ladies' Night

The Carmel Adult Group held its November meeting in the hall on November 22. This was the men's night to entertain the ladies.

A short business meeting was conducted by the president, and a number of items of business discussed.

The Rev. R. J. McRae led in a number of group songs which were enjoyed by one and all.

This was followed by a children's balloon blowing competition which was somewhat hampered by the eating of dry soda crackers. A team of ladies competed in a spelling bee and a conundrum game, the ladies won by two points.

An hilarious race organized by Mr. McRae produced excitement and much laughter. Never er were so many dignified and straight men seen under an umbrella. The excitement proved too much for Tony Gowthorpe, who was taken in pain up to the platform. After a hasty consultation, doctors-to-be Dafoe, Rodberg and Allison decided to operate. The scene behind the white curtain was most business-like even if the tools were out of date.

After successfully removing many strange objects the "patient" passed away and a post-mortem will be held later.

A bounteous repast was served by the men, who demonstrated that they can serve a meal and wash dishes when necessary.

Mrs. Gowthorpe thanked the men for a pleasant evening.

Prizes were given to Mrs. Percy Reynolds for laughing the most; to Mr. Earl Dafoe for being the "daftest" man in the race; Tony Gowthorpe for being such an understanding patient, and Judy Dafoe for assisting with the music.

The committee in charge was complimented on a most successful evening.

LAZY CHIDREN

LONDON (CP) — Fewer than half of the 132,209 schoolchildren in Staffordshire own a tooth-brush, and many of those who do have toothbrushes never use them, the county school dental officer reports.

Women's Activities

HOLLOWAY ST. W. A.

Holloway St. W. A. members met for their November meeting in the church parlors with the president, Mrs. Brown presiding.

Mrs. Brown extended a gracious welcome to all, read a poem, "Strength for Today" and offered prayer.

Business consisted of treasurer's report by Mrs. Campbell which was gratifying.

Mrs. Cook read several Thank You" letters from members who had received cards or flowers while ill or bereaved.

Mrs. Scott, the flower convener reported on flowers.

It was decided to have the Christmas meeting on December 12 with a special Christmas program and dinner, an outside group catering.

Mrs. Coulter's group took charge of the worship service. Mrs. Walters read the Scripture from Paul's letter to the Philippians 1:27-30; 2:1-5. Mrs. Coulter gave the meditation. 'Paul appeals for concord and peace, one spirit, one mind, side by side with the gospel message".

"Are we in our day striving for this peace? It would be unchristian not to work together with forbearance and humility. We must think of others be humble; Nothing done through strife has unity our prayer life should come first. Great power is given to us through prayer.

We should spend some time each day in prayer reading the Bible study, reviewing our Christian life. Let us pray that we will find an abundant life in our church life. Would Paul recognize us today as he did the Christians of old?

"We must go forward with courage and confidence as we live each day".

Mrs. Burnett closed this impressive worship with prayer.

Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Johns presented a skit on visitation, depicting the good derived from calling on new comers, the ill, the lonely, senior citizens of the community.

Mrs. Coulter invited all to stay for a cup of tea and social hour, pleasant half hour was enjoyed.

GIVEN JOB OF BUILDING ATOM PLANE

Maj.-Gen. Donald J. Keirn, assistant U.S. air force deputy chief for nuclear systems, shows in Washington a model of the NB-36, an experimental plane which carries a nuclear reactor. Keirn has been named by the defence department and atomic energy commission to head a single command to speed up the production of the first atomic plane before Russia gets one into production.

Insurance Rates On Certain Types Will Be Doubled

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Insurance premiums on certain types of household coverages will double across Canada, effective Jan. 1, it was announced Monday by R. H. Campion, London member of the Dominion Board of Fire Underwriters.

There will also be an average eight per cent increase on One-Seven automobile insurance rates except where the driver now has an accident free rate.

While fire insurance on households will not go up, the rate for wind storm, falling aircraft and similar hazards usually attached to fire insurance policies will go to 30 cents per $100 insurance from 15 cents, Mr. Campion said.

Reason for the increase is chiefly a "misjudgment" in the cost of settling claims for broader coverages, Mr. Campion said. Particularly costly have been claims for television antennae blown over and homes damaged by escaping water.

Sent to Jail 10 Weekends For Drinking

MEADVILLE, Pa. (AP) — Sam A. McMillan, 57, won't have to worry about drinking on weekends for at least the next 19 weeks.

When he pleaded guilty to a drunken driving charge in court Monday, he told Judge Herbert Mook that he drinks only on weekends. He added that it would work a financial hardship on his family if he were sent to jail.

Judge Mook solved Mr. Millan's drinking and financial problems. The judge told McMillan he may remain free on weekdays but must serve the next 10 weekends in jail from 6:30 p.m. Fridays to 6:30 a.m. Mondays.

Spinsters Put Faith in Patron Saint

STE. CATHERINE de PORT-NEUF, Que. (CP)—Spinsters — any unmarried women over 25 — are pinning their hopes on catching a man this weekend during the feast of the patron saint of old maids.

Ste. Catherine also is the patron saint of philosophers and musicians but it is as the patron of unmarried women that she is remembered best here.

Although her feast day does not fall until Monday, celebrations begin here Sunday at a Roman Catholic mass with the blessing and distribution of petits pains—tiny loaves of sweet bread.

Monday, there will be card playing, euchre, and dancing and finally the crowning with a white Ste. Catherine bonnet of an elderly "Mademoiselle"—all activities which give the unmarried members of the parish a chance to meet their opposite numbers.

CROSS PICKET LINES

4th SIDNEY

Stone Church W.A. Sponsors Bazaar, Tea

4th SIDNEY — On Wednesday afternoon the Stone Church Women's Association held a successful bazaar and tea in the community hall.

Ladies came from Belleville, Stirling, Trenton, Brighton, Campbellcroft circuit, Sidney circuit, Centenary and other places.

Mrs. C. Rushnell was cashier for the afternoon.

The tea table was pretty with a centrepiece of yellow and white mums in a silver bowl, white candles in silver holders and a white damask cloth.

Mrs. S. W. Lloyd, Mrs. H. Twiddy and Mrs. J. Chisholm presided at the silver services.

The candy table delighted those with a sweet tooth. Mrs. C. Evans was in charge.

Mrs. O. Chisholm and Mrs. R. McMullin were saleladies at the fancy work table where pillow cases, children's wear and many other novelties were sold.

PRETTY APRONS

It is plain to be seen that every woman likes a pretty apron as Mrs. T. B. Phillips and Mrs. W. Tufts sold a goodly number, also some children's blouses and aprons.

Mrs. G. Tucker was in charge of vegetables, flowers, jams, pickles and "Touch-and-Take." These also sold well.

The bake table, laden with buns, cookies, pies and cakes, sold out early in the afternoon. Mrs. C. Vermilyea, Mrs. F. Tucker and Mrs. H. Gray were kept busy here.

Who doesn't enjoy a good cup of tea made by Mrs. J. A. Detlor? The tea tables were pretty in their white cloths and dainty centrepieces. Serving were Mrs. H. Knight, Mrs. K. Twiddy, Mrs. G. Lane and some of the older school girls. The dainty sandwiches and cookies accompanied by relishes, were tasty.

Through the press the association wishes to thank all the ladies who came, making the afternoon successful socially and financially.

It's No Crime To Crawl Into Occupied Bed

NEW YORK (AP) — It's is no crime to steal a little shuteye, a judge ruled Monday, even when you crawl into another bed already occupied by a man and his wife.

Joseph McMillan, 22, an elevator operator, was accused of climbing through a groundfloor window in the apartment of J. Weinberg and going straight to bed.

Unfortunately, the bed was occupied by Weinberg and his wife, Hilda. They were somewhat surprised when they awakened in the morning to find a stranger in their midst.

Justice Ambrose J. Haddock said McMillan was not guilty of unlawful entry because no proof was prescented that he intended to commit a crime. The justice added:

"It is not unlawful for a man to enter re apartment and go to sleep."

Case was dismissed.

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Ann Sinclair (MOTHER OF 3)

I was talking to a proud father of two happy, well-adjusted children the other day, and asked him what he thought were the best guides to good parenthood. Without a moment's hesitation he replied: "Patience, perception and playfulness." Nice to have a father's view point, and such a good one, too!

Work on the St. Lawrence Seaway, latest and greatest attempt to get around the 135-mile bottleneck from Montreal to Lake Ontario, is ahead of schedule.

When finished in 19 months the seaway will enable large ocean freighters to sail 2,000 miles from the Atlantic to the head of the Great Lakes.

In these sketches, the artist shows location and status of work on the major projects—the seven locks, a control dam near Iroquois and power house near Cornwall.

The Iroquois lock and canal have been completed, work on the United States section, which includes two locks, is 70 per cent completed, and the other locks are due for completion early in 1959.

The power facilities near Cornwall will start limited operation in July, 1958.

Work on the seaway started in 1954 and the route is scheduled to be opened by the Queen early in 1959. Canada's share of the cost, at last estimate, was $307,000,000. The United States is spending $140,000,000.

St. Lawrence Seaway Will Replace Old Canal System Of 21 Locks Finished in 1901

MONTREAL (CP) — The St. Lawrence Seaway is the latest—and greatest — attempt to get around a 135-mile shipping bottleneck from Montreal to Lake Ontario.

The international project which the Queen is to open early in 1959 is being constructed to remove this barricade.

For 400 years, since Jacques Cartier's day, man has been devising artificial ways of bypassing this stretch of shallow, winding, fast - moving water. Big ocean liners and freighters sail freely 800 miles up the St. Lawrence River to Montreal, only to face a series of six turbulent rapids the rest of the way to Lake Ontario.

WHAT IT MEANS...

When completed in 18 months, the Seaway means:

1 That large ocean freighters will be able to sail 2,000 miles from the Atlantic by river, canal and lake to the head of the Great Lakes.

2 That the lake harbors of Cleveland, Toronto, Buffalo, Hamilton, Detroit, Windsor, Chicago Milwaukee, Fort William, Duluth and Toledo expect a trade boom with ports of the seven seas.

3 That the big bulk carriers of the Great Lakes, considered the most efficient form of water transport, will be free to sail down the river to St. Lawrence ports east of Montreal.

DEEPER, WIDER

The seaway replaces an obsolete canal system of 21 locks, an outgrowth of the first man-made channel dug in 1779 to get freight canoes past the Lachine rapids near Montreal.

This old channel on the river's north shore was opened to vessels in 1848, improved in 1882, then dreached its present dimensions in 1901. It limits traffic to ships 256 feet long, 44 feet beam, with a draught of 14 feet.

The new seaway route on the opposite shore has only seven locks—five in Canada and two in the United States water — which will carry ships up to 730 feet in length, 72 feet in width, with a 27 foot draught.

Both waterways — the old and the new — are designed to skirt the same hall-dozen troufle spots in the St. Lawrence—the Lachine Cascades, Split Rock, Cedars, Coteau and International rapids. From Lake Ontario to Montreal the river tumbles 225 feet, a mighty drop in a stretch of 133 miles.

BIG CARRIERS

Ships on the present system, small world - roaming tramp steamers and husky 250-foot canal vessels, carry about 2,000 tons of cargo. But the big "lakers" transport eight times as much—up to 25,000 tons of ore or 800,000 bushels of wheat.

Their liberation from the Great Lakes is a significant outcome of the seaway.

New possibilities — cheaper transport of western grain for sale — are seen by the big lake carriers can sail to Montreal via the seaway.

But the long, narrow lakers won't venture out to sea.

How is this all coming about? Work on the seaway, a dream for many decades, began in 1954. Canada's share of the cost, at last estimate, was $285,000,000 for five new locks, channel improvement, and bridge modifications, plus another $22,000,000 to deepen channels in the Welland Canal at Niagara Falls, Ont. The United States is spending $140,000,000.

ON SCHEDULE

Seaway authorities say work on key structures is proceeding on schedule. The first Canadian lock to be completed, at Iroquois, Ont., 115 miles west of Montreal, is ready for testing.

In the old 14-foot waterway, ships have continued to move, hardly hindered by thousands of workers drilling, blasting, excavating, dredging and pouring concrete across the river.

Only one change was necessary in the old waterway—a mile long diversion canal was carved through a dike just west of Cornwall, Ont., to keep traffic moving during construction of the new one.

Next July, the 14-foot draught ships will cross the St. Lawrence east of Cornwall Island to use two locks in the United States—the Eisenhower and Grass River locks near Massena, N.Y., 90 miles west of Montreal. The Iroquois lock will also go into service then.

Reason for the opening of these three locks almost a year ahead of the rest of the seaway is that a new lake is to be created in July, when a hydro-electric dam built in conjunction with the navigation project begins producing electricity.

All the old Canadian locks and canals from Cornwall to Iroquois will be submerged beneath the new lake, which will flood 40,000 acres on both sides of the international boundary. Seven historic Ontario communities also disappear under the 35-mile-long lake.

STARTED FROM SCRATCH

All but one limited section—a power canal completed in 1932 at Beauharnois, Que.—is being built from scratch for the new seaway. The locks, huge bathtubs with gates at each end, all have the same inside dimensions—768 feet of usable length, 80 feet width and 30 feet over the sills.

Canada has tackled most of the work. Canada is excavating more than 25 miles of channels over dry land, twice as much as the United States. Canada is dredging some 60 miles of river channel to 27 foot depth, compared with 11½ miles in the U.S. section.

The seaway is divided into five sections, Lachine, Soulanges, Lake St. Francis, International Rapids, and Thousand Islands.

Montreal is the eastern gateway. The seaway begins almost directly beneath Jacques Cartier bridge across Montreal harbor. A three - mile canal follows the river's south shore to Victoria bridge, which straddles the first seaway lock, the St. Lambert structure with a 15-foot lift.

A nine-mile canal, protected by a high dike, leads around the Laprairie basin to Cote St. Catherine lock, which will lift ships 30 feet of skirt the plunging Lachine rapids.

The lock leads into a 200-foot wide canal cutting across farm land and through the Caughnawaga Indian reservation into Lake St. Louis.

Here the seaway channel, marked only by buoys, runs roughly down the lake's centre. Shallow spots have been dredged to the standard 27-foot depth.

RIG LIFT

At the lake's western end, the seaway swings into two locks, the Beauharnois twin flight locks with a combined lift of 84 feet, at the start of the 18-mile Soulanges section.

The two locks are to steer ships into the Beauharnois power canal to the standard 27-foot depth.

Canada's share of the cost, at last estimate, was $307,000,000. The United States is spending $140,000,000.

Accused Charged With Theft Takes Witness Stand

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Ex-union treasurer Kenneth Soutter, 49, testified in his own defence Tuesday that his union's international representatives "would do anything to remove me from any sort of power in the union."

Soutter, formerly treasurer of Local 599 of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CLC), said the international representatives became "upset" with him because of his actions at contract negotiations in Montreal. He is charged with theft of $9,000 by failing to give an accounting between April 1, 1955, and Feb. 21, 1957.

Following testimony Tuesday, the trial, which opened in October, was adjourned until Dec. 6.

Soutter claimed the international representatives tried to hold back the negotiations between Canadian General Electric and the union for a 1955-56 contract.

REOPEN TALKS

Negotiations were broken off and the dispute was heading for conciliation, when Soutter, with the backing of some Quebec members, reopened the talks and obtained a compromise.

"This upset the international representatives very much Indeed," Soutter said. "I think they thought that 1955-56 was the year to strike, regardless of what they got from the company, to show they were a militant union and not like the UE (United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America). I'm sure that was their sole purpose in holding back these negotiations."

The United Electrical Workers, an unaffiliated group, are rivals of Soutter's union.

George Hutchens, Canadian president of the IUE, preferred charges against Soutter. Later the Crown took over the case.

Accidents Claim Six Lives in Ontario Tuesday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Accidents claimed six lives in Ontario Tuesday. Added to 25 killed the day before and the weekend toll of 13, it brought the province's four-day total to 31 fatalities.

Twenty-five were traffic victims, a Canadian Press survey showed.

Three were drowned, two died in a fire and one was killed in a hunting accident.

An apartment fire in Windsor accounted for two of Tuesday's accidental deaths. Arthur Shafer, 69, died in hospital of burns and suffocation. His wife perished in the fire.

The toll in a two-car crash at Wallaceburg Sunday night rose to six with the death of Ed Delmotte, 38, of Port Lambton. His wife, Barbara, was killed in the collision and their son, eight-year-old Gregory, is in good condition in hospital.

Joseph Kaniks, 46, of Windsor's suburban Sandwich West was fatally injured when his car was in collision with a truck at nearby Essex.

Peter Veregin III Dies in Russia

GRAND FORKS, B.C. (CP)—Doukhobor leaders here have been informed through the Canadian Red Cross that Peter Verigin III, the long-sought spiritual leader of Canada's 19,000 Doukhobors, has "died in confinement in Russia."

Red Cross headquarters in Toronto passed on word of Verigin's death from the Red Cross and Red Crescent societies of Russia. The two Russian groups expressed "our sincere condolences at the sad outcome to our long search."

Doukhobors have been trying to get word on Peter III's fate since 1939, after the death of his father, Peter Petrovitch Verigin.

Young Peter III never came to Canada. He stayed behind in Russia when his father came here in 1929 to assume leadership of the Doukhobors.

east of Windsor, Bert Dunham, 58, was killed by a freight train that struck his car at a level crossing.

Fred Freeman, 88, was fatally injured near Sarnia in a two-car crash that injured two others, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Stirling, also of Sarnia.

ARMS FOR MOROCCO IS THE PLEA?

Arrival of King Mohamed V in Washington was occasion for an effort on the part of the protocol experts. President Eisenhower journeyed to the airport to meet the monarch and rode with him in the lend car back to Blair House. The visit is significant as it is expected that Mohamed will ask for more arms for his country.

government would seek legislation for an over-all grant at the current session of Parliament, with the split-up coming perhaps when the federal-provincial conference reconvenes early in 1958.

A second prospective move announced by Mr. Diefenbaker was a $11,500,000-a-year expansion in the federal sharing in provincial costs for unemployment relief.

This would involve removing—by legislation — the so-called "three-hold" at which the federal treasury steps in to help the provinces care for unemployed. The threshold is .45 per cent of any one province's population.

Another major announcement of the prime minister was that of a s art some time in 1958 on federal payments towards provincial hospital insurance plans without waiting—as the predecessor Liberal government insisted on having a majority of the provinces with a majority of the population committed.

This would make available payments to British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Newfoundland. It would obviate the necessity of bringing in either Ontario or Quebec to make up the population factor.

HAVE OWN PLANS

The four provinces that could qualify now have hospital plans of their own. Under the existing legislative limitation, it had been expected that federal hospital insurance payments would not start before Jan. 1, 1959, the proposed launching date of Ontario's plan.

A join. federal-provincial statement issued after the conference made no mention of a suggestion made at the opening of the conference by the prime minister that the federal government looks favorably on inclusion of tuberculosis and mental patients in the hospital plan, sought by several of the provinces but turned down by the Liberal government.

Mr. Diefenbaker said during the meeting the inclusion of these categories could run to $68,000,000 a year from the federal treasury and that this might be deducted from other tax-sharing proposals.

He said today the proposal was discussed at the meeting and that in "in error" in the previous decision. He said he had asked lawyers involved to present their cases again. Chartered Trust needed a court order to carry out the sale.

The wreckhouse of the owners, Len Jacobs and Arthur Morris, was disclosed at the hearing Monday for the first time since their disappearance. They are in Israel.

At the time of their disappearance, Jacobs had been charged with criminal negligence following a traffic accident and was free on $1,000 bail.

Seaway Head Resigns Post

OTTAWA (CP)—Charles Gavsie, president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, has submitted his resignation effective next Jan. 31 to enter private law practice in Montreal, Transport Minister George Hees announced Tuesday.

In his Commons statement, Mr. Hees did not say whether a successor has been chosen.

The minister said that a few weeks ago Mr. Gavsie had advised him of an offer to join a Montreal law firm. Mr. Hees said he tried unsuccessfully to persuade Mr. Gavsie to postpone his resignation until after the seaway opening in 1959.

Mr. Gavsie, an authority on Canadian tax laws, took over the seaway job when Lionel Chevrier resigned last spring to re-enter federal politics. Previously he had been vice-president of the Seaway Authority.

The present vice-president and next in line for the $25,000-a-year post is Jean C. Lessard.

Denominational Schools Present Tough Problem

WINNIPEG (CP) — The question of whether denominational schools should be supported by public taxes is expected to be one of the toughest the provincial royal commission on education will have to answer in the next few months.

The commission ended public hearings Tuesday after hearing close to 100 briefs in 18 communities and its report is expected sometime early next summer.

The denominational schools have been cut off from tax support since 1890. The Public Schools Act of that year laid down rigid rules on religious instruction in such schools, which were to be non-sectarian. Any school not conducted according to the provisions of the act was not considered a public school.

Lengthy legal battles followed Roman Catholic protests against the law and the federal Conservative government of Sir Charles Tupper was defeated in 1896 in an election in which the matter was a major issue.

ASK CHANGE

The first brief heard by the royal commission in Winnipeg Oct. 1 came from the Catholic Council of Manitoba, representing 258,000 Roman Catholics in the province, which asked for revamping of the 61-year-old policy. The brief suggested a dual system of education such as existed before 1890: a separate school system similar to those in Ontario, Saskatchewan and Alberta, and Roman Catholic public schools.

The Winnipeg Council of Churches took the other side in a brief presented a a second hearing in Winnipeg which ended Tuesday. The group, representing about 400,000 Protestants in the province and almost every major denomination in the Winnipeg area, defended the present organization of religion in public schools and opposed public support of separate schools.

KILLED BY EOKA

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — Olga Sarianidi Strashkoupi, a 40-year-old Greek Cypriot spinster whose struggled body was rushed ashore last week at Dhavlos, northeast Cyprus, was murdered by EOKA terrorists, the government said Monday. Her name was on a list of 200 "traitors" handed to police by a former EOKA chamber last month.

Lenmore Motors Can Be Sold Says Justice

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice E. G. Moorhouse of the Supreme Court of Ontario reversed his own decision Tuesday and ruled that the car lot of Lenmore Motors, closed under trusteeship after the disappearance of its joint owners last June, can be sold.

Last Friday, Mr. Justice Moorhouse said Chartered Trust Company, the Lenmore trustee, could not sell the firm's car lot to Colonial Finance Corporation Limited.

Selling price was reported to be $167,000.

Tuesday the justice said he was "in error" in the previous decision. He said he had asked lawyers involved to present their cases again. Chartered Trust needed a court order to carry out the sale.

The wreckhouse of the owners, Len Jacobs and Arthur Morris, was disclosed at the hearing Monday for the first time since their disappearance. They are in Israel.

At the time of their disappearance, Jacobs had been charged with criminal negligence following a traffic accident and was free on $1,000 bail.

Though he appears to be on a joy ride, USAF Lieut. Herdis S. Clements is waving in happiness that he is still alive. His jet plane failed over the Mediterranean and he was ejected and parachuted into the sea. No Suggestion Of Impropriety Says Fulton

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Davie Fulton says no suggestion of impropriety by Mr. Justice Charles Locke has been raised in a letter to the minister from Toronto lawyer Lewis Duncan.

"There can be and is no question of impropriety" on the part of "that distinguished jurist," Mr. Fulton said Tuesday in a Commons reply to Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre).

He also said that his department is investigating other charges made by Mr. Duncan in his letter Mr. Fulton said he hopes to reach a decision soon.

MENTIONS LETTER

Mr. Knowles referred to a letter made public Monday complaining of disposal of a case Nov. 11 by a Supreme Court of Canada panel of which Mr. Justice Locke was a member.

The letter dealt with dismissal by the panel of an application by William Lyle Kennedy, a farmer in Ontario's Bruce County, for leave to appeal an Ontario Supreme Court judgment upholding his conviction on a vagrancy charge.

The letter made no mention of an unprecedented incident Nov. 18 in another case before the Supreme Court when Mr. Duncan objected to proceeding if Mr. Justice Locke sat on the panel. The court rejected Mr. Duncan's objection but Mr. Justice Locke voluntarily withdrew from the case.

Hints on Selecting Christmas Tree

TORONTO — Don't let your Christmas tree, through carelessness, leave a skeleton for the yuletide. Don't forget that fire kills. That's the advice of safety officers of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests.

Other don'ts: Don't leave the Christmas lights burning on the tree when you retire or go out. Don't set up your tree near an open fireplace. Don't use candles near the tree.

Countless questions about Christmas trees reach the Reforestation Division at this time of year. Typical conversation:

"We set up our tree in the living room a week before Christmas last year and when Santa arrived there were more needles under the tree than on it. It looked more like a hall rack than a Christmas tree."

"That was probably a spruce", the forester replies. "It had been cut probably three weeks before you bought it. I've always tried to get a balsam fir or pine because the needles hang on so much better. If it's a spruce, make sure it hasn't been cut too long."

POINTS OF DIFFERENCE

"How do you tell the difference between pine, balsam fir and spruce?"

"A pine always has two or more needles in a place on the twig; balsam and spruce occur singly. Balsam needles are flat and will slide between your thumb and forefinger. Spruce needles are four-sided and tend to roll. The spruce needles is sharp-pointed and prickly; balsam is rounded and more pliable."

Popularity of the various types of trees apparently depends on the locality to some extent. In eastern and northern Ontario, balsam fir and spruce are common and, until recent years, were the most popular in southern Ontario also. Since 1946, pine have been appearing in increasing numbers in Toronto, Hamilton and Windsor.

Scotch, red and white pine are used, Scotch pine from plantations being the most important. The pines retain their needles better than spruce and so can be cut as early as November and shipped considerable distances. Heavy snowfall in December interferes with moving the trees to market.

Lands and Forests officials are inclined to attribute the Scotch pine's popularity also to its six or seven year growing time and to its long popularity in Europe where it is quite common.

TWEED — Mrs. Fred Mitchell, of Arthur Street, a patient in the Toronto General Hospital for two weeks, returned to her home late last week, but was re-admitted on Friday to the Belleville General Hospital. Her many friends are trusting she will gain rapidly and soon be at her home again, and in good health.

Gerald Hawkins of Moira St., a patient in the Belleville General Hospital for some days due to knee trouble, will remain there for a while yet. All hope he will be completely recovered in a short time. "Gerry" is employed at Bob Wood Motor Sales, Tweed.

Miss Meeres, who had a major operation some time ago, is progressing wonderfully at the Belleville General Hospital, his family reports.

Past president Alan Hewitt was in charge of the meeting, which followed directly after the delicious supper, during which Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Cotton, Mr. and Mrs. Don Bateman and Mr. and Mrs. Barry Jackson were named as nominating committee. They will submit their new slate of officers at the December meeting. The program was in charge of the Emmaus and the Way, with Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Aries showing some beautiful colored slides of local interest and also scenes in the Lake Placid area.

Mrs. Oakley Tyndeau, of Stoco, has been visiting at her home in Hinton, with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh O'Donnell, her parents. The former is in very poor health.

Eugene Mieske, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Max Mieske, of Denbigh, passed away in the Kingston General Hospital on November 8, in his 72nd year. Interment was in Denbigh on November 11. The Mieske family is well known in Tweed, and the sympathy of the citizens is extended.

The 66th anniversary of the founding of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Tweed, was observed on Sunday, Nov. 17, with Rev. D. D. MacLean, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Belleville, as guest preacher. During the service, Mrs. Clifford Wannamaker, of Stoco, rendered a solo, while the choir was heard in an anthem, accompanied by the organist, Evan Morton.

Mrs. John Gehan has returned home after visiting her daughters in Toronto and Bel Air, Maryland. She also spent some time with her mother, Mrs. Dan Miller, in Toronto who underwent eye surgery there some weeks ago, and has made a remarkable recovery but is still in Toronto with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Woodruff and daughter Joan, of Foots Bay, Ontario, spent the week-end with Mrs. Jack MacLean and family, and little Miss Christie MacLean returned with the Woodruff's for a week's holiday. She will return with her daddy when he comes to Tweed from Elliot Lake next weekend to visit his family.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved family of the late Mrs. Sam Price, who was buried on Tuesday in Tweed. She is survived by five children and her sorrowing husband. The late Mrs. Price passed away in Toronto hospital after an illness of a few weeks. Their home is in Tweed.

The three-year-old son, Michael, of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Jackles, was allowed to return to his home on Tuesday from Belleville General Hospital. He was rushed there on Friday evening after he accidentally fell from a top bunk-bed while playing with his brother. He was in a coma for many hours and sustained a cracked collar bone and concussion. If he does not lapse again he will be O.K. the doctors assure.

The property which will be used for an outdoor rink for the skating citizens has already been bulldozed by Tom Bronson, and is being levelled off. Councillor Jack Rashotte, chairman of the building committee, is in charge of having the posts erected for the necessary lights and all in all is managing the volunteer help to the best advantage for speediness. Sideboards need to be put in position, the lights strung and many little last minute "doings" which are being attended to.

Joseph Rashotte has donated a garage which will be utilized as a dressing room for the kiddies.

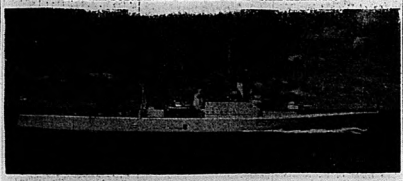
Chairman S. J. Anderson and building chairman Jack Rashotte state it is now assured that all will be ready for flooding and with the advent of cold weather. They are to be complimented on their progress.

No Shortage Says Minister

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister Dunlop says Ontario has more teachers than it needs.

He told the Women's Progressive Conservative Association here Monday:

"There isn't a shortage of teachers in Ontario. There's just a little bit of a surplus."



The institution of summer courses for secondary school teachers a few years ago, "in which the Ontario Teachers' Federation and even my friends opposed me openly," had helped to alleviate an over-rated teacher shortage.

"Educational degrees, particularly in elementary schools, are not the only criterion of good teaching. Personality is more important than education."

BIG FISHERIES

United States commercial fisheries, including Alaska, yielded 3,936,000 tons in 1956, compared with Canada's 1,077,000 tons.

Jupiter Rocket Fails to Finish Planned Flight

By BEN FUNK

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The U.S. Army has fired its big Jupiter rocket, but the 1,500-mile range missile failed to complete its planned flight.

Moments after the 70-foot intermediate range ballistic missile blasted into the tropic sky at 9:10 p.m. EST Tuesday night the army issued a statement that said it failed to complete its programmed flight because of technical difficulties.

Six U.S. congressmen watched the firing.

To hundreds of spectators watching along the beach on this island midway along the Florida east coast, the Jupiter was a spectacular sight as it rose from a pillow of smoke and flame on the launching pad.

BRIGHTER THAN STARS

It appeared to travel straight up, trailing a yellow flame. Then it became a purplish light high in the sky. It was visible for about four minutes and was brighter than any star.

The statement by the defence department said:

"The test of the Jupiter, under development by the army, is one of a series of intermediate range and intercontinental ballistic missile flight tests conducted at the Cape Canaveral range."

There was no official explanation of what technical difficulties were involved. Congressmen who witnessed the firing were members of a military subcommittee of the House of Representatives committee on appropriations.

THIRD OF DAY

The launching was the third of the day. A Snark pilotless bomber was launched shortly before noon and late in the afternoon what appeared to be a test vehicle — possibly a component part of a large rocket — was fired.

There were reports that the big Atlas, an intercontinental ballistics missile, might be fired next week. The navy's Vanguard, a three-stage rocket designed to put an American satellite in the sky, also has been seen on the launching ramps.

Two previous attempts have been made to fire the Atlas. Each ended in failure.

SMART PUP

LEAMINGTON, Ont. (CP)—Wacky, a 10-week-old puppy, has an assured future. Wacky's barking woke up her owner, Ralph Wyse, when fire started in the house. "If she hadn't wakened me I would probably have been overcome by smoke," he said.

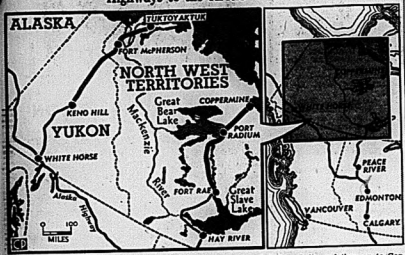
An Important Observation To The Electors of Belleville!

Our present enrolment of students and pupils in our city schools is 5,838, who will be graduating from time to time. What employment is available for these future citizens? Are we making an outright effort to halt this serious loss to our community through lack of employment.

Homes are built, expansion of businesses is realized by opportunity to our citizens for employment on compensative basis, encouraging stability and permanent investments.

It has been my opportunity to serve in council when the older industrial concerns expanded, and new firms located here. This security created encouragement of large and small capital investment.



Other cities have and are realizing Industrial expansion. Do you not think that properly planned representation of our advantages as a city, would return many times the initial cost of such an outright endeavor?

This endeavor is very essential to all citizens of our city, and any assistance that I may be able to contribute in this direction will be given.

FOR EXPERIENCED BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION OF OUR CITY, I RESPECTFULLY SOLICIT YOUR VOTE AND INFLUENCE ON DECEMBER 2nd, 1957.

HAROLD J. ARMSTRONG

Highways to the Arctic

Canadians may some day be able to drive to the Arctic.

Northern Affairs Minister Alvin Hamilton visited the Yukon this fall and said later in Toronto that Canadians would be driving to the Arctic within five to seven years.

Two routes are considered likely for such a federal highway.

One would leave the Alaska Highway at Whitehorse and branch north along a road already built to Keno Hill. This route then would be extended another 400 miles north through Fort McPherson and then to Tuktoyaktuk on the Beaufort Sea.

The second route would begin along the Mackenzie Highway at Hay River, on the southern shore of Great Slave Lake, and then follow a route already half completed to Fort Rae, on the northern arm of the lake.

This route would be completed with a 500-mile road north through Fort Radium on Great Bear Lake and then on to Coppermine, on Coronation Gulf.

By either route, and some believe both will eventually be constructed, Coppermine and Tuktoyaktuk would be about 1,500 miles from Edmonton.

Heavy lines on the map indicate the proposed routes.

Peg Police Band Bomberettes Will See Game

WINNIPEG (CP) — Public purse strings were loosened Tuesday to give Winnipeg Blue Bombers an escort befitting a Grey Cup contender when they play in Toronto Saturday.

City council voted to spend $1,875 to send the 19-member police pipe band to Toronto and approved a contribution of $8,000 towards the cost of 90 tickets to send the Bomberettes.

The province also has approved expenditure of up to $2,500 to help send the Bomberettes majorettes and a band who play at all Winnipeg's home football games to the festivities. And the soft drink firm that is the regular sponsor of the group has promised $5,000.

The city, province and Junior Chamber of Commerce had promised before the Blue Bombers won the western title Saturday to spend $1,000 apiece on a float for the Grey Cup parade.

Several commercial firms also are planning to enter floats in the big parade that will precede the game between Blue Bombers and Hamilton Tiger-Cats. Some of the floats are being prepared in the East.

In addition, preparations were under way to distribute giveaways advertising Winnipeg to the pre-game crowd.

Aussies Oust Americans From Tennis Tourney

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—Four Australians emerged victorious Tuesday after the quarter finals of the South Australian tennis championships as the last of the United States Davis Cup players was eliminated.

Vic Seixas, 34-year-old Philadelphian who is No. 1 member of the U.S. team, went down before left-handed Mervyn Rose, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5.

Three other Australians hit pay dirt in the singles quarter-finals, making Australia's chances of retaining the International trophy look pretty good. The South Australian championships are the last tournament before the interzone cup matches.

The other Aussies who made good were Neale Fraser, Ashley Cooper and Mal Anderson. Fraser ousted fellow countryman Roy Emerson 6-3, 6-1, 6-0; Cooper eliminated Jackie Brichant of the Belgian team, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4; and Anderson, who holds the U.S. championship, beat Rod Laver, the 19-year-old who previously had upset Herbie Flam of the U.S. Anderson's score was 6-3, 6-1, 6-3.

Despite Seixas' defeat, American coach Bill Talbert said he still had to count on the durable veterans for the singles in the impending Davis Cup match with the Philippines, and succeeding meetings with Belgium and Australia if the Yanks can travel that far.

Chisox, Bosox Tigers Go Into Trade Huddle

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago White Sox will hold trade talks with Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers this weekend as baseball officials gather at Colorado Springs, Colo., for the annual major-minor meetings.

A Boston group, headed by general manager Joe Cronin, will entrain with top White Sox brass Saturday at Chicago. The Pale Hose, represented by vice - presidents Chuck Comiskey and John Rigney and field manager Al Lopez, may seek an outfielder and third baseman from the Red Sox.

Sunday, the White Sox group will huddle with John McHale, player personnel director, and John Tighe, field manager of Detroit Tigers. The Sox still covet shortstop Harvey Kuenn of the Tigers.

VETERAN ESKS RETIRE

EDMONTON (CP)—Two veteran players for Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union have announced plans to retire.

Blue Bombers Rely Heavily On James' Scoring Ability

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Jerry James, who sat out the 1956 football season in favor of professional hockey, returned to Winnipeg Blue Bombers this year stronger and better than ever.

The 23-year-old fullback wound up the 1957 Western Interprovincial Football Union schedule with a record 131 points, including a record 19 touchdowns. He finished second in the rushing department.

Toronto sports fans, who watched him perform with Toronto Maple Leafs on the National Hockey League last winter, will get a chance to see him on the gridiron at Varsity Stadium Saturday when Bombers meet Hamilton Tiger-Cats for the Grey Cup.

IN 1953 FINAL

Gerry's last outing on the Toronto football field was in 1953 when Bombers lost to Tiger-Cats 5-4. It also was the last time either club got into the Canadian football final.

James, who still is being sought by Leafs, says he has given no thought to hockey in recent weeks.

"I have plenty to think about with football," he said after coming off the practice field Tuesday night as Bombers went through a light drill of calisthenics, running and passing.

James said his knee, injured in early playoffs, was "coming around well."

The 1954 winner of the outstanding Canadian football player may capture the same award this year. He has been chosen as the West's representative for the award, to be presented Thursday night at Toronto.

FATHER WAS DYNAMITE

Gerry came by his football prowess honestly. His father, Eddie (Dynamite) James was one of the hardest hitting backs on western gridirons in the late '30s and early '40s while playing with Regina Fair Juniors, the senior Regina Roughriders and the Winnipegs.

Gerry started his football career in 1950, playing with Kelvin Tech of the Winnipeg High School League. The following year, he attended Toronto Runnymede Collegiate, and ran wild in the an average of about 13 points a game. He was a unanimous all-star choice.

James made the big jump to professional football with Bombers in 1953.

The next year, he really blossomed and was a standout in Bombers' loss to Hamilton, scoring Winnipeg's lone touchdown.

WAS FIRST WINNER

In 1954, his brilliant performances gained him the first outstanding-Canadian award.

In 1955, he finished runner-up to Edmonton's Normie Kwong in the WIFUP rushing department and was named to The Canadian Press all-star team.

He was to continue his hockey in the East, with Toronto Marlboros Junior B and A teams.

His bruising tactics attracted Leafs and he signed a two-year contract.

Injuries plagued him in the 1956 winter campaign and Gerry had a relatively poor season. He appeared to lose interest and returned to the football wars with Bombers.

Detroit Lions Meet Packers Thanksgiving

DETROIT (AP)—"If we've got championship stuff, now's the time to prove it," George Wilson said today on the eve of the traditional Thanksgiving Day battle between the Detroit Lions and the Green Bay Packers.

The knowledge that his Lions are one touchdown favorites has done little to ease the fears of the Detroit coach.

"I hope we've learned that we can't overlook anybody in the National Football League," said Wilson.

Thursday's game will be nationally televised (CBS). The kickoff is at noon EST.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

EAST MEETS WEST!

This is the week the twain meets!

The twains will come from the west and from the east, loaded with passengers, a lot of whom will be carrying their own cargoes.

Staid old Toronto will let down its hair, open its heart and make whoopee.

Hotels, motels, bistros, bottles, taverns and pub will be filled to overflowing. So will a lot of the celebrants.

The big inns will augment their staffs, remove everything that isn't nailed and reinforce everything that is.

Their biggest day will be Hangover Day when they count the shekels. The jingle will have a coast-to-coast hook-up.

There will be more ten-gallon hats in Tawranta than at a Calgary Stampede. And a lot of them will be worn by Yonge Street swopkies who have never been farther west than Oakville.

But there will be honest-to-goodness rannies there too, from the wide open spaces far west of Portage Ave. where men draw from the hip and occasionally ask the gals to sample it.

About the least-used things in good Old Hogtown will be the beds. It will be the land of the midnight sons, and daughters too.

If the celebration is comparable to any of its predecessors and indications point to it being even better, downtown Toronto will resound to the revelry until dawn. Then after backing up, it will start afresh.

It should be as colorful as four rainbows in a tig-team match. For not only will the westerners be there in force but those Tiger Cats will bring along a bunch of fans who hate a backseat from none when it comes to whoop-ing it up for their beloved Tabbies.

And no doubt there will be not a few of the Larks from Montreal at the big lark. The menfolk, mendames et madmoiselles wearing the colorful toques and whatnot of the Alf's encampment will see, you can wager your last sou or centime, be backing the "Eat-'Em-Raws" from Hamilton way, or will they? Will they have forgiven the humiliating defeat handed their beloved Larks by the Bolsheviks Bengals last Saturday, or will they fancy the East over the West.

And likely wearing the "How-did-it-happen" look will be the boys from Edmonton, still reeling from that stunning setback at the hands of the cocky Blue Bombers from the Peg. But all is blither than water and the Esky cheers will likely be backing up the Bomber-crew.

Yup, there's going to be a hot time in old Toronto come Friday and Saturday. Old Muddy York will loosen her girdle, throw the bustle away, shake her locks loose and let the visiting cousins and daughters from the faraway places howl to their hearts' content.

There will be parades, music and dancing. The rollicking tunes of the prairies will medley with "Alouette" while in the background you will hear "Hold That Tiger." The genuine cowpokes and cowgals will mingle with the phonies. There will be square-dancing and the hum and ilili of the "ptitars" will echo and re-echo in the downtown canyons.

The main rotundas of the big hostelries will be kaleidoscopes of color. Hotel rooms will hold "open house." Private parties will be a dime a dozen.

And lest we forget, squeezed in between the "halves" of celebration there will be a football game at Varsity Stadium. The Blue Bombers of Winnipeg will meet the Tiger Cats from Hamilton for a piece of pewterware that has done as much to stir the country as a declarsion of war.

Likely some 30,000 will see the Grey Cup classic "live" at the stadium. Millions will view the struggle from the living room TV fifty-yard line.

It is Canada's biggest sports event of the year and fandom from coast-to-coast will forget death, taxes and other comparative trivia momentarily to cheer their favorites to victory.

Peerless Rearguard Moved To Fill Ted Lindsay Wing; Net Result, Two Wins and Tie

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Have Detroit Red Wings found the magic element to put potency back in Gordie Howe's scoring formula?

There's strong evidence they have and it should be just the factor needed to blow the fifth-place Wings back into the National Hockey League's first division.

For many years the formula called for a left-hempered Ted Lindsay on left wing with Howe on right. They could score with many centres.

Last summer Ted was traded to Chicago Black Hawks and over the first games of the season Howe and the Wings were a pale reflection of their old selves.

Then, three games ago, coach Tommy Ivan moved Red Kelly, the peerless rearguard, onto left wing opposite Howe.

TOP REGULATES

Result: Two ties and a win. Wings best three-game effort this season; three goals and two assists for Howe; two goals and two assists for Kelly.

They even had a sixth, seventh and eighth goals this season. He had scored only five in the first 17 games. The last assist was his 402th in league play, tying him with Montreal Canadiens' Elmer Lach for the league record.

If Kelly is the catalyst that produced the reaction, he could get be more unlike Lindsay.

Lindsay was the fighter, the brawler, the spearhead. Kelly, competitive fire, has made his name in just the opposite fashion.

INCREDIBLE MARK

For 10 seasons on the Detroit blueline, the 30-year-old native of Simcoe, Ont., is one of the most pious players in the league, never getting more than 30 minutes in penalties during a 70-game schedule, an incredible record for a defenceman.

During that time he won the Lady Byng Trophy for gentlemanly conduct three times, the James Norris Trophy as the NHL's best defenceman once and was chosen six times for the first all-star team and twice for the second.

MAY BE NEW CAREER

His low penalty-total was in direct contrast to his high points total and many observers thought he could have made the NHL just as easily as a forward. Now, at 30, he may be embarking on a new career.

In a second move to strengthen their club, Detroit officials Tuesday called up veteran centre Metro Prystai from Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League. In 10 NHL seasons, before being traded to this fall, Prystai scored 150 goals and is expected to provide the experienced power Wings didn't find in rookie left winger Tom McCarthy.

Tonight, in the only NHL game, New York Rangers are host to Boston Bruins.

Ticats placed seven players—half the total—on the offensive team and held a slight edge over Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto with four players on the defensive team.

Fans were asked to vote for a 16-man offensive unit and 12 defensive players. None was named to a relief unit.

Hamilton as league champions also supplies coach Jim Trimble and his assistant, Ralph Sazio.

Montreal Alouettes had three players named to each section. Ottawa had two on the offensive team and three on the defensive while Toronto placed two on each.

BOMBERS PACE WEST

Says Americans Place Sport Before Studies

OTTAWA (CP)—Ron Quillian, star fullback with Ottawa Rough Riders, Eastern Canadian authorities shouldn't allow football, or any other sport for that matter, emphasized in high schools or colleges.

Quillian told a service club Monday night students neglect their studies in American schools where football has become all-important.

"Regardless of what coaches say scholastic rating in these schools is affected," he said. "In colleges where football is over emphasized, 75 per cent of the players are there to play football and not to get an education."

The Ottawa player, who attended New Orleans' Tulane University on a football scholarship, said players got degrees because professors made concessions to them.

Dunlops Defeat Kingston 5-2 Pembroke Nips Canadiens 4-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Whitby Dunlops, having shaken off those start-of-the season blues, are heating up the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Eastern Division.

Tuesday night Dunlops consolidated their hold on second place in the standings with a 5-2 victory over Kingston CKLCs. And those five goals pushed the Allan Cup championships' scoring record to more than six a game.

The team which represents Canada in the world championships at Oslo, in February—it'll look good on defensive side. Their goals-against average is just over four, currently the best in the league.

WIN IN OVERTIME

Other action in the loop saw Pembroks Lumber Kings, via an overtime goal by playing coach Ken Campbell, beat Ottawa-Hull Canadiens 4-3, while in the OHA-NOHA league Windsor Bulldogs beat Chatham Maroons 3-1.

Another OHA-NOHA game between Soo Greyhounds and North Bay Trappers was canceled because of defects in the arena roof.

Whitby's substitute goalie Jack Dooley kept Kingston scoreless for 53 minutes.

Two goals from Gordie Myles in the first period—plus singles from Alf Treen, Charlie Burns and Sid Smith gave Dunlops victory. Kingston scorers were John Tilley and Brian Anderson.

BROTHERS ACT

The brothers Gieselbrecht, Jack, Bruno and Bert—all scored for Pembroke who held a 3-2 lead after a couple of minutes before the final bell. Bob Boucher, Jean Claude Tremblay and John Lecuyer rallied were the Ottawa marksmen.

Outshooting Chatham 33 to 20, Windsor still found the goals hard to come by due to some brilliant goaltending by Don Head.

Pete Pilote, Bob Brown and Gus Gustaven—who shot what proved to be the winner in the second period — were Bulldogs' scorers, Fred Pletsch replying for the Maroons.

Tonight Whitby is scheduled to visit Kingston.

They'll Do It Every Time

Dutchmen Lay Russia Ghost Defeat Moscow Selects 4-2

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen have finally laid to rest the ghost that has haunted them since the 1956 Olympic Games.

That year the Russian hockey team defeated Dutchmen 2-0 to take the Olympic title and it's been giving the Canadian team nightmares ever since.

Tuesday night Dutchmen beat the touring Moscow Selects 4-2 and though the Russian team included only eight of the players who took the title at Cortina d'Ampezzo Italy, the victory should go a long way towards avenging Dutchmen in their eyes.

Coincidentally, eight of the '56 Dutchmen were also on the ice. It was the visitor's second loss in their three games to date. Sunday they tied Windsor Bulldogs 5-5 after losing the opener of their seven-game tour 7-2 to Whitby Dunlops Friday in Toronto.

DRAW FULL HOUSE

The game, played before a capacity house of 8,002, was a repetition of the two earlier games, with the Canadian team outplaying the visitors' superior speed and condition with dogged forechecking and better play around the nets.

Don Rope put Kitchener ahead 1-0 in the first with a 40-footer that beat netminder Michael Ivanov playing his first game of the tour. In the second Kitchener upped the margin to 4-1 on goals by Ken Laufman, Gerry Theberge and Bill Sutton.

Konstantin Loktev scored after the third Dutchman goal and Nevelandt standout added the second Russian goal 10 seconds before the game ended.

Dutchmen played with a fractured jaw he suffered Nov. 3 in Moscow. He was called into the place Yevgeney Erkin when Erkin split his forehead in practice. Backhoor was tested 27 times, while his team had 34 shots on the Kitchener goal.

SCORE ON POWER PLAY

Some observers hailed the game Dutchmen's best so far; but their first goal was scored while Kitchener was a man short and the second on Nevelandtov's shot from behind the net bounced in off goalie Michael Hurley's leg.

Like earlier games, it was cleanly - played, with Dutchmen drawing four of seven penalties from the International rules. However, the game also produced the nearest thing yet to an unpleasant incident. Kitchener's Howie Lee, always showed a tendency to mix it in the third period and was roundly booed by the fans.

Thursday Selects should have their best chance yet of winning a game. They journey to Sudbury to play Wolves, who have won only four of 17 games in the OHA NOHA Senior A League this year and are at the bottom of the league.

RETIRED TO STUD

TORONTO (CP)—Three prominent handicap horses have been relegated to stud, bringing the number of handicap performers retired this year to five.

Captor, owned by E. P. Taylor; Carr Hatch's Mr. Brief; and Bunty's Flight, frfen the stables of Conn Smythe and Larkin Maloney, are the latest entrants to the breeding grounds.

The five previously retired handicap horses were Ace Marvel and King Maple, purchased by Mr. Taylor.

Anti-Russian Pamphlets Seized By Police

KITCHENER (CP) — Police seized 4,000 anti-Russian pamphlets a few hours before Tuesday night's Dutchmen-Russia hockey game.

Police chief John Patrick said the pamphlets were seized at a house following reports they were to be hanced out before the game by a group of Ukrainalls. No charges were laid.

Bombers Win Over Eskimos Fails to Convince Odds Boys

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Figure this out: Two weeks ago the West was favorite at 13-to-5 odds to win the Grey Cup. Today, it's the East with a 6½-point spread at 6-to-5 odds or 5-to-5 without the point spread.

Why? Fix it down to Edmonton Eskimos, three -time Cup champions, winners of 14 of their 18 league games and considered as sure as death and taxes to make it a record-breaking four straight in Saturday's East-West final.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers exploded the Edmonton myth to become the best in the West in an unbelievable three - game final series, but the bettors aren't convinced they can continue their winning ways at Varsity Stadium here. It took the gambling fraternity three years to concede that Eskimos were the best in the country and, in their reckoning, a western representative in the classic by any other name hasn't much of a chance.

READY FOR DOUBTERS

There's little doubt that western football supporters will come east loaded with money and ready to skin doubting easterners. Whatever the outcome after the 1 p.m. EST kickoff, indications point to a rousing wingding battle.

Both clubs have hard-hitting, fierce tackling men up front and big, rugged linebackers. Some experts who have seen both clubs say the Bombers are the Tiger-Cats of the West and vice-versa. Both play the same type of football, their main strength built on a rock-like defence rather than a free-wheeling offence.

They may not produce the crowd-pleasing football of pass happy clubs such as Montreal Alouettes but the hardened football fans among the 27,400 crowd probably will be witness to one of the most rugged Cup games in years.

PUNCH IS THERE

Both clubs still have enough scoring punch, especially on the ground, to make it interesting. Tiger-Cats, with Gerry McDougall and Cookie Gilchrist carrying the ball, proved that last Saturday when they brushed past the faltering Alo 39-1. They did it with an unexpected diversified attack with outside running and passes at the opportune time rather than their usual down-the-middle plunging.

Bombers, in far from the best physical condition due to a long string of injuries, still have the horses. There's Gerry James, the 23-year-old fullback who was an infant when his father, the famous Eddie (Dynamite) James, played for the 1935 Winnipeg first western club to win the Cup. Gerry was the leading scorer in the western conference this year with 131 points and a record 18 touchdowns.

There's Leo Lewis, second-year import, Dennis Mendyk, first-year import and a late arrival from New York Giants of the National Football League, and fullback Charlie Shepard, touted as the man who can match punt for punt with Hamilton's Cam Fraser, the best kicked in the east for years.

It should be an interesting duel between the quarterbacks.

Hamilton has Bernie Faloney, the magic man who directed Edmonton to its first Cup victory in 1954. A Tiger victory would make Faloney the first man in cup history to quarterback winning east and west clubs.

Faloney is considered the same type of signal-caller as Winnipeg's Kenny Ploen, 32-year-old star who led Iowa to the Rose Bowl championship last January. The edge in this department, if there is one, could be the dark-like running of Ploen.

Neither Ploen nor Faloney are great passers, although both can pitch in a clutch. Ploen proved that in the final game against Edmonton and Faloney surprised critics with his throwing the same day when he tossed three touchdown passes, one a 40-yarder to McDougall.

As the bettors were looking around for money and Grey Cup fever started to rise, Varsity Stadium groundmen Tuesday did their part to ensure a decent field. The weatherman predicted intermittent snow today and officials gave the order to spread the tarpaulin.

Eastern Senior 'A' Division Standings, Scoring

Belleville McFarlands won three of four games this past week to keep their grip on first place in the Eastern OHA Senior "A" loop and the main reason was the terrific scoring of the Bradley-Kowalchuk-Marineau line. The trio accounted for 12 goals and 20 assists in the four games, placing all three high in the scoring race. Barton Bradley with two goals and nine assists climbed into second place, just one point behind Cornwall's Moe Savard. Savard has 29 points, Bradley 19 and right behind with 18 is Russ Kowalchuk. Eddie Marineau, third member of the line, scored four times and assisted on five goals to hit him into a tie with four others with a 15 point total. Billy Colvin of Kingston, and Bobby Attersley of Whitby, follow Kowalchuk with 17 points while Bob Boucher of Ottawa-Hull, is next with 16. Reg Grigz of Cornwall; Marineau, Chuck Burns of Whitby; Jack Giesebrecht of Pembroke, and Ike Hildebrand of Belleville, all have 15 points.

Colvin's ten goals still gives him top spot in that department while Bradley and Gerry Moore of Kingston, are tied in the assist race with 14. Kowalchuk is the loop badman with 49 minutes in the penalty box.

John Henderson of Whitby, tops the goalies with a 2.77 mark in nine games. Belleville's Gordie Bell chopped his average from 2.60 to 2.21, followed by John Craig of Pembroke, with 3.35s. Harold Hansen of Ottawa-Hull, has the league's only shut-out

The Sao Paulo race is run annually over 7,400 metres of city streets every New Year's Day.

For those who cannot be with you . . . a call on Christmas Day will bring you

Together for Christmas

Christmas is a time for family rejoicing. Already, the family invitations are going out—the invitations to spend this occasion together in renewing the bonds of kinship, affection and respect. And for those who cannot be with you at this wonderful season, a telephone call on Christmas Day can mean so much—so much more than any gift.

The information listed at the right is published for your guidance to help you avoid unnecessary delay, or disappointment when placing your call. But remember, the demands on the telephone services are particularly heavy at this time—so please be patient.

CALLING LONG-DISTANCE AT CHRISTMAS

1. Check on that number new to avoid risk of delay when placing your call.
2. If number is unknown, be sure to give operator the exact address and initials of the person you're calling.
3. A letter now, telling of your intended call, will avoid the chances of disappointment on the day.
4. Write down your messages and important news items in advance —and keep those notes handy when making your call.
5. How much will it cost? Ask your telephone service local business office for the tariff.

CALLING FAMILY AND FRIENDS OVERSEAS

Telephone services are unlikely to accept further bookings for overseas calls during the period—Dec. 20 to Dec. 31. But there's still time to place a call immediately before, or after this period. Call long distance and ask for the overseas operator to advise you. When booking a call, remember to take the time difference into account—i.e. Britain is 5 hours ahead of Ontario, West Europe (Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Rome) 6 hours ahead, Israel and Middle East 7 hours ahead. Overseas operator will advise you on time differences in other areas.

HUNTERS INTRODUCE JAPANESE QUAIL TO CANADA

All meat and flying power is the way hunters describe this newcomer to the game-bird lists of Canada. They are oriental or Japanese quail, small fast birds that fly in groups and may migrate south each year. Five hundred of the birds are being raised by bird-dog groups in Ontario and will be released in the hope that they will multiply and become a common sight in bush and farms. They are prolific birds, hatching three broods a year.

Blue Bombers Place 10 on All-Star Squad

MONTREAL (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers have earned 10 of the 36 Western all-star positions for the third annual East-West Shrine football game here Dec. 7.

Fans named six Winnipeg players to the 14-man offensive unit and four to the defensive team.

Edmonton Eskimos, league champions who buckled in a bitter, three-game playoff for Grey Cup representation, had seven men chosen — four on offence, three defence.

British Columbia Lions had one offence, three defence, Calgary Stampeders two offence and one defence and Saskatchewan Roughriders one in each division.

The Western team, which will be handled by Bomber coach Bud Grant and assistant Wayne Robinson, is:

Offence — ends: Ernie Pitts, Winnipeg, Jack Gotta, Calgary; tackles: Roger Nelson and Reid Henderson, Edmonton; guards: Reggie Whitehouse, Saskatchewan, John Michaels, Winnipeg; centre: George Druxman, Winnipeg; quarterbacks: Jackie Parker, Edmonton, Kenny Ploen, Winnipeg; backs: Garry James and Leo Lewis, Winnipeg; Al Valdes, Calgary; Johnny Bright, Edmonton; punter: Vic Ethman, British Columbia.

Defence — ends: Norm Fieldgate, British Columbia, Herb Gray, Winnipeg; tackles: Buddy Tinsley, Winnipeg, Art Walker, Edmonton; guard: Steve Patrick, Winnipeg; linebackers: Ted Tully, Edmonton, Ed Sharkey, British Columbia, Bobby Marlow, Saskatchewan, Gord Rowland, Winnipeg; backs: Lynn Bottoms, Calgary, Paul Cameron, British Columbia, Bruce Kruger, Edmonton.

Frankie Anderson, brilliant Edmonton lineman, was chosen but a leg injury will make him unavailable.

The Dec. 7 all-star game follows the tie in the Toronto inaugural and a 35-0 blasting administered by the West in Vancouver last year.

AT THE BELLE — Cornel Wilde embodies the spirit of Omar Khayyam's "Rubaiyat", as he romances Debra Paget, in the motion picture of Might, Magnitude and Magnificence "Omar Khayyam's", which also stars Michael Rennie, John Derek and Raymond Massey. "Omar Khayyam", starting today at the Belle, is in Technicolor and VistaVision.

AT THE PARK — A scene from "The Lawless Breed", in color by Technicolor, featuring the star of the year "Rock Hudson" with Julie Adams. On the same program James Stewart and June Allyson in "The Glenn Miller Story" in color by Technicolor. Both attractions open at the Park Theatre, Thursday.

Peg Coach Says Spirit Is Missing

WINNIPEG (CP)—Coach Bud Grant of Winnipeg Blue Bombers thinks the amazing spirit that carried his club to the western football championship is missing on the eve of the Grey Cup game.

"They're saying the same things, but it's just words," he said in an interview.

"On the bus on the way to the final game with Edmonton you could have heard a pin drop. Clearing your throat sounded like a cannon going off. You could feel how keyed up the boys were, but I can't see it now."

The rookie coach also was concerned about the health of star halfback Leo Lewis and tough linebacker Pete Mangum.

CAN'T WORK OUT

"They're not responding as quickly as we hoped," he said. "And Charlie Shepard hasn't been able to work out with the team yet."

Fullback Shepard is suffering from a bruised hip and a knee injury. Earlier word was that if he saw action in the Canadian final against Hamilton Tiger-Cats it would be only as a kicker.

Lewis is suffering from a torn rib cartilage and Mangum has a sprained ankle.

Grant is offering no prediction on the outcome of the game in Toronto Saturday, but he has suggested it will be thrilling and wide open.

Quebec Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The lowly Trois-Rivieres Lions, backed by the shutout goaltending of Jacques Marcotte, need only one point to get out of the Quebec Hockey League cellar.

Marcotte turned back 23 shots Tuesday as Lions whacked the third-place Quebec Aces 3-0.

Chicoutimi Saguenens, continuing their domination of the league, drubbed Montreal Royals 1-2 and helped out Lions.

Chicoutimi now has 27 points, the idle Shawinigan Falls Cataracts 22, Quebec 19, Montreal 15 and Lions 14.

AT THE McCARTHY — Richard Burton, Joan Collins, Cy Grant and Basil Sydney, four survivors of a torpedoed ship, find themselves drifting aimlessly in the Indian Ocean in this scene from "Sea Wife", a Twentieth Century-Fox production coming Thursday to the CinemaScope screen of the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. The film, in De Luxe color, was adapted from the best selling novel by J. M. Scott, produced by Andre Hakim and directed by Bob McNaught.

RACE HORSE DIES

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Switch On, handicap colt who won $62,000 this year, died Monday night in his stall at Tropical Park.

The six-year-old gelding, owned by Gerald S. Colella of Boston, had been assigned top weight of 124 pounds for the $10,000 Tropical Inaugural Handicap Thursday.

Mickey Mantle Declared OK After Checkups

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Yankees said Tuesday Mickey Mantle has been discharged from Mayo Clinic with his general condition rated "most satisfactory."

The Yankee centrefielder, chosen the American League's most valuable player for the second straight year, had entered the Rochester, Minn., clinic with other teammates for checkups.

"His shin splints on the left leg, and the right shoulder which was injured in a collision with Red Schoendienst in the world series are okay," said a Yankee spokesman. "Mickey was told to exercise his right leg to strengthen it a little more."

Rock Hudson Is Nominated To Inherit Gable's Mantle

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Is Rock Hudson the new king of Hollywood?

He has been nominated to inherit the mantle of Clark Gable and the suggestion makes some sense. He is the first newcomer in many years to approach Gable in stature and virility. He is the most sought - after leading man in films today.

The measure of his strength is illustrated in the fact that he has been chosen by the powerful Theatre Owners of America as the "star of the years."

Rock is obviously solid at the box office.

What does Rock think of this "king" business?

"I think it's nonsense," he replied. "I don't know how it got started, but I'd like to put a stop to it. Me king? Not on your life, court jester, maybe."

But if the kingly title sticks, Rock will be a monarch without rule. For he is the subject of Universal - International for the next five years, bag, baggage and crown.

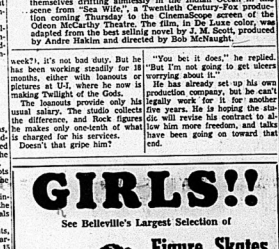
This was a surprise to me, because I thought he would be coming to the end of his deal with the studio, where he started as an unknown a decade ago.

"It would have been over," he explained, "except for one thing: I wanted to do Giant. It was too good an opportunity to pass up. Under the way the studio would let me do it was to sign up for another contract. So I did."

Giant paid off for him in kingsize proportions. It brought Rock his first academy nomination and impressed producers and public alike that he could carry a big production on his own shoulders. He was the one who held the sprawling picture together.

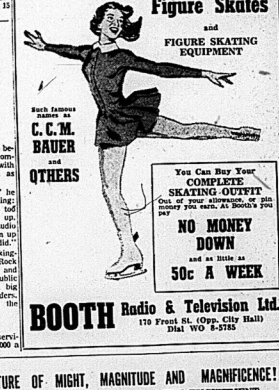
BUSY SCHEDULE

He now is paying off in servitude. At a hefty salary ($5,000 a week?), it's not bad duty. But he has been working steadily for 18 months, either with loanouts or pictures at U-I, where he now is making Twilight of the Gods.



The loanouts provide only his usual salary. The studio collects the difference, and Rock figures he makes only one-tenth of what is charged for his services.

Doesn't that gripe him?



"You bet it does," he replied. "But I'm not going to get ulcers worrying about it."

He has already set up his own production company, but he can't legally work for it for another five years. He is hoping the studio will revise his contract to allow him more freedom, and talks have been going on toward that end.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

(Author of the new "Astrology and You")

The Stars impel . . . They do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to you."

November 27

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Don't endeavor to go it alone any longer. Contact every kind friend, influential person, or one who believes in you and combined energy will work wonders for your career. P.M. have sparkling good time.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) This is a day when you will be successful in getting support in common almost every higher-up and bigwig you approach. Tell them your true desires honestly and win out. Think of others, too, and you will be blessed.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Get busy and study all that pertains matter at your fingertips for the answers you seek there. Also, make sure you meet really worthwhile, intelligent, successful people so that you, too, may learn how to get ahead.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) If you devote all your energies and time today to those important, practical matters of money in your life, you will succeed in building up a surplus. P.M. good for affairs of the heart.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) The planetary influences are very favorable today to assist in making all your contacts and longtime relations with people of great standing and prestige within the community, or politically successful and fruitful.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) A perfect day for weeding at top speed and with maximum efficiency, since you see where to add new gadgets, cut corners, speed progress. P.M. fine for gardening, getting home in perfect order, writing. Go to bed happily.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Happiness and good fun are in store for you today. If attuned to your star properly, you arise with a song in your heart, and pass this joyous feeling along to others. Great day for the artist on the stage or screen.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Devote this day to increasing the beauty and harmony within own home, as suits own discriminating taste and culture. This will help in career and plans for the future. Put real estate in better shape, too, and see architect.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) The day is here when you can come to better meeting of minds, greater understanding with fellow men as you do your daily work, make your calls, etc. To-night be sure to get together with dearest friends.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) It would be very wise to take care of everything connected with all your holdings, personal or real. Dress with utmost care and confer with your associates, advisers, lawyers, everyone you feel can give you best advice.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A chance is here to be friendly with everyone and state your aims. If you do not speak up now can others know just what it is you seek in life? Or how can they help you? Fine for fun and frolic tonight.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Get busy on the work at hand which requires some streamlining, which is possible for you to incorporate today. Fine day also for philanthropies, helpfulness which will give you a happy feeling.

If your child is born today — The child born today is the kind who will never want to conform to the accepted paths of others, for the mind is filled with imagination and ingenuity. Your duty will be to give instruction as to the established standards and dogma by which your child can regulate his or her interesting life, along the unexplored trails of tomorrow. The chart is ideal for government, other very high professions.

TRENTON NEWS

Two-Year-Old Car Theft Case Heard in Court

TRENTON — A car theft, which happened over two years ago but was not forgotten by local police officers ended in magistrate's court yesterday when John L. Thompson, no fixed address, was sentenced to three months in jail.

The accused appeared before Magistrate T. Y. Wills after the case had been held over for one week, as the defendant had requested legal aid.

R. Gregory Butler acted on behalf of Thompson.

Five appeared in court on charges pertaining to the use of alcoholic beverages, two of them concerning driving. One of these was sentenced to seven days and the other fined $50 plus $10.25 costs.

The other three were charged with being drunk in a public place. There were two second offenders with one getting 30 days and the other given until the end of the week to raise the money to cover a $50 fine. The other, a first offender, was given six days.

SENTENCED FOR THEFT

A 21-year-old Trentonian who was charged with stealing brass from the C.P.R. yards pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 21 days in the work-gang.

Three young men, 19, 20 and 17 years old, appeared on breaking and entry charges and were remanded for sentencing in Belleville on Saturday. Two of these boys pleaded guilty to five different charges of breaking and entry, which occurred over the past year. The other was faced with two similar charges.

Two 17-year-old boys, both living in Trenton, faced charges of car theft and were pleaded guilty, were remanded until Saturday for sentencing in Belleville.

Inspector R. J. Rutherford of the local police force presented evidence in most of the cases.

Legion Plans Busy Program To Open Hall

TRENTON (Special) — Formerly scheduled to open around the middle of December, the new $100,000 Canadian Legion building will not be opened until the week of Jan. 19 to 25 of 1958 it was announced yesterday. The celebrations will take in the entire week with the Mayor proclaiming it as Canadian Legion Week for Trenton.

The official opening will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 22 and at present the branch executive is negotiating with Lester Pearson to be their guest speaker.

The executive met in the old Legion hall Monday night under branch president John Farrell to outline the activities for the big week.

On Sunday, Jan. 19, the week will begin with a church parade composed of the Legion members in the morning and in the afternoon the new building will be thrown open for inspection by the public. These will be in the form of tours.

On Monday the regular meeting of the branch will be held with the installation of the new officers. A high-ranking Legion official will be asked to take part in the ceremonies.

On Tuesday the opening banquet will be held and will be catered to by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the local branch. A guest speaker will be arranged for this night.

Wednesday the official opening will take place and besides the main speaker, who it is hoped will be Lester Pearson, recent winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, the Dominion and Provincial command officers of the Canadian Legion will be in attendance.

Thursday will see the banquet for the ladies and the Legion members will cook the meal and serve the women. A dance will follow the meal.

Entertainment for Friday is as yet undecided but it will either be in the form of a formal ball for members and their ladies or will be a smoker for the members. Final plans for this day will be announced later.

Saturday, Jan. 25, the final day of the week's celebrations, will see normal routine carried out during the day and in the evening it will be "open house" for the members and their friends.

The Trenton branch of the Legion has a total membership of 644 and it is expected most of them will turn out for the various programs during the opening week.

Telegrams have been sent out to many friends of the Legion inviting them to attend the opening.

Numbers Will Be Printed Bigger On Future Stamps

OTTAWA (CP) — Postmaster-General William Hamilton has indicated he is trying to do something about his opposition-days criticism of Canada's postage stamp designs.

He said Tuesday that numbers will be printed bigger on future stamps. The possibility of printing all stamps of one denomination in the same colour is being studied, he informed Gordon K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough) in the Commons.

But he put the blame on the former Liberal administration for any possible complaints about a forthcoming five-cent stamp to draw attention—in the words of a recent post office department announcement as being significant—influence of the printed word on the life of Canadians."

H. W. Herridge (SCF—Kootenay West) asked respecting the stamp to be issued Dec. 16 in tribute to the press: "Does the minister consider it appropriate that Canada should be silent and fail to achieve this objective?"

The stamp shows two folded newspapers and the words "A Free Press" in English on one and in French on the other. An industrial montage of skyscrapers, factory chimneys, grain elevators and so on is in the background. Printed vertically on the left-hand side of the black and white stamp is the word "Canada."

FOREIGN POLICY

He said this headquarters should be under NATO command. He said that if the Norwegian general who commands the headquarters holds control over Canadian forces he should be responsible to Ottawa as he is to Washington.

CCF Leader Coldwell said Canada should review its foreign and defence policies in the hope that we can be shaped to make this country more of a world leader for peace.

The diplomacy of the U.S. and Russia had "degenerated into" exchanges of insults and threats, he said. "We don't believe that should sit idly by and tolerate this drift to disaster," Mr. Coldwell said.

WANTS COMMITTEE

A. D. Hollingworth (SC—Fraser Valley) urged formation of an all-party Commons consultative committee to help expose a non-partisan foreign policy. The external affairs committee could in this way, obtain the views of opposition groups on world problems.

Mr. Smith outlined practically the same foreign policy as Mr. Pearson used to give the Commons.

He said Canada would continue to work for a disarmament agreement. It would continue to support the United Nations Emergency Force and the Colombo Plan for economic aid to Free Asia; it would deal frankly and openly with the 15 nations in the month's NATO Council meeting, he said:

"Military problems will loom large on the agenda but, in the minds of many governments and of many peoples, the meeting will be judged just as much by the achievements in the non-military field as in the military field and, with the challenge of communism at the moment, advancing NATO must move with the times in the field of science.

"It is dreadfully essential that we of the NATO alliance should actually and effectively develop military contributions. But that is not enough. It is essential that we work together to improve our machinery for consultation and co-operation, for a closer diplomatic understanding."

Mr. Smith indicated that the government would also support the placing of the UN Emergency Force on a permanent basis. Canada now contributes 1,200 personnel to the 6,000-man force in Egypt.

Mr. Smith said there must be an increased effort to make scientific information among NATO members and stimulated research leading to more economic production of military weapons.

Mr. Coldwell said the Social Credit group would have welcomed more practical statement of policy by Mr. Smith. It could only be assumed that the Conservatives would continue the same foreign policies as the Liberals had.

Replying to questions, Hagerty said "we certainly have not" suggested postponement of the meeting. He stressed that the NATO council of ministers meets annually, and the Dec. 16 session is "an annual meeting."

QUERY NATO ALLIES

Hagerty told reporters the U.S. has queried the 14 other NATO governments as to whether the Paris meeting should be a session at that level or simply a ministerial meeting as in former years.

"When we receive their decision," Hagerty said, "then it will be the decision of the president who will attend."

Hagerty's comments about the Paris meeting left reporters with the impression that he had opened the door a crack to the possibility that Eisenhower might attend after all.

The White House had said Tuesday it was assumed that, because of his illness, Eisenhower would not go.

"EVERYTHING ALL RIGHT"

The presidential physician issued a short medical bulletin soon after his return to the White House this morning, saying "everything is all right" with the president.

MARKER FOR PIONEER SITE

A well known Canadian pioneer location was given a permanent memorial when a unique triangular marker was placed in the grounds of St. Andrew's Church, Bendale, Scarborough, Ont. The marker bore three inscriptions. One perpetuated the memory of the Indian trail trodden by David Thompson in 1796; the second is inscribed to the memory of the Thompson frame church built in 1831. Chief Big White Owl, who was on hand for the unveiling, is shown above pointing out the Indian Trail inscription. Remains of Indian villages have been excavated in the area.

H-Bombs In Sky Stir Hot Debate Among Britons

Some Alarmed on Learning U.S. Planes Fully Armed

LONDON (AP) — Some newspapers and socialist groups expressed alarm today at the Conservative governments assumption that U.S. bombers flying training missions from Britain are armed with nuclear weapons.

But Conservative and independent papers took calmly the statement in the House of Commons Wednesday by Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd. Answering a question, he said the "should think" that the bombers carry nuclear weapons.

The Communist Daily Worker headlines: H-Bombs are Overhead.

One vocal branch of the Labor party adopted a resolution demanding that the U.S. Air Force "desist from a practice which makes the life of the British people subject to the hazards of premature and irresponsible action."

SEEK CONSENT FIRST

U.S. officials have pledged that no nuclear attack would be launched from Britain without consent of the British government.

The Daily Telegraph (Conservative) insisted that if U.S. bombers are to have immediate deterrent value they must carry H-bombs on flights. "If aircraft had to turn back for bombs when a decision was reached to arm them the possibility of retaliation would be delayed for hours," it said.

Lloyd said there was no danger of nuclear weapons exploding in an accident or crash. The Daily Express pointed out what has previously been reported in the U.S., that bombs are carried in separate parts on routine flights.

The Herald condemned the Urchin, without which the H-bomb cannot explode, is not inserted into the weapon until the bomber is over enemy territory," The Express says.

Montreal Mayor And His Backers Control Council

MONTREAL (CP) — Supporters of Mayor Sato Fournier have captured the major administrative posts in Montreal's new city government.

Two of Mr. Fournier's Greater Montreal Rally members were elected to the executive committee, one becoming chairman, and two Independent members picked for the committee are believed to support the GMR.

The elections, held during the new city council's first sessions Wednesday, assured Mayor Fournier of majority support from the six-man committee which with the mayor as ex-officio member is the administrative arm of the civic government.

The mayor, however, could not obtain a council seat nor an executive committee post for GMR founder and president Lucien Croteau, his right hand man during the 1957 elections.

Rally Councillors Joseph Marie Savignac and Alfred Gagnier were elected to the committee and Mr. Savignac was chosen chairman. Harry Hayes, vice-chairman, and J. H. Dupuis were the Independents elected.

TWO OF LEAGUE

Only two members of the opposition Civic Action League, former executive committee chairman Pierre DesMarais, and J. N. Drapeau, father of the CAL's defeated ex-mayor Jean Drapeau, were elected to the committee.

Rally councillor Marcel Lafleur was chosen leader of the 29-man council and another rally councillor, Gerard Loiselle, promayor.

HOUSE MEMBERS LIABLE TO FINES OVER EXPENSES

Did Not Report Costs of Election

OTTAWA (CP) — Three Commons members, all from Quebec, have left themselves open to possible heavy fines and loss of parliamentary membership by not reporting their campaign expenses for the June 10 election.

But officials say they could avoid the penalties by obtaining a judge's order excusing them for not filing their expense reports within the proper time and allowing them to make a belated report.

The three are Jean Bourbeau Liberal member for Chateauguay Huntingdon - Laprairie; Hector Dupuis, Liberal from Montreal Ste. Marie, and John Pratt, Progressive Conservative member for Gaspe-Nord-Matane-Cartier-Lasalle.

Their names were not included in a list, tabled in the Commons Wednesday by State Secretary Ellen Fairclough showing election expenses reported by candidates in this year's federal election.

MUST GIVE ACCOUNTING

The law requires agents must file with their constituency returning officer an account of their campaign expenses within two months of the date they were declared elected.

Besides the three MPs, names of 118 unsuccessful candidates, whose deposits were forfeited, are not on the list.

Any elector in the constituency involved can take court action against a candidate who has not filed expense accounts, or filing incorrect ones.

In the case of an elected MP, if found guilty he could be fined $500 for every day he has sat in the Commons, and could be disfranchised and barred from the Commons for five years. The fine could be paid to the complainant. The Commons has been sitting for 32 days.

In the case of losing candidates who don't file returns, they are liable on conviction to a $500 fine or a year in jail or both and to disfranchisement and disbarment from the Commons for five years.

Officials said it is the first known case any successful candidate has not filed an account of campaign expenses.

Nehru Says U.S. And Russia Can 'Save Humanity'

NEW DELHI (CP) — Prime Minister Nehru appealed today to "the great leaders of the United States and the Soviet Union" to end nuclear tests and agree to disarmament.

Nehru said the world faces a crisis in civilization.

"Mankind is in the power of America and Russia to solve this crisis and save humanity from ultimate disaster which faces it."

Nehru said there now are enough weapons of mass destruction to put an end to life on earth.

"Today science and Russia possess them in abundance and England also has them. Tomorrow in the other 3 great countries will possess them and even the capacity to control them will become another danger of the human power.

"No country, no people, however powerful they might be, are safe from destruction if this continues in weapons of mass destruction and cold war continues."

Nehru did not comment on his reasons for issing the statement at this time but observers here linked it to Soviet announcements Russia would not take part in further disarmament talks in the U.N. disarmament commission.

There have been reports that India was trying to work behind the scenes to bring the Russians back into the UN talks.

Railwaymen Continue Talks On Agreement

MONTREAL (CP)—Union and railway representatives today began negotiations on a new one-year agreement for some 140,000 non - operating rail employees.

Their meeting — scheduled for 10 a.m. EST — is the second attempt to narrow differences arising from a 20-cent-an-hour increase of 35 cents per hour, plus other benefits.

The negotiators met for several hours Wednesday and ended their talks without making a settlement.

Labor observers expect the negotiations to reach a point where conciliation intervention will be sought.

There are two major railways, the CPR and CNR, have described the union package demand as irresponsible. They said the total annual cost of the wage and other demands would be $123,000,000.

The unions, representing railway employees who do not actually operate trains, are seeking fourpercent paid vacations, severance pay and an eighth statutory holiday. Average wage is $1.63 an hour.

Fulfilling Vow After Son Freed, Woman Starts 387-Mile Pilgrimage

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—A 46-year-old woman started trudging the 387 miles from here to her home in Laredo today after she made a vow.

Mrs. Manuela Carreon of Texas City, started walking from Galveston County courthouse to the Mission de San Juan Roman Catholic Church in San Juan, in the lower Rio Grande valley.

Despite a bean condition, she said she expected to finish the trip in three or four weeks.

A jury acquitted her son, Alfonso, 27, of a 1956 knife slaying Mrs. Carreon pleaded self-defence.

Mrs. Carreon said she promised the Virgin of San Juan that she would make the walk if her son was freed.

Dressed in a blue she started out after the jury announced its verdict. She said she would accept no rides. Asked, what she would do if her foam rubber shoes wore out, she replied "Then I, will walk barefooted."

UN Intervention in Algeria Would Only Bring Bloodshed

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) France has warned the United Nations she considers the Algerian revolt her own business and feels any UN intervention could only result in more bloodshed.

Foreign Minister Christian Pineau issued his hands-off demand in the political committee Wednesday night even as the Algerian national movement called on Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to bring both sides together in an effort to settle the rebellion.

Pineau said the rebels had lost the war on the military, psychological and political fronts. Any UN action at this stage, he said, would only block France's efforts to achieve a "peaceful, democratic and just" solution in her North African territory.

He turned down an offer by Tunisia and Morocco to get the French and Algerian nationalists to settle their difference around a conference table. The offer, Pineau said, was pointless because it contained political preconditions. He said it had dropped the nationalist demand for Algerian independence, but substituted a demand for sovereignty which the French consider the same thing.

In Paris, the French National Assembly cut off debate on bills for part home rule for Algeria at Premier Felix Gaillard's demand for a confidence vote.

The vote was scheduled for Friday and Gaillard will make the government's reply on the Tunisian-Moroccan mediation offer before the vote is taken. The cabinet Wednesday approved the general lines of Gaillard's reply but did not disclose the form it will take.

British Papers Again Urge Eisenhower to Leave Office

LONDON (Reuters) Three British newspapers today urged President Eisenhower to retire, they also focus a searching look at Vice-President Richard Nixon as his successor.

The newspapers — The Scotsman, The Daily Mail and The Daily Mirror—say the burden of the United States presidency is too great for a man whose health is uncertain.

Says The Daily Mail (Conservative):

"He has earned the rest and the chance of real recovery which complete relaxation from work and worry alone can give him, and if only in his own interests he should seek release."

The Scotsman (Independent) says the work of a president is almost more than a fit man could perform and Eisenhower should resign.

"His duty to America and to America's allies is clear," says the left-wing Daily Mirror. "He should hand over the presidency promptly as possible and restore some confidence in Western leadership."

The Mirror says no one can tell yet how Vice-President Nixon would shape as president.

"Too slick? Too much of a salesman? Too inexperienced in world politics?

"Maybe. But Nixon has one supreme qualification. He is only 44. Young enough to learn. Tough enough to stand the strain of the most exhausting job in the world.

"The pace in 1957 is too hot for the old man. He is the eye of the Sputniks. Aged minds, tired brains, sick bodies, cannot keep up with the headlong pace of events."

The Manchester Guardian (Liberal) says Nixon "seems likely to step out more boldly towards the centre of power . . . office is a great forcing-house."

The Times says "some decision must be made over the president's capacity to continue."

The News Chronicle (Liberal) says that to much of the world "Mr. Nixon looks almost as small today as Mr. Truman did before destiny swept him to the White House. But destiny can do strange things."

King of Morocco Ends His 3-Day Washington Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — King Mohammed V of Morocco ended his three-day visit here with a warm "goodbye" today from President Eisenhower.

The king left by air on a special 16-day cross-country tour.

Eisenhower told the 48-year-old monarch his stay had further strengthened the ties of friendship between Morocco and the U.S.

Nixon presented the king with a Miss America doll, a gift from the vice - president's daughter, Patricia, 11, to Princess Lalla, 8½ year-old daughter, Amina. The king beamed as he accepted the gift.

PLEASED WITH TALKS

Aides reported Mohammed was pleased at the results of his personal foreign policy talks with State Secretary Dulles who served as a replacement for the ailing President Eisenhower.

After the king's final meeting with Dulles Wednesday night a statement was issued covering a series of subjects which were discussed.

The statement expressed hope that friendly negotiations will settle the battle between the French and the Algerian rebels.

The statement also said:

1. The two governments will pursue negotiations now in progress for renewing leases on five American military bases in Morocco.

2. The U.S. "will continue to undertake" economic and technical aid programs in Morocco. U.S. aid now amounts to about $20,000,000 annually, but the Moroccans are said to want more.

AID TO JOBLESS PLAN SUPPORTED BY ALL PARTIES

Extra $24,500,000 Voted by House

OTTAWA (CP)—All opposition parties have supported the first stage of government plans to pump an extra $24,500,000 into assistance for the country's unemployed.

But James Sinclair (L—Coast-Capilano), in adding his support in the Commons Wednesday, said if Finance Minister Fleming would come through with his tax relief promises the Canadian economy would get a $300,000,000 shot in the arm.

Another critically-approving opposition member, Colin Cameron (NDP—Nanaimo), said the proposals are welcome as far as they go but reveal the government "has the foggiest idea" what caused the present unemployment situation or how to solve the problem.

George Hahn (SC—New Westminster) said the need for special government action on unemployment shows that the present economic performance "has failed us miserably." The effect of Bank of Canada monetary policy on the employment situation should be thoroughly examined.

GOVERNMENT PLANS

The government's plans for combatting rising unemployment were discussed in the House by Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Finance Minister Gillard as provincial unemployment relief costs and a measure to extend the possibility of obtaining special wintertime unemployment insurance benefits also was said.

Opening debate on the measure, Labor Minister Michael Starr told the House the additional $13,000,000 in purchasing power this winter "is those who need it most." It will bring the starting date to Dec. 1 from Jan. 1 and add another month to the present expiry date of April 15.

After a two-hour debate the Commons gave the bill swift passage through all its stages at the 10 p.m. sitting of the House and sent it to the Senate. It is expected to have final parliamentary approval in time to become effective Dec. 1.

Earlier, Mr. Diefenbaker said the government plans to start Jan. 1 on a 50-50 federal-provincial sharing in provincial unemployment relief costs.

Toronto Woman Shot in Face With Gas Gun

TORONTO (CP) — A woman was shot in the face with a tear gas gun early today by a stranger who rushed up behind her accosted her and asked where she kept her money.

Believed in danger of losing her eyesight, she is to be examined today by specialists at St. Michael's Hospital.

Acting Detective Sgt. 28, told police that a man asked her where she was going as she passed a downtown intersection. When she told him it was none of his business, he said he would get it and fired the gas gun in her face from about a foot away.

Detectives said charged with having a weapon dangerous to the public peace and with shooting with intent to do bodily harm is Andrew Bilimovich, 18.

Queen, Princess Wear Most Daring Dresses of Royal Social Career

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Wednesday night wore the most daring evening dresses of their royal social career.

The royal sisters didn't appear together. This was just as well, for they wore identical low-cut, modern clothes might have been a bit embarrassing.

The Queen's appearance was at a British museum reception in Stratford.

Princess Margaret was the guest of honor at a students' ball in Staffordshire.

Elizabeth donned a full-skirted dress of white tulle cut low in the front and the back, and precariously held up by two jeweled straps that hugged her trim white shoulders.

She wore a sparkling tiara and a diamond and ruby necklace.

"While the sovereign was appearing barebacked in London, Princess Margaret was dressing the same thing in a strapless blue gown in the north of Keele.

Partial to low-cut dresses, she must have been in love with the color blue at the students' ball of University College of Staffordshire.

The princess danced waltzes, rumbas and did a modified jive when the band played the old New Orleans tune of When the Saints Go Marching In.

Eleven students were selected to dance with the princess. She made it even more democratic, by asking the band leader, Nat Temple, to play three Pasi Jones change partners dances.

The last one was to dance with as many students as possible.

She was still at it at 2:30 a.m.

Eisenhower, Wife Attend Church Thanksgiving Day

Makes Rapid Recovery From Mild Stroke Suffered

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower went to church services today on the U. S. Thanksgiving holiday. It was a dramatic signal of the rapidity of his recovery from the mild stroke he suffered Monday.

Accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower, he slipped out a side door of the White House and into a limousine while his press secretary was giving reporters the word of a decision to go.

As Eisenhower arrived at the church, someone in a group near the door spoke out, "Happy Thanksgiving to you, Mr. President."

"Thank you," Eisenhower said, and went on inside.

James Hagerty, White House press secretary, made the surprise announcement regarding the church plans of Eisenhower and Mrs. Eisenhower at the conclusion of a late-morning press conference.

The announcement came a couple of hours after the White House physician, Maj.-Gen. Howard M. Snyder, reported in a medical bulletin that Eisenhower continued to show excellent progress toward recovery.

MAY GO TO PARIS

With this public appearance of Eisenhower since his illness, the White House raised the possibility that he may go to the Dec. 16 Paris meeting of NATO.

The NATO permanent council voted today to go ahead with plans for the meeting at the level of - government level even if Eisenhower should be unable to attend.

Press Secretary Hagerty followed up that development with this statement:

"The president had looked forward to attending the •NATO heads of government meeting. He desires to make his decision on whether he can make the trip."

Hagerty added that another monetary approval in time to become effective Dec.

Snyder's medical report said the government plans to start Jan. 1 on a 50-50 federal-provincial sharing in provincial unemployment relief costs.

Eisenhower suffered the first stage of government plans to pump an extra $24,500,000 into assistance for the country's unemployed.

But James Sinclair (L—Coast-Capilano), in adding his support in the Commons Wednesday, said if Finance Minister Fleming would come through with his tax relief promises the Canadian economy would get a $300,000,000 shot in the arm.

Another critically-approving opposition member, Colin Cameron (NDP—Nanaimo), said the proposals are welcome as far as they go but reveal the government "has the foggiest idea" what caused the present unemployment situation or how to solve the problem.

George Hahn (SC—New Westminster) said the need for special government action on unemployment shows that the present economic performance "has failed us miserably." The effect of Bank of Canada monetary policy on the employment situation should be thoroughly examined.

GOVERNMENT PLANS

The government's plans for combatting rising unemployment were discussed in the House by Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Finance Minister Gillard as provincial unemployment relief costs and a measure to extend the possibility of obtaining special wintertime unemployment insurance benefits also was said.

Opening debate on the measure, Labor Minister Michael Starr told the House the additional $13,000,000 in purchasing power this winter "is those who need it most." It will bring the starting date to Dec. 1 from Jan. 1 and add another month to the present expiry date of April 15.

After a two-hour debate the Commons gave the bill swift passage through all its stages at the 10 p.m. sitting of the House and sent it to the Senate. It is expected to have final parliamentary approval in time to become effective Dec.

Earlier, Mr. Diefenbaker said the government plans to start Jan. 1 on a 50-50 federal-provincial sharing in provincial unemployment relief costs.

Woman Lies On Rail Tracks, Is Cut to Bits

STRATFORD (CP) — Mrs. Helen Lamb, 38, of nearby Shakespeare was cut to pieces this morning under the wheels of a Stratford-Toronto CNR passenger train.

Engineer John Cannon of London, Ont., reported: "I saw the body a good 100 yards ahead. It was lying perfectly still on the tracks and at first I thought it was a dummy."

His fireman, George Lucy, also of London, said a woman seemed to be lying face down straddling the track. "I thought the body or her a store dummy."

Mrs. Lamb, whose husband was killed in a train accident near Toronto a year ago, lived with her father on a farm adjoining Shakespeare. Relatives in the house said she was heard rising once during the night.

Mrs. Lamb's coat was found on the ground between both ends of the tracks. An inquest has been ordered.

Cheese Meeting Like Funeral Says Kraft Man

The vice-president of Kraft Foods Ltd., at last week's annual convention of Central Ontario cheesemakers that the "evolution" prevalent in the industry is paralleled at such meetings by the "initial" murmur of cheesemakers who turn out.

F. E. Wright said " . . . You would think we are at the burial service of the cheese industry, instead of trying to improve it."

Much of the confusion in the industry he blamed on non-support of the Dairy Industry Council, which is undecided on a fair price for cheese milk. Cheese makers, he asserted, feel insecure in their industry "and you can't blame them."

"We in the cheese industry," he said, "should not always go running to the provincial or federal governments. We are big enough that we should be able to stand on our own feet."

Members of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers Association currently holding their annual convention in the city have appointed a committee to investigate the matter along with Belleville representatives.

Next meeting for Zone 3 of the LODA will be held January 22nd at Belleville.

BELLEVILLE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

C of C President Urges United Action on Brief

"Businessmen in this community should press for united action to see that the business platform of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce is implemented," stated A. O. Drysdale, president of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, today.

"The policies of organized business as adopted at the last annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce have just been received in printed form. They touch on many important issues facing our businessmen, such as taxation, trade, defence, employer-employee relations," Mr. Drysdale said that a delegation from the Canadian Chamber had personally presented copies of the brief to Prime Minister Diefenbaker and the Cabinet on November 18, and added that they received a very good reception. Board and Chamber to see that this policy is promoted.

"For example," he said, "our Chamber can draw to the attention of our local M.P. some specific item of policy and let him know that it receives our unqualified support. This is the kind of promotion which will develop support in the House of Commons for the platform which the Chamber of Commerce nationally has developed."

Following are some of the points in which the Belleville Chamber of Commerce is particularly interested: Ensure a greater and more continuous flow of desirable immigrants; restrict to a minimum government participation in the trading field; exercise closer control over the tariff classification of imported goods; strengthen the regulations to prevent imports suspected of evading dumping duties; maintain the present defence efforts; take immediate steps to extend the facilities of the Industrial Development Bank to embrace the tourist industry; that the government should refrain from actually engage in commerce or industry nor should there be government competition with private industry; arrange at the earliest possible moment a conference of federal, provincial and municipal representatives for the purpose of seeking a more just and practicable distribution of the tax revenue and responsibility among those three levels of government; urge the provincial government to step up the teaching of free enterprise in the schools; the educational process by setting up adequate government university scholarships and increasing school building grants.

Donald Burshaw Again President Of Labor Council

At the regular meeting of the Belleville and District Labor Council held on Tuesday evening Donald Burshaw was re-elected president for the coming year. Delegate to Labor Congress Representative, Harry Yokes of Picton, Ontario, was in the chair for the election of officers.

The new slate of officers for 1958 is:

President, D. Burshaw; vice-president, M. Graham; vice-president, J. Harwood; secretary-treasurer, F. Dandier; recording secretary, Daisy LaRue; executive, Ernie Fitch, Al Fish, M. Regan, R. Winstanley, T. Dutton, L. Burrows.

Following the election the regular order of business was carried out and the representative of the Teamsters' Union, Bro. C. Tavingot of Toronto, gave a splendid report on the final signing of agreements with the dairies that have been struck recently since July. As of this week, Reid's and Grills' Dairies bear on their sides and Rivertrees of Trenton have now signed a contract, he said, and the speaker thanked the council for its efforts and strong support during the strike. He also stated that Roblin's and Butler's, who locked out their help, have not agreed to a contract and he hoped pressure might be brought to bear on these operators.

In closing he again thanked the council for its help.

Mr. Burshaw then thanked the delegates for electing him president for another term and asked that all members help to make the new year as good, or better, than the one had been. He welcomed the delegates from the dairies with assurance of guidance and help in the year to come.

The president also asked that the members now purchase their dairy supplies from one of these union dairies.

The meeting adjourned and a tasty luncheon was served by welfare chairman, Sister M. Doogan and her staff.

Milk Production May Be Up Over Last Year Says Grader

O. H. J. White, supervisor of grading, the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, told a small gathering of Central Ontario cheesemakers yesterday that the total milk production for all of Canada this year "might surpass" that of 1956. However during the first nine months of 1957 there was a definite "lag" in milk production although in the November production was similar.

Mr. White was one of the speakers to open the 20th annual convention of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association. The meeting allows district cheesemakers to keep in touch with new methods and problem peculiar to their industry. The two-day convention follows the British Empire Dairy Show which is held yearly in the market building behind city hall.

The speaker predicted a possible increase of about 10 million pounds in the production of Canadian cheddar cheese this year.

He stressed the need for cheesemakers to manufactur clean cheese free from extraneous bacteria, a representation from foreign countries is increasing.

"There must be co-operation between cheesemaker and milk producer," said Mr. White. Our aim for the next year should be to increase the number of grades we and we don't.

He remarked that the improvements of 1956 and 1957 in the 1957 is "tremendous" and suggested that within 10 years, the population will be about 27 million, making an increased demand for cheese.

"The trend is upward in the domestic consumption of cheddar cheese and imported cheese is showing stronger competition," said Mr. White.

Professor D. M. Irvine, head of the Department of Dairy Science at Ontario Agricultural College, predicted a "great" population increase in the coming years, and hinted that Canada's dairy industry will have to turn out about 4.3 million pounds of cheddar cheese per year to cope with the demand.

OUTLINES NEW METHODS

Cheesemakers should try to cut down the time and labor involved in producing cheese," Lee Grills, M.P., said as he outlined several new methods — some tried and others in the making, cheddar cheese.

Leslie McLaren, Warden of Hastings County and Mayor Jane Forrester brought greetings from their respective councils to the meeting.

Mayor Forrester had a "sudden idea" during the address of R. G. Hamilton, secretary-manager of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and secretary of the Lake Ontario Development Association, told the cheesemakers that the LODA was keenly interested in helping agriculture. She invited them to attend last night's LODA meeting at the Queen's Motel. The mayor said there is a possibility of a dairy school locating in the Quinte district.

Lee Grills, M.P., for Hastings South, was unable to address the convention owing to official business at Ottawa.

J. F. Robinson, chief cheese instructor at Kemptville, said the mature class of cheddar cheese has been entertained at the Eastern Ontario Dairy Show for the past three years and so found it to be "very educational" because cheeses over a year old tend to show the results of the manufacturers' efforts.

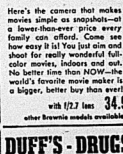
Mrs. R. W. Morningstar, of Toronto, outlined the work of the Canadian Association of Consumers and told how the organization affects cheesemakers.

Complete Plans For Travelling Art Display

The central committee of the East Central Ontario Travelling Art Display recently held a meeting in Sir Winston Churchill School to discuss plans for the 1958 exhibit, with representatives attending from Port Hope, Peterborough, Trenton, Bowmanville and Belleville. Letters had been received from several other centres indicating their desire to participate.

The aims and objectives of the amateur art display are: to create a wide-spread community interest in all forms of artistry throughout the region; to encourage painting as a recreation for leisure time enjoyment; to assist and encourage local groups in the development of their aims and activities; to foster the advancement of those individuals presently painting; to develop higher standards of painting and appreciation throughout the area.

It was decided that each year the committee in charge will be made up of people from the town in which the show is to be opened, with one representative from the previous town. In this way it will only be necessary to hold one meeting each year of the committee members.



The official opening will be held in Bowmanville on March 21, 1958.

But memory not even these,
The memory of those happy days,
Of you and me and peace.

Albert Clare, 35, Kirkland Lake, New Postmaster

Head of the Kirkland Lake post office for the past four years, Mr. Albert Clare, 35, has been named postmaster at Belleville. Mr. Clare officially took over his new duties on Tuesday of this week.

He succeeds former postmaster Carman Massey who was forced to quit his post because of ill health.

A native of Sudbury, Mr. Clare commenced his postal career in that city 17 years ago, rising to the post of assistant postmaster there. He acted as postal inspector for seven years prior to going to Kirkland Lake as postmaster four years ago.

He is a veteran of World War II with service in the Royal Canadian Navy, although an "inland-er" Mr. Clare has continued to show interest in naval affairs and was commanding officer of the Kirkland Lake Sea Cadets. He is also a member of the Rotary Club in that city.

Married with a son and daughter in public school, Mr. Clare is now looking for a house or apartment before moving here with his family to Belleville.

Although arriving in the city only on Monday, Belleville's new postmaster has already acquired a liking for the city.

"I like Belleville very much," he said.

Life Membership To Bill Holway From Kinsmen

PICTON — A feature of Picton Kinsmen Club meeting was the presentation of a life membership to Bill Holway, a member of the local club and also a veteran member of the Belleville club as well. He is now entering his 25th year as a Kinsmen, exemplifying in a splendid manner the objects of Kinsmen. With his ever-ready smile coupled with a willingness to help wherever he possible, he has been a tower of strength to both clubs.

Tribute to Mr. Holway's long and faithful service to Kinsmen was voiced by Gus Turpin while president Allan Trumpour also spoke in recognition of a valued member.

Guest at the meeting, Don Hastie of Trenton, District Deputy Governor, made the presentation which came so completely as a surprise to Mr. Holway, who was only able to say "thank you." The award will be recognized by the National Association of Kinsmen Clubs.

SUGGESTIONS MADE

The large attendance of Kinsmen and guests heard some helpful suggestions from D.D.G. Hastie as to the operation of the club and money raising projects.

Treasurer Don Bruns gave the financial report, urging all members to sell 100 tickets on the turkeys to be awarded at a bingo on December 20. These tickets were used by Sergeant-at-arms Phil Dodds when fines were levied on members.

Eugene Bremner suggested each member be responsible for bringing a new member. Harold Motley spoke in appreciation of the fine community work done by the Kinsmen club. Jack Stenning gave the minutes.

An invitation was extended to members to attend a rally at Trenton on Tuesday night.

It was decided that a pat system as suggested by Ken Stafford, be organized. One member will be responsible for attendance at meetings of another member. Special features for the Dec. 9 meeting are to be arranged by president Don Trumpour, entertainment chairman Homer Walters and Phil Dodds.

Ted Folds and Ray Smith expressed appreciation for flowers sent their wives while in hospital.

Members were urged to get behind the McFarland intermediate hockey team booster club, under direction of Harry Halston. This will benefit both the team and the arena.

A delectable dinner was served by George Channell at Maple Inn.

Canada Favors Meet With Nixon

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada feels that the "summit" NATO ministerial council meeting arranged for next month should go ahead as planned, regardless of President Eisenhower's illness, reliable sources said today. Prime Minister Diefenbaker's plans to attend are not being altered.

A highly-placed source said Canada's feeling is that while it would be preferable that the United States be represented at the meeting by the president, under the circumstances the vice-president could carry almost as much prestige.

Wharf Street Debating Club Packed to Doors as Candidates For Office Appeal for Support

By "THE OBSERVER"

The Wharf Street Debating Club held its annual meeting the last evening when all the candidates with one bid adieu to the cheered and jeered. It was a jolly, rollicking affair a roar of laughter from beginning to end. Each aspirant for office was confronted with the assured queries with the exception of Mrs. Theo Wheeler. When she entered the club—all eyes as one man—and she was literaces to with rapt silence while again proves that when occasion demands that motley throng could be gentlemen in every sense of the word. And the old clubroom was jampacked full—nary a vacant seat—and many had to stand during that uproarious session. Trite queries were asked—barbed epithets hurled—and taken in a spirit of good-natured acceptance.

Chairman Eddie George called the meeting to order and the show was on. He mentioned that ex-Mayor George Tice could not attend, therefore it was fitting that his son, Alderman Claude Tice should start things rolling. Claude asked the meeting to accept the deep regret of his father at his inability to attend — the second time in 20 years.

Ex-Alderman Gerald Hyde then appealed for election to the office of Mayor of Belleville. Four times he had been beaten to the "Chair" but opportunity not as yet met with defeat and hoped that this occasion would be no exception to the rule. In experience, hard work and the desire to serve meant something then he had no qualms in asking for their whole-hearted support.

Don McNevin said, with a twinkle in his eye, that it was strange but since he qualified to stand for mayor he had never yet ever on Harry Rollins until the evening, personally though he offered himself for election as mayor of Belleville, for he was not without considerable experience and his business qualities had not been without success — therefore he appealed for support at the polls on Monday next.

Mrs. Theo Wheeler then came to the fore with the statement that if elected as alderman she would do her best to have taxes reduced and at the same time get good value for any necessary expenditure made for the betterment of the good city of Belleville.

William Argue then gave a very interesting resume of the history of Wharf Street which he said was at one time a sawmill and incidentally he mentioned that Belleville was a pioneer town for it boasted of one new building in 1910 over the previous year. He said that this city must have a real industrial committee for progress must be maintained.

Harold Armstrong referred to the country's fine record of years and asked to be returned for another term. The city must go ahead and he was sure many people out of work and looking for jobs — so let's get jobs for them.

Leslie W. Digby was short and to the point. His platform — his past record — honest and tearless endeavor — and Vote for Digby.

Dr. James Forrestr appealed for support for two reasons — to help repay the citizens of Belleville who had been good to "me and mine" and continue that service for which the name of Forrester stands. Seeing that there were four legal gentlemen on council, why not a medical man. If elected he would promise to give of his very best.

Gerald Joyce said that his excuse for running for office was to give of his best to the city for he was interested in its progress.

John Ireland really has a musical comedy voice when he got to his feet. The motley crowd really warbled when they sang in almost perfect harmony "My Wild Irish Rose, the Sweetest Flower that Grows." He admitted that it was his first initiation to the realm of municipal politics — and in the hope that he is a good salesman — he asked for their votes and confidence on Monday.

Jos. Roth stated that it was his first attempt to aspire to aldermanic duties — if elected he would give of his best.

Ben Safe mentioned that most people in Belleville knew him seeing that he was elected to council in 1933-1936 and from 1954-57. His protest re increased bus fares and less service was unfair to those people of Belleville who had to use the means of transportation. If elected he would again bring the matter to the fore and in no uncertain manner.

Court of Review To Be Set Up In Quebec

OTTAWA (CP) — The Quebec government, with apparent federal consent, is planning the establishment of a new seven-man court of appeals.

The new court—called Court of Review—would have limited jurisdiction extending to appeals from judgments of the Quebec district and Superior Courts in civil cases involving less than $2,000. The Quebec government's legislation is expected to be introduced in the provincial legislature after sessional business resumes Dec. 3.

There would be no appeal from the decisions of the new court in some cases, including those where parties in a case agreed to place the judgment of the Quebec Superior Court before the Court of Review.

There would be appeals to the Quebec Court of Appeals in cases involving $1,000 or more if the court of review's judgment is not unanimous. If the case involved sums payable to the province, as in suits dealing with land titles and mortgage recognition.

The Quebec legislation is aimed partly at eliminating procedural delays under Quebec's civil code, some of which have been widely criticized in the province.

NATO Council Favors Holding Meet as Planned

PARIS (AP) — Paul-Henri Spaak, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, announced today that the "summit" meeting of NATO chiefs of government will go ahead as planned despite the illness of President Eisenhower.

A communique issued after a meeting of the permanent NATO council said the group had "learned with satisfaction" that the U.S. delegation for the meeting.

A member of the U.S. delegation to NATO said Wednesday Nixon had been proposed to the meeting as a substitute for Eisenhower. But Nixon said later in Washington that the suggestion "was not made at any direction from the White House."

The decision to go ahead with the three-day, 15-nation session on Monday was unanimous, a NATO spokesman said.

NOT RULED OUT

The possibility that Eisenhower may be able to attend before the 16-18 talks was not ruled out in Washington. James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, and state department press officer Lincoln White said Mr. Eisenhower himself will decide on U.S. representation.

Meanwhile the presidents and premiers have been planned to rally the free world against Soviet threats. When the state department said it "assumed" he would be able to attend, NATO members were asked to reconsider plans for the meeting.

Basically, there appeared to be a strong feeling in NATO countries that the top-level meeting—essential in time of mounting world-wide Communist pressures. But there was frank disappointment that the NATO capitals that the one-time supreme Allied commander in Europe might be absent.

France Refused To Sell Arms to Yemeni Troops

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain disclosed today that the Red Sea dispute with Egypt has caused France for arms and was refused.

A foreign office spokesman said France rejected the request, made two months ago, after Britain had advised against supplying the arms.

Egyptian forces in the neighboring Aden protectorate have been engaged for years in intermittent border clashes with Yemeni troops.

British quarters said Britain had advised France against supplying the arms for fear they might be used against British troops in the border warfare.

Foreign office spokesman also said the Yemeni request to Paris came weeks before France officially early this month to Angola American arms shipments to Tunisia.

Mayor Maybee Back in Seat By Acclamation

CAMPBELLFORD (Special) — Mayor D. R. Maybee of Campbellford, was re-elected by acclamation Tuesday night but there will be a contest between William C. Nicholas 1957 deputy reeve, and F. M. Rutherford, the 1956 reeve, for the office of reeve.

Twenty people were nominated for council of which seven qualified for the six seats. Some of them qualified minutes before the nine o'clock deadline Tuesday night. THERE ARE TEACHERS AND TEACHERS

There is no shortage of teachers in Ontario. Hon. William James Dunlop, Ontario's minister of education, is authority for that statement. He made it at a meeting of the Women's Progressive Conservative Association in Toronto.

This is one of those interesting bid-bits of information which mean exactly nothing.

There may be no shortage of teachers but there is certainly a shortage of good teachers. There always has been - - and always will be. There will also always be a shortage of good farmers, good newspapermen, good lawyers, good doctors, good grocers, good plumbers and good ditch-diggers. Not until every person following a trade or profession happily combined adequate training with natural talents for his or her task would it be possible to say the supply of labor in that field left nothing to be desired.

The difference between the labor supply in the field of teaching and that in other callings has generally been regarded to be two-fold. Firstly, the calibre of the teaching force has a direct influence on the future welfare of the country than, say, the calibre of those employed as bricklayers, or truck drivers or newspapermen. Secondly, many teachers are admittedly inadequately trained. Dr. Dunlop, in seeking to minimize the importance of the latter factor, has kept it in the limelight on a third problem: the suitability of many of the teachers who are trained.

"Educational degrees, particularly in elementary schools, are not the only criterion of good teaching," he said. "Personality is more important than education."

Now that seems to us to be a profoundly important statement. It may be that Dr. Dunlop here exaggerates the importance of "personality" as an individual's natural talents for the task of teaching, but if it is not more important than training it is at least equally important.

The point Dr. Dunlop is trying to establish is that a person with an ideal personality who has attended a short course may be a better teacher than another person, lacking natural talents, who has undergone extensive training.

Let us grant him that point. But two questions spring to mind. Would not the inadequately trained teacher with an ideal personality be a much better teacher if adequately trained? And is it not a waste to provide lengthy training for a person who has no natural talents for the teaching profession?

Dr. Dunlop should not permit himself to be satisfied with the supply of teachers in this province until all those teachers with ideal personalities are adequately trained - - and all those teachers who have received adequate training have started their training with the immense advantage of a natural talent for their chosen profession.

This, of course, is to ask perfection. Perfection can rarely be attained - - but it should be sought. If we are to seek it, two steps would appear essential. We ought not to excuse lack of formal training on the grounds that the under-trained teacher possesses the right personality for his task. And we ought not to continue to provide adequate training for people with psychological tests would prove would be misfits in the teaching profession.

AN APOLOGY INADEQUATE

...e report from Toronto says that police there "said two plainclothes officers who broke into a downtown house Monday without a search warrant will apologize to tenants."

The incident is said to have occurred at 3.45 a.m., a lock on the door of the house is said to have been broken and the occupant of the house, upon inquiring the reason for the intrusion, is reported to have been told it was none of his business.

If the facts are as related in the above paragraphy, an apology is inadequate.

The plainclothesmen should face charges, and there should be no necessity for the tenants involved to take the initiative. The charges should be laid by law enforcement authorities.

To permit men to act in this manner, just because they are police officers, is to sneer at those processes of law built up, painful precedent by precedent, down through the years. It is to push one unhappy future Middle Ages - - or ahead into some unhappy future when the police are not the servants of the citizen but his master.

STORY TELLER

I have stories I can tell
But the most of them are old.
Though they still go pretty well
When by others they are told.

Oft comes the thought to me,
Since I know the finish line:
That is one that used to be
A great favorite of mine.

I don't ever interrupt
When a story's being told
To exclaim in tones abrupt:
"That is one that's ages old."

I will follow every word
In a friendly, patient way.
"Yes, that's one that I have heard,"
To the group I'll never say.

Tell it badly, tell it well,
Even spoil it if you can,
I will never break the spell
Of a mirth-provoking man.
Creep or hasten to the end,
As so many fellows do,
I will laugh and I'll pretend
That a worn-out joke is new.

One World on Rails

Railway Progress

"I never dreamed," said an obviously shaken Frenchman, "that I'd ever eat German food served by German stewards in a German dining car in France." So said Jean Ingre, manufacturer of Avelled an American lady back from a summer trek through western Europe, when their train leaves one country and enters another, whether from France to Germany is as easy as going from New York to Connecticut.

Like the Frenchman who was forced to swallow his national pride along with his wienerschnitzel, the American lady had sampled the strange fruits of a history making revolution that took place on European rails that is little known. The revolution can be summed up in a single new phrase: Trans-Europe-Express.

Trans Europe-Express is an eight nation network of fast, de-luxe trains that, for all practical purposes, has done away with international frontiers. No longer must international expresses grind at a halt in tiny border stations. Engines and cars and crews and all can a uniformed army of officials for the ordeal of "passport control" and customs inspection.

The system, launched with the TEE coat of arms zoom across borders without stopping — which accounts for the fact that for the first time in history European dining cars are operating in precincts once sacred to the French cuisine. Customs and immigration officials of the train, checking passports en route, examine only contraband in special baggage cars.

* * *

The first Trans-Europe-Express ran in June over the Rhine-Main route connecting the Netherlands. It was hailed as a bright symbol of the unification of Europe as seen by one, a triumph for those who have been working to make the frontiers of Europe as easy to cross as those of the United States and Canada.

Now other TEE trains connect major cities in France, Germany, Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, Holland, Holland, Italy and Austria.

A typical Trans-Europe-Express is the "Oiseau Bleu," which makes the 200-mile dash from Paris to Brussels in 3 hours and 45 minutes, nonstop, at an average speed of nearly 70 miles per hour. The longest TEE route, 600 miles from Zurich to Amsterdam, is served by the "Edelweiss." Other TEE trains with which Americans travelling in Europe will become increasingly familiar are the "Ile de France" and the "Etoile du Nord," linking Paris, Brussels and Amsterdam; the "Paris-Ruhr," between Paris and Dortmund; the "Arbalete," between Lyons and Milan; the "Saphir," between Brussels and Cologne; and "Ligure" between Marseilles and Milan.

* * *

Europe has had international through trains in the past — for example, the "Rheingold Express," linking Holland, Germany and Austria. But there were and still are, on non-TEE schedules frequent border delays for the inspection of passports and luggage and changes of crews and equipment. Also, a miffed American claims to have spent a good part of his European holiday laughing in grimy border towns of the type you don't write home about, awaiting the connection to a comfortable service from train personnel who remain aboard for the entire trip.

While TEE trains wear the same colors and bear the same emblem for easy recognition, they are not uniform in design. Each country has its own car diesel hydraulic sets capable of whisking 81 passengers at speeds of 87 miles an hour. The Dutch and Swiss have joined in the venture with fully air-stirred, six five four-car diesel-electric sets which feature comfortable diners and lounges. The Germans and the Italians are going in for four-car diesel sets.

From the standpoint of design however, the newest of the TEE trains is the Italian Settebello, a luxurious seven unit streamliner which features 1,100 horsepower hydraulic diesels at each end. The train has accommodations for 122 passengers plus a diner and bar.

Encouraged by the early success of the new service, TEE officials are already talking of expansion. "We hope," says one, "to crack everything except the iron curtain."

TODAY'S TALK

SALESMEN ALL

We do so many things unconsciously, largely because of the assortment of habits that so order and dictate to us that often we are not aware of what we do to ourself. We surely do, however, and each of us is a salesman in his own right.

As salesmen we are constantly proving how good we are in displaying our wares — our looks, or integrity, our ideals, our personality, our kindliness. All these are what we are also sold and what we have to sell to others and to the world.

The salesman of a product sells himself first, and then his product. Every day we influence someone, something, ourselves is always attracting attention. We are salesmen of our friendliness and of our worth. Our total character is our capital, greater than anything materialistic. It's the one thing we own that cannot be bought or is for sale.

Freely do we give of our selves. Our influence is cumulative. We are always spreading or contributing happiness that we have for Canada.

REASON FOR THE PUNCH

By GREGORY CLARK

Killarney, Ontario, is a little community in the heart of a district of 500 souls that for more than half a century has been getting its mail every week without benefit of any access except by boats. True, there have been lumber roads, trails and a few rivers by which, in case of dire need, help could reach distant communities that had telephones and even roads on which vehicles could reach the outer world. True also, that in quite recent years, when winter closed in, and Killarney off for months, aircraft now deliver mail and afford easy access to the outside.

Now, a highway is being built from Sudbury down through the wilderness to Killarney, and nearly everyone in the little community is looking forward to the great day, next year some time when their mail locality will become linked with the world; and you can live in Killarney and drive if you like to Vancouver or New Orleans and think nothing of it.

One citizen of Killarney, however, is looking forward to the highway with considerable misgivings. And he is Mr. Tom Jackson, who runs the general store. It has been Jackman's store since the beginning, and Tom inherited it from his father.

In all the years, hardly a single newcomer has come to set up shop in foot in Jackman's store. No salesman would undertake the trouble and bother of hiring a boat to so small a community.

"But now," said Jackman, with that road coming, I bet we will be inundated with salesmen." He is looking forward with confidence from the furious pressure of commerce is coming to an end for Killarney.

Divorce Laws

Vancouver Province

It is hard to see how anyone can believe that the present divorce practices help to build families together or prevent immorality. They do not stop divorce, and by their very publicity debase and encourage immorality.

When our divorce laws are regarded in this light it is hard to see how any logical Canadian can defend them.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 28th., 1937

Local merchants are looking forward to a large Christmas trade. They state that present purchases are far ahead of the same time last year.

Segregation To the Limit

Milwaukee Journal

In the swampy valley of the Lumber River, in North Carolina's Robeson county, the "principle" of racial segregation is achieving perhaps its most senseless fulfillment anywhere.

The particular group of Cherokee Indians in Robeson county are for some reason distinguished from other Cherokees and other Indians as "Croatans" and a special school for them (in addition to the segregated schools serving the Robeson county Cherokees and Negroes).

Now, what isn't all. Robeson county has a fourth segregated school system for "Croatan Indians" or just "Smiltings," described in a dispatch to the Atlanta Journal-Constitution as "claiming to be Indians." They are not admitted to the white schools, they won't go to the Negro schools, and the Cherokees won't have them in the Cherokee schools.

So the Robeson county board of education is hustling around with $50,000 to build still another segregated school just for the Smiltings!

What ever become of ordinary fish? Nobody who is anybody has it done. It isn't newsworthy if it isn't Asian. And so the pandemonium is raging in Japan.

One physician, participating in a panel discussion of the frightful paper outbreak of "Asian flu", was not convinced as to the merits of the vaccine whipped up by the manufacturers with the connivance of federal, state and municipal health authorities, as well as of wholesalers and institutions at around 66 cents a dose. If fifty or 75 million persons should go spond to the urge and be vaccinated, it would make a bonanza for the manufacturers. But this physician said he uses the vaccine only for those with hysterical about "Asian flu" — for the hysteria.

So far, as nearly as I can learn, the "Asian flu" seems to be more nonsense than news. If and when the papers drop it as a source of news, we'll probably realize it's the same old influenza we have had for many years, a disease of such proven character (many different germs or viruses are factors) that we can afford to be not likely to confer immunity.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Nonsense and News

The man or woman who is vexed by levity in a health column must be kept in constant pain by the nonsense in the news.

For example, a press dispatch says "a nasty cold helped end San Marino's two-weeks-old reign as the smallest and its Red regimen." The dispatch explains that "nasty cold was caught by the head of the communist party," and adds that "just could not let him go out in the night while it was cold and raining to inspect the Red volunteers, He catches cold so easily. I noticed that he had a fever, so I put my foot down."

Another leader of the Red faction broke his dental plate and, vain about his appearance, refused to go out in public. Other members of the Red party inferred that he had lost hope and so they gave up too.

This was page one stuff! It would be a shame to waste it on the front page.

Almost anywhere else than in San Marino, the ancient republic, 38 square miles in the north of Italy, grip or "a nasty cold" or influenza would have been kept the head of the party in the dark. It is hardly likely that Asian flu would have sufficed.

Too Many Diamonds

Letter To The Editor

Says Dowson Was Not Labor Representative

London New Statesman .

Editor,

Ontario Intelligencer.

It would be easy to assume that the recent attack attacked the Yengema diamond plant of the Sierra Leone Government Trust were citizens angered by an imperialist monopoly. Two years ago that might have been true.

For almost 20 years, Selection Trust, though exploiting only a fraction of the area, had a theoretical monopoly of all diamond mining in the country; granted by the colonial government on the questionable ground that no company would come into this difficult country for less concessions. But when, seven or eight year ago, Sierra Leoneans found that there was much more equipment than a pick and shovel or a sieve, could find diamonds all over the country, a rush began which soon produced a boom country.

Both the company and the Sierra Leone government are now represented largely by African ministers, were slow to face this fact. But the prospect — the appalling social consequence of the sudden relief in mine and order, squander-mania and insanitary concentration of men in temporary camps.

The economic consequences — the growth of a highly organized network to dispose of the illicit stones, the damage done to the miner's efficient methods which 'picked the eyes' of the diamond area while leaving most alone in the ground, the loss of revenue on the smuggled diamonds were consmore important.

Last year, after protracted negotiations, Selection Trust's monopoly, in return for compensation, was ended, and a new company, Sierra Leoneans to mine began to operate.

This did not end smuggling, which continues merrily; but it is hoped that miners who either could not get licences or who, as immigrants, were not allowed to mine, and people who hoped to get licences themselves, are checked in mining illicitly on the relatively small area now left to Selection Trust.

It is they who have attacked the company's plant, and against whom the police and the army are now operating. Success in these operations is essential if Sierra Leone is to attract foreign capital for development of its other minerals, which need much more than picks and shovels and sieves.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THANKSGIVING

I am thankful that I am living. Many times each day the garments of death brush by us with their mysterious folds.

I am thankful that I enjoy reasonably good health. A million enemies of the body are at work on us every day, but the mercy of God is with me, to come through unscathed.

I am thankful that I live in a free country. Often I ask myself how I could have been so fortunate as to have been born in this free land, while millions of my fellow men live in bondage.

I am thankful that I am a free being having the power of choice. I can choose evil or good as I see fit. Often I wish that I were a mere automaton compelled in ways to do the right thing; but when I reflect on such things, I see my folly and am willing to settle for what I am.

I might mention a number of other things: I live in a country where one of the greatest problems is parking problems. I have so many automobiles that we can't find standing room for them; and I am thankful that I have so many automobiles that we can't find standing room for them; and I am thankful that I have so many automobiles that we can't find standing room for them; and I am thankful that

Loblaw's New Store Suffers Smoke and Water Damage

TRENTON — Loblaw's new store, on the outskirts of Trenton, suffered smoke and water damage this morning when over heated pipes set the floor on fire.

The Trenton fire department was called about 8.15 a.m. and sending their trucks out had the fire under control quickly.

According to reports the automatic water feed to the steam boilers of the furnace stopped working resulting in the boilers going dry. An automatic safety which is designed to cut off the oil burners if the water becomes too low also failed and, as a result, overheated the boiler and pipes. The main pipe, where it passes through the floor, became overheated and set the wood next to it on fire.

The manager of the store, who arrived around 8 a.m. told firemen he could smell "something hot" when he entered the store and shortly after the flames and smoke began.

When firemen arrived the members of the staff had formed a bucket brigade and were pouring water onto the heated pipe and fire. It was only a short time after their arrival that the local fire fighters had the blaze out with a minimum of damage.

It was generally felt that if the boiler had become heated 20% more it might have blown up which would have caused considerably more damage.

An estimate of the fire, smoke and water damage was not available immediately but it was thought to have been quite high in that corner of the store and mostly from the water. The boiler itself may have been damaged from the heat as well.

The new store opened just a week ago today and will not be hampered from remaining open because of the incident this morning.

TRENTON (Special) — Ten little Trenton girls entered the ranks of the Tenth Trenton Brownies last evening when they were enrolled by the Brown Owl, Mrs. Robert Gibson. The Tweenies, as the girls are called before becoming fully fledged Brownies, after reciting the Brownie Law and Promise, shook hands with the Brownies in the group.

The ceremony took place at the Queen Elizabeth School, and the school auditorium was centred by a big toadstool and all the usual accompanying forest creatures which are used in the Brownie activities.

The new Brownies are: Linda Allore, Catherine Bryer, Jane Fewster, Janice Glover, Carol Grey, Janet Lisk, Margaret Lott, Isabella Marchese, Cheryl Marinelli, and Carolyn Simpson.

The Tenth Brownie Group is part of the Trenton East Girl Guide district, with Mrs. H. Ferguson as District Commissioner.

Mail to Points Overseas Starts At Post Office

TRENTON — The Christmas season rush has already begun at the Post Office here with parcel and letter mail to points overseas reported as heavy by the postmaster, John McManus.

He stated he would begin taking on extra help this weekend and at the peak of the Christmas rush will have 24 casual workers to handle the hundreds of bags of mail coming and going.

Already the small post office area is becoming crowded with mail bags and Mr. McManus said it will almost be impossible to get around when the flow of mail reaches its top near the 18th of the month.

But despite the lack of space the post master said his men will do their utmost in getting the mail delivered.

The final date for overseas mail to the continent is past and the date for delivery to the United Kingdom is near at hand.

He advised that Christmas cards and parcels to the U.S.A. should be mailed before December 7 and to Western Canada before December 13. Mail for Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime provinces before December 14.

If mail is sent before these dates customers will be assured of delivery.

EISENHOWER

finding it necessary to resign because of this temporary disability which he has suffered.

"I would like to 'scotch' once and for all, if I can, any rumors to the effect that the president, first, is in a condition which would make it necessary for him to consider resigning. And, second, that the president himself or anybody in the president's official family have discussed or are considering the possibility of resignation."

After visiting with Eisenhower for about 15 minutes, Nixon told reporters:

"I think one of the major problems in this case . . . is to see that the president gets the rest that the doctors believe . . . he ought to have."

The doctors said Tuesday Eisenhower must get several weeks of rest and be restricted to substantially decreased activity. They estimated chances for his complete recovery as excellent.

The president already is up and around a good deal at the White House. He handled a little round of routine work from his living quarters Wednesday. And he is doing an oil painting of young Princess Anne, daughter of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

"It is a very attractive picture of a little girl," Nixon said, adding that the president is working from a photograph.

"She is smiling and has a twinkle in her eye, and the president caught the twinkle and the smile—I thought—very well."

Eisenhower also visited for 10 minutes or so in his living quarters with King Mohammed V of Morocco. It was shortly after 1 at the airport Monday that he developed a chill and went to bed. The illness later was diagnosed as a cerebral occlusion, or brain artery blockage. That is known in non-medical language as a slight stroke.

Eisenhower told the monarch he was feeling much better and expressed regret he had been unable to sit in at the conferences the king had with State Secretary Dulles and other administration officials.

At his press conference, Nixon said he concluded at his visit with Eisenhower that "mental clarity was just as sharp as ever I can say that categorically."

As for the difficulty which the doctors have reported is a result of his seizure, Nixon had this to say when asked whether the impairment still was noticeable:

"I would describe the speech defect as being something similar to what many people experience when you are very tired."

The doctors say the president's difficulty will clear up entirely.

Two Airmen Die As Jet Crashes

MACDONALD, Man. (CP) — Two airmen were killed at the RCAF station here Wednesday night when a T-33 jet trainer struck an RCAF truck, an RCAF spokesman said today.

Names of the victims were withheld.

The spokesman said the truck was distributing firepots for night flying when the accident occurred.

The two victims were the only persons in the truck. The men in the plane were reported to have escaped injury.

RARE DOG LITTER

RIVERTON, Utah (AP) — A purebred collie named Sandy has given birth to a litter which dog lovers claim is as rare as quintuplets in human births. Seven puppies — all males. Normally, say the experts, dog litters run predominantly to females. Sandy, age 2, is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ferris Stokes.

AID TO JOBLESS

When this plan was announced by the federal-provincial conference early this week, Finance Minister Fleming estimated it would cost $11,500,000 annually.

REMOVES PROVISION

It would remove the so-called federal relief sharing has started only when unemployment in a province exceeds .45 per cent of its population. Mr. Diefenbaker said legislation would be introduced during this session to effect the change.

It would allow the provinces to make "more suitable arrangements" with their municipalities, which were carrying much of this burden.

In the unemployment insurance debate, Mr. Sinclair referred to current unemployment statistics.

The latest report of what the figures—a bureau of statistics survey—is that 208,000 persons were without jobs and seeking work Oct. 19. This was more than double the number for the corresponding period last year.

Mr. Sinclair made special reference to unfilled job applications at National Employment Service offices, which rose 17 per cent between Sept. 27 and Nov. 7 to a total of 227,388.

The former Liberal fisheries minister said that these persons, when working, had at least three times the $13,000,000 additional purchasing power Mr. Starr had said the extended seasonal unemployment insurance benefits would provide, or about $40,000,000.

"Would you prefer to give them nothing?" asked Mr. Starr.

Mr. Sinclair: "No, I would rather see them enjoying the high level of employment they enjoyed under the Liberal government."

He added that if Mr. Fleming would bring down a budget this session "with these great tax cuts" he had promised it would really give Canadians more purchasing power.

Mr. Fleming had promised to raise the basic income tax deduction to $1,500 from $1,000, wipe out the 10-per-cent excise tax on automobiles and "bring in at least a 20-per-cent reduction in sales tax."

This, said Mr. Sinclair, would put $300,000,000 into the hands of the Canadian people.

Mr. Starr said the time extension for seasonal benefits will mean an estimated 36,000 more beneficiaries than the 214,000 who received payments last winter.

The government was not trying to minimize the situation, but "we have come through situations that were potentially as dangerous as the present one."

During the last period of serious unemployment in the 1930-35, the number was per cent of the labor fo October, 1954. Last month 3.5 per cent.

The seasonal unemplo benefits now range betwe a week for a person witho dependents who earned betwe and $15 weekly for the pres 30 weeks and a maximum week for a person with a de ent who earned $57 or weekly during the previo weeks.

Under the new measure, unable to qualify for benefits but who have mad surance contributions during weeks since the previous A 31 will receive seasonal be for a minimum 13 weeks, de of the present 10, and for a mum 32 weeks instead of persons who have run ou regular insurance benefits the previous May 15 and haven't worked since, would the same extension in the mum period. The mini would remain unchanged a weeks.

Alpha Lambda Enjoys Talk on History of Dress

Alpha Lambda Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Robert Rowe, Hyde Park Avenue. Miss Chris Rutherford had charge of the program for the evening and chose "The History of Dress" as the topic for her address.

Miss Rutherford gave an informative analysis of the purpose of dress from Adam and Eve down through the Middle Ages and to modern times. There are several purposes which dress tends to serve; — a purely decorative effect to please oneself or a mate, displaying the body, displaying wealth (real or imaginary), and sex appeal. Whichever of these is chosen, the garments reflect the souls as well as the bodies. They are spun out of the substance of one's hopes and desires. They are as much a part of ones self as the pelt of the lion for the mane of the lion.

Miss Rutherford noted the changing outline of skirts and hats through the years and wondered if perhaps a whole generation has grown up hardly knowing what a hat is and what it can do for milady's costume.

RUFFLE FASHION

It is remembered that fashion is fickle, that it changes constantly, never stands still. Every style has been or will be broken successfully to start a new fashion. One should take advantage of the flexibility and keep inventorating that wonderful phrase "why not?"

President Mrs. Vincent McLean thanked the speaker for her most revealing and interesting address after which a short business meeting was conducted. The members were reminded that the date for the annual Black and Gold Ball had been changed to February 28. The Ball in former years has been held in April.

Following the meeting, Mrs. Rowe and co-hostess Mrs. Howie House, served refreshments.

Women's Institute

CARMEL W. I.

The November meeting of Carmel Women's Institute was at the home of Mrs. Carl Thompson, vice president. Mrs. A. Whitmore called the meeting to order.

Business was dealt with at this time.

Mrs. A. Allison reported on the area convention, recently held in Belleville. Mrs. C. Thompson reported concerning Girl's Club Work. Mrs. William Rodbeard told of a two-day lamp shade course, held recently in Stirling. Mrs. Rodbeard and Mrs. Urch were the ladies from the branch who took this course.

Mrs. Percy Reynolds, in charge of Mrs. Percy Reynolds. The motto for the month was, "Friends are better than money, they last longer."

Mrs. Reynolds gave a paper on the motto, closing it with a poem by Patience Strong. This poem was used recently by Harriet Stevens on her radio program. Readings were given by Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Rodbeard.

After meeting closed refreshments were served by Mrs. Thompson and the group in charge.

Hospital Auxiliary Presents Delightful 'Fashion Fiesta'

Lovely femininity in all her subtle and elusive charm was displayed to an intensely interested audience which filled the Collegiate auditorium last evening for the delightful "Fashion Fiesta" sponsored by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary.

The background, with its backdrop of cream beige, its furnishings of gilded floral stands, flickering white candles and most beautiful white chrysanthemums bore out the theme of white and gold, which also appeared on the attractive programs. In pleasing array along the footlights, rose-shaded cyclamens and ferns added a pretty accent, as did the soft music provided by Mrs. A. V. Barkley at the console of the organ.

Mrs. W. H. Finkle, president of the auxiliary, welcomed the guests and extended appreciative thanks to the many groups involved in creating the "Fiesta" and to the exhibitors whose kindly co-operation made the showing possible; to the models and ushers, and then presented the overall convener, Mrs. Ross E. Burley, who in turn introduced the commentator, Mr. Robert Tanner, whose clever remarks, and delightful accent lent an unusual charm to the showing.

THREE PART PROGRAM

The "Fashion Fiesta" was shown in three parts; the first "Daylight till Dark" which displayed designers' collection of casual and afternoon apparel; comprising an evening ensemble in pale blue, the coat lined in white worn over a cream gown featuring a slim skirt with back kick pleat, an unusual casual displayed a soft leather jacket in black worn with a fine wool dress in pleasing green; while another casual was a suburban coat of fine cream shaded tweed worn with a gown in honey comb shade. Leather is very "chic" this season.

A Scottish plaid in blue-green was form fitting with matching neck scarf and white pixie hat. Another eye-catching plaid was a skirt of mixed heather in dark with undertones of pink. Other materials included variegated tweedy, silk faille wool and jersey.

Color this season is most important, and ranged from subdued tones to geranium red, the popular green and beige and autumn tints.

A pretty five o'clock ensemble was in English jersey molded to the figure, showing a monk's cowl collar, lined with chiffon.

SOFT TAFFETAS

Soft taffetas in turquoise blues with full skirts and tiny, matching jackets, and spring of 1958 featured the chemise style dress with three-quarter length sleeves and big necklines for the teen-agers.

Part two comprised original holiday and resort wear, named the "Caribbean Cruise" showing lace taffeta over black skirt, which when reversed revealed a delightful sheath gown. This ensemble was of dual purpose as the jacket converted to pretty addition as a cape for evening wear. Washable cottons with lustre finish were shown in floral and plain designs. Another pretty gown was of pale blue taffeta with white lace collar accented by sequins, and ending in a deep V at the back. Pure silk chiffon was used in many dresses in shades of coral, and champagne.

The furs were most luxurious and featured grey Persian lamb, in three-quarter and shortie coats, the latter showing plain backs; black Persian lamb; natural ankle length coat flowing like satin, in full length, with tight cuffs; black African Persian lamb, in straight lines with natural sapphire mink trim; sheared raccoon slightly flared, most suitable and serviceable; Canadian muskrat, long wearing, on flowing lines, and beautifully blend dark and light; China mink with full rippling back in hip length; Canadian natural mink with rolled collar; sheared muskrat, featured patch pocket with belted back, in carousel shape.

Part three was the exclusive party and evening wear, with the theme "Fascination". This was most colorful and depicted scene entrancing gowns in peacock blue; champagne; apple green; white chiffon; and English rose. An Egyptian brocade featured a long over dress in Persian effect with Mandarin collar sleeves. All in floor length, except the party dress for the younger age, which was three-quarter length.

OUTSTANDING FEATURES

Outstanding features were the tiny bodice straps; the "pouff" effect which appeared on many gowns; the bustline; round jewel necklines, and skirts of unusual wear about top calf length. Beading and gleaming trims were used quite lavishly.

Lovely costume jewellery added greatly to the charm of the gowns as did the shoes, hats and bags which completed the ensemble.

Miss Leona Bowes, bustline; social worker and graduate of Queen's University, and Mr. Watson from the hydro.

Mrs. Cummins introduced "Crossroads," a film on the problems of intermarriage. He asked the panel and audience to watch for pressures brought to bear on the main characters in the film.

The discussion which followed was most interesting and informative and continued long after the evening was finished.

A second film, "Rythmnetics," fun with figures, completed the program.

Mother's Helper

LITTLE GIRLS who must stay in bed will enjoy playing house with small dolls and their furniture. A light, shallow suitcase or cardboard carton makes a fine "room." For more extensive quarters, cardboard strips can be set up as partitions. This works best with the tiniest of toys.

Film Council Holds Panel Discussion

The regular monthly meeting of the Belleville and District Film Council was held on Nov. 26 at the Corby Public Library.

The president, Mrs. R. R. Pringle, gave a brief summary of the business meeting. The program for January promises to be most interesting. It is to take the form of a "work shop" with the Picton Film Council joining in this endeavor.

Mr. Goodwin, Public School Inspector for South Hastings, acted as moderator for a panel and open discussion on "Racial Intolerance," following the film "Crossroads."

Mr. Charles Hyde introduced the members of the panel: Mr. Mathews, a teacher from Quinte Secondary School; Miss Brant, a social worker and graduate of Queen's University, and Mr. Watson from the hydro.

'Christian Family Life' Topic at Club

The regular November meeting of the St. Joseph's subdivision of the Catholic Women's League was held Monday evening in the school. Mrs. P. Halloran, 1st vice-president, presided.

The various reports of the officers and convenors are as follow: Mrs. V. Kelly, corresponding secretary, reported six baby congratulations and one get-well cards sent. Four thank-you notes were received.

Mrs. C. Murphy, 2nd vice- president is again in charge of the sale of Christmas candy and asked for volunteers to help with this work.

The financial report was given by Mrs. R. Lynch.

The spiritual convener, Mrs. E. Silver, announced the commencement of study clubs for this term and advised the League that Communion Sunday is December 1st.

Mrs. D. Bleeks reported that Mrs. H. Emerson had made 46 visits to hospital patients to date.

It was reported that the Hallowe'en sale and tea was most successful. The names of those who assisted were listed and each one was thanked by Mrs. F. Maund, the convener of the event.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

Mrs. Halloran announced the Christmas party for the members will be held on December 9th. Each one was requested to bring a small gift for exchange.

The following will be in charge of the entertainment: Mrs. T. Mavety, Mrs. V. Carroll, Mrs. F. Collyer, and Mrs. T. Black will convene the refreshments.

The director, the Reverend J. J. Buckley, spoke to the members on the importance of the spiritual work of the League and explained in detail the meaning of The Christian Family Movement which is the study of family life with a foundation of spiritual values as taught by Jesus Christ and His Church, who said, "In my way to bring this to influence family life was to read the Gospels and to try to apply them to our lives. The Study Clubs were very important in this respect, for attendance enables each one to learn the principles of faith in God."

The chairman thanked Father Buckley for his impressive talk.

After the meeting adjourned, a social period followed when an auction sale of miscellaneous articles was conducted much to the enjoyment of all, by Mrs. R. Lynch and Mrs. C. Ford.

DRESS COLORS FOR GROOM'S MOTHER AND SISTER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To wear at my brother's wedding, my mother and I would like to buy something that will be suitable for wear later on. The color is our special problem. Since my mother and I both like black and blue best, and look best in these colors, would we be in good taste wearing these colors, particularly black? — N.

You and your mother should not wear black to your brother's wedding. It is really not at all correct for obvious reasons, for a member of the bride's family or a member of the groom's family to wear black. And it is not at all necessary for either of you to wear black, since you both like blue, blue is so becoming to you both, and blue will be just as useful and suitable for so many occasions afterward.

Don't, of course, both wear the same shade of blue: your mother might wear a rich, dark shade, you, a lighter shade, but not too light. And both choose your hats most carefully . . . for hats are most important, much in the limelight at a wedding. Small, smart flower hats, if becoming, or the tiny-feather hats so popular this season — anyway hats that are light-hearted. Light-color gloves will be an important accessory to your blue costume.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

NEW MAKE-UP GIVES EYES A "LUMINOUS LOOK"

Looks like a lipstick, but it's a new eye shadow in crayon form that's easy to apply.

The eyes have "it" — or will have, as soon as women start featuring the new "luminous look" in eye make up. This new look is a success-er to the "doe-eye," launched a half dozen years ago, and which has now become a classic. But while the doe-eye was a trick of the eye pencil, drawing an upturned point at the outer corners, the "luminous look" is achieved by a delicate blend of soft color, misty "enlargement" of the eye, and the accent of a penciled line — altogether an effect of great subtlety and femininity.

The "luminous look" begins with a super-smooth eye shadow in a new and marvelously easy-to-apply stick form. (Just like a lipstick, only in crayon form). Its cream-enriched consistency protects the lids from drying as well as gives them a depth and gleam of color. The four delicate iridescent shades — blue, green, violet and silver — impart delightful eye sparkle and vivacity, particularly when attuned to the color of the eyes or costume. And to get eye-emphasis, experts recommend combining any two of these lustrous shades. Since evening invites more daring and intensive make-up, the silver shadow (worn by itself or blended with another shade) will add that extra touch of glamour. But remember to use eye shadow discreetly — as a "suggestion" rather than a heavy application.

For the brows and for outlining the lids, there's also an exciting new product — an automatic eye crayon. Its bullnin sharpener keeps the tip always fine and sharp — a "must" for achieving clarity of line and the expert effect. A wide variety of shades are available to be coordinated with hair coloring and costume tones . . . light brown, dark brown, auburn, charcoal, black, blue and green.

To tame and completely beautify these luminous eyes, there's a creme mascara. Absolutely waterproof, it dramatizes, "lengthens" and thickens" lashes, giving them an intriguing upcurve at the same time. While it completely covers the lashes with shining, darkening brilliance it never leaves them looking cuff or beady . . . and stays on for many an hour without smudging or streaking.

Just a little bit of cleansing cream and the mascara comes off easily, minus burning or stinging. Comes in blue, green and charcoal as well as the standard black and brown.

Plum Pudding — Rich and Thrifty

As Conducted by Mary Moore

Some bakeries and hotel chefs and cooking columnists are rushing the Christmas season.

Of course, by the very nature of my business, I have to get to work early on these Christmassy foods for they have to be ripened and tasted, then the time to mark time until publication date.

But curtain time has arrived, for your letters are requesting plum puddings — some rich, some inexpensive, some digestible! What a tall order.

RICH PLUM PUDDING

(Makes 3 average-sized): One of these may provide the Christmas dessert, while the other two may be Christmas gifts, or will keep almost indefinitely for future use. One pound each stale bread crumbs and chopped suet, 1 1-2 pounds each seeded raisins and currants, 1-2 pound each chopped citron and chopped candied orange peel, one pound chopped figs, 1 cup dark brown sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-8 teaspoon clove, yolk of 8 eggs, 8 egg whites, 1-2 cup white (or blue) grape juice. Combine all ingredients in order given except the egg whites. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites last. Turn into greased pudding bowls, cover and tie down with floured cloth Immerse in large kettle of boiling water, and boil covered for two and one-half hours. At serving time reheat about one and one-half hours.

THRIFTY CARROT PUDDING

One cup each grated carrot, grated potato, raisins, currants, brown sugar, 1 1-4 cups bread crumbs, 3-4 cup finely chopped suet, 2 tablespoons sour milk, 1-3 teaspoon baking soda, 1-3 cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-8 teaspoon nutmeg, 1-3 teaspoon allspice. Mix all ingredients in order given. Pour into well-greased molds filling them 2-3 full, cover and steam for 3 hours. At serving time, reheat one hour.

FOAMY SAUCE

(A different all-purpose pudding sauce). Half cup butter, 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar, 1 egg, beaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Cream the butter until light and foamy. Then add the sugar gradually while continuing to cream with a spoon or beat with an electric beater until fluffy. Then beat in the egg and vanilla and heat, while stirring, over boiling water, about 2 minutes. Serve with any hot steamed or baked pudding.

Hadassah Told Israel Must Be Supported

By MARY FRAN BURKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—United States Senator Hubert H. Humphrey says the free world will perish if it continues to work independently.

The Democratic senator from Minnesota said Tuesday all countries of the free world must join together—to pool their resources and technological know-how.

"The Soviet Union has made the Middle East the battleground for the ensuing struggle. If it destroys Israel it destroys freedom. It is our common goal and purpose to see Israel free."

Senator Humphrey addressed the biennial convention of the Hadassah Organization of Canada at a dinner celebrating the 10th anniversary of the establishment of the State of Israel.

TRUE OBJECTIVE

Israel's achievements in the Middle East represented the true objective of American foreign policy Israel had attained not only her independence with dignity but also maintained it in the last 10 years, even during hostilities.

He said she has dedicated her institutions to social progress in health and education and has concentrated her energies on agriculture and industry.

Canadian Hadassah is the living embodiment of progress in Israel, he told the convention. Due to Hadassah and the Jewish Organization Israel was two-thirds self-supporting.

In earlier sessions Hadassah members pledged about $88,000 towards a $100,000 commitment to build a hospital in the port city of Elath, on the Gulf of Aqaba.

The new hospital, expected to be opened in a year, will be called the Canadian Hadassah Wizo Marine Hospital of Elath.

Ruth Gruber, special correspondent for the New York Herald Tribune, told the convention Israel is the testing ground of the East and West conflict.

"The unholy marriage between Russia and Egypt may mean the end of Western civilization and Christianity," she said.

Israel, ironically, might be the one nation to save Christianity in the Middle East.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Gerald R. — I want to keep up my relationship with my family.

Louise R. — He's too tied to them.

* * *

Gerald R. — My wife and I are in the first year of our marriage and we are having a big controversy over the role of parents in our lives.

It happens that I come of a very close-knit family. My kid brother and sister and I always went places with the folks and we've had some wonderful times. I don't want this relationship to end with my marriage. I stop in to see them at least two evenings a week and usually on Sunday afternoon.

I want Louise to come with me on these visits and be one of the family. She says it's too much family for her, but then she objects if I go by myself.

* * *

Louise R — It seems to me that the whole thing is a matter of Gerald's deciding exactly who is his family — me or his parents. When he is alone with me, he often seems restless and bored but I notice that when he is with his parents and brother and sister, he keeps laughing and talking and never seems to tire or to want to go home.

I love my parents too, but since I am married I prefer to spend as much free time as possible with Gerald — alone. I don't like being with a mob.

I think Gerald is quite babyish to be so tied to his family. Some of my friends say it shows that he's devoted — but to whom?

* * *

The Council: Well, we wouldn't exactly call it "babyish" for a man to want to see a great deal of his parents, and Louise doesn't present much evidence to show undue dependence of her husband upon his parents. But we can't blame her for being rather anxious about her husband's restlessness when he is alone with her.

This seems to be the crux of Louise's dissatisfaction and she is foolish to pit herself against Gerald's family, creating a jealousy issue where none need exist. It would be much better if Louise tried, through positive measures, to make her time with her husband a little more pleasant.

Possibly Louise and Gerald did not know one another very long before they married. They didn't have a chance to deepen their common interests. They don't have a long chain of associations in common — friends, incidents from the past, ideas, daydreams.

This long chain isn't created in a day and it isn't created by evading the fact that human beings need more than physical intrests or daily routine to hold them together. Gerald and Louise should make an active effort to find things they can share with one another that will enrich their married life. If they more fully enjoy their time together, it is quite possible that the issue of "the role of parents in our lives" will simply dissolve.

Trade Mission Now in Heart Of Auto Industry

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

COVENTRY, Eng. (CP) — The Canadians sipped cocktails in what once was the crypt or prison of an ancient guildhouse. They dined on fish and roast duckling in the grand hall of a structure built 600 years ago.

Thus began the tour of the Canadian trade mission in Coventry, heart of Britain's auto industry, which still bears many scars from the wartime German bombings.

Coventry is the home of Sir William Rootes, one of Britain's leading automakers who began his career here earning the sum of one penny an hour.

Amid the color of ancient St. Mary's Hall, where the Canadian delegation was feted Wednesday night at a huge banquet, Canadian Trade Minister Gordon Churchill, a wartime regimental commander, recalled all the sacrifices of Coventry during the war. But he noted too that Coventry now has some 800 manufacturers producing some 400 different products.

BETTER PRODUCE

He suggested with a laugh that if the 50-man mission doesn't produce orders for British goods, they may be doomed to the crypt of the hall—and left behind. Then he added that in talks with businessmen here he had found so many interested in Canada that he wondered why the mission had found it necessary to come to Britain.

"They talk of Canada being dominated by the United States. Perhaps we are really dominated by Coventry." He urged British manufacturers to come to Canada, to participate in the "great opportunities" there.

Lord Mills, Britain's minister of power, brought the greetings of Prime Minister Macmillan who said he is proud of his association with the Canadians.

The mission reached this Midlands industrial centre after two days of a fast moving tour of southern England and Wales. Today the mission will be split into groups to tour the various auto and tractor plants. Tonight they will see Julius Caesar performed at nearby Stratford-on-Avon.

Suspect Arson As Loss Million At Uranium Mine

ELLIOT LAKE, Ont. (CP)—Police said they are investigating the possibility of arson in a fire which Wednesday blazed through a concentrator building at nearby Stanleigh uranium mines, causing an estimated $1,000,000 damage.

The blaze, which broke out about noon and was brought under control two hours later, was the third fire on the mining property within nine hours.

Police said fires had been started by thieves who raided offices of a catering company and a mine shaft sinking company. Cash was taken and the fires appar-ently set to cover the thefts.

NO ONE INJURED

No one was injured in Wednesday's blaze.

Stanleigh business manager F. W. Beckensale said the fire, which destroyed about one-tenth of the building and caused "about $1,000,000 damage," set production schedules back one or two months.

He said first deliveries to Eldorado Mining and Refining Limited, the government's uranium procurement agency, had been scheduled for January but now would be made in March or April.

Mr. Beckensale said rebuilding of the ruined section would begin immediately.

Montreal Court Refuses to Alter Council's Agenda

MONTREAL (CP) — Mr. Justice C. E. Ferland Wed. dismissed a Superior Court petition aimed at forcing a change in the agenda drafted for the new city council's first meeting later today.

The petition sought a writ of prohibition to prevent council from filling two vacancies in its ranks before electing a new executive committee.

A petition was submitted Tuesday by city lawyers on behalf of the present executive committee which objected to the order of procedure in the agenda of the meeting.

Mayor Sarto Fournier and city clerk C. E. Longpre jointly scheduled the meeting and set the agenda.

Mr. Fournier, who defeated former mayor Jean Drapeau in municipal elections Oct. 28, said he was using his special power as mayor in announcing the meeting and the agenda.

Filling the vacancies on the council before electing a committee was interpreted as a move aimed at getting Lucien Croteau, Senator Fournier's defeated running mate in the elections, a seat on both the council and committee.

Non-stop flying round the globe in atomic planes will come at a not too distant date, he said. Turbo-jet engines will be used for the takeoff and gaining altitude, and switched over to the use of atomic power for high altitude flying.

Takes 7 Hours To Cross U.S. And Fly Back

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A U.S. Air Force jet streaked from Los Angeles to New York and back in less than seven hours Wednesday.

Capt. Robert M. Sweet, 30, of Barronnett, Pa., was timed for the non-stop round trip at six hours, 42 minutes, 6.7 seconds.

Sweet averaged about 718 miles an hour for the round trip. The total distance is 4,890 miles.

He was one of a flight of six Voodoo reconnaissance jets which roared east in a mass assault on U.S. Navy records.

First Lieut. Gustav B. Klatt, 29, of San Marcos, Tex., flew to New York in three hours, five minutes, 39.3 seconds, betters the previous mark of three hours, 23 minutes. His was the fastest west-to-east time.

usually, often wearing a faded tweed suit, dark shirt with a tartan-design woollen tie and no MBE ribbon, awarded him in 1943 for services to the community. His pockets bulge with pencils, erasers and work tools.

The son of a Vercheres, Que., doctor, he learned carving, painting, decorating and cabinet-making as an apprentice in a Montreal woodworker's shop for 50 cents a week. He picked up an additional 50 cents by singing in St. James Cathedral choir, Montreal. Later he was choirmaster at Edmundston Roman Catholic cathedral.

Working his way through Laval University medical school, he started out as a family doctor in northwestern New Brunswick in 1909 and in 1932 moved to Edmundston with his wife Martha, 70, and two sons. Here he initiated free art lessons, sometimes averaging 36 pupils a week ranging in age from 11 to 56.

QUICK TO LEARN

"Some come here who have never touched a chisel before," he said, "then in an hour-and-a-half, they can learn to carve a dog or a lion. They master one trick at a time."

Founder and first president of the Federation of Canadian Woodcarvers, he designed a crest for the New Brunswick Medical Society, of which he also is a former president.

Averaging about $5,000 income a year from various sources, Dr. Laporte said "as long as I have enough money for my needs, I am happy."

As for the future, he has begun a new hobby — carving human forms from twigs and branches.

Ike's Absence to Take Bloom Off NATO 'Summit' Meeting

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

President Eisenhower's absence will take the bloom off the NATO "summit" meeting in Paris next month.

The meeting of the leaders of the 15 alliance members was designed primarily as an expression of NATO's determination to stand firmly together to counter and overcome Russia's latest military and political advances.

But Mr. Eisenhower's absence through illness will so cripple the gesture that it probably would be wiser to postpone the meeting until next spring. The NATO Council will make its decision Thursday.

It is true that U.S. Vice-President Richard M. Nixon, who would substitute for Mr. Eisenhower, has been making a favorable impression in recent weeks with his call for closer unity in NATO and his frank appraisal of the American position in light of Soviet scientific strides.

But he is not the president and could not be expected to hold the confidence of the European member of NATO to the same degree as Mr. Eisenhower. And the United States, of course, is NATO's chief military bulwark.

If the NATO leaders could produce a meaningful expression of solidarity—this seems improbable without Mr. Eisenhower — the meeting would be worthwhile.

Even before Mr. Eisenhower's illness there was some thought in some NATO capitals that the meeting would be better postponed to allow time for sufficient planning and consultation beforehand to ensure that the meeting would produce solid results. As it stands now, the meeting is unlikely to yield anything more fruitful than decisions to set up committees to study various aspects of increased NATO collaboration, especially in the scientific field.

On this account, and because any gesture of support will be largely empty without the presence of Mr. Eisenhower, it would be advisable to put off the conference until next year.

Steelworkers' Offer Rejected By Company

TORONTO (CP) — A United Steelworkers of America offer to accept a binding mediation of a violence - marked six - month strike at the Canadian Vitrified Products plant in St. Thomas has been rejected by the company's president.

District director Larry Sefton told the Ontario legislature's select committee on labor relations Wednesday the union would accept the conclusions of chief conciliation officer Louis Fine if the company would also.

W. S. Montgomery, president of the strikebound company, who earlier presented a brief proposing numerous amendments to the Ontario Labor Relations Act, said:

"I will not accept the offer. I am not going to draw the veil over what has occurred in the past."

He said the 90,000-member union is prone to violence. Since the strike began June 4 the plant has been stoned and a fire has broken out.

ASKED TO APPEAR

James K. Maloney, committee chairman, said I. H. (Casey) Dodds, executive assistant to James Hoffa, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, has been requested to appear before the committee to answer questions about the acts of violence.

Stumbling block in negotiations has been a company demand that each employee post a personal bond as security in the event of strike damage.

This was one of four main points made in Mr. Montgomery's brief. He also asked for the enactment of the law relating to the conduct of strikes, depriving bargaining rights from a union with a history of violence, and that unions be liable for all injuries or damages to persons or property.

ALSO UNION BRIEF

The committee also heard a brief from the steelworkers union that said the social whirl in which judges find themselves sometimes influences their decisions on arbitration boards against labor.

G. Eamon Park, who presented the brief, said "their social environment—at the golf course or in their clubs—brings them into contact with more managerial personnel than with working men."

Jupiter and Thor Missiles Move Into Production and Ready for Use in Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, striving to catch up with Russia in medium range missiles, has ordered two rival types into production. The goal is to have them ready for use in another year.

The Senate preparedness subcommittee, to which defence Secretary Neil McElroy made the announcement at a hearing Wednesday, welcomed it as "good news" and termed McElroy a man "with both the power and the willingness to act."

Chairman Lyndon Johnson (Dem., Texas) said McElroy is the real "czar" in the battle to surpass Russia in missile development, and told reporters he hopes that other decisions which McElroy promised "will come just as soon as possible."

The subcommittee, before recessing its hearings until Dec. 13, also heard Deputy Secretary Donald A. Quarles testify that the United States is running "neck-and-neck" with Russia in developing the intercontinental ballistic missile, and that "as a whole, as of today," the over-all U.S. missile program is ahead of Russia's.

ENDS DEADLOCK

McElroy ended an army - air force deadlock with his announcement of production orders for both the army Jupiter and the air force Thor, both are intermediate range ballistic missiles with a range up to 1,500 miles.

Vice-President Nixon told a press conference President Eisenhower had tentatively decided on that action, and a group of eight officials made it final.

Whatever new money will be needed to speed their production will be asked of Congress when it meets in January, McElroy said, asking:

"By making use of the production capacity now available for both . . . an operational capability can be achieved by the end of 1958 in the United States, striving to catch up with Russia in medium range missiles, has ordered two rival types into production. Retired N.B. Medical Doctor Devoting Leisure Time to Aid Young Canadian Artists

EDMUNDSTON, N.B. (CP) — Dr. Paul Carmel Laporte, 72-year-old medical doctor, is devoting his retirement to helping young Canadian artists.

Each Wednesday night in the basement of his 20-room house, the chain - smoking physician gives free art lessons to anyone interested. For his most promising students he provides funds to enable them to study in the art centres of the world.

A master woodcarver and sculptor himself, he said:

"My one ambition is to transmit to the younger generation what I know and to help them in learning how to do it.

"I am always trying to discover talent in artists and push them ahead. I see and judge their work. If it is good, I help them with material and money."

Among his proteges are Albert Nadeu, a top woodcarver at St. Jean Port Joli, Quebec's widely-known crafts centre and Claude Picard, now studying painting in Rome after Edmundston residents chipped in to send him there.

Although officially in retirement, Dr. Laporte is one of the busiest men in Madawaska County, a French - speaking district in extreme northwestern New Brunswick with close ties to neighboring Quebec and Maine.

On the go from seven in the morning to 11 at night, he still serves as the county's Medical Health Officer and coroner and occasionally lectures at St. Louis College in Edmundston. Much of his time is spent in his basement workshop—a fully-equipped combination machine shop, photographic darkroom and art studio.

"I would soon die if I was not active," he said, lighting a cork-tipped cigaret.

CNS Officers Want Service Again Opened

HALIFAX (CP) — Immediate restoration of Canadian National bar been urged by officers of eight CNS freighters, now tied up in Halifax harbor.

In a telegram to Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National (West Indies) Steamships Limited, Montreal, 73 officers said Wednesday they are prepared to operate the vessels under Trinidad registry.

"There have been many misleading and confusing statements respecting the status of operation of these ships and we believe that these statements are seriously endangering our future employment," the telegram said. "We see no reason why the service should not be restored as soon as possible and would respectfully urge that immediate efforts be made to do so."

Registry was recently transferred to Trinidad after striking CNS sailors of the Seafarers International Union rejected a company offer of a 15-per-cent wage increase. The officers accepted a comparable offer.

The vessels have been tied up in Canadian ports since June.

Reports from Port of Spain have said Trinidad seamen may boycott the CNS fleet and the British Trade Union congress may bar their members from signing up with CNS in sympathy with the strike. The CNS late informed the British labor group such action may jeopardize the future operation of the ships on the Canadian-West Indies run.

Meanwhile, there was no indication when the ships might leave Halifax or plans for taking on new crew. Five of the ships arrived last week, apparently without their skeleton crews of officers, from Montreal.

In Ottawa Transport Minister Hees said the company is exploring the restoration of service, adding that MPs will be able to question the CNS management on the registry transfer in the Commons next week.

Permanent UN Force Is Urged

LONDON (AP) — The British government was urged by 115 members of Parliament Wednesday night to support the creation of a permanent United Nations military force to "garrison areas of potential conflict."

Several former government ministers were among legislators of all parties who signed the parliamentary motion. It called for the setting up of "an individually recruited and permanent force of 20,000 men operating under the control and direction of a specially-constituted council set up by the United Nations."

Its prime task, the motion said, would be "to take up a position between opposing national armies" in addition to garrisoning trouble areas.

The motion, which will be debated in the House of Commons, referred to manpower problems now facing the existing United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East.

4th SIDNEY

Wallbridge 'Cerealettes' Hold Meetings

4TH SIDNEY — The third meeting of the Wallbridge "Cerealettes" was held on Saturday afternoon at the home of Frances Tucker.

Mrs. E. B. Phillips asked the girls to come to her home for the next meeting.

Shirley Chisholm gave an account of the recent bus trip to the Quaker Oats plant at Peterborough.

During the discussion period, the following topics were discussed: rules for buying cereals and flour for daily bread, kinds of flour, bread pastry, general purpose and cake,

Standards for judging muffins were given. These are: general appearance, shape, crust, volume; internal appearance, texture, tenderness, color; flavor, taste, odor.

Each member brought two muffins and these were judged.

The home assignment for next meeting is: obtain information on flour sold at the stores as to kinds, sizes of packages available and the cost of each size.

The fourth meeting of the Wallbridge Cerealettes was held at the home of Mrs. E. B. Phillips. Three things I have learned about flour: Flour must be stored in a dry place, preferably in a glass or tight container and should not be kept a great length of time is it may get wormy.

A discussion on "Let's face the facts about cereals" followed.

Breakfast cereals made from wheat are wheat farinas, wheat germ, wheat flakes, shredded wheat and puffed wheat. Oats and oat products are oatmeal, rolled oats. There are also corn products such as cornmeal, corn flakes, corn syrup and cornstarch.

Other cereals include rice, rye flour, barley and buckwheat products. There are also numerous other new ready-to-eat cereals on the market.

Mrs. Phillips and several members made two deserts.

The home assignment was given and the meeting closed in the usual way.

Fighter Ploen Will Command Blue Bombers in Cup Mission

By AL VICKERY

WINNIPEG (CP) — Kenny Ploen, who quarterbacked Iowa Hawkeyes to the Rose Bowl championship last January, moves from the United States' biggest football extravaganza to Canada's top football event, the Grey Cup, in the same year.

Ploen (pronounced Plane) will lead Winnipeg Blue Bombers into the 1957 Grey Cup clash against Hamilton Tiger-Cats at Toronto's Varsity Stadium, Saturday afternoon, end, weather conditions permitting, the fans should be in for a treat.

Ploen delighted fans around the western circuit all year with his alert signal-calling, passing and running. But it was his running that stood out. Time and again when he appeared trapped, the 23-year-old quarterback would shake off tacklers and break away for good gains.

ALL-STAR QUARTERBACK

It was plays such as this and general leadership that gained Ploen the quarterback position on The Canadian Press 1957 Western Interprovincial Football Union all-stars.

He wound up eighth in the league scoring—considered good for a quarterback—with 55 points on five touchdowns and 25 converts. He carried the ball 100 times for a total of 505 yards; caught all three passes thrown to him; completed 52.8 per cent of his passes; and had only eight interceptions against him.

An excellent defensive player, Ploen was called on only rarely to perform at safety. Coach Bud Grant figures Ploen is too valuable to put at safety at all times because of the injury risk.

BOUGHT BY CLEVELAND

Bomber officials feel they are fortunate to obtain the services of the Big Ten's most valuable player. Cleveland Browns of the National Football League were also after him.

Ploen himself was reluctant to sign with Bombers because he wasn't sure where his future lay with pro football or the army.

He wants to come back next year but his future still is uncertain.

"I'm going back to Iowa next February to complete my second semester," said Ploen, a civil engineering student. "I'll still have one to go, and when I graduate

Football Got Goose's Goose

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — L. D. Nuckels, game warden at Castroville, Tex., tells a story about a Canada goose that apparently wanted to play football.

Nuckels reported to game and fish commission headquarters here that the goose flew into the bright lights at a recent night football game at Castroville. Seven times the goose made a pass at the playing field coming as low as 25 or 30 feet.

On the last two times the bewildered bird appeared about to make a landing among the football players. However, he apparently decided against becoming a 11th man for either squad and disappeared into the darkness.

Defeat Kingston

Whitby Leap Frogs Idle Macs Into Senior Loop Top Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A new name has bobbed to the top of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Eastern Division today.

Sid Smith's Whitby Dunlops (59 goals in nine games) moved into the top spot Wednesday night by handing out another goal-packed walloping, this time to Kingston CKLC's.

Two veterans were the architects of the Allan Cup champions 7-4 wins: Bus Gagnon, 30, former Cleveland, Cincinnati and Springfield leftwinger and playing coach Smith, 32, recently of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

Gagnon, Dunlops' playing coach last year, scored three goals, Smith, who took over the job Nov. 11, had a goal and an assist.

In the OHA - NOHA league, North Bay Trappers broke an eight-game losing streak by defeating second-place Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 3-2 and Chatham Maroons beat Windsor Bulldogs 4-3.

Dunlops had piled up a 6-1 lead by the end of the second period against Kingston, four goals coming in the first 20 minutes.

Bobby Attersley, who also had three assists, Charlie Burns and Tom O'Connor were the other Whitby scorers. Roy Partridge, with a pair, Billy Colvin and Ted Toppazzini were the Kingston marksmen.

A Kitchener cast-off, Jack Taylor, put North Bay on the road to victory, scoring their first goal. Trappers' others came from Roger Hornby and Tony Posta. Jim Uniac and Don Rope scored for Dutchmen.

Winds-r, leading 2-0 at the start of the final period, are unlikely to forget the name Jim Connelly in a hurry. Connelly scored four times in 10 minutes in a devastating third - period burst that left Bulldogs reeling.

Frank Bathgate and Bobby Brown built up Windsor's early lead.

Tonight, in the OHA Eastern loop, Pembroke are scheduled to visit Cornwall. Next games scheduled in the OHA-NOHA series are for Friday with North Bay at Chatham and Soo at Sudbury.

Paille May Kick Bucket After Rangers Suffer 2nd Straight Defeat

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

SPEAKERS OF THE HOUSE!

Moe Benoit and Bart Bradley may not win any gold trophies as orators, but they take a back seat from none in popularity with the younger hockey fry of the city.

Big Moe, the blueline belter, and Bart the "BB" shot of the upfront troops, could not have had a warmer reception had they been guests of honor at an old boys' reunion in their home town than they received from the Knights of Columbus youngsters at the father-and-son banquet the other night.

And the "old boys," the dads, were not backward with the hand clapping when the Macs' stars rose on slightly nervous legs to say their brief pieces.

You could have heard a pin drop while Moe and Bart were speaking and the youngsters especially "hung" on every word when the players answered the questions asked them. The younger fellows were all eyes for as one youngster put it when introduced to Bradley, "I don't know you, but I've seen you on the ice lots of times." It was the first close-up for the majority of the youngsters and they thoroughly enjoyed it.

But it remained for Bart to almost bring down the house" with his answer to the question: "Do you think the McFarlands can beat the Russians?"

Bart never batted an eye. There was no braggadocio in his voice when he replied quietly: "The Whitby Dunlops defeated the Russians, and the McFarlands are a better club than the Dunnies." The banquet hall of the Knights of Columbus resounded to the applause.

Both players offered some sound advice when the question: "Does smoking affect an athlete?" or words to that effect, was asked.

Both agreed smoking was extremely harmful to the young athlete and was of no benefit to those of mature age.

Hockey players, due to the speed and endurance demanded of them are particularly affected by smoking, was their consensus. Said Bart: "A fast-skating forward racing into a corner and battling for a puck would feel the effects of smoking when he skated toward his own end in back-checking attempts. That is when a fellow needs his wind."

Manager Drury Denyes came in for his share of questions, too, especially from the "dad" section of the gathering. Asked if he intended strengthening the club Drury said he felt that the present strength was good enough. It is a well-balanced team that has its two-way power as the performances to date has indicated. He did, however, admit that he had cards left and was permitted to sign players up to February 10.

While Bradley was confident that the McFarlands could defeat the Russian team, he warned that the Muscovites would learn a lot from their sojourn in Canada. "They will improve with every game," he said, "and will be tougher as the tour progresses."

DENIES REPORT

A report in the Ottawa Journal of November 16 stating "Doctors in Belleville reported yesterday that Claude Ruel, Ottawa-Hull defenceman injured in Belleville last Saturday, would not lose the sight of his left eye," was denied last night by the attending physician here.

"What I told the Ottawa paper," the doctor said, "was that he would not lose his eye. There is every chance now of his not being able to see as well as before. The blood condition is still apparent and until it clears up nothing of a definite nature will be known. At the moment he cannot see a thing, not even light."

The young defenceman, one of Canadiens' best defence prospects is in hospital here undergoing treatment by eye specialists. A number of the McFarlands hockey club have visited the young player and they say he is quite cheerful. It was one of those unfortunate accidents that occur in hockey and fandom hereabouts with a special nod toward the entire McFarlands Club sincerely hope that young Ruel's eye and eyesight will be restored to normal and he will be back in hockey action before too long.

Speaking of the incident it has been brought to this corner's attention that Russ Kowalchuk has been undergoing unfair criticism. A Toronto evening paper inferred that Kowalchuk was guilty of deliberately striking the young Ottawan. This corner sought the opinion of one of the officials of the game who was on top of the play.

He said: "There was a scramble on the boards and a flurry of bodies and sticks. Ruel was struck by one of the sticks. It could have been that of anybody's. But there was nothing deliberate about it. It was purely accidental."

And the young defenceman himself in a bedside statement last night said: "The sticks were crossed in the scramble. One came up and hit me. I do not know whose stick it was. It was an accident."

School Girls Mob Members Russian Team

GALT (CP) — More than 50 high school girls Wednesday mobbed members of the touring Moscow Selects' hockey team, while the players and officials were waiting for a train to Toronto.

The players baked and laughed after a friendly reception from Kitchener hockey fans Tuesday night and frantic autograph seeking here. Selects lost to Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 4-2 in the third game of their seven-game Canadian tour.

Wednesday the players gath ered around an automobile containing four young girls. The girls got out and posed with the players.

Then about 50 girls from Galt Collegiate arrived and eagerly pushed pencils, fountain pens and paper toward the visitors for their autographs.

Surging Bruins Hand Blues 5-2 Setback on Gardens Ice; Are Back in Boston Tonight

By MARTY GOODMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

New York Rangers apparently play better in second place than first.

A couple of weeks back, chasing Montreal Canadiens, Phil Watson's Blueshirts sped along at a pace that had the rest of the National Hockey League dazzled.

Then they edged in front of Montreal, New York has been able to win only one game since and they've lost their last two, both by large margins.

The Ranger lead stands at one point and Montreal has four games in hand.

Latest of the defeats was Wednesday night when the surging Boston Bruins defeated New York 5-2. It followed a 3-1 defeat Sunday by Toronto Maple Leafs. Both were at home.

WANTS JOB BACK

Chances are Watson will now remind goalie Marcel Paille that Lorne (Gump) Worsley, New York's regular goalie until injured 12 games ago, is waiting to move back into his job.

Paille will get another chance tonight when the teams play again, this time in Boston.

In other games, last-place Toronto, trailing Detroit Red Wings by one point, plays at Detroit a Montreal plays Chicago Black Hawks, now in fourth place, two points back of Boston, in Chicago.

Boston's Horvath - Stasiuk-Bucyk line, the league's second-highest scoring unit, sparked the Bruin victory. Bruins have lost only one of their last seven games.

Johnny Bucyk was the key man as Boston exploded for four goals in the third period to overcome a 2-1 New York lead. Bucyk scored twice while Vic Stasiuk had a goal and two assists and Bronco Horvath had two assists.

REUNITED BY SCHMIDT

The way coach Milt Schmidt reunited the trio after they starred three years ago in the Western Hockey League is an old story now But the way they keep producing is still news.

Horvath's assists kept him one point behind Fleming Mackell, leading Bruin scorer with 21 points who also had two assists. Horvath has 19 goals.

Stasiuk has 18 points on seven goals and 11 assists and Bucyk has five goals and 13 assists.

For two periods New York outplayed Boston with Guy Gendron scoring in each. Leo Labine scored for Boston in the second.

When Stasiuk still had a minute and 22 seconds of a penalty to serve to open the third period, Rangers appeared on their way to a win.

But Jerry Toppazzini scored on Mackell's pass while Boston was shorthanded and Bucyk, Horvath and Stasiuk took it from there.

Hockey's Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston's Fleming Mackell and Mac Ullman, in Wednesday night's lone National Hockey League game to advance into a fifth place tie with Andy Bathgate of New York in the individual scoring race each has 21 points. Bathgate went pointless as Bruins downed Rangers 5-2.

One-Armed Goalie Has Fine Record

TORONTO (CP)—One of the pluckiest players in the East End Industrial Hockey League is 17-year-old Lyle LeBere, Canada Wire goalie. LeBere, who has a 2.6 goals-against average in five games, has only one arm, having lost his right arm four inches above the elbow in an industrial accident last August.

Bus Boyd, coach of the team, picked up LeBere from the Junior B Dixie Beehives when he needed a goalie at the start of the season.

"I went to look at him and I was determined not to let sympathy enter into it," Boyd said. "I watched the way he moved and I felt sure he could do the job."

LeBere uses an artificial arm which clamps on the goal stick and there is always fear of a breakdown in the equipment. This happened a week ago in a game when he was experimenting with a new style arm.

The backstrap holding the arm socket broke but his new arm should be better "because it unlocks when I fall down."

LeBere supplies the goal with his ability to get up after a sprawl without holding the arm like most goaltenders. He pushes up with his good arm and one leg.

LeBere, who played Port Colborne, was regarded as a fine prospect until his accident. Last year he won the Gerry Leach Trophy as the most valuable player on the Port Colborne team. He has played for two Ontario Minor Hockey Association championship teams, winning a bantam title in 1953-54 and a juvenile crown last year.

At 17, LeBere is the youngest player on the team.

Pastrano Wins Bruising Bout Over German

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Willie Pastrano floored his 22nd birthday Wednesday night with a bruising 10-round unanimous decision over Willi Besmanoff, a rough, tough boxer from Munich, Germany.

Although Pastrano, 190½ pounder from New Orleans who now makes his home here, scored 99 of a possible 100 points on the two judges' and referee's card, ringsiders said they had never seen him take so much punishment in a Miami ring.

Besmanoff, at 185½, opened with jabs to the boldriff and kept boring in while Pastrano flicked at his left eye and drew blood from his nose early in the televised fight that matched two rugged heavyweights.

The fourth-ranking Pastrano, a 5 to 1 favorite, finished the fight straight forward. Besmanoff, unranked, had a mass of welts on his body and both eyes and his nose were battered.

SIGNS FOR THIRD YEAR

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Ed Lopat, former major league pitcher, has agreed to manage Richmond Virginians of the International League for a third year. The announcement did not disclose salary. Last season Virginians finished third.

Cooke Blasts Proposals for New Stadium

TORONTO (CP)—Proposals for a sealed-down stadium at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds were blasted Wednesday by Jack Kent Cooke, president of the Toronto Maple Leafs baseball club, as "short-sighted and uneconomic."

He said it would "spell the end of any hope of ever getting major league baseball for Toronto."

Seven of the 10 members of the Toronto parks committee favored the proposal to expand the 21,000-seat CNE grandstand to 41,000 seats. This was scaled down from a previous proposal for a full-size sports stadium of 61,000 seats with provision for baseball when first estimates put the cost at $5,000,000.

The expanded stadium would be used by football, track and soccer events. Eric Cradock, chairman of the football management committee of Toronto Argonauts, said his committee is prepared to raise $1,000,000 for construction if the city will not do it. Cooke said he is prepared to consider matching the offer.

Baseball in Toronto had drawn as high as 458,000 fans in a season compared to a total of 163,000 at seven Big Four Football Union games.

The CNE board of directors approved the parks committee's principle last week but city council must make the final decision.

Grey Cup Pre-Game Hush Heralds Whoopee in Toronto

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — This city, which demands an RV western-ers to supply the carnival touch to the Grey Cup final, is ready for the big bustup.

It's been a quiet week around here. There's been no great outward appearance of the spectacle to come. The talk generally has been about the two teams and the usual scarcity of tickets.

The invasion started early this morning by train and before the day is out trains and planes will unload beauty queens, football players and fans from Montreal points. Other fans are due Fri-day and early Saturday.

TOP SPORT SPECTACLE

The fun is expected to continue almost around the clock until 1 p.m. EST Saturday when Winnipeg Blue Bombers, champions of the West, meet Hamilton Tiger-Cats, champions of the East, in what has become the top spectacle on the Canadian sports calendar.

Bombers are due by special plane this afternoon (12:15 p.m. EST). They will stay at a suburban hotel far from the revelry around Toronto's big downtown hotels. Plans have been made for them to work out on a field near their quarters.

Tiger-Cats will stay in Hamilton until early Friday night. They'll be given a big sendoff and then remain overnight in a motel somewhere around Toronto, location known only to club officials.

While the principals are figuring ways to win the Canadian professional football title, the men administering the game will meet to iron out the various details connected with it. They have their problems.

No Cup final since the trophy was first put up for competition in 1909 has gone into overtime and this, along with crowd control, the method of game timing and other details, will be discussed by Canadian Rugby Union officials on Friday.

The matter of overtime has become a subject of some importance in view of the unprecedented overtime play in the deciding games of the best-of-three western final won by Bombers 72-2 against Edmonton Eskimos. After 60 minutes the teams were tied 32.

WOULD USE LIGHTS

The CRU rule book says "a new game of 20 minutes" will be played in event of overtime, but it does not give the procedure to be followed if a tie still exists after the 20 minutes. However, a CRU official said Wednesday that a champion will be declared "even if the game has to go until midnight" under the lights of Varsity Stadium.

The overtime is divided into two 10-minute periods and the rule book says that in the team which had the option of kicking off to open the game will have the option again in the first over-time period. The teams change ends after 10 minutes and the other club has the option of kicking off.

REST LENGTH HAZY

The book is hazy about duration of the rest period between the end of the regulation 60 minutes and start of the overtime. It says only "the usual procedure is to allow the teams a short rest period" and the CRU official said it probably would be "a minute or two."

No mention is made in the book of time out for rest between the two 10-minute overtime periods.

The different methods of timing in the Big Four and Western also will be discussed, the official said.

In the West timers do not stop the clock on punts, pass plays and long runs, the game ticking on as the players pick themselves up and re-form at the scrimmage line. In the Big Four, the clock is stopped on plays where the ball is moved any big distance, allowing the teams to get into position for the next play.

USUAL POLICING

The CRU will have 100 off-duty policemen inside the stadium, no more than usual for a Grey Cup game. Taking account of unruly crowd scenes in the Big Four playoffs, the CRU spokesman warned fans to remain in the stands during the game.

If an over-exuberant spectator charges into the end zone or any part of the field while the game is in progress he will be charged with trespassing. "We have been advised that, since we pay rental for the stadium, we can lay charges," he said.

Converts will be kicked from the field into the end zone, an old Canadian custom until the Big Four reversed the procedure two years ago. Any ball tossed or kicked into the crowd may be kept as a souvenir.

However, if anyone invades the field or the end zone to get a ball he can—and he will—be arrested and charged with theft," the spokesman said.

Bears Claw Springfield 4-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Almost four months remain in the regular American Hockey League season, but with a 14-point lead and 34 of a possible 42 points in the bag, Hershey Bears can relax and still win the title.

Bears captured their 16th victory in 21 starts Wednesday night, overcoming an early Springfield lead to down Indians 4-1. Ohio O'Brien scored twice in the third period and joined Les Haley and Dunc Fisher as Hershey's offensive stars. Haley's goal was the game-winner. Harry Pidhirny put Indians in front 1-0 in the first period.

In the other game, Cleveland and Buffalo battled to a 2-2 overtime deadlock. The result enabled Barons to tie Providence for second place. Each has 20 points. Dick Gamble got Buffalo's goal. Yule's goal, unidentified Silver Kelly check at 4:39 and Silvera registered for Cleveland.

North Gives Russ Welcome

SUDBURY (CP)—A crowd of about 200 greeted Moscow Selects at the CPR station here Wednesday night.

The Russian players were greeted by directors of Sudbury Wolves, the team they meet tonight in the fourth game of their Canadian hockey tour. The team went straight to a hotel.

The Russians planned to hold a physical training session, along with a skating drill early this morning.

Sudbury Wolves, tailenders in the Eastern Hockey Association-Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league, will be reinforced by five players from league-leading Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds for the game. Hounds will supply a complete forward line and two defencemen. The forwards are John Bailey, John Lumley and Ronnie Rubic. The defencemen are Don McLean and Ivan Tennant. Bailey and Lumley are among the league's top four scorers.

ITALIANS WIN

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—Milan, Italian soccer League champions, slammed two four second-half goals Wednesday night to defeat the Scottish champion Glasgow Rangers 4-1 in their European Cup match.

Grey Cup Trek To Toronto In Under Way

WINNIPEG (CP)—More than 200 gaily bedecked, high-spirited Blue Bomber supporters headed east when the Canadian Pacific Railway's Grey Cup Special left Wednesday night.

An hour earlier the regular CPR Dominion left with two extra cars added to accommodate fans. The Winnipeg invasion of Toronto was in full swing.

The Canadian National Railways' Super Continental was augmented this morning when 75 fans were shipped out on Grey Cup business. Extra cars were added to the night Continental.

It was not an all-Bomber train. Two carloads of Saskatchewan and Calgary supporters were detached from the Dominion and hitched on to the special. By the time the train pulled out they were all fully fledged Bomber fans.

Another Winnipeg task force is due to leave tonight when the CNR's Grey Cup special will be Toronto-bound.

Flyers Whip Guelph 7-3

BARRIE (CP)—The injury riddled Guelph Biltmores went further in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A cellar Wednesday night, as Barrie Flyers defeated them 7-3.

For Flyers, it was their first win in four starts. Their last win was Nov. 16 against Guelph.

Billy Forhan paced Flyers, who moved back into fifth place, with a three-goal performance.

Dale Rolfe, Pete Panagabko, Jack Cole and Danny Patrick were the other Flyers' scorers. George Ustalo, Chuck Gazzola and Carl Knott scored for Guelph.

Parker Voted Outstanding Grid Player

TORONTO (CP)—Jackie Parker, triple -threat quarterback and halfback who led Edmonton Eskimos to three straight Grey Cup victories, Wednesday night was named the outstanding football player in Canada. The former Mississippi State College Star was selected by sports writers and broadcasters in the Big Four and Western Interprovincial Football Union cities.

Parker beat out Hal Patterson, Montreal Alouettes' brilliant pass-catching end and defensive halfback who won the award over Parker in 1956. The voting was conducted by a distillery.

Gerry James, outstanding power runner with Winnipeg Blue Bombers who led the western conference in scoring with 131 points, including 19 touchdowns, was chosen the outstanding Canadian in gridball. Runner-up to the 22-year-old James was Bobby Kuntz, two-way back with Toronto Argonauts.

Kaye Vaughan, ragged two-way tackle with Ottawa Rough Riders, won the award as the outstanding lineman for the second successive year. Vaughan, 23, formerly with University of Tulsa, was out over Saskatoon's Art Walker.

The 25 - year - old Parker received a $1,000 Canada Savings Bond, a trophy, a diamond tie bar and a plaque. James and Vaughan received $500 bonds.

Woman Sets Channel Bass World Record

NEW YORK (AP) — Amelia Ballance's catch of a 63-pound channel bass has been recognized as a women's all-tackle world record, the International Game Fish Association said Wednesday.

Miss Ballance, a veteran angler from Buxton, N.D., landed the fish last Oct. 31 on the beach at Cape Hatteras, N.C., in 12 minutes. She used a line testing 20-4 pounds, placing the catch in the 30-pound class. She thus set a world record for both men and women in the 30-pound line class.

Hollywood's Publicity Mills Not For Star, Paul Newman

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A new kind of star is rising in Hollywood—the independent cuss who barks back at the studios yet lacks publicity flair.

A case study is Paul Newman, handsome, brooding-lipped young actor who typifies the new breed. There have been others like him —Marlon Brando, James Dean, Tony Francisus, John Cassavetes, Ben Gazzara, etc.

All were trained in New York, many at the actor's studio. Each has been as independent as a bug on ice. And though they have made the news on occasion, they shun the publicity mills of Hollywood.

Newman differs from the others in that he is signed up exclusively to a studio — Warner Brothers. He says:

"Panic, I guess," he said. "You keep passing up opportunities until finally you worry that it might be the last time you're offered one. I didn't want to sign, because I figured I wasn't ready for it yet. The Silver Chalice proved that I was right."

SUCCESS IN SECOND

Despite his nose dive in that religious mishmash, he went back to Broadway for some seasoning in The Desperate Hours, then returned to score a smash on a loanout to MGM in Somebody Up There Likes Me. Warners discovered it had a star on its hands.

Warners also found Newman a problem. The guy just wouldn't do what he was told. He has turned down three big productions with which most newcomers would be delighted. How does he get away with it?

"I just tell J. L. Warner I can't believe in the roles," he said.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was walking along with pop asking him questions about different things such as which would feel worse, to wake up with rain pouring down on you through your ceiling from the roof, or water leaking up at you through your floor from the basement, and I said, Hay pop, how do you feel about 4 leaf clovers?

If they let me alone I'll let them alone, pop said, and I guess I meen how do you feel about being lucky to find one?

Apart from the question of luck I feel it's a waist of time to hunt for them, pop said. In all your long experience, have you ever known anybody that found one? he said, and I said, No sir, including me, pop said. Even after you found one, you'd be in exactly the same situation you were before, he said, and I said, Do you meen it wouldn't bring you luck even if you had it?

It would only bring you a feeling of superiority, and there's nothing lucky about that, pop said. A 4 leaf clover hasn't even as much market value as a red ribbon and blue sparrow egg, which is also hard to find. If all the men and boy hours that have been waisted serching for 4 leaf clovers were recovered and laid end to end, they would make a lifelong vacation for half the population of Switzerland, he said. Well G. pop, Lucky Leroy Shoemaker found a dime while he was hunting for a 4 leaf clover, and you cant call that a waist of time.

There are exceptions to every rule, pop said.

Meeting everything is lucky for some people.

British TV Executive Wants To Make Westerns in Canada

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Can you think of a more typically American entertainment product than the western?

Well, they are popular in Britain, too. So much so, says a British TV executive, that British films may start making some themselves—possibly in Canada.

"The western is accepted in Britain as a proprietary item as much as in the United States," says Dennis Foreman, executive producer of the Grenada-TV network of Manchester, England.

"This may be appreciation of other people's goods, of course, but we feel that the western has a natural, important place in our entertainment lives. This has already been proved in Britain. Why, until Robin Hood came on television in Britain most children were more familiar with Dodge City than Sherwood Forest."

LOOKS THEM OVER

Foreman is in the U.S. looking over western TV shows. Ryatt and Ryatt, seen on ABC-TV in the U.S., has proved to be a great hit in Britain. So is Gunsmoke, following the Lone—aw, the heck with it.

But British television has a legal limit on the number of American TV programs it can buy each show. Foreman says he wonders if Britain may make some westerns of their own. Some westerns were filmed in England and in France after the First World War. They were pretty bad, Foreman said, but they were westerns.

He thinks it more likely, however, that British companies might film some TV westerns in Canada—where there are wide open plains and plenty of cow country.

Next Sunday Omnibus NBC TV, 4 p.m. EST) presents a filmed report on the visit to Israel of Leonard Bernstein, newly appointed head of the New York Philharmonic, and his wife, Felicia Montealegre.

Incidentally, Bernstein found that wherever he went on his concert tour of Israeli movie houses he invariably followed the filmed derring-do of the Lone Ranger (a member of the Jewish staff dropped this word before running; in case of the Lone Arranger following the Lone—aw, the heck with it.

AT THE McCARTHY — Joan Collins, Richard Burton and Basil Sydney are three passengers of the make-shift raft they hope to sail to safety in the Twentieth Century-Fox production, "Sea Wife", now on the CinemaScope screen of the Odeon and McCarthy Theatre. Also introducing Cy Grant, the pictures was filmed in De Luxe Color in and about the beautiful island of Jamaica by producer Andre Hakim and director Bob McNaught.

AT THE BELLE — 'Jug of Wine, Loaf of Bread and Thou' Cornel Wilde embodies the spirit of Omar Khayyam's "Rubaiyat" as he romances Debra Paget in the Technicolor VistaVision motion picture, on the life and loves of the noted Persian poet and philosopher, "Omar Khayyam", Paramount's thrilling color spectacle is playing tonight and Friday at the Belle. "Man in Space", multiple-reel color film turette is an added attraction.

Urge Govt. to Build Hostels for Jobless

TORONTO (CP)—Civic welfare committee Wednesday passed a resolution asking the federal government to build hostels across Canada for unemployed indigent and homeless transients. The resolution, aimed at relieving municipalities of part of the cost of direct relief for indigent transients, is to be forwarded to Ottawa.

HOUSE MEMBERS

In the 1953 election, 123 losing candidates did not file returns by officials said there is no known case of a prosecution.

Mrs. Fairclough's list was tabled in the Commons at the request of Stanley Knowles, deputy CCF leader. His party has urged in the past that not only candidates but political parties should report where their election funds come from and how they are spent.

Despite the stiff penalty for candidates who don't report their campaign expenses, the Canada Elections Act says that they can have nothing to do with campaign funds. All such funds must be handled by the candidate's agent, who is supposed to keep records.

Candidates can spend only a limited amount out of their own pockets for such things as personal hotel charges and meals while campaigning.

SHOWS DIFFERENCES

There were wide differences in the amounts shown in the list tabled Wednesday. Some of the variations apparently were due to the higher cost of campaigning in city constituencies than during a close election battle.

However, a number of Commons members have said privately that there is a great deal of uncertainty as to what expenses should be included.

The list showed he largest amount reported was $38,022 by Ludger Dionne, Liberal candidate in Beauce, Que. He was defeated by Dr. Raoul Poulin, independent, who reported expenses of $16,010.

The report amounts for cabinet ministers ranged from $22,249 for Postmaster - General William Hamilton in Montreal Notre-Dame-de-Grace to $1,864 for Solicitor - General Leon Balcer in Trois-Rivieres, Que.

FOR PARTY LEADERS

Among party leaders, highest was $8,794 for Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who represents Prince Albert, Sask. The other leaders: Liberal Leader Louis St. Laurent, Quebec East, $4,504; Social Credit Leader Low, Peace River, Alta., $4,155, and CCF Leader Coldwell, Rosetown-Biggar, Sask., $2,260.

Mr. Dionne was not the only candidate who apparently spent more than his opponent without winning election.

A total of $18,814 in expenditures was reported by former Liberal defence minister Ralph Campney in Vancouver Centre, compared with $7,000 for the man who defeated him, Conservative Douglas Jung.

Expenses of former trade minister C. D. Howe in Port Arthur, Ont., were reported as $11,606. He was defeated by CCF candidate Douglas Fisher, whose expenses were $1,768.

Four unsuccessful candidates—three in Montreal and one in Prince Edward Island—reported spending nothing on their campaigns.

DESERONTO

Lively Meeting Of Ratepayers At Nomination

DESERONTO — The nomination meeting held in the Town Hall on Friday night was attended by about sixty ratepayers who made over forty nominations. At 8.30 when nominations closed the clerk had five nominations for mayor, eight for reeve, sixteen for council, three for Public Utilities and eight for the Board of Education.

At the close of nominations, the meeting appointed Sidney Brown chairman for the evening. In view of the lengthy list Mr. Brown gave five minutes to each person who wished to address the meeting. The 1957 Council was given the first opportunity to speak.

Due to the absence of the Mayor and Reeve, Councillor Fitchett was the first to take the floor and advised the gathering that he was uncertain as to whether he would again qualify.

Councillor George Knight, who had been expelled from the last three meetings of the Council then gave his view of the „proceedings" for which he had been asked to apologize to the Council. He stated that he had done nothing to warrant the expulsion or apology. He advised that he would be unable to qualify for next year's council but hoped that a council would be elected that would not stand for the dictatorship that the last council had.

Councillor P. Knight told of some of the work that his committee had done. He stated that despite —the controversy about the speed trap no motorist had been charged under forty miles an hour on Dundas St. The remainder of the council spoke briefly with Councillor A. S. Walker stating emphatically that the 1957 council had not been a one-man council.

J. F. Topping of the Public Utilities gave some facts about the hydro. During the past year the Hydro rates had been reduced about 25% and the water rates maintained despite rising costs.

Some of the new nominees who spoke briefly were R. A. Stubbs, R. K. Jackson and Mrs. R. Dawson. Mrs. T. L. McCullough in her five minutes said that last year's council had lost some of the dignity and respect that a council should enjoy. She hoped that the 1958 council would regain that respect. She also spoke regarding the speed trap and wondered if Council had given the exact figures regarding the fines collected from speeders.

Eisenhower Will Convalesce At Country Home

New Demonstration of Recovery From Stroke

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower set out by automobile today for a weekend or more at his Pennsylvania farm in a new demonstration of recovery from his mild stroke.

Eisenhower, piling the move on top of Thursday's burst of activity which included attendance at a U.S. Thanksgiving Day church service, went with full approval from his doctors, the White House said.

The plane for the trip to Gettysburg, announced Thursday as a "hope" basis, was made firm earlier today on the basis of a new medical report of continued "excellent" recovery progress.

The doctors have agreed it is perfectly all right for him to make the trip," Press Secretary James Hagerty said.

DOCTOR GOES ALONG

The presidential car was followed by a secret service car and another White House limousine carrying Maj.-Gen. Howard M. Snyder, White House physician, and some staff members.

Eisenhower, who suffered a mild stroke the first of the week, Thursday had a busy U.S. Thanksgiving going to church and presiding over a family dinner. Press Secretary James Hagerty said Eisenhower started to bed shortly after dinner and was asleep by 9. He said there was no particular reason why the president retired so early.

STAY UNTIL WEEKEND

How long the president will remain at Gettysburg is questionable, but Hagerty said it will be at least through the weekend.

Hagerty read to reporters this brief 8:30 a.m. bulletin from the White House physician, Dr. How and M. Snyder:

"The president had a good night's sleep. He slept almost continuously from early last evening until 6 o'clock this morning. His progress continues to be excellent."

While Hagerty was speaking, Eisenhower was conferring with his chief assistant, Sherman Adams, Secretary Brig.-Gen. Andrew Goodpaster, White House staff secretary, on official business.

PLEASANT SURPRISE

The new medical progress report and the firming up of plans for the Gettysburg trip, together with Thursday's surprise burst of activity, added up to a signal of faster recovery pace than had been indicated by Eisenhower's doctors.

But the White House is continuing to emphasize that the road to complete recovery still stretches a good distance into the future. The presidential physician has pictured as still believing Eisenhower should for several weeks to come not have the strain of rest before he can return to his job full time.

The plan to get the president to his farm home needs only a final go-ahead from the doctors who, favor the idea—after their scheduled morning check on Eisenhower's condition.

Mrs. Eisenhower is going along on the 85-mile drive.

If he decides to stay at the farm awhile he will conduct a limited amount of government business there. He convalesced at the farm from his heart attack and his 1956 intestinal ileitis attack.

Any forecast last Tuesday that Eisenhower would be travelling to Gettysburg today would have been roundly challenged. It was then, three days ago, that his doctors announced he had suffered a blockage of a brain artery branch. Slight stroke is the common term for that kind of seizure.

Judge Reynolds Succumbs to Heart Attack

KINGSTON (CP)—Judge John C. Reynolds, 59, Judge of Frontenac County since 1939 and a former member of Kingston, died in hospital today a few hours after a heart attack.

Judge Reynolds was recuperating from a heart attack suffered in his summer home and had a second seizure at his home today.

He served as mayor of Kingston in 1935 after six years as an alderman.

Survivors include his wife and son and a brother, Eggerton Howard, of Brantford.

Ed's Note: Judge J. C. Anderson, of Belleville, said today that the Judge Reynolds of Kingston was a personal loss. He was the only judge in this district and Judge W. S. Lane, of Picton, Judge E. Smith of Napanee and Judge Anderson looked to Judge Reynolds for guidance. He was beloved by all.

Moroccan King Turns Attention To War at Home

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)—Mohammed V of Morocco returned his attention today from a shiftseeing tour to an irregular war battle 3000 miles over the Spanish colony of Ifni.

The king went to confer on the fighting with the chief aide of his son, who has been running the Moroccan government since Mohammed flew to Washington Sunday. The aide, Col. Moulay Hafid, flew to Norfolk from Rabat.

The fighting broke out last weekend. Moroccan officials spoke of revolts in Ifni, implying participation by Berber tribesmen who live in the 741-square-mile territory which faces the Atlantic and is surrounded by Morocco on three sides. The Spanish said the fighting arose from raids by the Moroccan Liberation Army, an organization directly controlled by Rabat.

The strongly nationalist Liberation Army spearheaded the military campaign that won Morocco freedom from French control last year. Since then it has sought to add to Morocco some territories still under Spanish Sahara and French Algeria.

Crown Prince Moulay Hassan chatted in Rabat Thursday that Spanish forces had launched attacks "from Ifni to James Island" itself controlled by Rabat.

The royal army had been ordered to fight back, he said, the first indication that official Moroccan forces fought Spaniards involved in battles with regulars.

The Spanish foreign ministry in Madrid denied "any aggression against Moroccan territory." Spanish troops, planes and paratroopers have been sent to Ifni and Spanish Sahara, south of Morocco.

Winnipeg Grey Cup Invaders Quiet, Are They Tired or Deadly Serious?

TORONTO (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers' supporters made their first mass descent on Toronto today. It was a comparatively dull show.

Except for a few yips, whoops, hollers and western - hatted Bomber fans walked from their hotels to practice at Varsity Stadium Station more like a swarm of commuters.

The Bombers were wringing their hands. "I took only one shot," said one veteran photographer. "I couldn't find anything else worth a shot."

A small band of Jaycees—welcoming delegation from Toronto's Junior Board of Trade—made more noise than the entire Winnipeg delegation of 500.

The Bombers can either were too tired from their trip or were so serious-minded about Saturday's Grey Cup game between the Bombers and Hamilton Tiger-Cats that they just were in the mood for any wild whoop-la.

The real face-off today should be compared with the arrival of Edmonton Eskimo fans in the last few years with a roar, a bang, and a bang, impromptu bands and all.

The Winnipeg fans walked across the rain-soaked street to their hotel. In the lobby they lined up quietly to register.

There was one bleary-eyed fan who apparently had made a night of it on the train. He gazed around the bare hotel lobby and bawled: "You took the furniture out again."

MINIMUM WAGE BILL TALKED OUT IN COMMONS

Senate Erupts Into Furore Over Remark

OTTAWA (CP) — "Ridiculous blackmail!" cried Senator Jean-Francois Pouliot (Quebec) Thursday as the government's Senate leader, John T. Haig, dared the Liberal majority in the upper house to delay unemployment insurance amendments. The Liberals didn't take up the challenge.

The Senate furore arose while the Commons spent the day debating the motion of Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson to put Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre) that would have established a minimum wage of $1 hourly for all employees under federal labor jurisdiction.

In the end, despite many expressions of approval from all directions, the motion was defeated on a vote. It was "talked out."

SUGGESTS STUDY

In the Senate, Senator C. C. Pratt (L — Newfoundland) suggested the unemployment legislation be sent to a committee for study. Senator Haig adds a month to each end of present sessional indemnity. Each will be available between Dec. 1 and May 15. Cost is estimated at $13,000,000.

But in the end the legislation was given royal assent and is expected to become effective Dec. 1.

The Senate storm blew up when Senator Haig objected to Senator Pouliot's proposal.

"Let me tell you," he said to the Liberals, "that if this is done you are depriving the people who would benefit of a month's pay."

"But you want to turn this legislation down, by all means do it, but don't dare you to turn it down."

The Liberals could have turned it down—they outnumber Progressive Conservatives 77 to 51 in the upper house.

LIBERALS INDIGNANT

But only indignant protests came from the Liberals.

Senator Pouliot referring to the fact Prime Minister Diefenbaker has often advocated a bill of rights, guaranteeing freedom of speech, asked "how is it that the headquarter in his chamber ures such offensive language?"

50-50 Chance Of Rain on Grey Cup Day

TORONTO (CP) — The official forecast for Saturday's Grey Cup football game at Toronto is cloudy, high temperature of 38 turning colder in the afternoon and low temperature 30 with wind.

However, Fred Turnbull, chief forecaster for Ontario, said there is a strong chance the forecast may not pan out. It may rain or snow instead.

"Officially we're playing it for a good day," he said, "but it's a 50-50 chance that instead we may get heavy snow or rain. The United States weather office five-day forecast, issued today, calls for heavy snow or rain in the Lake Ontario area Saturday."

Status of Missiles Program Worse Than Senator Thought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem., Tenn.) said today three days of testimony on the status of the United States missiles program showed the situation "is worse than I thought it was."

Kefauver, a member of the Senate preparedness subcommittee conducting the missiles-satellite investigation, said in an interview the testimony by defence officials, intelligence specialists and scientists added up to "shocking evidence of how the country has got behind Russia in certain scientific-military fields."

But Kefauver said "the picture is not hopeless," adding:

"We've got to give more money and attention to missiles, satellites and scientific development and education. We can catch up and get ahead if we put our our will to it."

Kefauver refused to go into detail.

It was reported Thursday night that the subcommittee was told Russia now has a few submarines, possibly four, capable of firing a missile with a nuclear warhead up to 700-800 miles. Other vessels in Russia's submarine fleet, it was reported, are specially ready for such missile equipment.

One informant said the reported Soviet submissile capability "means they are practically in a position to wipe out any major city on the eastern seaboard." He did not say, however, that any of the Russian subs now are stationed within missile range of the U.S. east coast.

Winnipeg Band Sidelined By Musicians Union Ruling

TORONTO (CP)—The Winnipeg Bomberettes Band will be watching from the stands Saturday when the 90 high-stepping girls they have accompanied all year march out onto the Grey Cup field.

The band, made up of non-union Winnipeg boys and girls, has been banned by the Toronto Musicians Association from appearing on television at Canada's top sports spectacle.

"It was partly our own fault," said Percy Geaser, Bombers' vice-president. "The musicians union in Winnipeg co-operated with us in every way and we didn't occur to us there would be any opposite over their appearance on television."

Mr. Geaser said the association has lined us up a top-flight band—the HMCS York band will accompany the girls when they perform their one-minute performance just before the game."

E. Boothroyd Hall, secretary, and the Winnipeg Police Pipe Band, will be permitted to march in the parade, which starts through downtown Toronto Saturday morning. They will join the Bomberettes, via special train to Toronto.

The situation parallels one of last Grey Cup days when the Edmonton Esquadrettes' Band was barred from appearing in the stadium, but marched with the Edmonton contingent in the parade.

Today is the big day for fans, with special trains rolling in from 7 a.m. onward. Special flights will be landing at Malton airport all day.

At noon, out-of-towners will be entertained at a Festival Fan luncheon at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds. Meals will be served by beauty queens, television personalities and civic officials.

Tonight, invited guests will be entertained at the Festival Dinner at the CNE, when Prime Minister Diefenbaker will speak. Later, he will move downtown and speak at the annual $10-a-plate Grey Cup Dinner. Meals proceed going to aid football personalities, past and present, who may be in need.

Mrs. Diefenbaker will attend the annual Grey Cup Party and crown Miss Grey Cup, chosen from 13 young beauties representing every major football city in Canada.

Another featured speaker during the evening will be Carl Cronin, former Winnipeg and Calgary coach and player who also address the Grey Cup Dinner.

The Blue Bombers football team landed at Malton Thursday and immediately left for suburban Scarborough to live and train until game time Saturday.

The festive air was growing in Toronto with major hotels showing banners and pennants welcoming visitors. As the pennants went up, lobby furniture went out.

Tunisia Presses For UN Action In Algerian War

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Tunisia pressed an Arab country campaign today to urge the United Nations General Assembly to call for negotiations between the French and the Algerian nationalists to settle their three-year war in Algeria.

The Tunisian diplomat also said an Asian-African resolution for such negotiations probably will be introduced Monday in the assembly's 82-nation political committee.

Mongi Slim, Tunisian ambassador to the UN, was scheduled as the first pro - nationalist speaker in the committee's debate on Algeria.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau opened the debate Wednesday. He told the UN delegates to steer clear of "internationalization of the Algerian issue."

In a vague resolution adopted last Feb. 15, the assembly pressed hope that "a peaceful, democratic and just solution" can be found in conformity with UN charter principles. Twenty-two African and Asian delegations revived the issue in this session on grounds no progress has been made in that direction.

NEED UN FORCE IN MIDDLE EAST BURNS DECLARES

Should Remain There Pending Settlement

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) The Canadian commander of the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East reiterated today that the force will be needed there pending "prospect of some permanent settlement."

Meanwhile, Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns added, the morale of the force is "very satisfactory" despite reports of restlessness among the 5,600 men from nine countries who have kept the peace in the Middle East for almost a year.

Gen. Burns, who has been at UN headquarters for conferences during the last 10 days, told a press conference that in his opinion the setting up of the General Assembly last week in voting continuation of support for the force "should be sufficient for the next year."

CANUCK AREA OFFICER

The Canadian officer's comments came on the eve of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold's departure for a on-the-spot visit to a number of Middle Eastern capitals in a move that is increasing in recent weeks. It was noted at the same time, however, that the move where Gen. Burns' force has taken over truce supervision duties from the truce troubles during this period.

Gen. Burns also told reporters at the UN that he is willing to serve as UNEF commander as long as he is needed and "as long as my government tells me to." He has been in the area since after the force was created by the UN assembly to intervene in the Suez invasion crisis.

He added that he expects to return to his headquarters in the Gaza Strip along the Israeli-Egyptian border after a visit to Ottawa during the next few days. Earlier, there had been reports that he might fly to the Middle East with the secretary-general but Burns said he does not expect to see Hammarskjold during the UN chief's visit.

Danish, German Navies Defend South of Norway

OSLO, Norway (AP) — A high Norwegian military source said today that Danish and German forces may join the navies over the joint naval defence of southern Norway.

Norway's tiny navy will be controlled by the new unified command, he informant said. He asked not to be identified.

Naval defence of the rest of Norway's 1,700-mile coastline is limited to coastal artillery, he indicated.

The informant said it is expected that the NATO "summit" conference next month will give a final go-ahead to the defence plan.

Danish officials in operation would be counted on to bottle up the Danish straits in case of war, leaving the Norwegian navy free to act as a shield in strategically-important northern Norway area, he said.

Keiller Mackay Will Be Ontario's Lieut.-Governor

Judge of Supreme Court Will Succeed Breithaupt

OTTAWA (CP) — Mr. Justice John Keiller Mackay, 69-year-old judge of the Ontario Supreme Court will become lieutenant-governor of Ontario Dec. 30, succeeding Hon. Louis Breithaupt, it was announced today.

The announcement from Prime Minister Diefenbaker's office said the appointment has been approved by Governor General Vincentn Massey, Mr. Breithaupt, 67, has been lieutenant-governor of Ontario since Feb. 18, 1952. No reason was given for his retirement but such appointments are made for a minimum of five years.

The lieutenant-governor cannot be removed except for cause within that term and retains the post beyond that time until replaced.

Almost from his birth in Picton, N.S., in 1888, Mr. Justice Mackay's life has been one of distinguished service and carrying them out diligently.

At 14 he enlisted as a gunner in the Artillery Militia in the militia at Picton.

BRILLIANT CAREER

Then, shortly before in 1914 he was given a lieutenant's commission in the 6th Brigade, Canadian Field Artillery. He was severely wounded at Arras, France, in September, 1916, and received a brilliant war career as commander of three mobile artillery brigades known as the "Keiller Group." He was awarded the Distinguished Service Order in 1916.

Mr. Justice Mackay was educated at Picton Academy, St. Francis Xavier University at Antigonish, N.S., and Royal Military College at Kingston, Ont. After the war he returned to Nova Scotia and practised law for two years and also by the Dominion government in numerous investigations.

During the years between the First and Second World Wars he played an important part in the Canadian Legion activities and was a member of the legion's first provincial executive council.

Mr. Justice Mackay keeps alive his Nova Scotia connections by yearly visits to his native province. He attends the Gaelic Mod held annually at Canso on Cape Breton Island wearing the Mackay tartan kilt. Another interest is the Royal Highland games at Antigonish, N.S.

He is a frequent speaker on Scottish history and related subjects.

Judge Anderson On Peterborough Police Board

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Roberts announced today the appointment of Judge J. C. Anderson of Hastings County court as a member of the Peterborough police commission. He replaces Judge E. J. Cowan, who said that by reason of his pending retirement he is unable to act.

Judge Anderson's appointment to the Peterborough commission means that he will be serving on three police commissions simultaneously. He already chairman of the Belleville Police Commission and a member of the Trenton Police Commission.

Judge Anderson brings to the difficult situation at Peterborough an aggregate of twenty years experience on police commissions. A native of Bancroft, he practised law for twenty years at Chisholm and after serving as councillor, was elected reeve in 1940 and in 1941 and, in that capacity, member of the Ochawa Police commission. When he was appointed County Judge of Hastings in 1946 he became chairman of the Belleville Police Commission and has held this post ever since. He is also a member of the Trenton Police Commission and was chairman organized some seven years ago.

Judge Anderson has also established an enviable reputation in the field of labor conciliation work. He has been chairman of a number of conciliation boards of national importance, dealing with labor disputes involving International Nickel, the packinghouse workers of several provinces and the railway employers in four provinces. Recently he served as conciliation board chairman in four disputes involving the railways and the locomotive firemen, successfully arranging settlements in three of the disputes. The fourth was the CPR diesel firemen issue, now being further studied by a board appointed by Parliament.

Englishman's Home Not His Castle When Ghost Leads to His Eviction

SUNDERLAND, England (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Norman Dixon say their happy family was broken up by a ghost.

The Dixons, arrested on a charge of neglecting their three small children, told a court Thursday how a phantom lived in their home in a city housing development last March.

They saw a shimmering coil on the wall," Norman, 27, said. "We thought it was the steam from when there was nobody there. At night cold hands pulled off the bedclothes and pushed at the children."

The Dixons finally called in Rt. Rev. John Ramsbotham, Bishop of Jarrow, who tried to exorcise the spectre by walking through the house in his cope and mitre and carrying his staff. The ghost refused to co-operate.

"I asked the council for an exchange of houses," Dixon said. "I was told I could try to arrange a private exchange, but when people found out about the haunted they wouldn't trade."

Then, in effort to force the council's hand, Dixon said, he decided to quit paying the rent. The council then evicted the Dixons from the house.

Police witnesses said they found the young father and mother and their three sons, ranging from 18 months to 4 years, huddled together around in the rain.

The haunted house still is empty.

Aspirants for Municipal Offices Give Reasons, Views At C of C Meeting at BCI

Belleville city aldermen addressing a Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting at the cafeteria at the Belleville Collegiate Wednesday night were called on to explain for the benefit of the office of former City Manager Dennis P. Herring last June.

The question was asked during a question and answer period following the regular program where all aspirants for municipal offices were given the opportunity of addressing ratepayers and outlining the programs they would support if elected.

Only aldermanic candidates and the two aspirants for the mayoralty, addressed the slimly attended meeting. Herbert Pointer and Clarence A. Langabeer, contesting the Separate School trusteeship for Murney Ward, did not attend the meeting.

Al Drysdale, president of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce presided over the meeting, noting that the Chamber was happy to extend the opportunity for those seeking municipal office to address the ratepayers. Only about 40 ratepayers were in the audience when the meeting got under way, but the number swelled to about 100.

Also addressing the meeting was William A. VanTassel, chairman of the Belleville Recreation Commission, who outlined the work of the commission and urged the support at the polls of the money by-law to spend $125,000 for renovation of the building on the Pinnacle street parking lot for use by the commission.

ASKED POINTED QUESTION

Alderman Robert Temple, William Arnup, Benjamin Sale and Claude D. Tice, were called upon to answer the question with respect to the appointment of Dennis Herring as city manager.

These aldermen were asked, if elected, would they continue to vote against the wishes of 1,500 residents and 3,000 labor union members and why they voted to fire the city manager instead of allowing the matter to be considered by an impartial board.

In reply Alderman Temple said he had never been in favor of city manager form of government as it was his belief the main reason he was not in favor was that all standing committees were abolished and he felt that 14 experienced aldermen could be of value to the mayor and councillors under a committee system would be able to keep the public better informed of what was going on at city hall.

He replied there must be a "top man" at city hall, but claimed there should also be standing committees.

Alderman Arnup said he would prefer the question a "straight answer."

"I am still in favor of a city manager but not as he was dealt with the services of our manager," he said.

Efficiency and ability to accomplish an intended object were requirements of a manager. He must be an administrator, must be able to gather facts, analyze them and make recommendations.

He said he favored a city manager form of government because he felt it could save the city money. However, his observations had been that Mr. Herring would not save the city money.

STRAIGHT ANSWER GIVEN

Answering the question of why he had ignored the wishes of the electors in the matter, Ald. Argue said he was not elected to be popular and would again go against the wishes of the electors if necessary contrary to his honest convictions.

Alderman Argue said the people did not have all the facts of the matter before them as did members of council, and said he would vote the same again even if it meant defeat at the polls.

Alderman Sale pointed out that council was elected to make decisions and said that the dismissing of Mr. Herring had been an "unfortunate incident."

"In my opinion he should never have been hired," he said. "He had no qualifications, and no experience and not the ability to administer city affairs."

Ald. Tice said he stood on the statement he had made in council that Mr. Herring was neither a manager form of government and did not want Belleville to be the guinea pig.

He said that the city manager form of government in the United States could not be compared with the same form of government in Canada, as the U.S.A. a city manager "really had control" while in Canada, where a city's business is through boards and the city manager has little to say. Ald. Tice also said that the work of the Board of Education, Board of Health, Parks Board, Belleville General Hospital Board, Police Commission, Library Board and Recreation Committee were beyond the control of a city manager and all these had been left under the old regime with the public works, fire department and the administration and collection of taxes.

Another voter wanted to know why ratepayers were forced not to vote on city manager form of government when the city already has a manager.

GIVES REASON FOR VOTE

In reply Gerald F. Hyde said reasons given for not voting had been asked to vote on city manager form of government.

"The question really is whether you want council to apply the legislation for a proposed six city manager form of government which is contained in the city. At the present time any council could change from the 6(2) system and it is ratified by the legislature only a vote of the people would stop it."

Alderman Safe was asked who voted Mr. Herring if he was not elected.

"The city council hired Mr. Herring, and had in their wisdom," was the reply.

Aldermanic candidate James H. Ferrester said that in their wisdom the eight-man council on which ratepayers will be asked to vote.

He said many cities in Canada have eight man councils with 14 coming in this category. Some cities, in Belleville's population bracket, have an eight-man council while in Quebec some cities have a six-man council.

Mayoralty candidates were given eight minutes to address the meeting while those in the aldermanic field had to have their say in four minutes. Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager Robert Hamilton, handled the gong.

First speaker on the evening's program was Alderman Argue, who outlined the duties and responsibilities of aldermen. The function of which was to make decisions after all the facts had been gathered. The big problem was to hold the tax line in view of the increased services being demanded.

"You can't please all the people and maintain the essential programs be put off indefinitely.

He recommended publishing of the city's financial position each year which he said would limit debate.

Reviewing his own position on council during his six years terms as alderman he said he had always been interested in traffic safety and extension to rush hour traffic routes. He had also been taken a keen interest in planning, zoning and in industry.

Gerald B. Hyde, seeking election as mayor presented a nine point program which he said would present a positive approach to the future.

First of these points were taxes. Costs always rose higher than assessment and more financial assistance from the federal and provincial governments was needed to provide needed services.

More industry was needed to provide a more favorable residential assessment ratio. Industrial parks should be provided for industry in any lands annexed to the city.

He would provide leadership for the development of more parks and playgrounds and would seek to establish a committee to study the waterfront.

A new community centre was needed but much planning and financing would have to be arranged.

Major capital expenditures must be tied to ability of the taxpayers to pay.

MORE EFFICIENCY CLAIM

He favored city manager form of government which he said meant more efficiency.

He also favored more downtown parking with establishment of a full time parking authority.

Wise expenditure of monies for roads and streets should see replacement in 20 years of all roads and walks in need of repair.

Dr. James J. Wannamaker said he had three reasons for offering himself as a candidate, civic interest and civic responsibility, second was that as husband of the city's present mayor he knew how civic matters had been stimulated, and third was his belief that the medical profession should be represented on council.

He had two pledges: to give council matters the same meticulous attention he had given his business and to give strict attention to city financing on the basis of planned economy.

He said he stood for council members who had been criticized for spending $25,000 on the Pinnacle street building for use by the recreation commission as a teen age disposal.

Alderman Leslie W. Digby, seeking re-election to council said he had regularly attended meetings and at all times had endeavored to play his full part in the business being transacted by the city and had never been afraid to take a stand on any issue and had acted always in what he felt were the best interests of the city.

LOOKS TO FUTURE

Looking to the future, he said he would welcome the opportunity of assisting part in the considerable planning which would be necessary following decision on the city's annexation application.

He would have liked to report that last year's taxes would be down but promised to continue work for as low a rate as possible. He felt that the ratepayers should assume a greater share in education and welfare costs, and said that relief of these should be a charge against real estate.

If re-elected, fearless and conscientious representation was promised.

Alderman Claude D. Tice reviewed his 12 years' experience on council during which time he had served on nearly all committees and as chairman of several. His policy had been the greatest good to the greatest number, which he said was the true way of democracy.

As chairman of the Arena Commission he referred to the activities of this body and its sponsorship of senior hockey. He said tribute to the work of the Recreation Commission and said that recreation was definitely a city responsibility. The Scout for Citizens' Club was filling a great need among the older residents.

Acquiring of industry for Belleville was being hampered by lack of available sites. He promised, if elected, he would campaign for the appointment of a committee to investigate means for a new memorial arena for the city.

KEENLY INTERESTED

Met Richards, offering himself for the one year unexpired term said he felt he had the qualifications to do a satisfactory job for the city.

As a taxpayer he was keenly interested in what happens in the city, Mr. Richards said he was making no promises only to work to the best of his ability to justify the confidence of the electors.

Jack A. Ireland, "businessman at the four corners," said he was offering himself for council because he believed it was to be a year of changes in city hall.

He said a lot of people had voiced disapproval of happenings at city hall, particularly with respect to the dismissal of the city manager.

Giving his activity with welfare and community organizations, he said that if elected he would operate with the 1958 mayor and would work to give Belleville a city council.

He was bound to no political or social cliques but would do what was best for the people. His business experience would be an asset to council.

Mrs. Thos Wheeler made two points. First was taxation. "When we come down with the budget, let's come down with the taxes," she said.

NOT IN FAVOR OF SPLIT

Mrs. Wheeler was not in favor of the split in the rate with different rates for residential and business or industrial properties. "How does a manufacturer or retailer absorb the additional tax without passing it on to the consumer?" she asked.

Referring to the city's annexation application she said she felt it had seemed to be more land for industry but asked how industry could be attracted if the tax rate was in the 80's.

She referred to the International situation and to her five-year fight to no avail to get civil defence active in the city. The big worry however was not the bomb but what people were eating, "Let's have more fight, vote Wheeler, she urged.

Donald Ross, mayoralty candidate, said he had been in business in Belleville since 1941 and when elected mayor would work as hard for the city as he had for his business.

But co-operation was needed from all members of council as no one man could do the job better.

He had no chanticlement to offer for this year's council and urged people to look only to the future.

He was confident that more industry could be brought to Belleville and urged that a "roll out" to acquire the additional industrial sites be made to more people and lower taxes.

Education was costing ratepayers a big slice of their tax dollar yet was being lost because there was not enough industry to absorb graduating students.

WOULD HELP CITY

The provincial government grant for enhanced residential taxes this year but the city should not expect this to last next year. Hard work, co-operation and good judgment would help the city get back in line, he said.

He would take our hats off to men of the past who built Belleville and let's take our coats off to the future," he said.

Joseph B. Voth, local upholsterman declared that except for a two-year council term, said it was an honor to be able to offer his services. He said he elected he would carry on council business as he does on his own.

Experience in the furniture and undertaking business had helped him to fill the present, he claimed. He would do all in his power to help Belleville.

George Wishart, one-y ear council term candidate, stated the Chamber of Commerce municipal meeting part in the considerable planning which would be necessary following decision on the city's annexation application.

He would have liked to report that last year's taxes would be down but promised to continue work for as low a rate as possible. He felt that the ratepayers should assume a greater share in education and welfare costs, and said that relief of these should be a charge against real estate.

If re-elected, fearless and conscientious representation was promised.

Acquiring of industry for Belleville was being hampered by lack of available sites. He promised, if elected, he would campaign for the appointment of a committee to investigate means for a new memorial arena for the city.

KEENLY INTERESTED

Met Richards, offering himself for the one year unexpired term said he felt he had the qualifications to do a satisfactory job for the city.

As a taxpayer he was keenly interested in what happens in the city, Mr. Richards said he was making no promises only to work to the best of his ability to justify the confidence of the electors.

Jack A. Ireland, "businessman at the four corners," said he was offering himself for council because he believed it was to be a year of changes in city hall.

He said a lot of people had voiced disapproval of happenings at city hall, particularly with respect to the dismissal of the city manager.

Giving his activity with welfare and community organizations, he said that if elected he would operate with the 1958 mayor and would work to give Belleville a city council.

He was bound to no political or social cliques but would do what was best for the people. His business experience would be an asset to council.

Mrs. Thos Wheeler made two points. First was taxation. "When we come down with the budget, let's come down with the taxes," she said.

NOT IN FAVOR OF SPLIT

Mrs. Wheeler was not in favor of the split in the rate with different rates for residential and business or industrial properties. "How does a manufacturer or retailer absorb the additional tax without passing it on to the consumer?" she asked.

Referring to the city's annexation application she said she felt it had seemed to be more land for industry but asked how industry could be attracted if the tax rate was in the 80's.

She referred to the International situation and to her five-year fight to no avail to get civil defence active in the city. The big worry however was not the bomb but what people were eating, "Let's have more fight, vote Wheeler, she urged.

Donald Ross, mayoralty candidate, said he had been in business in Belleville since 1941 and when elected mayor would work as hard for the city as he had for his business.

But co-operation was needed from all members of council as no one man could do the job better.

He had no chanticlement to offer for this year's council and urged people to look only to the future.

He was confident that more industry could be brought to Belleville and urged that a "roll out" to acquire the additional industrial sites be made to more people and lower taxes.

Education was costing ratepayers a big slice of their tax dollar yet was being lost because there was not enough industry to absorb graduating students.

WOULD HELP CITY

The provincial government grant for enhanced residential taxes this year but the city should not expect this to last next year. Hard work, co-operation and good judgment would help the city get back in line, he said.

He would take our hats off to men of the past who built Belleville and let's take our coats off to the future," he said.

Joseph B. Voth, local upholsterman declared that except for a two-year council term, said it was an honor to be able to offer his services. He said he elected he would carry on council business as he does on his own.

Experience in the furniture and undertaking business had helped him to fill the present, he claimed. He would do all in his power to help Belleville.

George Wishart, one-y ea r council term candidate, stated the Chamber of Commerce municipal meeting part in the considerable planning which would be necessary following decision on the city's annexation application.

He would have liked to report that last year's taxes would be down but promised to continue work for as low a rate as possible. He felt that the ratepayers should assume a greater share in education and welfare costs, and said that relief of these should be a charge against real estate.

If re-elected, fearless and conscientious representation was promised.

IN MEMORIAM

SILLS. — In loving memory of Elsie Sills, who died November 29th, 1941, on his 17th birthday, from injuries received in a motor accident.
You soon it seemed God called him home
From work and school that bitter day
And left a sorrow — But who can say he had not fulfilled his appointed mission here.
Time rolls on but death should not come before a task has finished be-cause God's will is finished before He calls and filled with Infinite mercy. He does not work toward this end.
Mr. McNevin was brief and to the point in his reply. "If someone comes to me tomorrow with a proposition that is unjustly I will find a place to put it," he said.

W.A. Van Tassel Asks Support of Money By-Law

An appeal to Belleville ratepayers to support the money by-law in Monday's election calling for the spending of $90,000 to reconstruct the Pinnacle St. parking lot building for use by the local recreation commission was made last night by the commission chairman William A. VanTassel.

Speaking at the pre-election meeting at the Belleville collegiate sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. VanTassel said the cost of renovating the building would come only $4.12 to the average home owner. The entire cost would be paid for in one year.

Mr. VanTassel agreed that the building in its present condition was not satisfactory but an expenditure of $30,000 would provide a property asset now estimated $90,000. Architects had assured the building could be put in condition for this sum.

The completed appearance of the building would be as it was. It would provide an auditorium with seating capacity of 300 and 17 different rooms for recreation and admission activities.

"And where would you find a more central location," he asked. Most commission activities were in the evening when there would be no interference with parking on the municipally-owned parking lot.

Mr. VanTassel agreed that Belleville needed a new community centre but pointed out that in cities many such a centre has been provided, recreation commissions are still carrying on activities in other buildings.

Community centres are essentially hockey arenas, he said.

With adequate facilities there were unlimited possibilities in the recreation field in Belleville. Social and recreational activities can make a city attractive, or unattractive, if they are lacking

Pastor Moti Lall Special Preacher At St. Andrew's

An outstanding church leader from India will be a visitor to the city this weekend in the person of Pastor Moti Lall, who has recently returned from a tour of evangelistic meetings in British Guiana, Curinam and Trinidad. Pastor Lall is a graduate of Allahabad Agricultural and Christian College and Barsely Seminary. He was ordained by the Bhil presbytery in 1938 and served the Presbyterian Church in Jhansi, India, until 1954. During the past three years he has given full time to teaching in the Sundelkind Bible School and oversight of Mission Evangelistic work. He has one son, Stephen, studying theology at Knox College, Toronto, a daughter, Pushpa, on the medical staff of the Presbyterian Mission Hospital at Jokai, and another daughter studying medicine at Ludhiana Christian Medical College, while two other daughters are teaching in mission schools.

Pastor Lall is now engaged in visiting representative congregations of the three central synods of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. He will be the guest speaker morning and evening at St. Andrew's Church on Sunday and will also address a special meeting called for Monday evening to which all interested in India are invited.

It is hoped that a large congregation will be present to hear this outstanding church leader.

Problems of Agriculturists Down Under' Discussed by Prof. N.J. Thomas at Banquet

Seventy-five couples who attended the 30th annual banquet of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association last night "travelled" to New Zealand for a three-hour glimpse of their agriculturists "down under" deal with many problems pertinent to their livelihood.

Official guide was Professor Norman J. Thomas, head of the soil geography unit of Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, who recently made a flying trip to New Zealand via Hawaii and the Fiji Islands to learn how farmers in other lands cope with problems.

En route to New Zealand Professor Thomas told his audience that when his airliner landed for refueling in Hawaii, he was able to make a fast tour of one or two farms.

"If Canadian farmers think they have troubles," he said, "they ought to see the Hawaiian farms where about the only things that can grow, because of soil conditions, are sugar cane and pineapples."

Flying over New Zealand, Professor Thomas soon learned that the average annual rainfall in the country's interior can be tucked into southern Ontario ranged from 200 inches to 30 inches.

"About the only things Canadians and New Zealanders have in common," he said, "are problems and dogs. Both have Jack".

Although it is a small country, consisting of two islands, New Zealand contains 96 per cent of its gross income from agriculture. There are a few thousand acres of timber, but no minerals or metals in the ground that can be used in industry.

Professor Thomas was particularly interested in the grassland farming techniques used in the country. All farms are compelled by government law to be fenced in and to farmers of about $3,000 per mile.

CHIEF MEANS OF INCOME

Most farms contain between 100 and 300 acres.

"The farmers of New Zealand," he said, "are about the most well off in the world, because farming is the country's chief means of income.

The country is sub-tropical in the north and sub-Antarctic in the south. Over 90 per cent of New Zealand's exports come to Canada, while Canada exports only two per cent of its goods to New Zealand. The United Kingdom is the biggest (87 per cent) exporter to New Zealand. Canada sells $1.4 about $17 or $20 millions worth of goods annually and buys about $14 millions in return for lumber, wool and meat.

"Doctors and lawyers," said Professor Thomas, "are the highest paid class—as they are in most all other countries—but farmers come second. Their average weekly take-home pay is $40.

There are 40 million sheep and 3½ million milch cows on New Zealand, and, from the cows, farmers can get up to 500 pounds of butter fat per acre. Eighty-five per cent of the dairy herds are jerseys which, although they are small, are "very efficient." These cows, knowing that calfing will be over during a certain week, calve in a period of six weeks and many are sent to the slaughter houses, while others go toward maintaining reserve herds. The average New Zealand farm sells 45 to 50 cows.

In fact, a newcomer desiring to operate a dairy farm must prove to the government that his herd consists of no fewer than 40 cows of "Herring bone" and "walk in same" types of milking are the most common methods used. The former method allows one man to milk up to 90 cows per hour. Dairies and herds are inspected regularly and frequently by government field men.

Professor Thomas said New Zealanders are the most forward people in the world for spraying fertilizer. Most common means of spreading fertilizer is by aircraft.

The rabbit problem is not as severe now as it has been, thanks to various poisonous sprays. At one time each acre sheltered between 4,000 and 5,000 of the pests.

After Professor Thomas' address, presentations were made to prize winners in the British Empire Dairy Show.

Mixed white and colored cheese served came from prize winnings discs. The white was T. S. Aicken's first place disc in the mature class, while the colored was a Wisconsin new cheese.

Professor Thomas was introduced by Dr. D. M. Irvine, head of the department of dairy technology at O.A.C., chairman was J. M. Bain, chief cheese inspector for Central and Western Ontario.

Head table guests were Warden Geo. Mars, Reeve McLaren, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Gillan, Dr. Donald Irvine, Mr. Bain, W. E. Brennan, Mr. and Mrs. George Pollard, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schowerry, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Aicken, H. C. Arnold, president of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board; Murray Heath, president of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association, and Mrs. Heath; Professor Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Matthews, and Professor Owen Irvine, Kemptville.

Entertainment was provided by Misses Donna Robinson and Judy Dafoe, who played accordion and xylophone duets, and the Rawdon vocal quartet.

Police Blotter

Ontario Provincial Police and town police departments were on the alert for a car stolen yesterday in Belleville from Elliott Whitesman.

The vehicle is a 1956 Ford coach, green, bearing licence number 956-880. Police believe the auto is travelling west on Highway 2.

Elsewhere on the local scene, a Belleville woman put up a fuss when an employee arrived at her home to take her to hospital. Her husband put in a call to the police department, which supplied an officer whose appearance quickly brought the patient to get into the ambulance.

An Albert St. resident reported the theft of a dozen bottles of "pop" from the back stoop of her house.

There were a few minor accidents in the city, but no one was injured and property damage was low.

Joke Not Funny Early in Morn

Robert Hamilton, secretary-manager of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, is wondering today what kind of stuff the younger generation is made of —especially his seven-year-old son, Ross.

This morning sometime after midnight Mr. Hamilton was awakened by his son's coughing. Arising, he spooned a few drops of cough syrup into Ross, who, naturally, was somewhat bleary-eyed at that time of the morning.

As he was about to return to bed Mr. Hamilton was stopped short when Ross said: "Hey, Pop, want to hear a joke?"

"O.K.," returned the sleepy daddy.

"Did you hear about the two eggs?" quipped Ross.

"No," yawned daddy.

"Too bad," chuckled Ross.

Moral: When in the still of the night you hear a child cough, it's likely an invitation to hear a joke. This technique is more effective than the old want-a-glass-of-water routine.

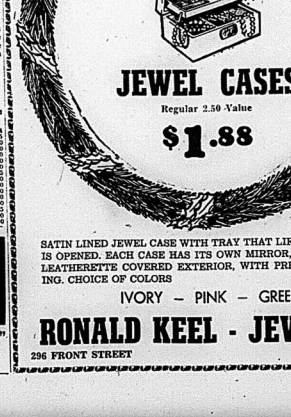
Twenty Members White Cane Club Enjoy Meeting

Twenty members of the Belleville White Cane Club held their regular monthly meeting Thursday night at the YMCA with transportation provided by the Lion's Club.

In the absence of president Clarence Morris who is taking a first aid course with the St. John Ambulance, vice president Artie Scott presided over the meeting and welcomed members, especially Mr. J. A. Wright, a new member of the club.

Christmas greetings from the Canadian Association for the Blind were read while the flower fund was collected by Mrs. Edith Burrows.

A Christmas party, sponsored by the Belleville Rotary Club, will be held at St. Andrew's Church on December 18.



The birthday song was sung for Miss Marion Dodds and for Mr. J. A. Wright whose birthdays are in November.

Mrs. Burrows thanked members for the many kindnesses shown during her bereavement in the loss of her husband.

A presentation was made to Assistant Field Secretary Robert Hall. Mr. Hall says he are leaving this district for Peterborough where Mr. Fadden will be field secretary.

Christmas carols were sung and games were played. Harvey Day, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were winners at table bowling and Mrs. E. Rivers and Mrs. C. Aikens at bagatelle.

Members of the Kinette Club served lunch with thanks expressed by Miss Dodds.

Large Crowd Hears Panel Discussion at Quinte S.S.

An estimated attendance of between 600 and 700 people, many of them high school students, turned out last night for a "Panel Discussion Night" sponsored by the Quinte Secondary Home and School Association.

Chaired by Quinte Secondary School principal, Leslie Reid; the panel, composed of three Queen's University professors and Queen's registrar, discussed many interesting and controversial subjects based on the theme of "The need of high standards in education, both now and in the future."

The panel, consisting of Miss Jean Royce, BA, registrar, H. C. Conn, OBE, MS, dean of the Faculty of Applied Science; R. O. Earl, ED, BA, SM, PhD, dean of the Faculty of Arts, and R. L. Jeffery, BA, MA, PhD, D.Sc, FRSC, head of the department of mathematics, were introduced to the audience by principal Reid. Students from BCI, Albert College, St. Michael's Academy, Madoc, Picton, Stirling, Napanee, Trenton, Quinte and Desoronto high schools as well as many parents of Belleville high school students attended and participated in the discussions.

Among the topics discussed were the need for higher admission standard, the problem of transition between high school and college, whether there emphasis should be placed on science to meet the Russian challenge, the advantage of the general rather than the specialized course and the problem of students financing their own university education.

Queen's University admission requirements were raised to a 50 per cent average three years ago because it was found high school students entering the university were not prepared to successfully complete their courses, the panel explained.

Professor Earl disclosed that in a study of students records from 1949 on, it was found that 45 per cent of those entering matriculated failed, and of these failures, the majority had not obtained an average of at least 60 per cent on grade 13 papers.

"Since the admission requirements were raised, there has been a marked decrease in first and second year failures," he said.

Professor Conn added, "unless a student obtains an average of at least 71 per cent on his grade 13 papers, his chances of success at Queen's are less than 50 per cent." He further added that a high standard is required of a student today because of advances in engineering, and other courses, the failure rate has not gone up.

Both Miss Royce and Professor Conn believe that society's many difficulties plaguing university students is the transition between high school, where the students are coached by their teachers, and university where they must work on their own.

"There is no spoon-feeding at university," Miss Royce said. "A students must learn to become independent . . . to make enormous number of choices . . . and to find his place in the varied and varied university community.

The fact that Russia is turning out more well-trained engineers and scientists than North America brought out many interesting comments from the panel.

Said Professor Conn: "A few years ago we were content to compete with Russia on the basis of quality rather than quantity. Today we have discovered Russia is producing men in the scientific field just as well, if not better, trained as our own.

"My impression of a report given by a U.S. corporation executive who visited Russia recently was that students with ability were financed by the government and went on to university — those without went to the salt mines," he said.

Professor Earl stated that though more emphasis should be placed on science in Canadian schools, it should not be at the expense of the humanities.

"History and the social sciences are the basis of our culture — they give us a fundamental education," he said.

Professor Earl deplored the tragic waste of ability resulting from students with mathematical and scientific ability leaving high school without being interested in the social sciences.

Pointing out the fact that Queen's University has added Russian to the course for those students wishing to study it, Miss Royce predicted that time is rapidly approaching when Russian will be a major subject on all college courses.

Professor Jeffery urged parents to encourage their children to study at least one foreign language (preferably French or German) during high school if they are planning on going to college, because reading languages are a must on university courses.

"Many research papers and books in the scientific field are published in Russian," Conn he explained.

In weighing the advantages of taking a "general" rather than specialized course at University, Professor Earl believe specialization should not start until after the student obtains his degree.

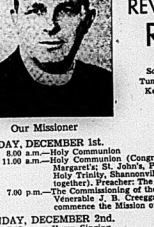
"The first four years should concentrate on understanding the fundamentals . . . the world becomes more important the world becomes more specialized," Professor Conn said.

Professor Jeffery said a student's ability is more important for university success than interest. In a technical field, also felt the ability to memorize as well as reason was important factor for a student success.

These factors included having a well-defined study schedule and good study habits.

Regarding the problem student financing of a college education, Miss Royce felt a energetic person with plenty initiative could and should finance his course.

To help the student university has offer scholarships and loans, government provides bursaries and many corporations, clubs, etc., donate scholarships. The student can supplement this by summer jobs.



The panel agreed that student today were as well, if better educated and train than those of 25 years ago.

The panel was thanked Principal Reid and presentations were presented to the cafeteria staff.

Prior to the panel discussion a short business meeting of the Quinte Home and School Association under the chairmanship of Mrs. Cliff A. Brown, was held.

Two new vice-presidents of the association were nominated. They are Preston Chase, Frankford, and Mrs. Anne McDonald, of RR. 3, Belleville.

NIXON AT THE SUMMIT?

The governments of fourteen nations which are members of NATO have been asked whether they would like the annual meeting of the NATO council of ministers, opening in Paris on December 16, to revert to the customary ministerial level, or whether they would prefer to retain it at the planned "summit" level, with Vice-President Richard Nixon of the United States taking the place of President Eisenhower.

The option they were given was to talk with Nixon now, or with Eisenhower later, perhaps next spring.

These nations have now expressed a preference for the Paris parley to remain at the "summit" level, as planned earlier, with Nixon taking Eisenhower's place.

In their decisions, the leaders of the NATO governments were almost certainly influenced by two factors - they would like an opportunity to get to know the thinking habits of the man who may become the next president of the United States and, on the other hand, they may have hesitated to deal in any manner which might be interpreted, however erroneously, as a slight to the man on whom Eisenhower's mantle may descend.

No matter how reassuring may be the statements emanating from the White House, misgivings about President Eisenhower's condition are bound to be widespread, at least for some days if not for weeks or months. Even if he makes an apparently complete recovery from the slight stroke which he has suffered, and even if no new strokes follow, it is possible that his mental condition will slowly deteriorate. If this occurs, and if Eisenhower is aware of his shortcomings, his resignation as president would not be unlikely. Even if he remains in office, President Nixon is likely to wield increased influence in matters of policy, either as the result of Eisenhower consulting him, or by reason of the fact that those in the seats of power recognize that Nixon might be called upon at almost any moment to take over the presidency.

This is clearly the sort of situation which, during the last presidential election, Adlai Stevenson and his Democrats said might occur if the Eisenhower-Nixon team was re-elected.

Stevenson made no bones of his belief that Nixon was unacceptable presidential material. It is impossible to say whether the views held by the majority of Americans, for Nixon's election as vice-president cannot be legitimately interpreted as evidence that all who voted for him for that post would also have supported him, in preference to Stevenson, had he been running for the presidency.

What kind of man is this heir apparent to the world's most influential elective position?

Nixon has been pictured as playing the politician to Eisenhower's role of statesman, as taking on the menial work of keeping the party fences mended while Eisenhower was left free to concentrate on major questions of policy.

In his being a party politician does not necessarily mean that a man is unfitted to be president. Both Roosevelt and Truman after him were not unmindful of the demands of party politics, yet both provided their nation with vigorous leadership during difficult times.

Before he became Eisenhower's running mate, Nixon's record of claims to distinction was probably his dogged persistence in bringing Alger Hiss to trial for perjury. He showed considerable courage in this performance, but there are those who consider him tarred with McCarthyism, with a kinship with the witch-hunting cult of guilt by association.

In his role as vice-president he has been a faithful aide to Eisenhower, has a good record of supporting progressive legislation. The question which is unanswered is whether this indicates that here is a man who possesses an open mind, who can recognize and correct his own mistakes, or whether it means that Nixon moves with the tide and merely backed Eisenhower's policies because he believed this the safest road to eventual power.

Well might leaders of the NATO countries be curious to see how Nixon will act, what he will say, at a conference at which he represents the "summit" of the U.S. executive. Their curiosity will be shared by many ordinary citizens in countries throughout the world, for in these days no political figure in the free world wields more influence than the president of the United States, a post which Nixon may eventually hold, either before or after the next presidential election in the U.S. in 1960.

It should not be beyond the wit of man in his highly organized industrial society to devise some simple and equitable way of removing the tyranny of the retirement fund while still keeping its benefits. Perhaps a little less reverence for the tables of the actuaries and a little more for human beings would provide the ground upon which to work towards something saner. (Kingston Whig Standard.)

SONGS OF JOY

Sing me a song of gladness,
Sing me a song of cheer;
Utter no note of sadness,
Call forth no crystal tear.
Sing me a song of laughter,
Dances and roundelay;
Sorrow may visit after,
Let us be glad today.

Sadness—the world has plenty,
Joy is what now it needs;
Heart that was gay at twenty,
Maybe this morning bleeds.
So sing me a song of gladness,
Thrill me with music bright;
Who knows? A heart in sadness
May echo its joy tonight.

Holiday in Britain

I—Fourteen to London

By DICK PAYNE

The Tower of London and London Bridge, St. Paul's and the Old Lady of Threadneedle Street, Buckingham Palace and the remembrance of Trafalgar, they are probably all worth seeing.

I wouldn't know. I had only five days in England and so concentrated on more important things, such as boiled eggs and Hardy's Wessex, the chilled wines and the warm ales, the underground and the double-decker busses, Piccadilly in the evening, and tea at noon, Dover sole and Dorset mutton chop, places new and places remembered, the quiet morning on the Thames embankment and the roaring Chelsea soccer fans in the yellowing haze of afternoon.

All this in five and one-half days—thanks to Trans Canada Airlines. Time and the TCA, in more ways than one, in the speed of its Super Constellations and in the courtesy of its public relations department in expediting us and the rearing guest on the first non-stop flight from Malton airport, Toronto, to Prestwick, Scotland. There were fourteen of us on the flight—Canadian editors, newspapermen, one Canadian newspaperwoman, a U.S. newspaperwoman, a radio commentator, a Canadian radio woman and myself. The chief public relations officer.

WRITING FOR BREAKFAST BRANDY

Why was The Ontario Intelligencer represented? Why was a representative in such a company? Well, I'll tell you. I've been down to 311 Front and spilt the secret there, but the truth of the matter is that I've been doing a little snooping and had decided that a number of the Intelligencer's readers were sufficiently loaded with lore to be interested in a holiday in England, if they could be sold on the advantages of a holiday there. So, in a sense, I'm expected to write for that champagne publication of the breakfast brandy and, I'll tell you, it's a pleasure. Because I am convinced that a lot of you would enjoy five days in Britain as much as I did. Before travelling by plane is the only way to travel if you are interested primarily in getting from one place to another, and not in the trip itself. Because, even if you don't have the TCA and the Intell both reaching for the tab, you'll find a British holiday costs less than you think.

First of all, though, let's get one thing straight. I am not going to claim that I know all about England, or even much about England. All I am going to do is to tell you what I saw and what I did and what I was told.

THE INTINERARY

First of all, let's get the itinerary straight.

Sunday, Nov. 17, 3.35 p.m.—Leave Malton Airport.

Monday, Nov. 18, 7.45 a.m. (G.M.T.) — Arrive, Prestwick, Scotland. Meet Mr. Johnson, arrive at May Fair Hotel, London. Evening, Prince of Wales Theatre.

Tuesday, Nov. 19—Visit Vickers-Armstrong Aircraft Division at Weybridge. Evening in Soho.

Wednesday, Nov. 20 — TCA luncheon at noon. Leave for Romford, Essex, with my uncle.

Thursday, Nov. 21—Romford and Ilford.

Friday, Nov. 21—Trip to Dorset and return.

Evening—Adelphi Theatre, the Strand.

Saturday, Nov. 22—Walk from Victoria Air Terminal to Chelsea football grounds. Return by bus. 8.20 p.m., Leave London airport. 10.30 a.m.—Land Montreal; 9.35 a.m., land Malton. Spend six hours in Toronto—on a Sunday, mind you—and be a little rain must fall. Arrive Belleville 11 p.m.

STORY SCHEDULE

Well, that's the itinerary. And here is the story schedule:

Saturday, Nov. 23—Leave the clouds.

Monday, Dec. 2—The $1,500,000 Model Plane.

Tuesday, Dec. 3—Britain's Answer to Jayne Mansfield.

Wednesday, Dec. 4—A Night in Soho.

Thursday, Dec. 5—Home to Hardy's Wessex.

Friday, Dec. 6—The Pensioners at Play.

Friday, Dec. 7—Of Roads, Trains, Wages and TV.

Saturday, Dec. 7.

Bangbelly in the Oven

By Jack A. White in The Telegram

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld — The Canadian gourmet would do well to visit Newfoundland if ever preparing a history of Canadian dishes. For the island can boast some of the most unusual recipes and the oldest recipes in all North America.

Did you ever, for example, sit down at a table and hear somebody say "a touch of bangbelly, you please?" And then too a bangbelly did in the oven is another flavorful dish to add to the imagination that whet the appetite.

As the basis of history, you would have to go all the way back to the days of the first pioneers. English, Irish and Scots came and they settled in remote and isolated places. The customs of the old land and so forth came all the way from England, and in the days of sailing ships the Newfoundland kitchen was the place where you would be something that would not spoil on the long voyage. Thus flour and pork became basic staples.

And even today, in the outports of Newfoundland, you will find these two same basics as the staple of many an old recipe.

The early settlers, by reason of the long route foodstuffs took, had developed a variety of varying their diet. But they used their imagination on wild fruit long before and so forth there was at hand. Thus berry picking in the fall of the year is a big event and a part of the cook's art as work in the kitchen.

And blueberries, wild raspberries, squashberries, bakeapples (the golden berry of the Newfoundland marshes) were picked by the bucketful. They still are, for Today as then, they are widely used for jamming. But they also became an indispensable part of many completely new dishes.

Bangbelly, for example, is something like a pudding, a doughy sort of dish, but what a flavor! Working on the fish flake in the old days, the keen air gave a man an appetite. And bangbelly was a dish to satisfy even the most jaded appetite. It uses wild fruit in great quantity, is a "heavy" type of dish and it's flavorful enough to send a city man back for a second helping.

Grunt is a somewhat similar dish. And it is still served today, being a particular favorite in the Bonnie Bay area.

The historian of the culinary art in Canada would discover that all these Newfoundland dishes are great energy-producers. I recall the women's editor of a St. John's daily once saying that she didn't understand why city people didn't would eat too much of any of them as they are so rich. But a man who has been in the woods all day or out on the rolling North Atlantic jigging codfish has a bigger appetite than the man ensconced behind some desk in a city. And such foods as grunt were the answer.

They not only appealed to his sense of taste but they provided him with the energy needed to keep him going on a busy day.

The outport housewife could also discover that nature is Newfoundland's biggest meat mart. Reliable figures indicate that the island is supply house for an amazing amount of meat dishes served on Newfoundland tables.

The outposts of Newfoundland are in many instances remote. In the severest months navigation is not possible by reason of ice. And since refrigeration means are not present in most, meat is a commodity which is purchased in any great quantity — from the late autumn.

Then it is that the average head of the household in the smaller Newfoundland communities looks to the woods around him for his family's meat requirements.

In December, hundreds upon hundreds of men go into the woods after a half dozen moose. Introduced to the island in this century but now a thriving species that today Newfoundland is said to offer the hunter the best percentage chance of a kill of any place in the world of getting a moose.

Moose meat is a favorite dish and the liver is highly prized. Caribou are native to the island but are not much sought, chiefly because their haunts are farth or inland.

Excellent conservation measures and wise control have made Newfoundland the home of the largest moose, an important point when it is realized the animals provide so great a share of the fresh meat available in the isolated communities during the severest months.

And of course, whoever has a heart of Newfoundland lore also heard of "flippers." Flippers are the paws of seals taken at the northern limits. Flipper pie is a delicacy indeed.

With sea ducks, geese, moose, caribou, hares and birds and flippers, the outport menu at all times would afford the spunkiest of a Paul Bunyan to greater heights.

Evolution of Santa Claus

WREATHS FOR ADVENT

Sunday, Dec. 1 — Today is the first Sunday in Advent, the beginning of the four-Sunday season leading up to Christmas. In our time this ancient season has lost most of its original character and significance.

It used to be a period of fasting and penitence in preparation for Christmas just as Lent is a preparation for Easter, but for some reason the Church has never been able to keep people very quiet or serious at this time of year. This is really too bad, for there would be deep spiritual benefits for everyone in a Christmas for which serious preparation had been made.

Here and there Christian people are realizing the neglect of Advent means real spiritual loss, and are making efforts to revive its proper observance. An interesting revival is taking place in some of the Roman Catholic churches in New York City, where a group of boy people each year make and distribute Advent wreaths. The wreath actually belongs to Advent rather than to Christmas.

An Advent wreath is a simple circle of "pine rope," tied with a purple ribbon (purple is the color which symbolizes penitence) and decorated with four small candles. The candles have a double meaning: They represent the four Sundays in Advent as well as the four Old Testament eras that historically led up to and prepared mankind for the birth of Jesus. One candle is lighted each Sunday.

Besides being the season of preparation for Christmas, Advent is also the beginning of the ecclesiastical year. The first Sunday in Advent is always the Sunday nearest (before or after) Nov. 30.

WHO IS SANTA CLAUS?

Friday, Dec. 6 — St. Nicholas, fourth-century archbishop of the Asia Minor city of Myra, is often the prototype of our modern Santa Claus, but the evolution of the dignified, saintly archbishop into the jolly little Christmas Eve chimney climber is a most interesting one.

St. Nicholas, whose day is celebrated today in the Church calendar, was a great friend of children and a holy man with a reputation for spreading gifts around among the needy. With these two facts to go on, his popularity grew and spread, and by the Middle Ages it was generally accepted that on the eve of Dec. 6 this own feast day, not Christmas Eve) he appeared in every household — to examine the children in religious subjects, to inquire about their behavior since his last visit, and to reward the virtuous and punish the guilty. He was a religious figure entirely, not the informal personality we know today.

When the Protestant Reformation came in the 16th century we almost lost him. The Protestants would have nothing to do with saints in any form, and Nicholas was in danger of going the way of all the others.

But by good fortune to put him out of theology than out of the hearts of children. Even though saints were no longer officially recognized, the children held somehow to their tradition of a gift-bearing friend who came to see them at this time of year. The only difference was that now this welcome guest was called Father Christmas instead of St. Nicholas.

The Dutch, however, preserved even the old name, and those who came to New York (New Amsterdam — was then) in the 17th century brought with them their stories of Sinterklaas.

AMERICAN CHANGES

Santa Claus, as we now know him, is an Americanized version of the Sinterklaas of those early Dutch colonists. In 1809 Washington Irving wrote his humorous history of New York, and it was here the modern Santa Claus first began to emerge.

Irving made him the patron saint of the city, but changed him (apparently out of his own imagination) from a saintly presence into a jovial, pipe-smoking Dutchman riding through the air.

Then, just a few years later, on Christmas Eve, 1822, Clement Clarke Moore, a professor at the General Seminary (Episcopal) in New York City, was driving home in his sleigh, taking Christmas gifts for his children, when an idea struck him.

Arriving home, the professor disappeared into his study and when he came out again he brought with him one of the world's best-known and most loved poems: "A Visit From St. Nicholas" — usually, and inaccurately called "The Night Before Christmas." To Washington Irving's version Moore added the sleigh and the reindeer and all the now-familiar ho-ho-ho characteristics of the jolly little man.

The finishing touches, unrevised to this day, were soon put on by Thomas Nast, the clever cartoonist whose chief claim to fame is his invention of the elephant and donkey symbols of our two major political parties. Nast added three items: the North Pole address on Santa's luggage, the keeping of record books on good and bad children, and the letters to Santa still said to pour into the North Pole Post Office in December every year.

And those are the steps by which, over the centuries, the gentle generous archbishop from Asia Minor became the rollicking little Dutchman from the North Pole.

WEDDINGS

JOHNSON—LLOYD

St. John's Anglican Church, Ottawa, was the setting amidst white chrysanthemums for the marriage of Mary Gladys Lloyd, daughter of the late Magistrate and Mrs. John Lloyd, Lloyd, of Northbrook, to Mr. John Robert Johnson, son of Mr. John Marius Johnson and the late Mrs. Johnson, Montreal, Quebec. The Reverend J. William Robinson officiated.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Lionel Victor Lloyd, the bride wore a tea-length frock of imported silk Swiss jersey in gold, with three-quarter length sleeves, portrait neckline and shirred bodice. Her headdress was a champagne satin pillbox with a matching veil. The pearl necklace she wore was a gift from Miss Kathleen Sullivan, Detroit, Michigan. Her bouquet of Talisman and Orange Delight roses accented her gown's neckline and later was worn on the bride's arm as a tea-length bracelet

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

DON'T TALK, ACT IF YOU WANT TO BE BEAUTIFUL

Good equipment, such as a magnifying glass, is important in the quest of beauty.

We've never forgotten something a beauty specialist once told us: "Remember, nobody will ever pay you for your efforts—only for the results of your efforts." She didn't mean to coin the remark herself. A former boss had said it to her. And probably his boss had said it to him. "And we'd like to add, "It's so true."

Yet how often do we remind ourselves of this obvious fact? How many women have you known who are always talking about how hard they try to be beautiful . . . to diet . . . to improve their make-up . . . to grooming . . . to keep their hair lovely . . . to shop for just the right clothes — and yet never seem to achieve the appearance of complete loveliness? They're sorry for themselves. They expect their friends to pat them on the head and tell them how wonderful it is that they're trying so hard. But nonetheless their friends just don't seem to get around to it. The fact is that it's a woman's business to look her best and, if she doesn't do the job right, she won't get "paid" in admiration, or even in respect.

Let's face it. The quest of beauty is time-consuming and like house work, it's never done. You can't give yourself the "works" one day and then forget them for a week or two. Actually, there are two secrets to being lovely—The first is do something about it instead of thinking and talking about it. If you're overweight, don't cut out all the diets you find in newspapers and magazines — and promptly "file" them in a bureau drawer. Use them. If your coiffure leaves a great deal to be desired stop saying, "I must do something about my hair" Do it. Pick yourself up and get to a hairdresser. Have him style your hair, and show you how to care for it properly. Don't look in the mirror and keep thinking, "My complexion's awful . . . I've got to start using those creams right away." Use them every night — not just when the mood strikes you.

The second secret is to have the right beauty equipment, and keep it at hand always. Buy a good magnifying mirror, good combs and brushes, the creams and lotions that do the most for you. See that the lights under which you apply make-up are bright enough. You can't do a good job at anything if you are slipshod in your ways. Incident, or lacking in proper equipment. And this goes double where beauty's concerned.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

GIRLS . . . IN A RESTAURANT LET YOUR HOST BE THE HOST

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister insists that when a "guy" invites a "doll" to dine with him in a restaurant, it is perfectly all right for her to ask the waiter for more coffee, or a glass of water, or a match or an ash-tray or whatever. But I insist that since the "guy" is her host, she should tell him and let him take over, summoning the waiter and asking him to bring whatever it is she is requesting.

My sister and I have been having a heated (really 'hot') argument about this, and now we've made a bet about it, with you to decide who wins. Does she win, or do I, Mrs. Beeckman?

"My Sister and I"

You win! When a "guy" invites a "doll" to dine with him in a restaurant, he is host, and he should like to have his guest be bright enough to know what's what in the field of courtesy. A manly man who knows his way around resents a girl's "going into business for herself" in restaurant-manners . . . taking over his prerogatives as host, high-handedly giving her orders direct to the waiter, and otherwise showing that she is completely off the beam as far as guest-courtesy is concerned. The right idea: Let your host be the host!

NEEDN'T EXPLAIN ABOUT NOT RENEWING GIFT SUBSCRIPTIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am making out my Christmas list, and because of my very limited budget this year, because of my expenses for a bad illness, I must definitely cut down my present-giving. For quite a few years I have given a magazine subscription as a Christmas present to several of my closest friends. This year I just can't afford to renew those subscriptions. Do you think I should explain to these friends that I am not continuing the subscription? If you advise that I do explain, must I also give the reason? — Reader

No, I don't think you should, or need to, explain to these friends that you are not continuing the subscriptions. The fact that you gave these subscriptions for either one year or several years should not be considered by your friends as establishing a precedent . . . any more than giving a purse one year would mean that you would give, or would be expected to give, a purse to each one for each succeeding year. Also, since these friends are close friends of yours they of course would know about your illness- circumstances and would not expect you to give them a present this Christmas. So my suggestion is that you just don't renew the subscriptions . . . and say nothing about it, no explaining.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

Question: . . . I would like a recipe for giblet gravy . either chicken or turkey. I have to admit I enjoy recipes for meats and meat dishes most of all as I have found it difficult to get many good cook books containing economical meat dishes. Would also appreciate a recipe for fresh cocoanut cake and icing.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

FRIDAY

Fish and Potato Cakes; Cauliflower with Cheese Sauce; Shredded Beets; Tossed Green Salad; Thrifty Carrot Pudding (trial batch, see Thursday), Spice Lemon Sauce; Coffee.

SUNDAY

Roast Stuffed Leg of Veal; Apple Jelly; Buttered Noodles with Parsley; Brussel Sprouts; Salad Greens with Herb French Dressing; Cocoanut Layer Cake (see Friday); Coffee.

Answer: I make a point of giving our readers economical meat dishes regularly so watch for them.

GIBLET GRAVY

Giblets and neck of fowl, 2 tablespoons chicken fat, 2 tablespoons flour, salt and pepper. Place the heart and gizzard and the neck in a saucepan and cover them with cold water. Simmer slowly covered for 2 hours, until tender, adding the liver the last 5 minutes. Remove the meat from the neck, chop it fine and with the giblets. Add meat to cooking liquid. Blend fat and flour, and cook for 3 minutes. Combine with meat and cooking liquid. Season to taste. Add boiling water if gravy is too thick.

COCONUT LAYER CAKE

(Standard 2-egg cake). Two and one-quarter cups sifted cake flour, 1-2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup butter, 2 eggs, 1 cup sugar, well beaten, 2-4 cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat well. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together 3 times. Add flour mixture, alternating with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in two greased 9-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375 deg. Fahr.) for 25 minutes.

SNOWY COCOANUT FROSTING

Two egg whites, 2 cups sugar, 2 teaspoons corn syrup, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-3 cup water, 1-2 cup shredded cocoanut. Place all ingredients except cocoanut and vanilla in top of double boiler and beat with rotary beater until well mixed. Then place over vigorously boiling water and continue to beat until frosting will stand up in peaks. This should require from seven to ten or twelve minutes. Remove from heat, add cocoanut and vanilla, and beat until thick enough to spread. Spread between layers and on top and sides of cake. Note: Of course, shredded cocoanut from a whole cocoanut is by far the best. If using raw cocoanut be sure to peel off all brown skin inside the shell. Additional cocoanut on top and sides of frosting.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mr. K. D. — We want the boys to go to separate colleges.

John D. — But we like being together!

* * *

Mr. K. D. — I am the father of four teenage children. My oldest son has just started college and the next one is planning to start next year.

Now the oldest boy happens to be a very brilliant student. He has amazed us all with the record he has made. Of course, we're very proud of him, but we're concerned about his younger brother Johnny, a just-average student who has never gotten much attention outside of the home.

My wife and I had made up our minds that Johnny should go to a different college. But both boys amazed us by protesting that they wanted to be together. We are pleased that they should be so fond of one another, but it doesn't seem fair to Johnny.

* * *

John D. — It's nice to know that your parents are so concerned about your ego, but mine is just doesn't happen to be as tender as they think. Floyd is smarter than almost everyone at school, so who should I worry about his being smarter than I? The boy's a genius, that's all — and I'm proud to be his brother.

As a matter of fact, Floyd has always been a great help in coaching me in some of my weakest subjects and I'll be glad to have him around. It happens that I can also be very useful to Floyd. When I am around, he always has a better time double-dating. He says I am the best conversation filler-iner in the world.

I know Floyd and I would really miss one another if we went to different schools.

* * *

The Council: Mr. and Mrs. K.D. may well be proud that their boys have found so satisfactory a relationship. They are probably right, however, in feeling that their boys would be better off going to separate schools.

It is not merely a matter of fairness to Johnny. Floyd also needs the opportunity to stand on his own feet. Johnny realizes Floyd's social dependence, but it is possible that he needs his younger brother in many other ways. It is also possible that Johnny bathes a little too much in the light of his impressive brother. It is fine for him to feel this pride in Floyd, but he should have the experience of getting a little glory entirely on his own.

The big advantage to young persons in going away to college is that they get the opportunity to break out of old family patterns and to test themselves in the larger world outside of the home. In the case of close brothers, like Floyd and Johnny, their going away to school together is like an attempt to learn to swim while wearing a life belt. They may go through the gestures of swimming, but they must still face the experience of plunging into the water entirely on their own.

SETS RECORD ON ROUND-TRIP FLIGHT

Captain Robert M. Sweet is congratulated by Gen. Stephen Mack after the former set a new non-stop, round trip coast to coast speed record in an RF101 Voodoo. The U.S. air force pilot made the round trip in six hours, 42 minutes, 6.7 seconds, over three hours faster than the previous record set by a navy pilot.

See Close Race As New Zealand Votes Saturday

WELLINGTON (Reuters)—New Zealand voters go to the polls Saturday to choose a new government and even the most seasoned political observers are hesitant about forecasting the outcome.

Most observers confine themselves to predictions of a close race between the National party in power for the last nine years, and the opposition Labor party. They say as many as 15 of the 80 seats at stake may be decided by 15 votes or less.

A change in six seats would be enough to oust the National party from power. The government party held 45 seats in the last Parliament and Labor had 35.

National and Labor candidates are being opposed in all 80 seats by representatives of the Social Credit League, a party which did not win a seat in the 1954 general election.

Social Credit candidates received 11 per cent of the votes cast in 1954 and took support away from the National party in rural constituencies. Most observers do not expect them to win a seat but point out that every vote cast for them will affect the fate of the two main parties.

TEST FOR HOLYOAKE

The election will be the first test for Prime Minister Keith Holyoake, a 53-year-old sheep farmer, as leader of the National party. He took over from former prime minister Sidney Holland less than three months ago.

Labor is led by Walter Nash, who at 75 is making his third attempt to become prime minister.

Man Is Burned In Flaming Hut Near Sudbury

SUDBURY (CP) — Louis Beauchamp, about 70, died in his flaming hut, 10 miles north of here Thursday shortly after a neighbor fled a fusillade of shots.

The neighbor, Conrad Genereux, said five shots were pumped at him from the vicinity of Beauchamp's hut. Genereux's house is 200 yards from the gutted Beauchamp dwelling.

When the shooting stopped, another neighbor, Romeo Michel, 19 went to Beauchamp's hut to see what the trouble was. Smoke was pouring out.

Michel said he called to the old man, but he replied: "I know there is a fire. Go away." As Michel walked away the shack burst into flames.

Later police and firemen found a .22-calibre rifle beside Beauchamp's body.

Genereux said two bullets buried themselves in his panel truck. One hit about six inches from where he was standing.

Genereux said he beat low and fast for his kitchen door of his house. Three more bullets whined close to his head. One bullet splintered the door jamb.

Hanner Township residents say Beauchamp had lived in the area for 10 years. Lately he spoke continually of some "mining equipment" that were apparently causing him worry.

V-O-T-E BOB TEMPLE FOR ALDERMAN

VOTE . . . .

JACK IRELAND FOR ALDERMAN

To The Citizens Of Belleville . . .

I ask your support in Monday's municipal election. Many people have been asking me WHY I am running for Alderman. Here is my answer.

This is a year for CHANGES in Belleville City Council. During the past year, a lot of folks have expressed to me their disapproval of the way their civic affairs have been handled — especially during that City Manager fracas a few months ago. I feel it is time some NEW public servants were elected. So, I am offering myself as candidate for Alderman.

Public service is NOT a NEW field for me. I have always been civic-minded — serving my community in a quiet way. I have been a director of the Belleville Y.M.C.A. for two years — and a director of the Chamber of Commerce for a year. I have headed up the Red Cross campaign for two years, and am just now concluding a two-year term as president of the Ontario Appliance Dealers Association. My record as a business man on Front Street in Belleville is an excellent record. In recent years, we have had three respected surveys made of our business. In both cases, the reports proved that we have built up a fine reputation for fair dealing, and honest service to our customers. I would like the opportunity to create the same record on City Council.

If elected as your representative, I will cooperate with whichever candidates YOU elect as your Mayor. And I will endeavor to promote harmony and cooperation throughout your new council. Before voting on any issue, I will ALWAYS first ask if the measure is financially sound for the City of Belleville. After all, I am a fair taxpayer in my own right, and the mill rate interests ME just as it concerns all OTHER property owners.

I will not be bound to any political, religious or social cliques, but will serve the best interests of ALL Belleville citizens.

Many of your aldermanic candidates this year are asking to be RE-elected on the record of service they have built up over the years on City Council. In some cases, I am sure they deserve your vote for re-election. In other cases, I would ask you voters to EXAMINE CLOSELY that so-called record of service. Does it really merit your vote for re-election? The answer is "No".

In as much as I am a newcomer to the Aldermanic field, I have no record of service to refer to. This fact may prompt some of you to wonder if I really have the courage of my convictions — if I will fulfill my promises of service. The answer is "Yes".

My record of service, thus far, extends to the Chamber of Commerce, the Y.M.C.A., the Red Cross, and my own business near the four corners in Belleville. I promise you, fellow citizens of Belleville, I will bring the experience of this good service to City Council — IF — on Monday, December 2nd, YOU mark an "X" opposite the name of Jack Ireland for Alderman.

Thank You.

JACK IRELAND

YOU WILL VOTE FOR BETTER CIVIC GOVERNMENT IF YOU

TO INSURE THIS CONSTRUCTIVE

9 POINT PROGRAM FOR BELLEVILLE!

Reading Time 7 Minutes and 40 Seconds.

TO THE CITIZENS OF BELLEVILLE . . . . .

As your candidate for election to the office of Mayor of the City of Belleville, I present to you my "Nine Point Program for Belleville" — a program which I believe will earn and merit your confidence in my candidacy. The nine points represent a positive approach to civic problems as I see them for the future, based on experience gained during the past 5 years.

1. TAXES

Let us begin with taxes. You and I both know that municipal property taxes are high and in spite of increased revenue from highter assessment every year our costs seem to rise at a greater rate because of a greater demand for municipal services and because of the minor inflationary era in which we live.

With the experience I have had for the past 3 years as chairman of your finance and budget committees, I have become convinced that more financial assistance for cities like ours must be forthcoming from both Federal and Provincial Governments if we are to provide our citizens with the services they are entitled to and need.

As your mayor I will use the influence of this office to emphatically impress upon our senior governments the need for more assistance and urge other cities to join us in our requests.

2. INDUSTRY

Any discussion of taxes must of necessity lead to point number 2—a proper ration between residential and industrial assessments.

Everyone agrees that Belleville requires new industry both to provide a constant source of employment and also to help equalize the taxation ratio which presently is overbalanced on the residential side. Now — How do we get new industries? As a member this year of your Industrial Commission, I have noted inquest after request for information about available sites in Belleville. Ladies and gentlemen — within the city itself, there is virtually nothing available that is suitable for industrial purposes. As your mayor, I will see that properly selected areas in the lands likely to be annexed to the city are reserved for industrial purposes. Experience has shown that industry prefers to locate on suitable sites that are available and in my judgment more industry is one of Belleville's greatest needs.

3. PARKS AND SCENIC DEVELOPMENT

The long view of planning industrial expansion leads us to the next point—Parks and Scenic Development. It has always been my opinion that Belleville is greatly in need of better civic parks and with the sites that are available in the City and its immediate surroundings, I intend to give leadership in this important field. When annexation comes, suitable areas must be set aside and reserved for green belts and parks and I propose that a special committee of council be formed to work with the Parks Commission in the choosing of sites and the planning for early development.

4. COMMUNITY CENTRE PLANNING

Planning must begin for another community necessity, to improve a situation that is adequate for the time being but will require careful consideration in the not too distant future and I have reference to point No. 4—a Community Centre Planning Committee. Belleville needs a modern community and civic centre. It is high time that with the great interest in our citizenry securing a new centre at the Fair Grounds that something should be done. As your mayor, I will call for the formation of a citizens planning committee encompassing those interested in sport, recreation, drama, music and other cultural fields to work with council on the planning and the method of financing such a building.

5. MAJOR CAPITAL EXPENDITURES

In referring to any major capital expenditures such as a community centre or a sewage disposal system brings me to Point No. 5—Major Capital Expenditures. I insist that "Ability To Pay" must be one of the prime considerations in planning and carrying out the large capital expenditures with which we will be faced over the next few years, so that none of us will be burdened beyond financial endurance because of poor planning in this regard.

6. COUNCIL-MANAGER FORM OF GOVERNMENT

You know my position on this matter. It has always been very clear. I am fully convinced that a council-manager form of government with its corollary, a reduced council, would better serve the citizens interest with greater efficiency of operation and with reductions in costs. That is my unqualified opinion! But let me make this clear — as your mayor I will accept the wishes of the people on any policy decision such as this which might be rendered from time to time.

7. DOWNTOWN PARKING

As your mayor, I intend to advocate and promote the establishment of a full fledged parking authority, whose members would be independent of council, and whose duty it would be to plan, administer and control off-street parking in the downtown area. The authority would be financially self supporting through meter revenue.

8. ROADS

(A problem obvious to us all with the gas installation now underway).

Here again, some long range planning is required. Every year we budget in excess of $100,000 for road repair and maintenance. I believe and suggest that these same monies — wisely spent — could be used towards replacement of worn out roadways and that over an agreed-upon 5 year period we would replace our streets completely. This would mean better streets with less upkeep cost.

9. SIDEWALKS

As with roads we are budgeting, annually, monies for sidewalk repair. Again some long range planning applied to this same expenditure would eventually replace all of our worn out sidewalks and I don't know how many of you regularly use our sidewalks — I know in my own case I don't get nearly enough opportunities to take my children for a walk — but what I do is amazing. I am amazed at how broken up, heaved up with tree roots and the generally deplorable condition that many of our sidewalks are in. A program of replacement is a requirement here.

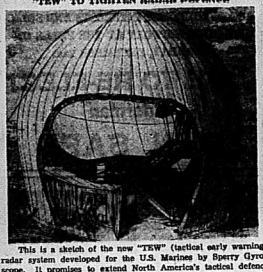
That, ladies and gentlemen is my "Nine Point Program for Belleville"

Since announcing my candidacy for the office of mayor I have been greatly heartened by the large number of citizens who have promised assistance and wished me well. Citizens of every religious belief, every political party, from every section of city have encouraged me in this campaign for which I am very grateful. I am grateful because these endorsements would seem clear proof that the people of Belleville do not feel that any of these things should be a determining factor in the choice of their municipal leaders.

While my own religious affiliation and political allegiance are well known to you all, I say to you that I am an independent candidate for the office of Mayor of the City of Belleville, that I am not a machine backed candidate and as my record on council will prove, after careful thought and investigation, I make up my own mind on every issue which comes before the council, believing then, that that opinion is in the best interests of all our citizens.

It is on that basis and on the understanding that I will carry out the "Nine Point Program" that I have offered to you, that I earnestly solicit your support on Monday next.

Thank You.



Gerald Hyde.

"TEW" TO TIGHTEN RADAR DEFENCE

This is a sketch of the new "TEW" (tactical early warning) radar system developed for the U.S. Marines by Sperry Gyroscope. It promises to extend North America's tactical defence perimiter. The new long range search-and-height-finding radar will detect either close-in or distant high-speed enemy aircraft and missiles. The radome can be heated or cooled, and rests on a self-contained "pallet." Thus it can be transported swiftly by air. It can be operated by one man. Signals picked up by the rotating antenna are passed through the radome console to a combat interceptor and control shed. There, range, azimuth and altitude are determined.

'Every Effort' Being Made to Restore Service

HALIFAX (CP) Donald Gordon, president of Canadian National (West Indies) Steamships, says "every effort" is being made to restore the Caribbean service of the strikebound CNS fleet at an early date.

He announced his determination to resume operation in a telegram sent Thursday night to the captains of the eight freighters, now tied up in Halifax harbor.

Mr. Gordon's wire was prompted by a telegram sent to him Wednesday by 72 officers, who called for an immediate restoration of service and said they are prepared to serve under Trinidad registry.

Transfer of registry from Montreal to Trinidad followed rejection by the Seafarers International Union (CLC) of a 15-per-cent wage increase offer. The SIU called the strike July 4 to back demands for a 30-per-cent increase.

Labor Minister Starr told the Commons Thursday he is willing to try again to mediate in the strike if both parties give assurances they will try to reach a satisfactory settlement.

Martin Company Releases Photo Of Test Rocket

BALTIMORE (AP) — The six-inch test satellite the United States hopes to launch next Wednesday will not be visible to the naked eye, but its five-foot-long brightly painted third stage rocket will be seen.

It should provide plenty of opportunities for visual tracking as it trails the beeping satellite across the heavens.

The third stage rocket has been the most classified of all components of the 72-foot, 11-ton Vanguard launching vehicle. But the Martin company, which built and will fire the rocket, gave a peek at it in pictures today showing the tiny, four-pound test sphere mounted on the rocket.

ONLY NOSE SHOWN

Only the nose of the rocket, which will be completely cloaked in an armor of the bigger second stage rocket, is shown in the photograph. But it reveals a white spherical shape, about 12 to 15 inches across, on which the tiny satellite is mounted.

The picture actually shows the satellite and the business end of the Vanguard assembly as it will look to Russia's Sputniks or any other celestial objects during nine-tenths of its climb to the planned orbital altitude of 300 miles.

After about 40 miles of ascent, the asbestos-plastic nose of the rocket will split and fall off, leaving the satellite exposed for the rest of its climb.

FINAL STAGE PUSH

At about 207 miles, just short of orbital altitude, a spin table, propelled by tiny jets, will start the entire third stage with its After the first complete spin, still attached satellite rotating, supporting rods will snap out of the way and leave the shiny aluminum sphere ready for its spring into space.

Six solar cells, looking like raised windows on the surface of the test satellite, will power one of its two radio transmitters which will give ground stations a telemetry fix on the satellite. The other transmitter will be powered by batteries within the sphere.

The baby sphere will announce the path ground observers should watch to get a glimpse of the also orbiting third stage rocket

Town Receives Sculptured Piece From Wales

PICTON — A piece of sculpture which is closely allied with the history of Picton has arrived here from Wales. At present it is being held in customs pending clarification of duties. The piece is a bust of General Sir Thomas Picton after whom this town was named.

In an address here last August, E. W. Davies of South Edmonton, Alberta, related that on a visit to Wales, he had seen a life size bust of Sir Thomas in the possession of Charles Watts, Leschpool, near Haverfordwest, Pembrokshire, Wales.

Prince Edward Chamber of Commerence President, Woodrow Blakely contacted Mr. Watt who denoted the bust to his town. It is yet to be decided where it will be displayed locally.

Sir Thomas Picton was one of the Duke of Wellington's generals and fell a Watterloo on June 15, 1815. He is buried in St. Paul's Cathedral in London.

The family's estates were in Wales.

CAPT. JOHN WATSON

ALDERMAN (One Year - 1958)

NO PROMISES BUT

I WILL HONESTLY AND FAITHFULLY SUPPORT WHAT I CONSIDER TO BE RIGHT, FAIR AND JUST FOR THE GOOD OF OUR CITY.

John Watson

WHO SHOULD RUN OUR CITY— A MACHINE OR YOU CITIZENS?

My topic today is the proposed Reduction of Council.

The business of administering the city of Belleville's affairs is a continuing and complex job.

During the year, there are many special committees. These special committees are formed to inquire into special business which may arise from time to time in the city's affairs and its dealings with other municipalities and groups.

The 14 elected aldermen and the mayor are responsible for the carrying out of the year's program. As you can see, they have a heavy and busy schedule. For all the effort and time which conscientious aldermen must devote to the administration of your business they receive $400 a year.

I tell you all these monotonous details because on Monday, December 2nd., you will be asked to express your opinion about a by-law calling for the reduction of council from 14 to eight aldermen and the extension of the mayor's term to two years.

This by-law was proposed by Gerald Hyde.

I have carefully weighed the pros and cons.

I am definitely not in favor of a reduction in the number of aldermen or a two-year term for mayor.

The proposal which is being presented to you will not take effect until 1959. If adopted you will be asked to vote for only four aldermen in place of seven in the future.

With a mayor and eight aldermen it will only be necessary for a minority to elect three aldermen one year and two the next to control your city council. A majority vote in council will only require five.

I think that such a proposal is dangerous. I believe there is safety in numbers.

Who do you want to run Belleville — you citizens or a machine.

Reducing council from 14 to eight aldermen will greatly increase the amount of work each alderman will be called upon to do. Council duties in a growing city, faced with the prospect of annexation with its multiplicity of problems, with a smaller council will become a burden which too few busy citizens will be able to shoulder.

Reduction in the number of aldermen will also make it more difficult for council to adequately represent all the different groups and interests within the city.

With constructive and competent leadership a council of 14 conscientious aldermen can function efficiently and administer wisely because its members will have more time to work on city business, than will eight aldermen trying to do the same job.

It is poor economy for a city to save $400 by eliminating a single and conscientious hard working councillor and at the same time overburden other aldermen with the routine and special work that must be done.

Having had the concentrated experience of working as alderman, I feel that reduction in the size of council would be most unwise and I oppose any such reduction.

You as electors are being given the opportunity on Monday next, to express your wish about reducing the size of council. I ask you to keep in mind when you cast your ballot that there is safety in numbers — and on Belleville city council the safer number is 14, not eight.

As your mayoralty candidate I am in favor of a council of fourteen conscientious aldermen and a mayor so that the broadest possible representation of all the people will be kept safe.

When you go to the polls on Monday, Dec. 2nd, I humbly ask you to vote for Don McNevin for mayor.

Co-Operation is the Keynote of Success!

Gopher Damage to Sask. Declines in Last Five Terms

By LARRY COLLINS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA (CP) — Westerners are wondering if the gopher, a dull-witted but destructive rodent that has preyed on their crops for years, is finally on his way out.

During the last five years, gopher damage to Saskatchewan crops has dwindled steadily and this year's damage is expected to be the smallest yet. There are several theories on what has caused the furry, squirrel - sized animal to lessen in number. But no one really knows why. And many suspect he will someday make a comeback.

The gopher, known technically as Citellus Richardsoni, is less than a foot long, has a grey coat, and weighs about a pound. He has buck teeth and pouch-like cheeks that will carry hundreds of kernels of grain in one trip to the burrow he calls home.

Citellus Richardsoni has been an enemy of prairie farmers for more than 80 years. They have combatted him in various ways—by drowning, clubbing, shooting, snaring, and poisoning. Whether these methods have finally been successful or whether the gopher population is dwindling for other reasons is uncertain.

Although the wane of the gopher has not been dramatic, it has been steady. As recently as 1952, reports the provincial department of agriculture, the gopher was still nibbling away at Saskatchewan grain to the tune of $7,750,000. The next year, the damage bill dropped to $3,250,000, and in 1955 it was $1,300,000, the smallest since estimates began in 1938.

Another indication of the gopher's decline is the reduction in sales of gopher poison. The Saskatchewan Association of Rural Municipalities sold $70,000 worth of cans of poison to farmers in 1945. Last year, sales were only about $700.

Saskatchewan residents, who are inclined to attribute most of their fortunes, good or bad, to the weather, also give it credit for the disappearance of the gopher. The last few springs have been wet, they point out. Some believe that numerous gophers were drowned in their underground burrows. Director R. E. McKenzie of the plant industry branch of the department of agriculture says he doubts this.

Nevertheless, there seems to be something about water to which the gopher has an aversion.

"On irrigated land you never find a gopher," says one official.

Then, too, the gopher, like other animals, is subject to periodic epidemics.

When the gopher flourished, prairie farmers aside from the orthodox methods of shooting and poisoning, would try to destroy the varmints by suffocating them with automobile exhaust fumes, chasing them with the clubs and pitchforks, setting dogs on them, and drowning them out.

The latter practice existed mainly among small boys, attracted by a bounty of from one to three cents a tail which expired after 1907. One lad would pour water into the gopher's burrow while another lurked in the background with a club. When the gopher spluttered to the surface he was bludgeoned then and roughly.

Being somewhat stupid, timid, and a slow runner, the gopher went down in hundreds before such onslaughts. But with the average gopher producing nine more of his kind every year, not much of a dent was made in the total population.

Now, for reasons unknown, the gopher is no longer a serious menace to Saskatchewan crops. But he may be only biding his time. Authorities agree he is almost plentiful in dry years, and if the dry years return the gopher may prosper again.

Warns Mr. McKenzie: "The gopher is far from wiped out."

ALDERMAN

ON MONDAY, DECEMBER 2nd

TO THE ELECTORS OF BELLEVILLE:

I ask your support for re-election as Alderman on Monday, December 2nd.

I was born in Belleville in 1909 and have been a life long resident in this city. My religion is Jewish, married, three children.

I have served as one of your aldermen during the years 1933, 1934, 1935, 1936; 1954, 1955, 1956 and 1957.

During 1955 and 1956, your council had enough confidence in me to appoint me as Chairman of Public Works, the largest spending department at City Hall. There has never been any scandal, trouble with contractors, etc. in this department under my chairmanship.

In dealing with contractors and others, every precaution was taken to protect your tax dollars. I think you will agree that in general roads, sidewalks, etc., have been kept in a good state of repair. This type of work is never finished. One can only do the best each year with the money in the budget for this department.

In 1955 I promised the taxpayers in Parkwood Heights that the faulty sidewalks built when I was not a member of council would be replaced. About half of this work has been done and I hope to get this job finished next year.

I have never dodged any issue at City Hall, and have assumed my responsibility at all times.

The taxpayers and electors who use the bus line will recall that I strongly opposed the elimination of certain services and the increase in fares, which I thought were uncalled for, and an injustice to the taxpayers who pay for the roads, and to you who use the bus line.

As a substantial taxpayer, I am naturally interested in the future of Belleville, and you can depend on me to watch your tax dollars. There are plenty of problems ahead for us all.

If you feel my experience and service in the past merit your support,

Alderman Benjamin Safe

Young Canada's Book Week

While the celebration of a special Book Week for young Canadians is less than a decade old, its philosophy — that all children, wherever they live, whatever their circumstances, should have easy access to the best in children's literature — has been steadily supported, widely acclaimed. Above, a group of children enjoy a hearty laugh during story-telling hour at the Montreal Children's Library.

Books for children have been the subject of considerable search and study in recent years. Text, illustrations, printing, quality of paper, etc., are today specially designed to appeal to various age-levels.

The number of children's libraries in Canada has grown steadily. Most cities have at least one; some larger ones have 3 or 4. To the little miss above, choosing the right book is a matter for serious reflection.

Books provide the adventure, the enchantment, the mystery, which a young mind needs to help it grow. Good reading habits stay with one throughout life.

National Film Board of Canada Photos by André Sima

Children's libraries offer many services in addition to the circulation of books: special exhibits, story-hours, films, plays and book quizzes form part of the varied programs offered.

If Johnny can't go to the library, the library will come to him. Canada's first Bookmobile was put into service in British Columbia's lonely Fraser Valley in 1931. Today there are about 40 of these mobile libraries which strive to bring the best in books within the reach of every boy and girl. Above, a group of Ottawa boys look over the books they've chosen during the weekly visit of the Bookmobile to their school.

Will Discuss Storing U.S. Nuclear Warheads in Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Stockpiling of American nuclear warheads in Canada will be discussed at the NATO "summit" meeting in Paris next month, officials said Thursday.

But they added it is unlikely that the Canadian government will reach any immediate decision on the matter.

It is known that the Canadian chiefs of staff do not regard this as an urgent matter. They are more interested in Canada first obtaining the means to deliver the nuclear warheads — that is, guided missiles.

No change in Canadian or American law would be necessary to provide for storing of United States atomic weapons in Canada —as long as they were held under American command. All that would be required would be issuance of a permit by the Canadian atomic energy control board, a Crown agency.

There is no likelihood that the U.S. will want to station intercontinental or intermediate-range ballistic missiles in Canada. The former can just as well be based in the U.S. and the latter don't have sufficient range to reach suitable targets in Russia.

It appears now that the Canadian armed forces won't acquire guided missiles for another two to three years. One reason for this delay is that military leaders want to wait until the U.S. has perfected various types of weapons before Canada earmarks big expenditures for the purchase.

Youth Charged Wrote Book on Jets, Missiles

TORONTO (CP) — Assistant Crown Attorney Nicholas D. MacRae has identified a youth charged in a tear-gas shooting as the author of an authoritative book on jet planes and guided missiles.

Andrew Billimovich, 18, was arrested Thursday after a woman was temporarily blinded by tear gas sprayed in her face on a downtown street. Charged with having a dangerous weapon and with shooting with intent to do bodily harm, he was remanded for mental examination.

Annette Douglas, 28, was treated at hospital for eye burns and released.

Mr. MacRae, shown a photograph of the author of Jets and Missiles, said in the same youth held here. Billimovich told police he is a writer and came from Trenclavia four years ago.

15-YEAR-OLD AUTHOR

The author of Jets and Missiles moved to Winnipeg from Trieste, Yugoslavia, in 1953. He wrote the book when he was 15, while a scholarship student in Minnesota. The book was published as a paper back last summer and sells for 50 cents.

It was praised by military authorities as a leading book for laymen on the subject.

The book was written in six months from a file of newspaper and magazine clippings on jets.

The company paid $1,500 for the book and 1½ cents for each copy sold above 100,000. The original printing was 125,000.

Good Crop, Steadier Mark Help to Put Canada's Hone Industry Back on Its Feet

OTTAWA (CP) — A good crop and a steadier market this year is helping put Canada's honey industry back on its feet.

A preliminary estimate by the federal agriculture department places production this year at 26,000,000 pounds—with an $8,200,000 retail value.

Dr. C. A. Jamieson, chief of the department's apiculture division says the industry is just returning to a state where beekeepers can make a reasonable profit.

In the last few years Canada has imported 2,000,000 to 2,000,000 pounds of honey a year from the United States. Up to 1940 Canada exported 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 pounds to the United Kingdom. During the Second World War, when there was a shortage of sugar, honey was in demand and Canadian beekeepers increased their production.

Then demand fell off, production did not. In 1948 Canadian production shot to a record high of 45,000,000 pounds.

Dr. Jamieson said in an interview there was a carryover that year and the market began to sag.

By 1954 the number of bee colonies in Canada had been reduced to 340,000, half the number in 1948. And in that year production reached its lowest level in 25 years—19,900,000 pounds. The following year was a better year for honey and in 1956 production rose to 24,200,000 pounds.

This year, with the same number of colonies as there were in 1954, production is expected to rise to 26,000,000 pounds. Dr. Jamieson says the increase is explained in that there was a lot of clover this year; and in major month for nectar flow to plants, weather was generally good.

Dr. Jamieson says there appears to be a stable market for honey and there is no danger of over-supply.

A bureau of statistics estimate shows beekeepers receive average 18 cents a pound for their product. The consumer pays the honey or after handling canner and retailer—for about 60 cents a pound.

Dr. Jamieson says beekeepers are being helped by fruit growers who more and more are employing the keepers to use bees to pollinate plants. Keepers are employed widely for this purpose in the Maritimes.

In Ontario, where 45 per cent of all Canada's bee colonies are located, and in Quebec this province is expected to recover a lag of several years. In Manitoba, which is second - largest honey producer, and in Alberta and Saskatchewan, which are third- and fourth-largest, respectively, production is expected to maintain the good level of recent years.

King Hussein of Jordan Walked Danger Path in Defying President Nasser

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The new outbreak of the Arab-Israeli quarrel could save the life of young King Hussein of Jordan.

Few rulers have walked a more dangerous path than Hussein since he defied Egypt's President Nasser and swung his country into the Western orbit last spring.

For Hussein, 22, the desert sands are strewn with political booby traps.

CALL TO MURDER

Nasser's controlled radio and newspapers recently unleashed a vicious campaign against the king, openly calling on Jordanian Arabs to assassinate him.

Hussein was accused of what in Arab eyes is the most treasonable crime of all — negotiating with the Israelis.

Nasser now has eased off on the attacks, but it is more than possible that Hussein fears the "big lie" may have struck home among the more fiery elements of his people, whom he holds in control through military means.

And it is sure that the monarch still has fresh memories of his pro - Western grandfather, King Abdullah, who was assassinated only six years ago.

ONE WAY OUT

In such an atmosphere of dread, it would be an obvious temptation for Hussein to renew his fight with Israel, thus not only disproving the Egyptian charges but also setting himself up as a firebrand leader in the Arab cause.

Some of the King's Arab neighbors already have promised to support him with arms if necessary against Israel. Doubtless they wanted to show Arab solidarity in view of the impending investigating visit of Dag Hammarskjold, United Nations secretary-general.

But few if any observers believe that Nasser forgives that easily, and no one believes the Middle East power play between Russia and the West is finished.

UNEASY KING

Despite United States backing, Hussein's position has been precarious since British protection was withdrawn from his country at his own request.

He has been an object of deep suspicion — and even hate — as Jordan's more powerful neighbors—Egypt and Syria—turned more and more toward Russia while Hussein personally purged pro-Communists from his government.

Lord Mancroft said the 50-year-old dockyards, which could service and repair warships up to cruiser size, will be closed down by Nov 30, 1959. The decision, he said, was in line with "the current reorganization of naval forces and their shore support throughout the world."

TIP FOR SPACEMEN

Parachutes are useless on the moon, because it has no atmosphere.

RN Dockyards At Hong Kong To Be Closed

LONDON (AP) — The government said Thursday night it is closing up the royal naval dockyards at Hong Kong off the mainland of Communist China.

Lord Mancroft, minister without portfolio who made the announcement in the House of Lords, said Britain still will maintain her naval base at Singapore in the Far East. But he said the long-term future" of the Singapore dockyards, 1,500 miles southwest of Hong Kong, is still under consideration.

Viscount Alexander, former Labor defence minister, called the announcement doleful news.

He recalled his recommendation in 1950 that Britain's position at Hong Kong be made stronger rather than weaker, and said the decision had been justified "both during and since the Korean war."

U. K. Salesmanship Underrated Says Canadian Trade Minister

COVENTRY, Eng. (CP)—The failure of British salesmanship has often been criticized in Canada but Canadian Trade Minister Gordon Churchill says that viewpoint needs changing.

"Salesmanship in Britain is so well advanced that we in Canada may soon find ourselves trying to catch up," the Canadian trade mission leader told reporters Thursday after a close look at some auto plants in this industrial area.

ROUGH RIDE

One motorcar company took part of the 3-man mission for a drive Thursday over some of the roughest auto testing roads in the district.

V. C. Wansbrough of Toronto, managing director of the Canadian Metal Mining Association, said later that the ride was also "not too much for his constitution.

"They're going to kill us with kindness," exclaimed John H. F. Turner of Montreal.

The mission was escorted later to Stratford-on-Avon to see a performance of Julius Caesar and partake of a supper.

REPORTERS ANXIOUS

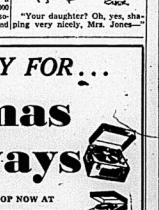
British reporters have followed asking when new Canadian orders for British goods will be placed.

Churchill said he expects to have something to announce Thursday night but so far he couldn't pin any orders down.

The mission learned with surprise that Britain's trade deficit with Canada is not as large as officially reported.

Officials of the Massey-Harris-Ferguson tractor firm said a large portion of the $150,000,000 Canadians spent last year for so-called United States tractors and parts actually flowed back to Britain.

Many of the component parts of the Massey - Harris tractors sold in Canada were assembled at Detroit but produced in the big Standard Motor Car company in Coventry.



NEGLIGENCE CHARGE

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — A charge of criminal negligence has been laid against Thivo Knekt, 56, of Nipigon, in connection with the Oct. 22 hunting death of Elmo Moldis, 54. The accused appeared in Nipigon court Thursday and was remanded in custody for preliminary hearing.

MOOSE KILL DROPS

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec department of game and fisheries announced Thursday that 1,113 moose were killed during the 10-day open season which ended Sept. 28. In 1956, with an earlier season, 1,756 moose were killed.

Surprise Party Marks Teacher's Birthday

A nice surprise party was ar- ranged for the Johnstown rural teacher, Miss Mairs Coombes, on Monday evening, by her pu- pils.

The school children asked their music teacher, Mrs. Dafoe, to go to the boarding house of Miss Coombes and ask her if she would go up with her to Johns- town school to get a book she forgot in the afternoon. Mean- while, the school children had all gathered inside the school with the lights out and the door locked. Mrs. Dafoe and Miss Coombes drove to the school, unlocked the door, and when she turned on the lights, all the children sang "Happy Birthday." The children had kept their se- cret so well that Miss Coombes just stood and stared at them she was so surprised.

The children gave individual gifts to their teacher.

Jimmie Connor entertained with a fine violin solo and the evening was then spent in folk and square dancing, with music from a record player.

A lovely birthday cake was donated by Mrs. E. Clapp and fresh apple cider by the Krava- cek family. This, with the re- freshments, helped to make the evening a most pleasant one.

Cooke Offers $75,000 Yearly In Rental for CNE Stadium

TORONTO (CP) — Jack Kent Cooke, owner of the Toronto Maple Leafs baseball team, offered Thursday to pay a $75,000 annual rental for a baseball stadium at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds.

Cooke's offer, in writing, was made to the city parks committee as the battle to decide the type of sports stadium is to be constructed here shifted to city hall.

Cooke's offer followed a verbal offer made Wednesday by the Toronto Argonaut football club. The Big Four Football Union club offered to raise $1,000,000 to finance a new football - style stadium, minus a baseball field, at the CNE.

The committee told Cooke and John Bassett, an Argonauts director, to get together and see whether they can plan a stadium which will satisfy both of them.

If the two reach a compromise it will have to be ready for the committee's first meeting in January.

Hiram McCallum, general manager of the CNE, told the committee that the city would have to subsidize a proposed stadium that included a baseball field.

A smaller stadium, suitable for football, soccer and track, and excluding baseball, would require no subsidy.

The wrangle between Maple Leafs and Argos over a new stadium rose Wednesday when a poll of the city parks committee showed seven of 10 members were in favor of a football-style field minus baseball facilities.

A necessary step in getting city council approval for expansion of the CNE grandstand is to get parks committee approval first.

Fourth-Ranking Aggies Beat By Texas 9-7

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Texas, unranked and downright unimpressed by Texas A and M's national standing, rapped the fourth-ranking Aggies 9-7 in the major match of a series of college football games marking the U.S. Thanksgiving Day holiday.

Thus Texas claimed second place in the Southwest conference and could claim the title if Rice loses to Baylor Saturday, or a share of the crown if Rice is tied. A Rice championship sends the Owls to the Cotton Bowl and Texas, in all probability, to the Sugar Bowl.

Utah did all its scoring in the third period for a 21-6 victory over Utah State with quarterback Lee Grosscup hitting eight of 13 passes for a national record with a 68.6 completion percentage (94-137).

THIRD STRAIGHT WIN

Penn, defeating Cornell 14-6 after beating Yale and Columbia, can count three in a row in one season for the first since early in 1952.

Penn, Cornell and Brown wound up in a fourth-place tie in the Ivy League.

Miami (Ohio) blew a 16-0 lead, but went 61 yards in the fourth period for the touchdown that beat Cincinnati 20-14.

Detroit Lions Take Packers In Annual Game

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Lions had gone five quarters without a touchdown when head coach George Wilson told them "turkey—in words you can't print" that it was high time they woke up and started playing football.

Whether Wilson's half - time speech brought it about or not, the Lions scored 18 points to deal Green Bay Packers an 18-6 defeat before a crowd of 54,301 rain-drenched fans. It was the only game scheduled in the National Football League.

The triumph in the annual Thanksgiving Day scrap kept the Detroit club in the scramble for the western conference championship, just a half-game behind the leading Baltimore Colts who tangle with Los Angles Rams Sunday.

Wilson admitted his half-time explosion was the loudest since he took over as head coach last summer when Buddy Parker resigned.

DEFENCE GOES WILD

The Detroit defence threw Green Bay back for a net loss of seven yards rushing in the second half, recovered two fumbles, intercepted a pass and scored a safety.

A 62-yard fumble through the mud by fullback John Henry Johnson, former Calgary Stampeders player, on the first play of the second half sent the Lions into a 16-6 advantage they never relinquished.

Detroit will be idle Sunday but the other NFL teams will be in action with Chicago Cardinals at Cleveland, Pittsburgh at Philadelphia, San Francisco at New York and Washington at Chicago for a clash with the Bears.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Grey Cup jottings:

Hap Shouldice of Ottawa, formerly on the Big Four Union officiating staff, recalls one Cup final when the referee's call on a play had players of both clubs a trifle perplexed. Shouldice left out names and teams for obvious reasons.

"One captain, a big hulking guy, approached the referee and, in rather respectful tones, asked for clarification of the ruling," Shouldice recalls. "He stressed he wasn't squawking, he just wanted to know so that when he went to the bench he wouldn't appear too much of a knothead to his coach, who would want precise ruling on the play.

"The big guy was listening intently when the captain of the other club, a much smaller fellow, approached the referee with the same query. Then the fun started.

"The guy turned around, prodded the little fellow in the chest and roared:

"Go away, punk. I'm talking to the organ grinder. He'll talk to the monkey when I'm finished."

Then, there's the story of the American import who ended at the bottom of a pileup and suddenly let out a fearful yell. "What kind of a league is this?" he shouted to an official nearby and showed him an arm, teeth marks most obvious.

LICKED HIS CHOPS

"It was easy to spot the biter," Shouldice says. "He was standing around listening and with an angelic expression on his face. He was also licking his chops."

Just about everybody in this slightly mad football city is agreed that Saturday's game will be a tough, bruising affair between two sock-'em, rock-'em clubs. It is shaping up as one of the most bitterly-fought Canadian champion games in years.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats were the lowest scorers in the 14-game Big Four schedule with 220 and had the fewest scored against them, 189. Winnipeg allowed Edmonton Eskimos only 14 points in their three-game Western Conference finals.

They'll go into the game all square. In 1935, the westerners beat Hamilton 18-12 at Hamilton for the West's first Grey Cup victory and in 1952 Tiger-Cats edged the Bombers 12-6.

That gives them 24 points each in two games, a pretty good indication that when these two teams get together the heads knocking can be fierce.

DUNLOPS

"Whitby Dunlops are setting the Eastern League on fire . . . Dunlops smother Cornwall under 10-3 score . . . Whitby turns back Pembroke . . . Dunlops hand Ottawa Juniors shellacking."

This is the kind of sports news that emanates from the Toronto blats and the supposedly erudite Canadian Press sportswriters who go overboard every time the Dunlops defeat a team down this way, especially.

The Dunlops are a good club. Why shouldn't they be. They have the pick, or supposed pick, of the cream of Ontario senior "A" players. The Dunnies are a good club we repeat. But they're not as good as they should be.

There is one club that whipped them to a standstill, called them off their feet and sent them home with a 4-1 shellacking decided to their hides. And they had no alibis. The Dunlops were at full strength with Jack McKenzie known in for good measure. The McFarlands, who are very bit as good as the current crop of Canadian representatives and in the opinion of a lot of fans down this way, better, set the Blairmen back on their collective haunches twice thus far, but all it was worth was a paragraph in the metropolitan sheets and possibly a scoreline and a mention in the senior round-up of the C.P.

* * *

The McFarlands are the best club in the Eastern Senior "A" division to date. Their record proves it. They stood still the other day while Whitby defeated the travel weary Kingston club and leap-frogged into first place for the first time this season and are leading our side by one point. Their record shows nine wins, three defeats and one tie for 19 points. Two of their defeats came at the hands of the McFarlands. And there will be more.

Whitby Dunlops are the national amateur champions of Canada. They have been bolstered to meet the threat of European teams in the forthcoming world hockey tournament at Oslo. They should be good. In fact they have to be good.

But it is getting a little tiresome to see a club lauded to the skies in the metropolitan prints every time they achieve something they are supposed to do. The real story comes when an "upstart" team from the sticks hands the national champions a lesson in the game in which they are supposed to be masters.

The Dunlops defeated the touring Russians 7-2 in the first game of the Reds' tour after being nearly blasted off the ice in a two-goal explosion in the opening seconds of the game. They came back to whip the foemen with almost ridiculous ease which sent the metropolitan "experts" home with scarlet faces and hangdog looks.

Since then the Muscovites drew with the Windsor Bulldogs 5-5 and dropped a 4-2 decision to the strong Kitchener-Dutchmen squad. The score of last night's game with the Sudbury Wolves was not known at this writing. Assuming the Wolves won by a close score, tied or were defeated, this gives the inference that the Dunlops are masters of all they survey, by reason of their overwhelming victory.

* * *

We do not agree with the Russians in several things. But this fact does not make us imperial monarchs and they the stupid peasantry. These Russians, especially the hockey team now in Canada, are anything but stupid. They came over here to learn things and they are doubling orders of steak and triple dishes of bacon and eggs. The last Canadian team to meet them, we believe it is the Ottawa-Hull Canadiens juniors, will fare a much improved club over that which crossed opening raplers with the Dunlops on November 22.

The Reds will take home many lessons as a result of their "test matches" with Canadian clubs. And Canadians should not take as a criterion their form during their visit here and bet their shirts the Dunnies will sweep everything before them in the world tournament.

It has been hinted by the Russian management that the Moscow Selects now playing in Canada will not in its entirety be the club to represent Russia in world hockey. We will bet that, hook, line, sinker and boat. We should not be lulled into a sense of false security because our teams have beaten these tourists. As we have stated before, and may be all wrong, but we believe not a few of Russia's best hockey players are resting in the shadow of the Kremlin awaiting brother Sergie's return from Canada with the know-how of Canadian hockey as it is played under international rules.

Decision Reached After Long Closed Session But Results Did Not Surprise Observers

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The Grey Cup may celebrate its 50th birthday next year under the sole jurisdiction of professional football operators. It has been heralded for two years.

While Winnipeg and Hamilton players got ready for the big game of this season the Canadian Football Council quietly made plans to divorce itself from the Canadian Rugby Union. The CRU, steeped in football tradition for more than 70 years and possessor of the trophy since 1920, could possibly step out of the picture before the 1958 final, tentatively scheduled for Vancouver.

The CFC, an amalgamation of the eastern Big Four and Western Interprovincial Football Union, Thursday made its first united move to ease the CRU out of the future and run its own show. The sudden-death final is the greatest box-office attraction in the country, this year reaching an all-time - high $213,000 in gross receipts and other revenue boosting gross income to $304,600.

NO SURPRISE

First news of the move was made public hours after the closed 114-hour CFC session. It didn't surprise many observers who had expected such a manoeuvre since the CFC was formed two years ago.

"That was the reason the CFC came into being," one said.

The nine pro clubs—four from the East and five from the West unanimously agreed that they don't want CRU or any other organization saying how their business shall be run, including organization and promotion of the East-West final. Delegates will take the matter up with the executive of their clubs and a final decision is expected at the CFC's annual meeting in Winnipeg Jan. 17.

Then the CFC representatives met the revelry went on, gaining momentum with the arrival of western supporters and the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, western champions and underdogs in the betting when they meet Hamilton Tiger-Cats before an estimated 27,400 persons at Varsity Stadium (1 p.m. EST) Saturday.

Bombers arrived aboard a special plane Thursday afternoon amid reports that the professional gamblers weren't particularly enthused about their chances of winning the West's fourth straight title. The latest odds, changing frequently, favor Ticats 2-to-1 or by seven points on the point spread.

Tiger-Cats, who beat Bombers 12-6 in the clubs' last meeting in the Canadian championship game in 1953, are expected in Toronto early tonight. Bombers have set up headquarters in a suburban motel and Ticats will spend tonight at a hideaway, known only to club officials.

TALE OF INJURIES

Bombers, who surprised the football world by defeating Edmonton Eskimos in a tough best-of-three WIFU final, appeared healthy to a small gathering at the airport but coach Bud Grant had a sad tale to tell.

Four of his top men had assorted injuries — Quarterback Charlie Shepherd, bad knee and charley horse; halfback Leo Lewis, rib separations; linebacker Pete Mangum, bad ankle, and halfback Dennis Mendyk, broken wrist.

Coach Jim Trimble's Tiger-Cats, in comparison, were reported in top shape, the healthiest they've been all year. Guard Dave Suminski has a broken hand but, like many of the Winnipeg injured, will play Saturday.

PREDICT HIGH SCORE

Both coaches predicted a high-scoring game. "After all," said Grant, "they'll have some surprises for us and we'll come up with some of our own." Trimble promised that his team, which didn't show much offensive power until the Big Four final, would open up and give the East its first title since these two clubs met four years ago.

With the big game hours away, there was some talk amongst officials about the future of the trophy itself as the prize for Canadian football supremacy.

There was one suggestion that the pros could put up a new trophy and still make the East-West show the attraction that it has been since 1948 when cowboys and cowgirls came out of the West to make this a big spectacle. There also was the suggestion that, if the CFC does become official, the Grey Cup will remain the prize for the winning club.

The idea behind the secession movement is that the nine pro clubs will have full control of their big-time football along the lines of the National Football League in the U.S. The Big Four and WIFU have set up CFC rules in the CRU but they must depend on at least one of the major leagues affiliated with the latter to get the necessary two-thirds majority on major issues, such as a change in the constitution.

CRU WOULD CONTINUE

CRU officials, queried on the development, declared the union would continue to operate regardless of the CFC's final decision.

One western club official indicated that the whole matter is related to the long-discussed interlocking East - West schedule. "This is bound to come and has come to save football," he said.

"Club's are in financial distress now. We're all losing money because of the high cost of operating. Television might make the difference between profit and loss to all clubs in the Big Four."

"An East - West interlocking schedule with revenue from national television and increased gate receipts would be our saviour."

Big Four clubs receive $80,000 each year from television revenue. The league's three-year TV contract ends after the 1958 season and the talk now is that an interlocking schedule will be come a reality in 1959 with a national sponsor or sponsors.

Six-Man Staff Will Handle Grey Cup Game

TORONTO (CP) — A six-man officiating staff, split evenly between the East and West and with Paul Dojack of Regina as referee, will handle the Grey Cup game in Hamilton, Jim Vowney, president of the Canadian Rugby Union, announced Thursday.

As in the last several Grey Cup finals, three umpires, one more than is regularly used in Big Four or Western games, will handle the classic.

Johnny Munro of Toronto will be umpire No. 1, Bill Nairn of Winnipeg Umpire No. 2 and Norm Maxwell of Hamilton umpire No. 3.

Tommy Daley of Ottawa will be judge of play and Taylor Peterson of Regina head linesman.

Home-Run Ball Used to Pay For Home

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The baseball that Henry Aaron walloped over the fence to give Milwaukee Braves the National League pennant now is a down payment on a home. Robert Davis of Milwaukee caught the ball.

Elliot Shafton, secretary and treasurer of Shafton Realty Company, revealed Thursday that the firm had accepted the ball from Davis in lieu of a $1,000 down payment on a home. He added that the deal is acceptable to both parties, although it had not yet been completed.

Shafton said the realty company plans to present the ball at appropriate ceremonies. The firm may give it to Aaron, or perhaps to Aaron and the Braves for permanent display at the stadium.

Montreal Canadiens Back At Top Of National Hockey League

Boom-Boom Geoffrion Beats Hawks 2-0; Rangers Lose While Leafs and Wings Tie

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Bernie (Boom -Boom) Geoffrion, Montreal Canadiens' pay-off man; has put their back at the top of the National Hockey League.

The wide - shouldered winger scored Canadiens' only goals Thursday night as they defeated Chicago Black Hawks 2-0 to take first place by one point from New York Rangers, who lost 1-0 to Boston Bruins.

In the third game on the unusually heavy Thursday night schedule, Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs, fifth and sixth respectively, maintained their positions while playing to a 3-3 tie.

Geoffrion beat hard - pressed Glenn Hall, the Chicago netminder, in the second and third periods. Hall stopped 41 shots while Jacques Plante, earning his second shutout, was called on only 25 times.

HAS A KNACK

Geoffrion, usually third or fourth in the Canadiens' high-scoring parade, though he led the league in 1954-55, has a knack of coming through with the big ones.

In the second period, in which Hall stopped 24 shots, he swept in, forced Hall to move and then flipped the puck past him at 17:40. In the third Montreal fell back to protect Plante's shutout but with Nick Mickoski serving a penalty they iced their power play and once again Geoffrion was the trigger-man.

Bruins' home-ice victory put them two points behind New York and moved them four points ahead of the fourth-place Hawks. The resurgent Bruins have lost only once in their last eight games, while New York has now dropped it's last three.

Though Boston had a slight edge on play throughout the game, Ranger goalie Marcel Paille kept his record clean until the 13:40 mark of the third period when Leo Labine took veteran defenceman Allan Stanley's rink-wide pass and sped down the ice with Don McKenney. McKenney took the puck as Labine poked it between two Rangers and beat Paille with a backhander.

In all Paille stopped 38 shots while Don Simmons, gaining his second shutout, dealt with 27.

Dickie Duff was the Maple Leafs' hero in their draw with Detroit. Duff scored on a last-ditch effort with goalie Ed Chadwick out in favor of a sixth attacker to erase Wings' 3-2 lead.

Detroit took the lead three minutes—twice on goals by Billy Dea and once on Earl Reibel's marker—but lost it to goals by Brian Cullen and rookie Bob Baun. It was Baun's first NHL goal.

Reibel's goal, with four minutes left in the game, was notable because it provided Gord Howe with the 409th assist of his 11-year NHL career, to break the record of 408 he held with Elmer Lach, now retired.

Terry Sawchuk came up with his best game on Detroit ice this season to stop 43 Toronto shots. At the other end, Ed Chadwick turned 38 aside in a wide-open game which was penalty-free in the final two periods.

Saturday Canadiens are host to Chicago in a return match; Boston is at Toronto and Detroit at New York. Sunday Canadiens are at Boston, Toronto is at Chicago and Rangers are in Detroit.

Russians Victors

Win First Game of Canadian Tour Against Sudbury 7-4

SUDBURY (CP) — Moscow Selects apparently improving each time out, Thursday night won the first game of their Canadian tour.

It was a convincing 7-4 triumph over Sudbury Wolves, all the more impressive because the weak Wolves, in last place in the Ontario Hockey Association-Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League, had been reinforced by five stars from first-place Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds.

The rafter's of the Sudbury Arena rang with the praise of a capacity crowd of 6,600 for the dazzling speed, stickhandling and passing of the Russians, who had played few games as a team because of their arrival in Canada.

LOST OPENER

Their first game in this country was a 7-2 loss to Whitby Dunlops, who will be meeting some of them in the world champion-ships at Oslo next February. The second was a 5-3 win over Windsor Bulldogs and the third was a 4-3 loss to Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

Though obviously pleased with their win, Selects confined their celebrations to the dressing room after solemnly shaking hands with their opponents.

Told after the game that Wolves had been augmented by the Soo players, Col. Pavel Konstantinov, team manager, said through an interpreter that the team should have been called "the Northern Ontario Hockey Association all-stars."

SCORE TWO EACH

Selects were led by Alex Guryshev and Anatly Ochkov with two goals each, Vladimir Yelizarov, who is the renowned observer with his physical and playing resemblance to Max Bentley, former National Hockey League star with Chicago Black Hawks and Toronto Maple Leafs, scored once as did Yuri Kopylov and Yury Pantykov.

John Bailey, a hard-shooting loan from Greyhounds, scored three of Sudbury's goals and regular Jimmy Logan added the fourth.

Wolves got away to 1-0 and 2-1 leads, but Selects went ahead 4-2 in the second and scored three unanswered goals in the third before Wolves added their final pair.

TAKE MOST PENALTIES

For the first time in the tour Selects collected more penalties than their opposition, four to Wolves' three. However, Soo's John Lumley was given the tour's first major penalty, for cross-checking, and it resulted in Ochkov's two third-period goals.

The visitors threw 36 shots at Sudbury netminder John Albani, who has not been beaten as many times this season during regular games. Wolves managed only 27 shots on the Russian net.

Tonight Selects are in North Bay against Trappers in a game arranged Wednesday night. Trappers have been having only middling success this year and the game could produce Moscow's second win.

Hershey Bears Hold 16-Point Lead in Loop

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Frankie Mathers is probably the most relaxed coach in professional hockey today.

The 33-year - old defencemen coach has his Hershey Bears atop the American Hockey League standings with a 16-point lead over Providence, Buffalo and Cleveland, all tied for second place.

The Bears just can't help winning. It seems. They're pulling 'em out in regulation time, in overtime, at home, on the road and with some excellent comebacks, too.

Thursday night, Hershey twice made up two-goal deficits and went on to defeat Providence 6-5 in overtime. Rookie Len Haley's goal at 2:06 of the extra session gave the Bears their 17th victory in 22 games.

BISON WHIP NEIGHBORS

In the other game, Buffalo Bisons whipped Rochester 6-3 to move into a share of second place.

Haley's winning goal was his third of the game. Obie O'Brien, Les Cutt and Willie Marshall were the other Hershey marksmen. The Providence tallies went to Paul Larivee, with two, Ed Shack, Zellio Toppazzini and Bill Sweeney.

Sam Pollio paced Buffalo with a goal and three assists with Bob Haszard, Lee Lilley, Larry Wilson and Wally Hergesheimer getting the other tallies. Ron Ernest, Ken Girrard and Skippy Burchell counted for Rochester.

TO HONOR BOZAD

NEW YORK (AP)—Sam Snead will receive the Gold Tee award of the Metropolitan Golf Writers' Association at a dinner here Jan. 28. The award is given annually to the person adjudged by the writers as having done the most for golf during the last year.

The Pembroke scorers were Frank Chiarelli and Jim Maxwell.

3-Way Battle For Top Honors In Junior 'A'

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A three-way struggle has developed for top honors in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Hamilton Tiger Cubs Thursday night joined St. Catharines Teepees and Toronto Marlboros in first place, defeating Toronto St. Michael's 3-1.

Peterborough Petes, defeated 4-1 by Ottawa-Hull Canadiens, are in fourth place.

Only an outstanding display by St. Michael's goaltender Cesar Malnago stopped Hamilton running riot as they outshot the Toronto squad 39-22.

Ed Cooke, with two goals, and Stu McNeil were the Hamilton marksmen. Jack Martin scored for St. Michael's.

Canadiens' victory over Peterborough was marred when Bob Buchar got a game misconduct in the second period after two misconducts and a major for a fight with Petes' Ray Lamb.

Bob Rozman also two for Ottawa, Claude Richard and John Annable scoring singles. Jerry Brimon was Petes' scorer.

Tonight Ottawa is at Barrie and Peterborough at Guelph.

AT THE McCARTHY — Richard Burton is comforted by Joan Collins as they drift aimlessly in a rubber life raft somewhere in the Indian Ocean. Basil Sydney and Cy Grant are the other members of the group adrift in "Sea Wife", a Twentieth Century-Fox production now on the screen of the Odeon McCarthy Theatre, in CinemaScope and De Luxe color. The film was produced by Andre Hakim and directed by Bob McNaught from the best selling novel, "Sea Wyf and Biscuit", by J. M. Scott.

Warren Spahn Leading Hurler In Baseball

NEW YORK (AP) — Warren Spahn, ace of the world champion Milwaukee Braves and biggest winner in the major leagues last season, was voted the Cy Young Memorial Award Thursday as the leading pitcher in baseball.

The brilliant southpaw, whose 21 victories were a major factor in Milwaukee's first National League pennant, received all but one of the votes of the 16-man panel of baseball writers who participated in the annual poll. The other vote went to Dick Donovan, Chicago White Sox right-hander.

Spahn, 37 next April, thus becomes the second National League pitcher to win the award. Brooklyn's last year Don Newcombe gained the honor in 1956, polling 10 of 16 votes. Spahn had one vote in 1956.

By topping 20 victories this season, Spahn joined ball-of-fame ers Lefty Grove and Eddie Plank, two former American Leaguers, as the only lefthanders to win 20 or more games in eight seasons or more.

The vote was limited to performance during the regular season without regard to world series play. This undoubtedly accounts for the failure of Lew Burdette to receive any recognition.

Burdette, pitching hero of the world series, won three games in as many starts. Spahn, the only holdover from the 1948 Braves' series team, won one and lost one.

Expect Good TV Oscar Show With Film Firms Paying Shot

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—All signs point to the best of the Academy Award telecasts next March 26.

First and most important, the film industry has kicked in to pick up the tab on the telecast. So the proceedings won't be interrupted by a lengthy display of fleets of automobiles.

Also, the money has taken action to pare down the number of Oscars. Many observers have advocated that the minor ones be presented before the show goes on the air.

Since that can't be managed because of protests from the various crafts and arts, the academy is doing the next best thing. Three awards have already been eliminated.

MINIMIZED IMPORTANCE

The inevitable protests have been registered. The writers are sore because one of their three awards has been knocked out. Now there were more Oscars to pass around under the old system. But many writers realized ars.

that three Oscars minimized the importance of the writing award. Many believe there should be only one award for writing.

Alfred Hitchcock's outspoken comment about Kim Novak, whom he is directing in Vertigo: "Isn't it strange that she should have all this stardom before she is ready for it? But I've worked with such girls before. Joan Fontaine, for example."

Kim should be so lucky. Hitch directed Joan to an Oscar in Suspicion. . . .

Wonder why Marlon Brando is making appearances to plug Sayonara? Because he gets 10 cents of every dollar that it draws . . . Even her fellow players were surprised at the poor photographing of Rita Hayworth in Pal Joey. They claim she looks terrific in the flesh.

Mrs. William Goetz need shed no tears over being outclassed by her father, the late Louis B. Mayer. Gay husband is one of the richest men in Hollywood and will be even richer with Sayonara.

Caught in TV Squeeze Play Sally Will Change Her Style

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Joan Caulfield has had a slight misfortune. Her weekly TV program, Sally, is caught in a squeeze play between a gun-shy sponsor and a medium with unhappy results to her audience rating.

Despite Bart Maverick firing from the hip to the right of her on ABC-TV and Jack Benny shooting to the left of her on CBS-TV, Sally is charging straight ahead on NBC-TV Sunday evenings at 7:30 p.m.

Sally is going to change her way of living. Personally, I never did see anything wrong with her as she has been.

EUROPE TRIP OFF

For several weeks the theme of Sally has involved Miss Caulfield as the fetching, fun-loving companion of a matron traveling in Europe. Since Trendex ratings report more people are watching Maverick and Benny, Sally will get a new look.

"Now," Miss Caulfield says, "we're breaking up the comedy. Apparently we've been too gentle. We were in a sort of limbo without a home base with which viewers could identify themselves."

Sally is coming home to America and I'm going to work in a department store. No more stunning gowns for me. I'll be wearing the same dress twice, like every working girl. And then, too, there will be a steady romantic interest. There's a young man working in the store who. . . ."

CBS-TV launches an interesting new series on Sunday (at 8 p.m.) with Conquest, an hour program devoted to noted scientists and their achievements. The first program will include discussions of the implications of Russia's earth satellites and a film report of Mt. David Simmons record-breaking 29-mile balloon ascent.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A close tie, or guest quickly comes forth with just the right data that solves a current problem. Utilize immediately, and P. M. take care you do not fall into any sort of depressive state. Smile and the world smiles with you.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get in touch with comrades and interject your views on things practical and see how fast they support you. This P. M. be sure that a secretive bit of angling doesn't pop and cause you embarrassment of a sort.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be certain to keep the promises you have made with regard to constructive, material, yearly resolutions, and reap the benefits therefrom. A higher up has your interest at heart and is testing you. P. M. soothe that dear friend.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) A fine day to step out of dull doldrum existence and into the fascinating field of success and activity elsewhere. Get ideas from your paper, TV, radio. Topiaht, take care you do not offend a higher up, lose face.

If your child is born today . . . The child born today is lucky in that early in life he or she has the ability to discern between right and wrong and will use the right words at the right time, do the right thing. The intuition and spirit are highly developed, plus the intellect. See that your progeny makes his or her mark as early as possible in public life, for the later years will be slower and much rest will be required.

LUCKY BREAK

ELGIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—A 750-pound practice bomb from a Supersabre jet fell between two houses at nearby Ocean City Wednesday. It buried itself in the ground and did not explode. An ordnance disposal crew dug for several hours before reaching the bomb 25 feet below the surface. It was defused. Families in the area were evacuated before the digging began.

TRENTON NEWS

Pipeline Crews Work All Night, Winning Praise

TRENTON — With Front Street torn up and half of Dundas Street West, hampering many of the businesses in town, the crews laying the gas pipeline worked all through the night last night to complete their work up to the Gilbert Hotel.

Their quick work was highly praised by Councillor James MacDonald, chairman of the town's traffic committee, this morning. He said the company will be the guest of honor one day so they can be hooked up later and this will cause no hardship for merchants and will have little effect on traffic.

Late yesterday afternoon the four-foot ditch on Front Street was completed and the men had begun digging on Dundas Street. This blocked half of these main streets and caused considerable tie-up when workers were returning home around 4.30 and 5 p.m.

However, the company foresaw and told Councillor MacDonald neither he nor his company wanted to cause poor relations with merchants and townfolk and he would have crews working all night to have the pipelaying on both streets finished by this morning. And this was done.

HAD CAUSED PROTESTS

The blocking of the streets had brought considerable protest from the merchants who were worried about their Christmas trade.

Whether the company will go any further on Dundas Street with their digging is not known but Councillor MacDonald said he would be done as quickly as this last section it would not hurt anyone very much.

On Front Street the digging machine had snapped off several of the sewer lines that run from the buildings to the main line and had blocked the ditches with water. But despite this handicap the workers have repaired all the lines, laid the pipe and now have the trenches filled in so the streets were open for traffic.

As one merchant said this morning: "I feel a lot better this morning. I admit they certainly had me worried yesterday. But after all, we spend a lot of money this time of the year on advertising, merchandise and displays and we need a good turnover to meet our bills and show a little profit."

The pipe line is being laid by the Sartori Construction Company.

Two Students Get Bursaries

TRENTON (Special) — The highlight of Wednesday night's meeting of the Queen Elizabeth Home and School Association was the presentation of $25. bursaries to two of the pupils who had graduated from Grade Six last year, and who had the highest marks and the best record of general all-round excellence. They were Lesley and Wayne Lewis. Graduation pins were also presented to the other graduates.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. D. Carter.

It was decided that the sum of $5 per week, with a limit of $100 for the whole winter season, should be spent to hire a time at the Community Centre, so that both the boys and girls of Queen Elizabeth School could enjoy the benefits of skating and ice hockey at the large rink there.

Mr. R. McCrea, who had served for five years as janitor of the school until leaving for service at Marmora Street Senior School was presented, by Mr. Bedford, principal, with a cheque in appreciation of his services. Mr. Bedford said that the Home and School Association was fortunate in having had Mr. McDonald as caretaker for the past five years.

Mr. Bedford then presented the bursaries to the two head pupils, and also the graduation pins which are presented annually at the Queen Elizabeth School.

He said that he hoped that the young people who received the pins would continue the same high standard of work that they had started at Queen Elizabeth School. Progress could only be made by hard work, he added.

Those graduating from the sixth grade were Susan Gayley, Sharon Browne, Joan Frauts, Suzanne Meeln, Claudia Wallace, Jacqueline Spence, Sheila Chouinard, Pamela Smith, Linda Foote, Klaus Kline, Thompson, Kristine Elzinga, Maria Vanderlorn, Gail McPherson, Joanne Wight, Rose Marie Todd, Marsha Benson, Sharon LaFrance, Gail Hyatt, Judy Hansen, Shirley Goodwin, Marilyn Menzie, Verna Menzie, Wayne Lewis, Hubert Strong, Brian Weeb, Peter Hutchinson, Ian Ferguson, Ronald Howard, Ronald Wood, Doug Hofstra, Gary Down, Carl Anderson, Wesley Donaldson, Bob Brinklow, Wilfred Weich, Gary Frail and Ian Wood.

During the earlier part of the meeting, the room count was won by Mrs. Cassidy's grade one. Later, lunch was served by Mrs. Cassidy, assisted by the ladies of the committee.

NAMED RURAL DEAN

Rev. Kenneth F. Blashford, rector of Trenton's St. George's Anglican Church, has been named Rural Dean of Hastings. The announcement was made by Rt. Rev. Kenneth Evans, Bishop of Ontario. There are 24 parishes or stations in the Hastings area which stretches from Trenton as far north as Bancroft.

TAKES NEW POST

C. B. Campbell announced he will be accepting a post on the engineering staff of the Ottawa Hydro Electric Commission about the end of January. Mr. Campbell is the former manager of the Trenton Public Utilities Commission and resigned from his post last week. Mr. Campbell and his wife came to Trenton four years ago. They had built a new home only recently in Champlain Heights.

PRAISES CHAMBER

R. A. Harris, president of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, told the Trenton members of the work the prov incial group is doing and praised the local Chamber for the many fine projects they have on hand and the many they have completed.

He spoke during a dinner in the Gilbert Hotel, held in his honor by the members of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce.

Conservatives Retain Seat, Vote Slashed

LEICESTER, Eng. (Reuters)—The Conservative party today retained its seat in the Leicester South-East byelection but the majority was slashed by 5,930 votes.

The result was:

W. John Peel, Conservative, 18,023 votes; Miss Betty Boothroyd, Labor, 11,541.

The Conservative majority was 6,482.

In the 1955 general election the Conservative candidate, Captain Charles Waterhouse, leader of the Suez rebels in the House of Commons, was returned with a 11,541-vote majority.

The traditionally Conservative seat was made vacant with the retirement of Waterhouse.

Observers interpreted the result as an indication that the slump in government popularity may be slowing down. But Miss Boothroyd, 28-year - old former secretary to Labor MP said the reduced majority is a sign of "no confidence" in the government.

NEED UN WAGE

The official reason for Hammarskjold's trip is to confer with Jordanian officials on their opposition on grounds of bias to a United States marine colonel, Bryce Leary, who has been named head of the UN truce supervision body during Burns' visit here.

However, it is understood Hammarskjold will take the opportunity to get a general reaction on the Middle East picture from various capitals. On his itinerary are stops in Amman, Jordan; Cairo, Egypt; Damascus, Syria, and Jerusalem.

DENIES MORALE POOR

Gen. Burns, during his press conference, denied a reply to a question that the morale of his force has not been satisfactory.

"I do not believe there is any widespread restlessness," he said.

"If you go around troops at any time you will always find them grousing, and saying they are fed up or browned off. I would discount any rumors you hear as due to an incomplete knowledge of the facts. They could arise from the habit of soldiers anywhere to speak out at times."

Gen. Burns noted that some of the UNEF troops had re-enlisted after their period of service had ended.

Fire Destroys Rawdon Twp. Frame Home

Fire, believed to have started from a short circuit in the electric wiring last night completely destroyed the frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Robbin 13th concession of Rawdon township.

Barking by their pet dog roused Mr. and Mrs. Robbin about three o'clock. Mr. Robbin investigated and opening a door to another part of the house heard the ceiling fixture drop to the floor.

The fire had apparently started in the ceiling between the first and second floors of the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Robbin were successful in removing some of their household effects but were driven out by the heat as the fire gained headway.

A lumber mill operator at Allan Mills, Mr. Robbin and his wife have no children.

MINIMUM WAGE

"Never in my life . . . have I heard such threats. How can we respect any one of our colleagues who dares to threaten the whole house by telling them — 'If you don't pass this legislation without asking any questions you will be punished; you will have retaliation'!

"From whom? From him. Imagine! How ridiculous!

Senator W. Ross Macdonald, Opposition leader, asked Senator Haig to withdraw his remarks. The Opposition leader had already said he would support the legislation. "Although it does nothing to solve the problem of unemployment."

Senator Haig refused.

In the Commons, Conservative members were equally talkative on Mr. Knowles' bill that would have provided that any employer under federal labor jurisdiction be liable to a minimum of $20 or 30 days in jail for failure to pay at least $1 an hour.

Donald Peters (CCF — Timiskaming) finally said their discussion was an example of how good "a friend to labor" the Conservatives are—by continuing to talk about the measure they were preventing the possibility of a vote on it.

William Thomas (PC—Middlesex West) said a federal act would set an example to all employers. But it was completely out of the question that the every-farmer could afford to pay help at least $1 an hour.

Sunday School Lesson

We Do a Lot of Complaining

By ROY L. SMITH

A little girl who had accompanied her mother to some kind of a woman's meeting had listened quietly while the ladies had talked. On the way home, however, when she and her mother were alone, she ventured to make a suggestion which told a great deal about what she had heard, and at the same time preached a better sermon than any the preacher had delivered in many a day.

"The next time we go somewhere, Mommy," she said, "let's go where they talk happy!"

If some of us could hear the record of our day's conversation played back, we might be astounded to discover how much of our comment had been complaint. And the worst thing we can do about our difficulties is to talk about them.

PULPIT IN PRISON

The Apostle Paul, in prison in Rome, was awaiting trial, and no man could foresee the outcome. It was entirely possible that he might be sentenced to death, and the old missionary lived out his days chained to a Roman soldier, always under the shadow of death. But it in no way darkened his mind or beclouded his spirit. In the letters he sent out from prison there is an overtone of joy and millions have taken courage from his words.

Many another man, under the same circumstances, would have allowed his imprisonment to embitter him, for it is a fact that Paul was quite innocent of any actual offense. Moreover, he had been pressing hard to do the will of God at the very moment that he was jailed. He had a right to expect help from the Most High, but so far as he could see no divine hand had intervened with the authorities in his behalf.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for December 1 is "PAUL'S TRIUMPHANT WITNESS." Philippians 1.

Instead of bemoaning his fate, the Apostle had made use of his difficulties, and as a result the Christian cause had enjoyed some very large advantages. Among other things, there was the fact that Paul had been able to preach to an audience he could never have reached in any other way. Day by day his guard was changed, and the moment a new soldier arrived and the chains were securely fastened, the Christian preacher began to evangelize. The result was that before many weeks had passed he was able to boast that he had preached to "all of Caesar's household." It would have been interesting to have listened to the rough Roman soldiers as they discussed among themselves the sayings of "that strange man who talks all the time about Christ."

TESTIMONIES, NOT ARGUMENTS

It would have been a thrilling experience to have heard the Apostle Paul describe to some brutal Roman soldier, with a short sword at his hand, how he had been struck down on the Damascus Way, and had heard a divine voice calling him to preach the Gospel to the Gentiles. We know he told the story with great eloquence in the presence of judges of the court. What must it have sounded like when told to a guard?

And it would have been almost as exciting to have heard the Apostle tell the story of the earthquake in Philippi, when he and Silas had been sitting in jail, chained, and singing hymns while the other prisoners listened. The story of that fantastic deliverance would have given any Roman soldier plenty to think about. Suppose the Divine should work another miracle while he was guarding the old man!

It is of interest to note in the New Testament that the greatest victories were always won as a result of some man's offering a testimony and not as the result of some clever theological argument.

"I know you are a better man than I am," a humble man admitted, in visiting with a friend. "You have been a better and a stronger man from the start. But you should have known me before Jesus Christ took over with me. You cannot realize what a change he has made in me. And that's why I am so anxious for you to give him a chance with your life. God only knows what he can make out of you. If he could make such a difference in poor material such as I am, what could he not do with superior material such as you are!"

And the testimony, not an argument, won the case!

Tax Cut Rumors Cause Car Firms To Reduce Output

Public Awaits Price Cut Forcing Extensive Layoffs

WELLINGTON (CP) — Labor unseated the National government in New Zealand's general election and will return to power after an absence of eight years, final unofficial returns showed tonight.

The figures gave Labor 41 seats in the 80-seat Parliament to 38 for the National party of Prime Minister Keith Holyoake. Another seat will be contested in January.

Voting in the one constituency was postponed because of the death of one of the candidates. Observers believe the National party should retain the seat, which would mean just a two-seat parliamentary margin for the new Labor government.

Walter Nash heads the Labor party. He was in power in New Zealand from 1935 to 1949. The preliminary count showed that Labor polled 508,981 votes to the National party's 498,801.

Four Communist candidates polled only 526 votes among them.

Labor Party Wins Election In New Zealand

TORONTO (CP) — Production cutbacks affecting more than 16,000 employees are planned by Canada's three leading automobile manufacturers, starting next week.

Slowdowns were announced Friday by Chrysler Corporation and General Motors. Both blamed rumors of a reduction in the excise tax on cars and said the public was waiting for a price cut.

When Ford Motor Company last week announced a 2,400-man layoff at its plants in Oakville and Windsor, it also cited excise tax as a factor, but blamed "continuing shrinkage of the Canadian market."

The slowdowns at the General Motors plant at Oshawa and at the Chrysler plant in Windsor will affect about 12,000 employees—10,000 at General Motors and 4,000 at Chrysler.

FM WON'T GOVERN

Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Finance Minister Fleming declined Friday night to comment on reports that the possibility of a reduction in the federal sales tax exists.

General Motors President E. H. Wallace said his company's "decision" was made some days Monday and Tuesday and all overtime would be suspended.

A decision concerning further shutdowns would be made as soon as more is known about the government's tax plans.

Chrysler President Ron W. Todgham said operations will be suspended for four days next week in Windsor. About 4,000 workers will be affected.

REFERS TO "RUMORS"

Mr. Todgham said: "Widely-circulated but unsubstantiated rumors stated that a reduction in the excise tax is imminent. The effect of this report has been to bring a complete halt in the shipment of cars from Canadian manufacturers to the dealers."

A Ford company spokesman said Friday the company will give ahead signals for changes in production but further layoffs are not planned.

Clifford Pilkey of Toronto, president of Local 222, United Automobile Workers, said his union has protested the companies' actions to Mr. Fleming and Labor Minister Starr.

"It is really peculiar that a statement that has been bring at many extra men recently should close down because of newspaper reports, or other information, that the excise tax is to be reduced."

Cornwall Shaken By Earthquake

CORNWALL (CP) — Cornwall residents were startled early today when the ground shook for a period of about five seconds, occurred at 1:25 a.m.

They said they heard a rumbling which grew in intensity, followed by a noise like thunder. Then the ground shook, following which the rumbling slowly died away. There were no reports of damage.

The Cornwall area was shaken by an earthquake Sept. 5, 1944, which caused damage estimated at $1,000,000. That tremor was felt as far west as Windsor, and as far east as Quebec.

Today's Chuckle

"And remember," the preacher admonished the congregation, "there will be no buying and selling in heaven."

Whereupon a businessman in the back murmured: "That ain't where business has gone."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis:

Cold air from the Canadian Northwest advanced into Northwestern Ontario and has now penetrated as far as central Lake Huron. The leading edge of the cold air is not expected to reach Toronto before mid-afternoon.

Sunday will find an intense storm over the Maritimes giving a strong northerly flow of cold air over the province. Skies will be mainly sunny in the province except near Lake Huron and Georgian Bay where they will be cloudy and frequent heavy snowsqualls will occur.

CCF AGAIN TAKES ANOTHER BELT AT HOUSE DIVORCES

Charge of Collusion Made by Member

OTTAWA (CP)—The CCF has taken another belt at the practice of Parliament providing divorces for Quebec and Newfoundland.

Charges of collusion and corruption in the obtaining of divorce bills were made in the Commons Friday by C. H. Castleden, Yorkton, Sask.

He said he has been told of cases where lawyers put on their expense account $50 for having a divorce bill sponsored in the Commons by an MP.

Charles Rea (D — Toronto Spadina) quickly disclaimed ever taking a cent for sponsoring a divorce measure.

Mr. Rea was the mover of about 40 divorce bills that were going through the House at the session having been passed by a Commons committee that he heads.

The committee normally screens the divorce cases, with the House usually then through perfunctorily afterwards. But every once in a while—as on Friday—members take a look at the procedure. The Socialist group wants divorce taken out of self of divorce matters and put into the hands of a court.

FOR TWO PROVINCES

Only Quebec and Newfoundland run their cases through the parliamentary divorce bill. In the other provinces they go through the courts. In Parliament, about 40 cases a year are handled.

Meanwhile, the House got into a debate Friday on veterans affairs Minister Lapointe and Minister A. J. Brooks say that he has found no waste or extravagance in his department and does not expect to find any.

The House approved the $259,000,000 spending program for the department for the year that ends next March 31. Mr. Brooks said he plans no cuts in veterans' spending.

Rev. Dan McIvor, veteran Liberal member for Fort William, asked the minister whether pensions would be provided at age 60 for veterans who served in theatres. Mr. Brooks did not reply.

NOT CUTTING DOWN

Previously, State Secretary Ellen Fairclough and Mines Minister Leon Balcer reported that they were not cutting down the spending of their departments.

Most of the government's spending program, as a matter of fact, was laid out by previous Liberal administration before it went out of office last June 21.

Mr. Balcer, through Hansez, Argue, Assiniboia, tried without success to have the commons put aside its scheduled business and debate the "continuing crisis" in agriculture. The motion was ruled out by Speaker Roland Michener on the ground that government legislation aimed at helping to stabilize the situation is on the Commons order paper.

Cake, Liberal Helping of Brandy For Churchill on 83rd Birthday

LONDON (Reuters) — A 15-pound cake with a single candle and "a liberal helping of brandy" was presented to Sir Winston Churchill today as the British wartime leader celebrated his 83rd birthday.

Thousands of messages and presents poured in, including many home at Chartwell, where the former prime minister spent the weekend resting between wartime experiences with Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, his weekend guest.

The cake, an annual creation of Hungarian - born confectioner Maria Floris, was smuggled into the House Friday night by Lady Churchill, past the questing eyes of Sir Winston,- who takes an excited interest each year in seeing what design Mrs. Floris has prepared.

This year it surrounded the cake with brightly-colored leaves. It was inscribed:

"Many happy returns."

Of ambitious hope we may yet sing.

While England still has men like you."

In past years, Mrs. Floris has had a candle on the cake for each year of Churchill's life. But this year she changed to one single, sturdy candle in the centre of the cake.

"Eighty-three candles is a bit of a crowd — even on a 15-pound cake," she said.

Sir Winston was reported in excellent spirits, greatly enjoying the excitement at the birthday weekend.

FASHION NOTE FOR MOON COMMUTERS

Men may not be quite ready to commute to the moon, but U.S. navy researchers in Philadelphia believe they already have proper space-going haberdashery for the first travellers in the void. Richard J. McGowan, who has been a guinea pig for many of the tests of the space suit he is shown above, submerged in a tank of freezing brine with air temperature at 40 degrees Fahrenheit. McGowan sat in the tank for 45 minutes without discomfort during the test. Laboratory director Capt. Charles F. Gell says the suit is now at the point where men will be able to live and carry out explorations on the airless surface of the moon while wearing it.

Restricted Home-Rule Plan For Algeria Given Approval

PARIS (AP)—The French National Assembly approved Friday night plans for restricted home rule in war-torn Algeria. The plans had already been rejected by rebel leaders as insufficient to stop the three-year war.

Two bills were passed on votes of confidence in Premier Felix Gaillard's government after the assembly had rejected a Moroccan-Tunisian offer to mediate the Algerian rebellion.

Gaillard succeeded where the last government failed and fell, after nursing the bills through a turbulent assembly. His 3½-week-old 209 to 200 and 207 to 200 on bills watered down from versions presented by former premier Pierre Pflimlin Bourges-Maunoury.

The first bill provides a federal system of partial home rule for Algeria once peace is restored. Algeria would remain in the French Republic and Paris would handle its foreign policy, defence, currency and some other matters.

The second bill provides for elections on an equal basis for the approximately 1,230,000 Algerians of European origin and about 9,000,000 Arabic-speaking Moslems. But reservations to secure "adequate representation" of the French minority.

A source in the Algerian Front of National Liberation said his group, the leading rebel organization, rejected the plans because France was trying to impose its own solution.

In debate before the votes, Gaillard said the basic policies of France cannot be changed." He said France would not negotiate with FLN as recommended Nov. 21 by King Mohammed V of Morocco and President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia.

Behind-the-scene efforts were reported as UN headquarters to bring together French and Arab supporters of the Algerian rebels on a resolution seeking solution to the problem.

Fever Struck Hard

Today Staid Old Queen City Hangover Capital of Canada

TORONTO (CP) — Grey Cup City was the hangover capital of Canada today.

The day when Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Hamilton Tiger-Cats meet for football championship of the land came after a night of noise reminiscent of the rowdyism which attended the 1955 pre-game festivities in Vancouver.

The good-natured high-jinks of visiting Edmonton, Montreal and Calgary contingents of previous years were supplanted Friday night by more high-heeled ing of local rowdies.

"Where's the free bar?" one gang of roving youths shouted in the rib-cracking crowds of the Royal York Hotel lobby.

In the hotel arcade the traditional Friday night of treading crapshooters rang out.

"Local punks," said patrolling police. "Every year they give us the most trouble."

Winnipeg fans, subdued for the last two days, began to warm up Friday night as more of them arrived and the Manitoba crowd that their team had a chance to win the cup for the first time since 1941.

Few Hamilton fans here seem many preferring to drive the 40 miles here this morning.

The crowds began to catch fire late in the downtown areas—catching the spirit as pre-game festivities got under way. Streets broke up and celebrants moved aimlessly through town.

Many converged on the main hotels after attending the Festival Fair Dinner, the Grey Cup Dinner and the Grey Cup Party.

Police, on the alert for trouble rushing across town, addressed both dinners. Mixing football and politics, he saw in the Grey Cup game something that unfailingly contributes to a national spirit.

"Tomorrow the hearts of the people in every city and hamlet from Newfoundland to British Columbia will beat as one for Canada . . . May tomorrow be remembered as a day in the annals of Canadian citizenship."

He told attending coaches that if they think they have a tough time on the field, they should send scouts to the next federal-provincial conference.

Speaking of the great success of the Grey Cup spectacle, the prime minister said it was surprising how many members of Parliament and provincial premiers found it necessary to be in Toronto at this time.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who will make the honorary kickoff at today's game, would venture no predictions. "I'm neutral," he said. "I don't care who I'm neutral for."

Mayor Steve Juba of Winnipeg with a grin, extended an invitation to the gathering to come to Winnipeg next week "for the Grey Cup ceremony."

Mayor Lloyd Jackson of Hamilton spoke of his bet with Mayor Juba—a sack of sugar against a sack of the sugar. Jackson could be fed to "the cake-eating Bombers; the Tigers like raw meat."

Coach Grant of the Bombers spoke of his five years in Canadian football. "It's been a big gathering I'm just a child."

Coach Trimble of the Ti-cats said he saw his first Grey Cup game last year. "I've seen the ups and downs of Canada, and other classics in the United States but I've never seen such a fine get-together and good football as the Grey Cup game provides." The Tiger-Cats practised lightly Friday night and early today was aimless.

In the lobbies of the main downtown hotels, cleared of furniture to make room for the crowds, there were half-hearted attempts at singing. There was no sign of the fun-filled balloons from Montreal or the square-dancing cowgirls from the Prairies.

More spirit and drive was expected this morning with the arrival of the 90 - girl Winnipeg Bombettes marching group, accompanied by their band and the Winnipeg Police Pipe Band.

Last year, arriving musicians headed for the hotels and blew their horns in the lobbies.

MILLION DOLLARS DAMAGE IN FIRE AT FORT WILLIAM

Two Hangars, 11 Planes Destroyed

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Close to $1,000,000 damage has resulted from a fire which destroyed two hangars and damaged the administration building at the Lakehead airport on the outskirts of Fort William. Some 11 planes were destroyed.

F. J. Ginter, chief controller for the transport department at the airport, gave the damage estimate. Eight other planes in fire-men controlled the blaze, first reported at 10:42 p.m. EST. No one was reported injured in the blaze.

Mr. Ginter said planes destroyed hangars built during the Second World War and occupied by the Thunder Bay Flying Club and Superior Airways Limited, the only commercial firm operating out of the Lakehead.

Five single-engined planes, including three Aeroncas, one Chipmunk and one Piper Tri-pacer were destroyed in the flying club hangar, he said. It was believed two others in the Superior hangar. About 10 Superior planes were standing outside.

MEN ESCAPE

Flames destroyed the control tower at the field but men on duty there escaped. Trans-Canada Air Lines flight landed without radio contact with the ground 15 minutes before the blaze broke.

Mr Ginter said TCA operations in the building were unaffected by the loss of the control tower. Windows were broken in the administration building by heat and water and smoke damage was caused.

The Fort William fire department sent out all equipment and two units of men to the airport. Airport fire equipment and five cars belonging to workers were reported destroyed.

Cause of the fire was not known.

Free Vaccine Will Be Given By Government

DUNDALK (CP)—Health Minister Phillips of Ontario has announced the provincial government after effective Jan. 1 will give free poliomyelitis vaccine to all physicians and medical officers of health in Ontario.

A health department spokesman said this means adults as well as children will be able to get the Salk poliomyelitis vaccine vaccinations by paying service charges of $1 or $2.

Up to now the vaccine produced by Connaught laboratories has been available free of charge without cost only to children. Adults have had to pay about $12 for vaccine imported from the United States.

Children may get free vaccine by writing to the province's chief medical health officer.

Last February, Mr. Campney said U.S. planes would be allowed to fly over Canada carrying nuclear weapons "in circumstances of grave emergency." He added that "arrangements have been made for very close consultation (between Canada and the U.S.) in that event."

Spanish Forces Reported Fighting Big Battle With Moroccan Rebels

MADRID (Reuters) — Spanish armed forces today were reported engaged in "fierce battles" with Moroccan irregular troops throughout the Spanish enclave of Ifni on the Moroccan coast.

Reliable reports reaching Agadir, Morocco, said two Spanish cruisers shelled the frontiers of the tiny enclave Friday.

In Rabat, Morocco, the government spokesman newspaper Al-Alam said the Spanish warships still are shelling coastal regions in an apparent softening-up operation before disembarking troops.

It said the Moroccan flag "flies over liberated regions" of the enclave.

A Spanish communique issued today said garrisons in Ifni and Sahara towns of Sidi Ifni and Fort Rhenan were "resisting heroically" and were inflicting severe punishment on the "rebel bands."

The communique said that 230 Moroccans had been killed in a general attack on Spanish troops' forces in both Ifni and surrounding Moroccan territory.

Spanish authorities say its protectorate over a portion of Morocco is legal and insisted on keeping the Ifni enclave. Irregulars of the Moroccan "liberation army" who formerly fought the French rulers of their land began an attack on Ifni last week.

Officials here said the attackers are trained in guerrilla warfare and are said to be waging a hit-and-run campaign over Ifni's rough terrain.

Report Planes With H-Weapon Not Dangerous

U.S. Aircraft Must First Get Canada's Permission

OTTAWA (CP) — Do United States planes fly over Canada sometimes carrying nuclear weapons? If they do, are Canadians greatly endangered?

The answer to the first question wasn't definitely known here. The reply to the second is—in the opinion of experts—no.

The questions arose after Defence Minister G. R. Pearkes was quoted in newspaper reports Friday as saying in an interview that U.S. aircraft now can fly over Canadian territory bearing nuclear weapons, "after first getting Canada's permission.

Mr. Pearkes was in Sydney, N.S., and in his absence defence department officials here were unable to say whether any U.S. planes have carried nuclear weapons over Canadian territory.

NOT IN DEFENCE

One high department source was able to tell a reporter, however, that no U.S. aircraft have flown over Canada carrying nuclear weapons on operations in connection with joint defence of North America.

"Those flights have been made over Canadian territory is not considered to expose atomic and hydrogen bombs to be an issue worthy of much attention.

In consulating virtually the same public words as Mr. Pearkes used, Liberal defence minister Ralph Campney last February told the Commons that Canadian authorities had satisfied themselves that no great safety hazards would be involved in flights of nuclear-weapon-carrying aircraft over Canadian territory.

Safety devices to prevent premature or accidental discharge of such weapons were entirely adequate.

The exact procedure source indicated Friday that Canada has had an agreement with the U.S. for some time on operations of aircraft over this country carrying nuclear weapons in connection with Canadian-American defence of the continent.

NEEDS PERMISSION

It required that the U.S. get permission from Canada before sending such aircraft over Canada. Atomic weapons over Canada to check the approach of unidentified aircraft. He said such permission would almost certainly be requested only if the unidentified planes were strongly believed to be attacking enemy aircraft.

Such permission had not yet been requested of Canada, he said.

He indicated that the agreement would not require the U.S. to get Canadian permission before flying bombers over Canada on training flights to Russia with clear weapons.

The source could not say whether any U.S. planes at all have flown over Canadian territory with nuclear weapons aboard or their way elsewhere.

Last February, Mr. Campney said U.S. planes would be allowed to fly over Canada carrying nuclear weapons "in circumstances of grave emergency." He added that "arrangements have been made for very close consultation (between Canada and the U.S.) in that event."

Toronto Fireman Dies at Blaze In Lumber Yard

TORONTO (CP)—One fireman died as fire raged through a lumber yard in the west end of Toronto early today.

Captain William Kennard was overcome by smoke and trapped and died while fighting the blaze. He apparently suffered a heart attack.

About 20 families, including children, were evacuated from their homes adjacent to the yard while the fire was at its height. None of the houses was destroyed although some were scorched.

The fire, which is believed to have broke out about 1 a.m. EST, is the property of the George Rathy Company. Deputy Fire Chief Coakwell said a sheet of flame extended 300 feet and nearby houses when he arrived at the scene.

"I still can't understand how anyone got out alive," he said.

The blaze was brought under control in about three hours and there was no immediate estimate of damage.

Fisherman Speared by Fish

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A fisherman who was yanked overboard by a swordfish and speared by it was being treated in hospital here today after the fish broke itself free.

Calif.

Miguel F. Pereira of San Diego was fishing from the lower racks of the tuna clipper Sea Wolf when a big fish struck his bait. The coast guard said the fish broke loose after pulling Pereira into the water, and speared him clear through a leg.

The bill of the fish entered the man's body on the right side above the hip and came out his left side.

Free Skating For Children Starts Dec. 9

The Belleville Recreation Committee announce that free skating for public and Separate School students will begin on Monday, December 9th. Free skating sessions will be held Monday, December 9th, Friday, December 13th; Monday, December 16th and Friday, December 20th.

During school Christmas holidays there free skating sessions will not be held but will begin on Monday, January 6th and will be held each Monday and Friday evening thereafter until the last week in February.

Free skating for Public and Separate School students was started a few years ago by the Belleville Recreation Committee because the warmer winter weather made it impracticable to maintain outdoor rinks. The free skating sessions have been very successful with a usually full attendance at each session.

The Belleville Recreation Committee through the co-operation of Manager, Walter Gerow and the Arena Commission also provides that all warmer will be made available for these sessions and assistance, skate sharpening and supervision of the children while they are skating.

All free skating sessions run from 4.00 to 5.30 p.m.

Barbershoppers Visit Chapter In Port Hope

The Belleville Barbershop Chapter joined in fellowship and harmony with the Port Hope-Cobourg chapter at their meeting in Port Hope Wednesday night.

A fair turnout from both chapters attended the lively meeting in the Orange lodge.

To start off the program a quartet from Belleville, who call themselves "The Four-Flat Four," gave a rendition of "Forsaken." Next on the program was what is known as barbershop harmony circles as a "progressive quartet," followed by a free-for-all singsong, of popular old favorites, such as "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now," "Sweet Sixteen," "Twin Town Four," a quartet from the Port Hope-Cobourg chapter sang a couple of numbers. Then followed a selection by another barbershop quartet from Belleville. The last quartet to do a "mix" number were the "Four-Get-Me-Nots" from the Port Hope-Cobourg chapter. They were conducted a sing-song, which stopped only long enough for refreshments, to round out an enjoyable evening.

Further meetings of the club dal will be held in the basement of Mt. Margaret's on the Hill United Church here in the city on the second and fourth Wednesdays at 8.30 p.m. Men who enjoy singing are cordially invited to drop in, and will be heartily welcomed by local chapter members of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

Many to Watch Appearance of 3rd Stage Rocket

Members of the Belleville Ground Observer Corps will be out in force over the weekend watching for the third stage rocket which launched Canada's No. 1 Sputnik into its orbit some weeks ago.

The accompanying rocket is expected to penetrate the earth's atmosphere soon, possibly over this weekend, and be destroyed by the fiery friction.

The Sputnik rocket will pass over Ontario several times within the next day or so and members of the local ground observer corps, along with other observers have been alerted to be on watch.

Mrs. Vickie Barker, head of the local corps, said some 20 members of the corps would be on 24-hour watch for the next day or so.

It is thought possible that some parts of the rocket may escape destruction as it returns to the earth's atmosphere and may fall back to earth.

Aged Couple Plans to Build Another Home

TRENTON — Mr. and Mrs. John Little, 75-year-old couple of R.R. 3, Trenton, who lost their home in a flash fire at around 4 a.m. Wednesday morning, have moved to Toronto where they will reside during the winter with Mr. Little's sister.

At present the elderly couple are planning to return next spring and rebuild their home. They have lived in this vicinity all their lives and feel they would like to remain here despite the disastrous fire which wiped out their entire life savings in less than an hour.

Since the fire the Little's have been living with their nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Down, also of R.R. 3, Trenton.

They have only one daughter, who is living in Ohio in the U.S.A.

On the morning of the fire the couple were awakened by the barking of a neighbor's dog to find their home burning.

The fire is believed to have started in the telephone lines in the rural area and they were unable to call for help as the telephone lines were burning.

Neighbors rushed to their aid but were unable to save the building or any of the couple's belongings. The Little's were left with only their pajamas they were wearing.

A well near the home was unable to be reached due to the heat from the blaze and neighbors in North Trenton as well as the south.

Mrs. Little, who is partially crippled, was helped from the burning building by her husband.

Long-time resident in the Wooler area before building their small frame home near Trenton in 1954 all the two farm as a quilt a shock to both of them.

Reports say the home was insured against loss by fire.

Trenton Girl Has Outstanding School Record

TRENTON — Margaret Bartlett, pretty 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Bartlett, 40 McGill Ave., Middleton Park, has the outstanding record of graduating first in four school classes despite the fact she has attended five different schools during her young life.

Miss Bartlett was recently awarded one of the $1,000 bursaries as honor student for grade 13 in Trenton High School. She is now attending Toronto University College where she is studying history and modern languages.

"She has always been on top in school work," her mother said, "but she has always studied hard and her ability to concentrate has helped a great deal. We are certainly proud of her."

Miss Bartlett has lived in Trenton since 1953 in the war days when her father was stationed here during his six and one-half years of duty with the Royal Canadian Air Force, but she was only two years old then.

Mr. Bartlett rejoined the Air Force and came back to the Trenton station in 1953.

Awards won by Miss Bartlett as honor student, and presented in ceremonies at Trenton High School recently, are as follows: Dominion - Provincial Student Aid Bursary, $500; Hazel Farley Memorial Bursary, presented by Trenton Business and Professional Women's Club, $100; Canadian Legion (Branch 110) University Scholarship, $400; Trenton Kiwanis Club Scholarship, $50; Atkinson Charitable Foundation Bursary, $400.

She also won a $300 scholarship in music but because she has elected to study other studies in music at college she will be unable to claim it.

He urges them to look both ways before crossing a street; do not step out into the street from between parked cars; cross only at cross-walks which have been placed there for the safety of the walking public and, if it is necessary to walk on the street, to stay on the side facing oncoming traffic.

New Poujade or Napoleon Attracts French Attention

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A new Poujade — he would rather be called a new Napoleon — is attracting attention in France.

His name is Jean-Baptiste Biaggi. He is a 57-year-old lawyer from Corsica, Napoleon's birthplace, and he runs a new political movement called the Front of Civic Revolutionary party.

Biaggi has a square-shouldered bodyguard called The Black Angel who has been mentioned flatteringly in a book by Jean-Jacques Servan - Schreiber, dynamic young editor of the left-wing French weekly, L'Express.

Servan-Schreiber's book is critical of French policy in Algeria.

NATIONALIST MOOD

Biaggi's party has no significant influence but it could prove considerable nuisance value. It is feeding on the current mood of inflamed French nationalism which in turn springs largely from a feeling of national humiliation.

"We are tired of being kicked in the behind," says Biaggi.

Biaggi fought in the army of the late Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny and worked as a lawyer for Gen. de Gaulle. He organized the shower of ripe fruit which pelted Guy Mollet when the former premier visited Algiers in February, 1956.

CLAIM SELLOUT

Biaggi—"my aim is power"—also is believed the man behind demonstrations organized in Paris this week during the visit of British Prime Minister Macmillan.

"We are out to overthrow the government by any means at our disposal, including force," Biaggi told a reporter of The Daily Mail, a London newspaper. A correspondent of another London paper, John Gale of The Observer, counted 12 busts of Napoleon in Biaggi's Paris apartment.

Biaggi brings to French politics something of the nihilistic spirit of Poujade, a Paris bookseller who built a temporary hustings around a simple remedy — "Get rid of politicians, super - patriots with a taste for demonstrations, claim that France is being sold out by the West.

STRANGE TALK

They call the Americans "big children" and say the Queen, if she visits Paris now, wouldn't receive the same welcome she got last April.

A new crowd, fused out of all the frustrations of the last 17 years, is noted by visitors. A Deputy Premier Communist says France is tired of being undeserved.

"There is strange talk in Paris," he says. "Talk of an authoritarian regime, talk of leaving NATO, talk of a right-wing government with an alliance with the Soviet Union. The city is alive with exciting, fascinating but rather unreal talk."

The mood will probably pass. But in the basis, it will be hard to spark the Western alliance into new life.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

I AM THINE, O LORD

I am Thine, O Lord, I have heard Thy voice,
And it told Thy love to me;
But I long to rise in the arms of faith,
And be closer drawn to Thee.

Consecrate me now to Thy service, Lord,
By the pow'r of grace divine;
Let my soul look up with a steadfast hope,
And my will be lost in Thine.

O the pure delight of a single hour
That before Thy throne I spend,
When I kneel in prayer, and with Thee alone
I commune as friend with friend.

There are depths of love that I cannot know
Till I cross the narrow sea,
There are heights of joy that I may not reach
Till I rest in peace with Thee.

Chorus:

Draw me nearer, nearer, nearer blessed Lord,
To the cross where Thou hast died;
Draw me nearer, nearer, nearer, blessed Lord,
To Thy precious, bleeding side".

Fanny Crosby, America's famous woman hymnist, was visiting one mid-summer afternoon in the Cincinnati home of William Howard Doane, the composer.

The two friends whose partnership produced many of the world's favorite gospel songs had much to talk about. Their visiting turned at last to a discussion of the nearness of God and His constant presence with those who love how to find and follow Him. That night, Fanny Crosby wrote her hymn, "I Am Thine, O Lord". The impression which her visit with Mr. Doane had left upon her was reflected in the hymn chorus:

"Draw me nearer, nearer, nearer, blessed Lord,
To the cross where Thou hast died;
Draw me nearer, nearer, nearer, blessed Lord,
To Thy precious, bleeding side".

It was one of those inspired hymns which came to her so effortlessly that she herself once testified in her "Memories of Eighty Years"

"That some of my hymns have been dictated by the blessed Holy Spirit, I have no doubt", she said. "At times, the burden of inspiration is so heavy that the author cannot find words beautiful enough or thoughts deep enough for its expression."

Few of Mr. Doane's admirers know that he was a successful business man as well as a musician. In fact, he studied music and was graduated with a doctor of music degree from Denison University in 1858. Then he was an inventor, too, and patented more than 70 of his inventions. Then, he devoted a good share of his life to manufacturing His interest in Sunday School work and other religious activities always claimed a good part of his time, however, and he spent many hours every week composing tunes for devotional services and gospel songs. He wrote the music for Fanny Crosby's hymns, "Pass Me Not, O Gentle Saviour" and "Jesus, Keep Me Near The Cross", and for Phoebe Knapp's gem, "Take The Name of Jesus With You".

BEAUTY

HOLIDAY SHOPPING'S TOUGH ON FEET

Now that you've probably starting to do your Christmas shopping, remember that your feet are your best friends. Many a shopper goes down for the count too early in the game. For budget holds out, but her feet don't. With the result that by the time the 24th Day rolls around, they're a couple of bundles of aching misery. So don't wait until the damage is done. Start conditioning your feet now, and don't let them get in such condition that, in days to come, you'll begin to shop with hate in your heart instead of love.

Rule Number 1, we can't help emphasizing, is: Don't Shop In High Heels. There's nothing so tiring. Put on a pair of comfortable walking shoes and, if you're going out in the evening, it will be time enough then to change into your "spikes".

Sensible care of your feet pays off any day in the year, but when extra walking and standing are required, an extra foot bath here and there is a wonderful help. If you've been doing a lot of standing and you plan to shop in the afternoon, take a short time for a mid-day foot bath (in addition to your nightly care). Sit on the edge of the tub and plunge your tired feet into thick soapsuds. Have the suds as hot as you can comfortably bear. Then let your feet soak for five or ten minutes. Then rinse your feet in cool water and with cold — dry thoroughly, put on fresh hose, and change shoes. Then change your shoes. You'll be surprised at how much extra energy this simple treatment will give you!

If you have the time, a massage with some soothing cream will add that much more to your feeling of well-being. Be very careful making your own massage cream, now is a good time to do it. Mix lots of soap with very little water, until you get a spoonful or two of solid oil. While the mixture is still it's nice and creamy. Massage it into your feet, concentrating on the soles, instep, heels, toes and see how soft and relaxed your feet feel.

Tired, aching, burning feet can put unattractive lines in your face. By the same token, comfortable feet help promote a smooth, serene face. So take care of your feet and enjoy your shopping.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

FOR FIRST TIME THEY DON'T SEE EYE-TO-EYE

For the first time in our married life, my husband and I do not agree on a question that has arisen. We do not disagree, but each we would abide by your answer. If you would be so kind as to give us your idea of the situation. (Most of the family agree with me.) Our son's wife is home on return from Germany soon. He was in the service when he met over there his wife became very ill. This illness took most of his savings.

For several years my father-in-law has been living with us. He has his own room and bath, and we will need this room when the young couple arrive. We simply have no place to go. My father-in-law's sister, his brother and sister-in-law all have offered to take him until our son and his wife get their own place and after due course he can come back. But he absolutely refuses to go, and my husband agrees with him.

I say that if "Dad" had no place offered he as it would be a different story, but he has at least three places where he would be most welcome. Our son has a fine position waiting for him, and

Mrs H.M. — Howard has turned against his father.

Howard M. — He has no respect for my mother.

Mr. H.M. — She brought him up to despise me.

Mrs. H. M. — I am having a great deal of trouble with my husband and our 16-year-old son, Howard.

Our marriage was not a happy one and we drifted far apart. My husband has always been very critical of me and nasty in his manner. I never knew what Howard took all this in and was hurt for me, but now he has turned against his father in the most awful way. There are constant fights and the two of them have even come to blows.

I realize that the fact that his father has always been a good provider and if I left him, I know I would have to fill and get support from him. He is so vindictive. All I ask is that Howard hold his tongue in front of his father so we can live in peace.

— Reader

Howard M. — Why should I hold my tongue in front of my father when he doesn't hold his in front of my mother? He has no respect for her at all and treats her like dirt.

My mother says he is a good provider, but he is really very stingy with money. I know that he makes much more than he says he does. If my mother left him I wouldn't let her take his filthy money. It wouldn't take long for me to be able to support her as well as he does.

Mr. H. M. — My wife has brought Howard up to despise me and now she blames me for making a problem out of him. She let me know from the start of our marriage that she was only staying with me for the sake of support. Now she suddenly wants peace too!

• •

The Council: Two facts emerge clearly from this very tangle — first, it took two persons to create this misery — and second, that Howard is the innocent and most abused victim of it. Mr. and Mrs. H.M. must either some how supervise pleasure out of torturing themselves and one another. This pleasure is denied Howard.

It would probably be impossible for a child who struck the first blow in this marriage — Mr. H. would have to be "nasty" to his wife or Mrs. H.M. when she let her husband know that she had no love for him.

They ought to know, however, they are both guilty of having brought up this boy on the poison of their contempt for one another. They should be ashamed of their bitterness toward his father, but it is doubtful when he is "nasty" to his wife that he will have much love for the mother who stayed with her husband for the support money, he will have much love for the mother who stayed with her husband for the support money, him."

How much damage can be undone here? That depends on how much courage and determination the H.M.'s can muster to help their son. He needs help from some outside help, probably from a social worker who could work with them as a family. They must recognize, however, that they can only help their son without changing themselves.

They should also recognize there is more at stake here than getting some peace and quiet in their home. They must acquire some love and respect for both his parents if he is to have a chance for a reasonably normal and happy adulthood..

As Conducted by Mary Moore

Question: At last I am really writing for a much prized recipe for mince pie which I lost. It required no cooking and contained apples, raisins, currants, peel, suet which was all put through food chopper. Other ingredients were added such as sugar, spice, etc. I have forgotten quantity and was wondering if you could help me. Also my husband and I were privileged to attend conference of our church. One evening at supper a casserole was served and seemed to contain canned salmon, spaghetti, tomato of some kind. We all loved it, even my little girl. Do you know of any such supper dish? ... P.S. My mince meat recipe contained enough for about 8 pies . . . Mrs. L. C.

ENGLISH MINCE MEAT

(Without meat — uncooked)
One and one-half lbs. currants, 1 lb. mixed peel, 4 lbs. chopped apples, 1 lb. chopped suet, 1½ lbs. brown sugar, 1 lb. raisins, grated rind and juice of 2 lemons, 1 tablespoon each (or less if desired) salt, nutmeg, cloves and cinnamon. Mix all ingredients and set away to ripen in a covered crock in a cool place. Yield: Approximately 3 lbs. extra.

The following salmon recipe won a prize in 1952. You could omit the curry powder and substitute tomato juice for the milk. Eggs may be omitted.

SALMON CASSEROLE

Flake salmon from one 1-lb. can, mash bones and include liquid. To it add cooked cereal to equal 1 cup measured before cooking until tender, and drained. Melt 3 tablespoons butter or margarine and saute in 1½ teaspoons chopped onion gently for 2 minutes. Stir in 3 tablespoons flour, 1½ teaspoons curry powder, then gradually 2 cups milk until thick. Add ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Add to salmon and macaroni. Turn half into buttered casserole, cover with 3 hard-cooked eggs quartered, add remaining mixture and cover with crumbs mixed with buttered crumbs, bake at 375 deg. F. for 30 minutes.

Question: I will be in charge of a Christmas dinner for ladies —about 25 — with 3 girls to come in, do the serving, drying dishes, etc. I feel a large supervise . . . would you check this menu . . . would 10 lbs. potatoes be enough . . . the ladies are paying $2 each: Menu: Tomato Juice, Rolls—2 doz., 3 doz. each white and brown, butter 1 lb., turkey 25 lbs. Oven ready, dressing, fluffy mashed potatoes, frozen mixed vegetables 10 lbs., cranberry sauce, 3 large cans, stuffing fruit (recipe enclosed) in tarberts instead of pie shell, Christmas cake, 3 lbs., shortbread which I will make, coffee or tea, celery, carrots, radishes, pickles and olives . . . this is just basic. There may be changes . . .

Answer: It is a splendid menu but increase potatoes to 15 lbs. weight as purchased, and decrease rolls to 2 dozen each white and brown. At hearty holiday dinners like this relish and set away is often left out, so don't prepare too many of them, for they are expensive. Usually all of the olives disappear first. Best of luck.

A Lift for Living

How We Can Love Our Enemies

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

As we enter the month of December we begin to think of Christmas, the season of goodwill. We shall give greetings and gifts to those who love us. But what will we do about Christ's command, "Love your enemies"?

Some would say at once such a command should not be obeyed, because it would be the height of folly and weakness to give goodwill for treachery and kindness for cruelty. They would ask, how can you call a person manly if he does not try to crush those who would crush him?

When we speak of our enemies, we think of those hostile to us. But let us begin by thinking of those who believe we are hostile to them. I venture to say each of you has one or more persons who consider you unfriendly.

And I also venture the assertion you do not know who some of these persons are because you have no awareness of being hostile to them. Was it not this tendency to misinformed judgments Jesus must have had in mind when He said, "Judge not that ye be not judged."

Yonder is a little boy, tear-lined of face and bitter in heart, who thinks his father is his enemy because the parent has denied him a cherished desire. And yet how that father prays to reach out and remove the misunderstanding and convince the little fellow of his love.

SUFFERING WITH HIM

Or think of the man who endured afflictions, as Job has never had that experience personally!

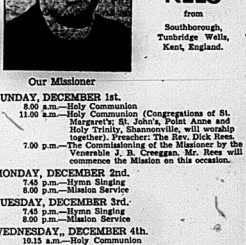
Long one's enemies, as Christ commanded, would not mean agreeing with their point of view or approving what they do. The Christian must stand resolutely for what he thinks is right, and that means resisting what he believes wrong.

HATE SIN, NOT SINNER

But in resisting he would hate the sin without hating the sinner. Whatever he did in opposing those whom he thought to be in the wrong, he would do with a sincere and intelligent desire to promote their highest good.

But Our Lord points to another step. What He said, "Love your enemies," He did not leave it standing alone. He follows it with this injunction, "Bless them that curse you."

The habit of meeting curses with blessing is hard to measure. What He commands is that we "A soft answer turneth away wrath." It often does work that way. When a man is cursed and refuses to curse back, he surprises his attacker and may set the latter to wondering about the secret of his serenity.



Yes, and Christ added still another step in learning to love our enemies. He said, "Pray for them that despitefully use you." When we pray for our enemies, we get a better view of what is for the highest good of them and also of ourselves. We see them as a part of God's family.

We may still have to oppose what they do, for even in families members may have to be restrained sometimes, even forcibly. But force used in a judicial family spirit is something far different from the revenge of war. And unless we lift the use of force up into some legal, united control we are headed for suicide in this age of Sputniks.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor-at-law, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs H.M. — Howard has turned against his father.

Howard M. — He has no respect for my mother.

Mr. H.M. — She brought him up to despise me.

Mrs. H. M. — I am having a great deal of trouble with my husband and our 16-year-old son, Howard.

Our marriage was not a happy one and we drifted far apart. My husband has always been very critical of me and nasty in his manner. I never knew what Howard took all this in and was hurt for me, but now he has turned against his father in the most awful way. There are constant fights and the two of them have even come to blows.

I realize that the fact that his father has always been a good provider and if I left him, I know I would have to fill and get support from him. He is so vindictive. All I ask is that Howard hold his tongue in front of his father so we can live in peace.

— Reader

Howard M. — Why should I hold my tongue in front of my father when he doesn't hold his in front of my mother? He has no respect for her at all and treats her like dirt.

My mother says he is a good provider, but he is really very stingy with money. I know that he makes much more than he says he does. If my mother left him I wouldn't let her take his filthy money. It wouldn't take long for me to be able to support her as well as he does.

Mr. H. M. — My wife has brought Howard up to despise me and now she blames me for making a problem out of him. She let me know from the start of our marriage that she was only staying with me for the sake of support. Now she suddenly wants peace too!

• •

The Council: Two facts emerge clearly from this very tangle — first, it took two persons to create this misery — and second, that Howard is the innocent and most abused victim of it. Mr. and Mrs. H.M. must either some how supervise pleasure out of torturing themselves and one another. This pleasure is denied Howard.

It would probably be impossible for a child who struck the first blow in this marriage — Mr. H. would have to be "nasty" to his wife or Mrs. H.M. when she let her husband know that she had no love for him.

They ought to know, however, they are both guilty of having brought up this boy on the poison of their contempt for one another. They should be ashamed of their bitterness toward his father, but it is doubtful when he is "nasty" to his wife or Mrs. H.M. when she let her husband know that she had no love for him."

How much damage can be undone here? That depends on how much courage and determination the H.M.'s can muster to help their son. He needs help from some outside help, probably from a social worker who could work with them as a family. They must recognize, however, that they can only help their son without changing themselves.

They should also recognize there is more at stake here than getting some peace and quiet in their home. They must acquire some love and respect for both his parents if he is to have a chance for a reasonably normal and happy adulthood..

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

HOCKEY FRONTS OPEN

With the Senior "A" McFarlande roaring down the schedule trail and well away to a good start, hockey in other parts of the district is getting organized.

In minor hockey, Doug Patterson and Albert Watkins, OMHA executive members, have started off on the right foot with seven leagues, comprising some 28 teams, ready and rarin' to go into action. All loops get under way on December 14.

Included are bantam, midget and juvenile teams, representing Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Cooper, Campbellford, Tweed, Hastings, Norwood, Havelock, Brighton, Warsaw and Frankford.

Strong intermediate loops have been formed under the supervision of OHA president Lorne Cook who is taking a personal interest in the leagues. In the northern section are Frankford, Marmora, Madoc, Bancroft and Campbellford. The southern section is comprised of Napanee, Bond's Falls, Belleville, Brockville and Picton.

The powerful Napanee squad has been taking everything in its stride by overwhelming scores to date, but they may run into a snag when they meet the rest of the clubs, especially that from Picton.

Chris Lockyer, it is stated, is the manager and he is being aided by coaches veteran Joe Scott and Cliff Drew. We understand not a few expatriate Belleville players from Point Anne will line up with the Picton McFarlands as will some from the city.

Wee Willie Menard after some weeks of controversy, has been given an OHA sanction and will line up with the crew from the little "Spanish Town." Willie, we understand, with others from Belleville and Ox Point have been given employment in the new cement manufacturing plant in Picton. The team opens the schedule in Kingston on Monday.

A report from Picton states that Willie will likely line up with Sammy the Man Mulholland and Dougie Hull. Other players known hereabouts who will wear H. J.'s Picton colors are Dave Jacklin, Bert Brooks and Doug Murray. From Wellington comes Bill Austin, Scott, Bill Greer and Hylie Bryant. Bloomfield's gift to the Picton Macs include Robert Whatlam, Jim Guernsey, Keith Stacey, Bob Cornelius and Lou Garrison. Jim Taylor is raised the squad's Number One goalie. Clarke Carr acted out with the squad when switched his hockey affections to Napanee. "Shaker," who played with Frankford last year, was "eased" by the Picton squad but will likely play with the village team. Also army player by the name of Bellemare, raised as some pumpkins in the county loop last season, will likely make the grade.

The Picton Macs have been working out hard and should ice a fairly powerful team. Doug Murray tells us that during a recent workout he hoisted one of the local laddies in no uncertain manner. The fallen one picked himself up, gathered together his shaken feathers and advised Murray: "You're not supposed to do that. We're only rookies."

The OHA junior "B" league is well under way with teams from Peterborough, Belleville, Trenton and Kingston forming the four-team circuit. At the moment the Peterborough squad are heading the parade with Kingston in second slot. Trenton brings up the third spot, while the youngsters from the city are in the cellar with three defeats in as many starts.

Over 1,000 youngsters are cavorting over the ice lanes under the aegis of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association, playing every Wednesday and Saturday.

Speaking of minor hockey Doug Patterson advises us that the second National Minor Hockey Week starts on January 25, coast-to-coast. Last year's "week" was an unqualified success with teams and leagues in all parts of the country staging special attractions to mark the occasion. Teams or leagues planning anything special along minor lines are requested to get in touch with Mr. Patterson at Stirling, so the proper publicity can be given them.

Tarpaulin Protected Field But Experts Were Exposed; Kenny Ploen Versus Faloney

By Jack Sullivan
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers, representing a city whose teams have won three of the seven Grey Cup titles for the West, met Hamilton Tiger-Cats today in the 44th renewal of the football classic. As usual, the Westerners were underdogs.

A heavy wet field appeared likely for the 1 p.m. EST kickoff but rain or shine, a muddy or clear field, the 37,400-seat Varsity Stadium is sold out. Intermittent rain was forecast with winds of 30 miles an hour and a high of 45 degrees but the temperature is expected to drop by mid-afternoon.

The field has been protected by a tarpaulin since mid-week and it won't be lifted until the teams are ready to take the field. Experts say a heavy gridiron would favor the Hamilton ground offense, but they've been wrong before.

They called Montreal Alouettes the last Eastern finalists and this time the Edmonton Eskimos were favored to win. That was unprecedented feat for a Western club since the cup became national in 1921.

ROOKIE IN CHARGE

Now, the Bombers with rookie coach Harry (Bud) Grant at the helm, carry the hopes of the West to retain the trophy presented away back in 1909 by Earl Grey, a sports - minded governor-general.

Winnipeg's Grey Cup record has been anything but impressive.

This is its 14th appearance and so far its teams have won three, starting with the 1-0-1 upset over the old Hamilton Tigers in 1935. That was the first time a Western club had won the trophy and, heartened by this, the blue and gold team was again in 1939 and 1941, both times over Ottawa Rough Riders.

The Bombers and Tiger-Cats met again in 1953, the last time before Montreal and Edmonton filled the final slots. Tiger-Cats won it 12-6 in a game where the outcome was in doubt until the final minute.

STRONG CLUB

There's no question that the Bombers who upset the highly-favored Eskimos in their best-of-three semi-final last week, are one of the strongest clubs to play in this sudden-death spectacle in years.

Ticats are favored at 8-to-5 odds on a three-point bet, or 5½ to six points at 6-to-5 depending on the team you take.

Their attack probably were made on the basis of the good physical condition of the Tiger-Cats, along with the way in which they mauled Montreal Alouettes in two clubs in the east the last three years. The Cats came up with their finest scoring punch of the season in the Big Four playoffs, and the defence had been holding plenty in reserve for the payoff games.

They're a driving, line-battering type of club, much the same as the Bombers. The big difference in today's struggle could be shown by the medical charts.

HIT BY INJURIES

The Westerners are crippled. They were hard hit by injuries through most of the 16-game Western Conference schedule and took additional lumps in the two-game semi-final against Calgary Stampeders and in the three-game set with the Eskimos.

Only nine imports played in the final game against Edmonton but coach Grant will have 12 in uniform today. Most seriously hurt are Leo Lewis, Charlie Shepard, Dennis Mendyk and Pete Manzyuk.

Tiger-Cats, who went through the Big Four season with the least number of injuries of any club in the league, have no real problems. Guard Dave Suminski has a broken hand, but it didn't hold him in the Big Four finals.

WILL WATCH PLOEN

Kenny Ploen, who in one year has gone from the Rose Bowl to the Grey Cup, is considered to be Winnipeg's big threat. The former IOWA star is a breakaway power runner and could possibly keep Ticats off balance by the threat of his passing on the option plays.

Guiding the Eastern champions is Bernie Faloney, who played with the Ticats when they won their last Grey Cup. He didn't throw much this year with such crashing halves as Garry McDougall and Cookie Gilchrist plowing through for big gains, although in the Big Four finals he proved he could pass with the best of them.

Coach Jim Trimble of the Ticats and coach Grant of Bombers predict a high - scoring game. With prospects of a slippery field, chances are it won't be a wide-open game as they say.

Ottawa-Hull Whips Barrie in Brawling Bout

By The Canadian Press

Guelph Biltmores, who had 18 goals scored against them in two mid-week games, started on the comeback trail Friday night.

Sharing four goals with Peterborough foes, Guelph broke an eight-game losing streak to hand an still stuck at the bottom of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A standings.

In a penalty-marred game at Barrie, Ottawa - Hull Canadiens beat the Flyers 6-2.

PETES FINISH FAST

Guelph led 2-0 until the 11th minute of the final period against Peterborough, who shot two goals in three minutes to earn a tie.

George Usitalo and Len Rochford counted the Guelph goals. Wayne Boddy and Bill Mahoney scoring for Peterborough.

In the first period of the Barrie Canadiens duel Flyers' Bob Blackburn set out two minors and a 10-minute misconduct penalty while Canadiens' Ralph Buchanan served three minors and a 10-minute misconduct.

Bill Carter paced Canadiens with three goals. The others came from Bob Blackburn, Ron Ford and Claude Richard. Billy Forhan and Bernie Cote were the Barrie marksmen.

Miss Supertest Loses World Speedboat Title

SEATTLE (AP)—Roaring out of the vomi-darkness after a day of frustration, Jack Regas drove his huge unlimited hydroplane Hawaii Kai III to a world's record 194.669 miles an hour Friday evening on Lake Washington's lightly ruffled surface.

The big boat gained the first measured kilometer at 199.726 m.p.h. and then averaged 189.573 on the return run for an average 10 miles faster than the record set Oct. 1 by Miss Supertest on Bay of Quinte, Lake Ontario. Mirs Supertest, owned by Stanley Sayres of London, Ont., was driven by Arthur C. Ashcroft, 38, of London and Octongue Lake, Ont.

TO TRY FOR 200

Regas himself is satisfied with his speed and said he would return today, weather and other conditions permitting, for a crack at the hydroplaner's dream—200 miles an hour.

His time Friday also was faster than any propeller driven hydroplane ever had been clocked on the measured mile, averaging 182.339 m.p.h. The previous fastest mile was 178.497 by Slo-mo-shun IV in 1952, on the same Washington.

The Kai appeared on its way in the morning to an official timing when it blew a supercharger and had to be towed to the pair.

Regas' performance tended to eclipse another record — setting performance. That was by Roger Penske's 2,000 h.p. Cadillac, in his seven-liter Galloping Gael.

Murphy gunned his smaller craft to 183.398 m.p.h., bettering the old mark of 182.399 set by George Byers Jr., of Hollywood, Fla., in Miss de Soto IV.

Officials Met To Study Rules Kinks

By Bernard DuPresne
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Officials of today's Grey Cup final huddled with their Canadian Rugby Union bosses today to iron out some of the interpretative kinks in the rules.

The meeting in a hotel room, with representatives of the opposing Winnipeg Blue Bombers—in attendance, agreed to follow CRU rules.

This may mean that the game, will take close to 3½ hours, instead of an average of about one hour and 50 minutes in Western League games. The clock may be stopped more often than is usual in the West.

CAN STOP CLOCK

Referee Paul Dojack of Regina said after a meeting between his six officials and CRU and team representatives that he would use discretion to stop the clock or let it run between plays.

He pointed out, however, he would signal time-out for such things as discussions with the team captains, injuries, penalties, out-of-bounds plays, scoring plays, changes of possession, long gains, and substitutions.

Dojack said he doesn't "eat" as just about anything beyond 10 yards.

The Western Interprovincial Football Union games the clock does not stop on punts, pass plays and long runs. Time is allowed to go on as the teams form again for scrimmage.

In the eastern Big Four the clock is stopped on all big gains.

Dojack said that 20 seconds will be allowed 20 seconds for huddles and to put the ball in play, the time limit of the Big Four. In the WIFU, the teams are allowed 25 seconds.

OVERTIME RULES

In the event of a tie score at the end of regulation time, the teams would get a five-minute rest period. In the east, the teams may not leave the field, although the players will be allowed to go to their benches.

They then would play 20 minutes overtime, broken into two 10-minute periods. A five-minute rest would follow the first 10 minutes.

A kickoff would start each overtime period. A team that won the toss before the game has the option to kick or receive in the first overtime period and the other club gains the choice of kicks. At the end of this 10-minute period, the team that lost the original toss, has the option. The same procedure would be followed in any additional overtime.

Anderson Wins Aussie Crown

ADELAIDE (AP)—Mal Anderson won the South Australian tennis championship today by beating veteran Mervyn Rose 6-3, 6-2, 4-6, 2-6, 6-4 in the Australian final. Anderson thus virtually assured himself of a berth on the Aussie Davis Cup team for the challenge round.

Earlier Angela Mortimer, Great Britain, won the women's crown by defeating Lorraine Coghlan, Australia, 6-4, 6-2.

Russ Rack up Second Victory While North Bay Trappers 6-3

NORTH BAY (CP)—Any ideas that Whitby Dunlops are a shoo-in for the world amateur hockey championship should have evaporated by now.

Moscow Selects, many of whose players probably will be on the Russian team which meets Whitby in world title play next February, now have a good chance of finishing their eight-game Canadian tour with a winning record.

Friday night the Russians whipped North Bay Trappers 6-3 to give them two wins, two losses and a tie in their five games. The contest was added to the tour Wednesday. Selects play three more games.

The Selects' victories have come in their last two games, a strong indication they're improving.

Their losses—7-2 to Whitby and 4-2 to Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen — were to teams stronger than Trappers and Sudbury Wolves, whom they beat 7-4 Thursday night, but their speed and conditioning proved to be decided. Their tie was a 5-5 draw with Windsor Bulldogs Sunday.

RED-GOALIE SHARP

The big factor Friday was Moscow netminder Yevgeney Erkin. Playing after a sleepless night, Erkin astounded the near-capacity crowd of 2,767 by stopping 43 shots. Trappers had only 24 shots on the North Bay net.

Valeriu Eystrov scored twice to give Russia a 3-0 first period lead and Vladimir Novozhilov also had a pair, one of them the only goal at the end of the game. Vladimir Pelizarov and Yevgeny Kopplov scored the other Moscow goals.

Kenny Gribbons counted Trappers' first goal in the second period after the score was tied. Yevgeny Poeta added another in the second and Stan Maxwell scored in the third.

Trappers' regular Denis Bordeur relinquished his post to substitute Ed Mitchell after the first period but the sharp - shooting Selects had no difficulty with Mitchell, who was removed for a sixth attacker in the dying minutes, before Novozhilov's goal.

CALL ON RESERVES

Playing their second game in as many nights, the Selects showed no signs of weariness, but did use four players—one of them Bystrov — who had seen little service previously.

Only five penalties, three to Trappers, were called during the game, lowest total of the tour.

Selects now have a one-day holiday before their Sunday game against Ottawa-Hull Canadiens in Hull. Though the Canadiens are a junior squad their record against Senior A clubs this year has been good. They will be strengthened by the addition of goaltender Bruce Gamble and defenceman Harry Chevrier from Guelph Biltmores.

FLYWEIGHT TITLE FIGHT

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—World flyweight champion Pascual Perez of Argentina is a heavy favorite to beat Young Martin, the European 118½ pound champion from Spain, in a 15-round title bout tonight. A crowd of 80,000 is expected.

McFarlands Spot Kingston Three Goals; Tie 4-4 In Overtime Thriller

Foemen Battle Desperately To Nip Long Losing Streak; Davis Robs Macs of Victory

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The Kingston CKLC's playing desperation hockey after seven straight defeats, broke their winless string in a thrilling four-all overtime tie with the Belleville McFarlands here last night.

This tie drew the McFarlands up on even terms with the Whitby Dunlops at the top of the Eastern Ontario senior "A" league, both having 19 points. Kingston crept a point closer to the Ottawa-Hull Canadiens at the bottom of the heap.

The wild-hungry CKLC's drove hard for the final two periods with the McFarlands showing little effectiveness around the nets Kingston led 4-1 going into the final frame. The Macs came to stunning life in the closing chapter, scoring three unanswered tallies to knot the count. They clearly outplayed the enemy in the overtime period, outshooting them 9-2 with the sensational work of Lynn Davis in the Kingston net standing between them and victory.

Davis was a one-man defence in the thrilling overtime session. Twice he stopped point blank McFarlands who had broken in to the clear, Hildebrand at first and then Guidolin, but he coolly stood his ground and outguessed the fleeting forwards.

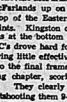
The game was compartively clean with little or no rugged stuff shown by either side. Referee Jack Shropshire handed out eleven penalties, all minors, six going to the McFarlands.

The teams split a pair of goals in the first period and Kingston took over in the middle frame, ramming home three goals without a reply. With Davis and his defence standing out and the Macs showing little potency in front of the nets, Kingston appeared headed for certain victory. They reversed the situation in the third period and the regulation time ended all even.

The McFarlands skated miles, outshooting Kingston 18-3 in the first period and plainly were outplayed in most of the Kingston net while Linn Davis came up with some sensational saves.

The game was only 1.41 minutes old when Kingston hit paydirt, Roy Partridge whipping the puck past Bell in a fine effort with Bellinger.

Five minutes later Bellringer got the first of the two penalties of the period but the Macs failed to take advantage of the manpower, until with 17 seconds to go Bep Guidolin swept in front of the goal in a familiar effort and beat the goalie. Bob Pratt started the play and was credited with an assist.



Play was fast and the checking close and with seconds to go Moe Bouvier was chased for high sashing. The period ended all-even.

The win-hungry Kingston club went all out in the second period, netting the advantage of play and outshooting the Macs 20-3. They rapped home three goals to take a 4-1 period lead and they deserved every one of them.

Bellringer put the visitors one up when Moore dug the puck out of a corner and swept it out to the forward who made no mistake.

The Macs were plainly outclicked in front of the enemy nets with the Kingston defence playing tight close-knit hockey.

Benoit and Crawford went off within seconds of each other, then Tilley got the gate to relieve the pressure but both defences held.

The Macs poured on the pressure at this point and on a daring desperate drive, Bart Bradley fired the puck behind Davis while he was on his knees to square the count. Kowalchuk and Hildebrand were given assists on the play.

It was nearly all Macs and Davis in the overtime thriller. They were all around the youngster who played a magnificent game in keeping the league leaders off the scoresheet. He stopped Hildebrand on Guidolin cold on his doorstep, Gordie Bell stopped two shots in close, Kowalchuk the Macs outshot Kingston 40-28 in the game.

Partridge, Bellringer, Levandoski and Senior were the Kingston marksmen with Tilley drawing two assists, Bellringer, Moore and Colvin having one each.

Guidolin, Goyer, Brown and Bradley triggered the Macs goals with Menard having two assists, and Payette, Crawford, Marineau, Botley, Kowalchuk and Hildebrand one each.

Four minutes later Senior pushed the puck past Bell to leave the Macs three goals in arrears. Hildebrand got the gate at 17.35 but no damage was done.

Kowalchuk got a cheap penalty opening the third period and a minute later was followed by Levandoski. Bukacheski went off at 3.19 and the Macs sparked into life. Gerry Goyer brought the crowd to its feet when he tipped Menard's pass past Davis and the Macs had a new lease on life. A minute later Wiener Brown slammed home the second Belleville goal of the period to make the

On the Tracks

NEW YORK (AP) — Swoon's Son was a slight favorite today in the invitational $50,000 Pimlico Special at Baltimore, while Eddie Schmidt was expected to rule the choice for the $50,000-added Display Handicap at Jamaica on Long Island.

These are the two major stakes on the day's racing calendar.

Swoon's Son, owned by E. Gay Drake, is second-ranked money winner in the world with $766,902. A winner of 20 stakes in three years of racing, Swoon's Son meets three rivals in the mile and the six-furlong special.

His toughest opponent appears to be Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Promised Land, which won three straight Jamaica stakes in the last three weeks. E. T. Cheney's pair Third Brother and Howell F. Jackson's Flick Tock also will start in the race, worth $25,000 to the winner.

Eleven were entered for the Display at Jamaica, a 2 1-16 miles marathon, longest stakes run on the New York program. The Display closes down the New York season of 1953 at Jamaica, longest in history.

Walleye Fishing in the Fall

Most followers of the outdoor sports, by the time late October and early November roll around, regard their outdoors largely in terms of shotgun and rifle shooting. Meanwhile, they pass up some mighty fancy fishing — and some exceedingly tasty table fare. Walleye, in the summertime, are fun to catch. They take beneficial hores and give you a pretty good scrap for their weight. As food, they are just about tops in the fresh-water group.

When the cold days of early fall arrive, the walleye speed up their feeding program just to do the bass. However, they are still scattered about, generally lying in deep water. But they do in the summer months.

But when the weather becomes really cold, and the water along with it, the walleye move into winter quarters. They have done a good feeding job and built up layers of fat in preparation for the winter, and they get ready to do things out until warm weather arrives once more.

Nature tells the walleye that the safe place to spend the winter is in deep water. You will find them schooled-up in pools that are 30 feet or more deep. There they stay, feeding but little, taking their ease during the cold weather.

My son, Dick, and I have a friend who was born and raised on a lake in the Canadian bush town. One day he phoned us and asked us to come up. He claimed he had something to show us. We did, and there with head and tail protruding from the end-grain of a dishpan, was a walleye that weighed a little over eight pounds.

After much negotiation and conversation, our friend agreed to take Dick and me fishing. Dick returned home that evening with his walleye that he had caught up our kitchen sink. The smallest was over six pounds while the largest weighed nearly nine.

Of course, Dick was sworn to secrecy before he got permission to take me to this magic walleye location, so away we went a few days later.

THE EXACT SPOT

Finding the exact spot required a bit of engineering. While I rowed the boat, Dick took cross bearings on certain conspicuous landmarks. How ten feet that way; now about 40 feet over to the point; while I take soundings. After fifteen or twenty minutes of this sort of thing we dropped anchor.

Cold-weather walleye fishing is, after all, a job for bait and bait only. We used spinning rigs and six-pound nylon monofilament. The bait was a pailful of medium-size red-fin minnows. No sinker was used. The minnows were hooked lightly through the bases of the dorsal fins so that they were free to swim where they would, the weight of the hook holding them close to bottom.

When the walleye takes a minnow in cold weather, there is no strike. The only indication is that the minnow stops moving about. Then you tighten line, very gently, until you can feel the fish. That done, you wait until the fish moves. Sometimes this takes several minutes. However, if you try to hurry the procedure, more often than not you will fail to connect when you try to set the hook.

By and large, as fishing goes, it is rather dull, chilly business, but the rewards are great. Seldom do you see fish a small fish, most of them topping the four-pound mark. Dick looked over that day which was by far the largest walleye I have seen, dead or alive. When he brought it to the surface, he made Dick's tenpounder look like a chub by comparison, but the hook, unfortunately, pulled free after about 15 minutes of give-and-take battle.

We took the spoils of our journey ashore, and cleaned them out. Only the fillets were used, cut carefully to avoid all bones. If there is any better table fare in the fresh-water fish line, I have yet to sample it.

Incidentally, there is a trick to freezing fish that is worth knowing. Wrapping in waxed paper and aluminum foil simply does not do the trick. Oxidation sets in and the delicate flavor is lost.

We place our fish in a pan of water, so that the entire fish is submerged. Then we freeze the whole business. This done, we take the cake of ice and fish out of the pan and wrap that in paper and aluminum. Fish thus frozen will taste, three months later, as though they were caught yesterday.

Wolves Whip Greyhounds 6-1; Dutchies Win

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

League-leading Soo Greyhounds who have been imposing shut-outs against all comers in the OHA-NOHA Senior A squads recently, were on the receiving end Friday night. Last-place Sudbury Wolves beat them 6-1.

And while the Greyhounds were faltering, second-ranking Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen were defeating Chatham Maroons 6-4.

The win took Dutchmen to within a point of Greyhounds who have played a game more than the Kitchener squad.

In an Ontario Hockey Association Eastern Senior A game, Belleville McFarlands tied Whitby Dunlops for top spot in the standings, by drawing with Kingston CKLCs 4-4.

Sudbury's victory was only the fifth in 19 starts for George Senick and Joe Mala sparked Wolves' attack with two goals apiece. Bobby Farhan and Bill McDonagh had singles. Jim McBurney scored Greyhounds' consolation goal.

Kitchener powered its way to victory with two goals in each period. It was the first shutout of the season for Kitchener's Boat Hurley.

Dinny Flanagan, Gerry Theberge, Billy Flick, Ken Laufman, Jack Sloddart and Bill Wylie were Dutchmen's scorers.

Belleville, trailing 4-1 at the start of the final period, hit back with three goals in five minutes.

Roy Partridge, Don Bellringer, Joe Levandoski, and Don Senior scored for Kingston, while Bep Guidolin, Gerry Goyer, Weiner Brown and Barton Bradley tallied for McFarlands.

Vaughn Gets Verdict Over Tiger Jones

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Vaughn and Ralph (Tiger) Jones, usually the hard-luck guys of the middleweight division, each have something to be happy about today after their hard-fought scrap in Madison Square Garden.

Willie finally had a garden decision and a victory over Jones on it that—to his credit and a promise of another international bout. Club main event scene. The Tiger keeps his date with contender Gil Turner at Miami Beach Dec. 27.

Vaughn, an 8-5 favorite, staged a rousing rally in the last half to earn the nod from the three officials. The scores were: Referee Teddy Martin, 7-3; Judge Frank Forbes, 5-5-2, and Judge Bert Grant, 6-4.

The two aggressive middleweights rubbed on short notice this week when the lightweight tussle between Paolo Rosi and Johnny Busso was called off for an infected left eye early in the week.

Jones, idle three months and heavy at 160 pounds (Vaughn weighed 161), slowed up noticeably after the fourth round. From the fifth on Willie took command.

Wembley Lions Playing Coach Still Scoring Goals at 43

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Sonny Rost doesn't look like a hockey player at first.

The Winnipeg - born player-coach of Wembley Lions has a fragile appearance that belies the strength of his wiry five-foot, six-inch frame. But at 43, an age when most athletes are resigned to leafing through scrap books, Rost is playing his 24th season in the British National Hockey League with all the enthusiasm of a rookie.

"Age doesn't matter," says Rost. "The main thing is to keep in condition all year round."

He patterns his keep-fit program after that used by professional boxers—lots of road work. "The legs are the main thing. If they are strong, it is easy to keep going."

Rost averages about three miles of running daily and in the summer augments the program with occasional rounds of golf, tennis and swimming.

The first started playing on open - air rinks in Winnipeg, where his father, Charlie Rost, was a railway car inspector. Sharing the same sheets of ice at the time were such future NHL stars as Alex Shibicky of New York Rangers and Frank Pratt of Toronto. A poor skater, he gravitated to the blue line after a time at the start and became a defenceman.

He graduated to junior ranks with Winnipeg Monarchs and was a member of the Kenora senior team that won the Manitoba Junior crown in the spring of 1934. A few years later, he was on his way to England.

Britain's National Hockey League was then in its infancy. In 1936 with an exhibition game between Wembley Lions and Wembley Canadians. And Rost, wearing the uniform of the now defunct Canadians, not only banded out some crushing body checks but scored a goal and set up another. Since then, he has played in more than 1,000 league matches—and that no other player seems likely to match.

In 1949, he took over as coach at Wembley, but reverted to straight player status two years later. He retired midway through the 1954-55 season, then came back the next year. And this year, he's back as player-coach at Wembley's Empire Pool. His Lions are currently staging a race for first place with Harringay Racers, crushed by Jim Glennis of Portage la Prairie, Man. Glennis, another veteran of the English hockey wars, now is his 12th season.

Rost, married and father of three children—two girls and a boy—supplements his hockey income by helping instal hydraulic equipment on jet fighters being built for the British navy at an aircraft factory near Wembley.

Like everyone else, Rost sighs for the "good old days". When the emphasis was on pattern-passing plays and stickhandling. "Today, it's just shoot the puck into the corner and skate, skate, skate. That's hard on an old man."

Fuse of All-Night Parties Lights Grey Cup Explosion Of Sound, Color in Hotels

TORONTO (CP) — It took a while, but Grey Cup city erupted today into the sound and color traditionally associated with Canada's foremost sports spectacle.

The fuse was lit at all-night parties and by howling crowds in the downtown hotel lobbies.

Crowds that were subdued Thursday and relatively quiet early Friday began to whoop it up during the night and never stopped. Today, as the bands and met the special trains and Grey Cup fervor rolled to a peak.

It exploded in the annual mammoth pre-game parade.

The colors of the competing teams — Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Hamilton Tiger-Cats — were dominated, but also seen were the green and gold of Edmonton and the red-and-white of visiting the hollering Habitants from Montreal.

The kilted 48th Highlanders of Canada band led off the parade as a pipe-wailing escort to Carol Lucas, 18, of Bunaby, B.C., queen of this year's Grey Cup.

From there on, it was bands, girls, more bands and more girls.

"Who needs Sputnik?" screamed a sign. "We have the Bombers."

Cages of papier mache tigers rolled to parade assembly floats with "Tigers—Eat 'em raw," the main sentiment.

Carol Lucas sat chilled on the back of a snappy convertible she won as Miss Grey Cup, 1957.

Calgary chuckwagons were pulled through packed crowds around the Royal York Hotel as the drivers fought t ohold in their whinhing horses in the surging mobs.

In the hotels, hawk-eyed bell boys stood guard to stamp out cigaret butts dropped on lobby carpets as the hordes surged through.

Kilted pipers marched in hotel lobbies and drummers hammered away in the streets wherever there was room.

AND A ROUSING GOOD TIME WAS HAD BY ALL!

Taking time out from the hectic whirl of Grey Cup weekend festivities in Toronto are the 13 friendly rivals for the coveted Miss Grey Cup crown. Lucky winner, Miss B. C. Lion, was crowned by Mrs. John Diefenbaker and presented with a sports car convertible. To quality, the girls had to be single, between 16 and 21, and not professional models. From left are: Adele Grace, Miss Ottawa Rough Rider; Pat Hall, Miss London Lords; Sylvia Rubin, Miss Montreal Alouettes; Marjorie Booth, Miss Argonaut; Phyllis Stevens, Miss Edmonton Eskimo; Carol Lucas, Miss B. C. Lion; Rhonda Baker, Miss Saskatchewan Roughrider; Sylvia Swyjow, Miss Hamilton Tiger-Cat; Hedy Flis, Miss Kitchenes -Waterloo Dutchman; Mary McLaughlin, Miss Calgary Stampeder; Sandra Irvine, Miss Sarnia Golden Bear; Joan London, Miss Balmy Beach, and Maureen Finn, Miss Winnipeg Blue Bomber.

Eisenhower's Slight Stroke Shakes Stock Markets Due To Uncertainty Over Future

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Uncertainty — a bugbear of stock markets — pushed prices into a vulnerable position this week on Canadian stock exchanges following President Eisenhower's slight stroke.

On Tuesday prices of key issues tumbled freely and trading in the final 15 minutes on the Toronto and Montreal exchanges was heavier than in any hour during the rest of the session.

Unlike the two preceding Eisenhower illnesses—the first in Sept. 1955, and the second in June, 1956 — the markets rebounded the next day almost as suddenly as they had dropped off.

The losses which hit the most Tuesday regained at least three-quarters of their declines in the first hour Wednesday. The rally continued in Canada Thursday and Friday.

Why do stock markets react in this a depressing manner to news of the president's illness?

Brokers say uncertainty causes the selloffs. This action not, because the president is ill but rather about the outcome should he be incapacitated and have to resign.

A change in the U.S. presidency could mean a change in thought towards industry and other factors which affect the market.

As far as Canadian markets are concerned a change in the American government would be indirectly affect them. They follow Wall Street's pattern in most cases and if the New York market tumbled or rose, markets in Canada, in all probability, would do likewise.

Index changes this week at Toronto: industrials up 1.88 to 411.32; golds up .25 to 70.12; base metals up 1.54.36; western oils up 2.76 to 137.06.

Of 788 issues traded, 320 advanced, 301 declined and 167 were unchanged. Volume was 8,000,000 compared with 8,065,000 the previous week.

Index changes at Montreal: Banks off .30 to 46.04; utilities up 2.1 to 134.8; industrials up 1.1 to 236.2; combined up 1.5 to 202.4; papers up 48.11 to 1,098.66; golds up 1.42 to 66.50.

Week's volume at Montreal: 240,922 industrials and 1,382,461 mines compared with 342,818 industrials and 1,270,358 mines and previous week. Of 343 issues traded, 111 declined and 111 were unchanged.

Eisenhower Suffers Slight Stroke

By WALTER BREEDE Jr.

NEW YORK (AP)—News President Eisenhower's m stroke jarred business sentim this week. But the shock temporary.

By week's end merchan salesmen, bankers and brok had apparently convinced the selves that the president's illn hadn't changed a thing.

The first announcement stir fears that business confide already weakened by layo cutbacks, Sputniks, a fall stock market and a shorter th normal Christmas shopping s son, might be in for a furt jolt.

This queasiness was heighte by Tuesday's sickening plunge stock prices. Then came w that Eisenhower was mak rapid progress toward recove The stock market bounced ba with a powerful upward surg WORLD-WIDE NEWS

Meanwhile there was plenty other news for businessmen ponder.

Economists reported a cont ued $ 184,000 floss. It was 462,000 tons in Thanksgivi Week last year.

Salesmen for steel companie were warned that they are e lering the toughest market th industry has faced since 1954.

There were further signs o speeding up the U.S. rocket mi sles program. The Atomic Energ Commission announced tentativ plans for testing nuclear rocke propulsion, but said the test probably wouldn't start until la next year.

MORE SHIPS FOR TURKEY

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — Capt Cecil Eyicegoglu, Turkish naval attache, said Thursday night hi country has arranged to get fou more ships from the Canadian navy's mothball fleet. Five Ban class escort vessels are t be turned over to the Turkis navy here Friday and five more later. Capt. Eyicegoglu indicated in a television interview tha Turkey now will take 14 ships in all.

Applauds 'Sense of Urgency' Evident in Missile Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (Dem. Minn.), applauding recent moves to strengthen United States missiles capability, said today he hopes "the sense of urgency will not evaporate as time goes on."

Humphrey called on the Eisenhower administration to "come to Congress with a program that is equal to the demands of national security and survival, and commensurate with the scope of the Soviet menace"—even if such a program should require higher taxes.

The Minnesota senator spoke out in an interview after these developments:

1. The U.S. Air Force announced a number of organizational shifts in connection with efforts to put long-range U.S. missiles on an operational basis. One of the most important of these moves was transfer of responsibility for both intercontinental and intermediate range ballistic missiles in their "initial operational capability phase" from the Air Research and Development Command to the Strategic Air Command. The SAC is in charge of the U.S. retaliatory striking force, including long-range nuclear bombers.

2. Secretary of State Dulles, air force chief of staff, announced that the air force is working on an anti-missile missile called the Wizard. White said its perfection "will be a terrifically difficult problem, but I think we will lick it."

Humphrey welcomed these new moves, along with a recently-announced decision to order production of the army's Jupiter and Thor air force's Thor, both of them intermediate range ballistic missiles with a planned range of up to 1,500 miles.

He said recent testimony before the Senate preparedness sub-committee, investigating the U.S. missiles program, indicates Russia is ahead of the U.S. in important areas of rocketry.

Humphrey said "it is high time to have national policy set in motion, to the utmost . . ."

While did not go into detail of the Wizard. But other specialists have suggested that a nuclear device used to detonate in space could destroy enemy rockets before they reach their intended targets.

These loyal Winnipeg fans thoughtfully brought along a pick, in case Gerry James and Co. need some help in penetrating the rugged Hamilton Tiger-Cat line. One intrepid Blue Bomber supporter even said he would mortgage his house to bet on the gold and blue—if he could get 3-to-1 odds.

"Western fans cheer for anybody," is Frances Christie's explanation of why she is sporting both a Winnipeg pennant and a "Love Those Exks" button. To add to the confusion, Frances hails from Regina. "I hated Winnipeg when Regina was playing them. I love them now," says this fickle fan. She is one of 9,000 western fans who poured into Toronto by plane, train, bus and car for Canada's most colorful sports spectacle.

Finest Tenor Since Caruso, Beniamino Gigli, 67, Is Dead

ROME (Reuters) — Beniamino Gigli, son of an Italian shoemaker who became a world-famous operatic and concert singer, died at his villa here today of pneumonia. He was 67.

Gigli retired two-years ago because, he said, he could no longer stand the strain of concerts, many of which he gave in Canada.

Gigli's family said the famed tenor had been ill for months with a heart ailment. At noon Friday he was stricken by bronchial pneumonia and died 24 hours later.

For 30 years, Gigli appeared on stages throughout the world and was acclaimed by music lovers as the greatest tenor since fellow-Italian Enrico Caruso.

Gigli began his career as a barkeep in the Sistine Chapel and became a tenor at the age of 24.

Gigli first became known to the world through his phonograph records of his golden voice. Later, he was seen by millions on the stage, screen and television.

His voice is said to be known to more people than that of any living singer.

Teen-Age Boy, Detective Are Wounded in Fight

KINGSTON (CP) — Police today investigated a 10-minute gun battle on a residential street in this city between a detective and a teen-age boy were wounded. No charges have been laid.

Detective Charles St. Remy was shot in the chest when he and another detective Friday night went to investigate reports of a youth firing a .303-calibre rifle in the neighborhood.

Charles Caid, 17, was shot in the right arm and chest.

The youth was reported in good condition but hospital authorities said complications had developed with the detective.

Police said the youth hit the second man shooting at the detectives after shouting: "Come and get me."

Sgt. Rimy, who took cover behind a tree, was wounded when he stepped into the open. The tree and a telephone pole were shattered by bullets and a window on a nearby grocery store was smashed.

Two Airmen Die In German Crash

BADEN-BADEN, Germany (Reuters)—Two RCAF members were killed Friday night when their car and a German truck collided near here, police said today.

Police identified them only as Alexander Morris, 21, and William Kenny Burns, 32.

Older Men Stand Strain Better, Drinks Help Bear South Pole Life

McMURDO SOUND Antarctica (AP)—Among 18 Americans who wintered at the South Pole the older men stood up better than the young ones.

The doctor who took care of them says the older men often were more capable of doing hard work under adverse circumstances. They also were better able to maintain the pace.

Lieut. Howard C. Taylor, 27, of the navy medical corps reports:

"It is a fallacy to assume that youth implies vigor and enthusiasm. It would appear that the ideal age for a polar group would be 30 to 45 years."

Dr. Taylor also reported the relaxation produced by alcoholic drinks is a potent instrument for dissolving the unpleasantness that sometimes springs up between closely-confined individuals.

"Where there is no liberty, no women and no off-base activity," Dr. Taylor added, "Drinks of good quality are a welcome addition to a diet consisting mainly of dehydrated and canned foods."

Parents Ordered To Pay $50,331

MONTREAL (CP)—Parents of a 15-year-old boy were ordered Friday to pay $50,331 to a man injured in an accident involving a truck driven by the juvenile.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Perras, parents of Pierre Perras, were held responsible by superior court for damages to be paid to David Cimcross of Montreal, injured three years ago when his auto was struck by a truck owned by Mrs. Perras and driven by her son.

The action had been brought by the Quebec work accident commission. The parents, from Iberville, Que., were ordered to repay $24,440 already paid to Cimcross by the commission plus another $25,891. The victim's disability was set at 50 per cent.

Mr. Justice Hector Perrier said in his judgment that the juvenile had been driving since he was six years old and had lied about his age, with the knowledge of his father to get a driving licence.

ALDERMAN

ON MONDAY, DECEMBER 2nd

TO THE ELECTORS OF BELLEVILLE:

I ask your support for re-election as Alderman on Monday, December 2nd.

I was born in Belleville in 1909 and have been a life long resident in this city. My religion is Jewish, married, three children.

I have served as one of your aldermen during the years 1933, 1934, 1935, 1936; 1954, 1955, 1956 and 1957.

During 1955 and 1956, your council had enough confidence in me to appoint me as Chairman of Public Works, the largest spending department in City Hall. There has never been any scandal, trouble with contractors, etc. in this department under my chairmanship.

In dealing with contractors and others, every precaution was taken to protect your tax dollars. I think you will agree that in general roads, sidewalks, etc., have been kept in a good state of repair. This type of work is never finished. One can only do the best each year with the money in the budget for this department.

In 1955 I promised the taxpayers in Parkwood Heights that the faulty sidewalks built when I was not a member of council would be replaced. About half of this work has been done and I hope to get this job finished next year.

I have never dodged any issue at City Hall, and have assumed my responsibility at all times.

The taxpayers and electors who use the bus line will recall that I strongly opposed the elimination of certain services and the increase in fares, which I thought were unjustified for, and an injustice to the taxpayers who pay for the roads, and to you who use the bus line.

As a substantial taxpayer, I am naturally interested in the future of Belleville, and you can depend on me to watch your tax dollars. There are plenty of problems ahead for us all.

If you feel my experience and service in the past merit your support,

VOTE SAFE on DEC. 2nd

Sincerely,
Alderman Benjamin Safe

MAYOR

TO INSURE THIS CONSTRUCTIVE

9 POINT PROGRAM FOR BELLEVILLE!

Reading Time 7 Minutes and 40 Seconds.

TO THE CITIZENS OF BELLEVILLE . . . .

As your candidate for election to the office of Mayor of the City of Belleville, I present to you my "Nine Point Program for Belleville" — a program which I believe will excite and merit your confidence in my candidacy. The nine points represent a positive approach to civic problems as I see them for the future, based on experience gained during the past 5 years.

1. TAXES

Let us begin with taxes. You and I both know that municipal property taxes are high and in spite of increased revenue from higher assessment every year our costs seem to rise at a greater rate because of a greater demand for municipal services and because of the minor inflationary era in which we live.

With the experience I have had for the past 3 years as chairman of your finance and budget committees, I am convinced that more financial assistance for cities like ours must be forthcoming from both Federal and Provincial Governments if we are to provide our citizens with the services they are entitled to and need.

As your mayor I will use the influence of this office to emphatically impress upon our senior governments the need for more assistance and urge other cities to join us in our requests.

2. INDUSTRY

Any discussion of taxes must of necessity lead to point number 2—a proper ration between residential and industrial assessments.

Everyone agrees that Belleville requires new industry both to provide a constant source of employment and also to help equalize the taxation ratio which presently is overbalanced on the residential side. Now — How do we get new industries? As a member this year of your Industrial Commission, I have noted request after request for information about available sites in Belleville. Ladies and gentlemen — within the city itself, there is virtually nothing available that is suitable for industrial purposes. As your mayor I will see that property selected areas in the lands likely to be annexed to the city are reserved for industrial purposes. Experience has shown that industry will not open suitable locations are available and in my judgment more industry is one of Belleville's greatest needs.

3. PARKS AND SCENIC DEVELOPMENT

The long view of planning industrial expansion leads us to the next point—Parks and Scenic Development. It has always been my opinion that Belleville is greatly in need of better civic parks and with the sites that are available in the City and its immediate surroundings, I intend to give leadership in this important field. When annexation comes, suitable areas must be set aside and reserved for green belts and parks and I propose that a special committee of council be formed to work with the Parks Commission in the choosing of sites and the planning for early development.

4. COMMUNITY CENTRE PLANNING

Planning must begin for another community necessity, to improve a situation that is adequate for the time being, but will require careful consideration in the not too distant future and I have reference to point No. 4—a Community Centre Planning Committee. Belleville needs a modern community and civic centre. It is high time that with the great interest in our citizenry securing a new centre at the Fair Grounds that something should be done. As your mayor, I will call for the formation of a citizens planning committee encompassing those interested in sport, recreation, drama, music and other cultural fields to work with council on the planning and the method of financing such a building.

5. MAJOR CAPITAL EXPENDITURES

In referring to any major capital expenditures such as a community centre or a sewage disposal system brings me to Point No. 5—Major Capital Expenditures. I insist that "Ability To Pay" must be one of the prime considerations in planning and carrying out the large capital expenditures with which we will be faced over the next few years, so that none of us will be burdened beyond financial endurance because of poor planning in this regard.

6. COUNCIL-MANAGER FORM OF GOVERNMENT

You know my position on this matter. It has always been very clear. I am fully convinced that a council-manager form of government with its corollary, a reduced council, would better serve the citizens interest with greater efficiency of operation and with reductions in costs. That is my unqualified opinion! But let me make this clear — as your mayor I will accept the wishes of the people on any policy decision such as this which might be rendered from time to time.

7. DOWNTOWN PARKING

As your mayor, I intend to advocate and promote the establishment of a full fledged parking authority, whose members would be independent of council, and whose duty it would be to plan, administer and control off-street parking in the downtown area. The authority would be financially self supporting through meter revenue.

8. ROADS

(A problem obvious to us all with the gas installation now underway).

Here again, some long range planning is required. Every year we budget in excess of $100,000 for road repair and maintenance. I believe and suggest that these same monies — wisely spent — could be used towards replacement of worn out roadways and that over an approximate 20 year period we would replace our streets completely. This would mean better streets with less upkeep cost.

9. SIDEWALKS

As with roads we are budgeting, annually, monies for sidewalk repair. Again some long range planning applied to this same expenditure would eventually replace all of our worn out sidewalks and I don't know how many of you regularly use our sidewalks — I knew in my own case I don't get nearly enough opportunities to take my children for a walk — but when I do it amazes me how uneven, how broken up, heaved up with tree roots and the generally deplorable condition that many of our sidewalks are in. A program of replacement is a requirement here.

That, ladies and gentlemen is my "Nine Point Program for Belleville"

Since announcing my candidacy for the office of mayor I have been greatly heartened by the large number of citizens who have promised assistance and wished me well. Citizens of every religious belief, every political party, from every section of city have encouraged me in this campaign for which I am very grateful. I am grateful because these endorsements would seem clear proof that the people of Belleville do not feel that any of these things should be a determining factor in the choice of their municipal leaders.

While my own religious affiliation and political allegiance are well known to you all, I say to you that I am an independent candidate for the office of Mayor of the City of Belleville, that I am not a machine backed candidate and as my record on council will prove, after careful thought and investigation, I make up my own mind on every issue which comes before the council, believing then, that that opinion is in the best interests of all our citizens.

It is on that basis and on the understanding that I will carry out the "Nine Point Program" that I have offered to you, that I earnestly solicit your support on Monday next.

Thank You.

Gerald Hyde.

IVANHOE

Re-Dedication Service Held

IVANHOE — The congregation of the Ivanhoe Standard Church met last Sunday afternoon for a re-dedication of the church.

An impressive service was conducted by the Rev. R. Yoteary, presiding elder, also pastor of the church. The presentation for dedication was made by trustee Burton Moore, who was the first Infant presented for baptism in this church, along with trustee John Holden, Nathan Reid, Frank Kelly and Foster Wilson.

The Reverend James Smith, Bloomfield made the dedicatory prayer. Mrs. Foster Wilson presided at the piano and Mrs. Walton Reid and Miss Beth Holden rendered a duet, "Neath the Olive Trees." Mr. Voteary delivered the sermon.

Members were urged to dedicate their lives as well as their services to the church.

A communion set, donated by Mrs. Benson French and her daughter Helen, in memory of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Plane, was used for the sacramental service which followed the ceremony.

The little chapel, which was built approximately 38 years ago and dedicated by Bishop R. C. Horner, has undergone extensive renovations.

A large picture, "The Good Shepherd," donated by Mr. and Mrs. John Holden in the memory of their mothers, Mrs. Holden and Mrs. T. Rollins, adorns the edifice.

There is an active Sunday School with classes for all ages, under the leadership of superintendent Walton Reid.

Revival services, with evangelist Norman Fink, of Pennsylvania, are now in progress, to be followed by a district convention on December 6, 7 and 8.

WHO SHOULD RUN OUR CITY—

A MACHINE

OR YOU CITIZENS?

My topic today is the proposed Reduction of Council.

The business of administering the city of Belleville's affairs is a continuing and complex job.

During the year, there are many special committees. These special committees are formed to inquire into special business which may arise from time to time in the city's affairs and its dealings with other municipalities and groups.

The 14 elected aldermen and the mayor are responsible for the carrying out of the year's program. As you can see, they have a heavy and busy schedule. For all the effort and time which conscientious aldermen must devote to the administration of your business they receive $400 a year.

I tell you all these monotonous details because on Monday, December 2nd., you will be asked to express your opinion about a by-law calling for the reduction of council from 14 to eight aldermen and the extension of the mayor's term to two years.

This by-law was proposed by Gerald Hyde.

I have carefully weighed the pros and cons.

I am definitely not in favor of a reduction in the number of aldermen or a two-year term for mayor.

The proposal which is being presented to you will not take effect until 1959. If adopted you will be asked to vote for only four aldermen in place of seven in the future.

With a mayor and eight aldermen it will only be necessary for a minority to elect three aldermen one year and two the next to control your city council. A majority vote in council will only require five.

I think that such a proposal is dangerous. I believe there is safety in numbers.

Who do you want to run Belleville — you citizens or a machine.

Reducing council from 14 to eight aldermen will greatly increase the amount of work each alderman will be called upon to do. Council duties in a growing city, faced with prospect of annexation with its multiplicity of problems, with a smaller council will become a burden which too few busy citizens will be able to shoulder.

Reduction in the number of aldermen will also make it more difficult for council to adequately represent all the different groups and interests within the city.

With constructive and competent leadership a council of 14 conscientious aldermen can function efficiently and administer wisely because its members will have more time to work on city business, than will eight aldermen trying to do the same job.

It is poor economy for a city to save $400 by eliminating a single and conscientious hard working councillor and at the same time overburden other aldermen with the routine and special work that must be done.

Having had the concentrated experience of working as alderman, I feel that reduction in the size of council would be most unwise and I oppose any such reduction.

You as electors are being given the opportunity on Monday next, to express your wish about reducing the size of council. I ask you to keep in mind when you cast your ballot that there is safety in numbers — and on Belleville city council the safer number is 14, not eight.

As your mayoralty candidate I am in favor of a council of fourteen conscientious aldermen and a mayor so that the broadest possible representation of all the people will be kept safe.

When you go to the polls on Monday, Dec. 2nd, I humbly ask you to vote for Don McNevin for mayor.

Co-Operation is the Keynote of Success!

Bruins on Way But Careful, Tangle With Leafs Tonight

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Boston Bruins are on the march again but coach Milt Schmidt is afraid the band may stop playing.

Bruins beat second-place New York Rangers 1-0 Thursday night to move to within four points of Rangers. It was their second consecutive win over New York and they have only one loss in their last eight games. But Schmidt is studiously cautious about the future.

"We're starting to click and are ready to make the move. But all I want is one victory at a time. We need to take every game, or nearly every one," he said.

MEET LEAFS

Possibly one reason for Schmidt's caution is Bruins' game against the Maple Leafs in Toronto tonight. He remembers how Leafs stopped Bruins' season-opening winning streak at four games. The last-place Leafs whipped the Bruins 7-0 to start a downward spiral Bruins are recovering from now.

Toronto meets the Bruins without captain George (Big Chief) Armstrong. Armstrong suffered a torn ligament in Thursday's 3-3 tie with Detroit Red Wings and is out for a month.

Paul Masnick, 26-year - old centre from Regina, has been offered a 10-day tryout with the Leafs.

Masnick scored 24 goals for Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League last season.

At the same time Pete Conacher, Leafs' top training camp scout with 11 pupils, has been told to report to Buffalo Bisons of the AHL. Conacher was obtained by the Leafs from Buffalo for the $15,000 draft price. The Bisons will refund the $15,000.

New York, host to Detroit in an afternoon game, will be without scoring star Andy Bathgate. He suffered a deep skate cut Thursday and will miss both weekend games.

Montreal, healthy except for Maurice Richard, defends first place in a game with Chicago Black Hawks.

Sunday Canadiens are in Boston. Toronto is at Chicago and Rangers are in Detroit.

Minor Hockey

A pair of one-sided shutouts were recorded in the peewee section of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association this morning while the other two fixtures ended in close 3-1 scores.

The Canadiens blanked the Bruins 6-0 while Rangers whipped the Barons 5-0. Bruins' backers edged the Maple Leafs and boosters shaded the Red Wings, both by 2-1 counts.

Bobby Skinner spearheaded the Canadien offensive, scoring two goals and assisting on another. Dean Williamson also pointed two goals while singletons went to Brian Williams and Jimmie Meens. Peter Carver, Brian Williams and Tommy Boyle had assists.

Said Sponsors and Network Worried Over Sinatra Show

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Those guys in the grey flannel suits— I just don't dig 'em."

This was Frank Sinatra's comment to reports that his TV show was "in trouble." There have been recurring items that his sponsors and network are worried over the quality of Sinatra's Friday night show and the ratings it has drawn.

Concern was expressed over the fact that Sinatra has done several shows in a few days. One story said ABC has asked the crooner to do more shows live instead of on film.

Sinatra remains calm through it all.

GIVE IT A CHANCE

"You'd think they'd give a show a chance to build," he said between scenes of Kings Go Forth. "But no The show wasn't on two weeks before the complaints started coming in.

"Do more live shows? I said I'd do one and (Friday night's) is that's all. If they want an audience reaction, I'll tell them the shows have an audience, the same as I Love Lucy does.

"But I'm not going to gimmick up the show. I loath those phony laugh tracks and canned applause. I'd rather quit than submit to them. My idea in planning the show was that it was a relaxing show. I don't think you need an audience for that."

He added that the speed with which he films the shows has nothing to do with their quality: "That's the way I work—fast. That's the way I'll continue to work."

SOMETHING WRONG

Said Sinatra: "I realize there was something wrong with the show and I'm going to correct it. It has nothing to do with an audience fee with speed.

"It's the fact that I only have a piano on the stage with me. The technicians said they could not record the band on the same stage. That's bad for me. I need the spark that I get from singing with the full band. When the band is used in on the sound track later, it just didn't sound right."

His deal with the nervous sponsors is for a year, and his multi-millionaire contract with ABC extends three years. He indicated he's willing to co-operate with them—within reason.

Browns, Colts Can Secure Top Positions

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Football League season hits the 10-week mark Sunday with two to go. The conference-leading Cleveland Browns and Baltimore Colts have exciting opportunities to secure their top positions.

Both pacesetters will be at home, the Browns against the Chicago Cards and the Colts against the Los Angeles Rams. In other games, San Francisco will be at New York, Pittsburgh at Philadelphia and Washington at Detroit.

Cleveland holds a half-game lead over the Giants in the Eastern conference scramble. The Browns dumped the Cards 17-7 earlier in the season and off their 45-31 victory over Los Angeles last weekend and the Cards' 2-6 record should have little trouble boosting their mark to 8-3-1.

The Giants' figure to have a much tougher opponent in the 49ers, who are locked in a three-way battle with Baltimore and Detroit for the Western conference pearl. San Francisco lost a 27-21 toughie to the Colts last Sunday and must get by New York to keep pace with Detroit, which upped its record to 6-4 by beating Green Bay Thanksgiving Day.

A Baltimore defeat and San Francisco victory will make for a three-way deadlock. The Colts present margin is a half game over the Lions and one game over the 49ers. Baltimore has won its last three while the Aggies with only four victories in the nine starts is tied for fourth place in the Western conference.

STAYS IN RETIREMENT

CLEVELAND (AP)—Al Rosen, the third baseman, told general manager Frank Lane of the Cleveland Indians Friday he plans to stay retired. Lane recently met with Rosen to see whether the former Indian was interested in returning to the club.

TV NOTEBOOK

By John Wetlaufer

Let's have a quick look at an important but not overpublicized contest control present on all TV sets. We're referring to the contrast or picture control which is, in a sense, to the picture what the volume control is to the sound. Some viewers are in the habit of turning the contrast control up to the maximum and settling back in the fond belief that they have "the best possible picture." Actually, we must remember that this is control over an outside signal and inasmuch as the picture is a signal strength, it is not reasonable to assume that the setting will offer the best all-around picture control. Therefore this control knob should be adjusted to where the black and white areas of the picture are most exaggerated to the extent that the middle tones disappear and the picture loses detail definition.

By the way, it's no exaggeration when we say that no TV set is beyond the help of CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 368 Coleman St. Whatever the trouble, call CIRCLE TV SERVICE on the double —for fast, thorough and economical service. That is, Phone WO 8-6781 in Trenton phone Zenith 6-3800.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

(Author of the new "Astrology and You")

The Stars impel . . . They do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to you"

Saturday, November 30

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Worrying over that secret frustration will do no good, and it is best you come out of your little cocoon. Show you appreciate what seems so interesting social to others. Excellent day for guests, perhaps one of the opposite sex.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Be loyal to true, commiserating pals, and dash out to some delightful spot for enlightening conversation and fun. Economize on amusements of the moment. Dig up date from your newspaper, other printed matter.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Cordiality and friendliness used with a higher up can open for you the door to real wealth and help you to meet wonderful people, enrich your spiritual life. Steer clear of person whose words are usually bitter.

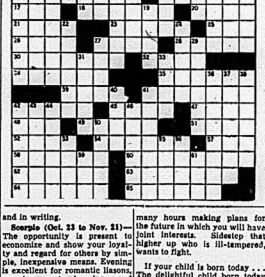
Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — It is up to you to let persons of power and influence see your fine qualities, talents and sparkling personality so that you may progress quickly. Get rid of smallness in everything. Dwell on the higher laws and become great.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Working and bringing your appearance up to its very peak should be the order of the day that you may take long steps towards greater success. See that the condition of your hair is made better through massages, etc.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Your partner likes you very much but is serious, rather melancholy and you perhaps do not know him or her real worth. Treat gently and affectionately, and do not permit dynamic family ties to swerve you.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 23) — By utilizing time and effort on gathering house, office, other surroundings in finest possible condition, you can avoid gossip, possible trouble on the road, or unpleasantness on the telephone and in writing.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — The opportunity is present to economize and show your loyalty and regard for others by simple, inexpensive means. Evening is excellent for romantic liaison, amusing sports, happiness and real fun. Be joyful and kind.



Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Try to erase from your mind all little unpleasantnesses, irritations, etc., and delve right into the work that needs to be done to make your home or surroundings more delightful to others and for self. P.M. rest and relax.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan 20) — Hardly a day to dwell again on that pet peeve you have actually seem to relish now. Be generous, instead and spend time with good comrades who will give ideas how to be more successful and truly happy. Perk up!

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — By thinking along practical lines and putting finances in order, you can get things working nicely that will bring you what you so dearly want. Work efficiently and avoid pal who has an exaggerated ego.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — A splendid day for being with intelligent and true pal and enjoy many hours making plans for the future in which you will have joint interests. Sidestep that higher up who is ill-tempered, wants to fight.

If your child is born today . . . The delightful child born today is the kind who with the mere expedient of a lovely smile can brush aside any stumbling blocks in his or her way. Nonetheless, there is the other side of the nature which would tend to make your youngster speak unguardedly and create many problems. See that your progeny is taught to use only the former approach throughout life and success is assured. Acting is ideal here.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"I'm looking for a doctor who'll recommend I take a complete rest in South America."

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop was smoking to himself after dinner, and I said, Hay pop, if you do a thing as carefull and perfect as you can, then you ought to be satisfied, oughtn't you?

You ought to be more than satisfied, pop said. If you do what ever you have to do to the best of your ability, you have a right to hartily on the side of it yourself and even give a few modest toots on your own horn. If it doesn't make anybody up. Just get into the habit of doing each little thing well, and the big things will take care of themselves, he said.

That's what I thought, pop, when I found some dried peez in my pocklt that I didn't even remember having put there, I said. Do you think some berds could of dropped them in my pocket? I said, and he said, I think it's a very unlikely supposition. Let's get on with the main thread of the narrative. What did you do with the peez, pop, then? he said.

No sir, I decided to put them on my finger nale one at a time and shoot them at a target till I hit the bulls eye perfect at least once, no matter how long it took me, I said, and pop said, How long did it take you?

I never did get all, because the target was the exact middle of the back of some guy's neck in frunt of me in school, and the teether caught me just before I got perfect, I said. So that's the report card for you to sine, and if you notice I got Poor for Conduct that's the main reason, I said, pop said, if you notice a slite deduction in your next allowance, it'll be the only reason.

Being the end,

HELP WANTED
Your Children's Aid Society is in constant need of foster homes for children of all ages, and for children 10-14 years of age particularly. Because, for a variety of reasons, children in our care must live away from their natural parents it is our job to find substitute homes where they can receive affection and understanding as well as good physical care. We are proud of our children and the way that they adjust to foster family, school and community life. Foster families board, provide a good standard of medical and dental care, clothing to the level of the other children in the community, spending allowance, play materials, and other necessities.

To share your home with a child not your own can be a very satisfying experience. There are one hundred and twenty-five families in Hastings County presently caring for foster children, who will attest to the truth of this statement. However, not all people are suited to accept the responsibility of an older child. May we emphasize that our foster parents are not expected to carry this responsibility alone. Each child has his or her own social worker who visits regularly and is ready to assist in resolving any difficulties which may arise.

If you are a married couple living in Hastings County, in good health, attend the church of your faith, and feel you would like to share your home and life with a child not your own, contact Miss Marlene Brant at the Belleville office of the Children's Aid Society, Woodland 5-5764. Miss Brant will be pleased to arrange an appointment to discuss foster care with you.

TODAY STAID

HUGE TELEGRAM

An example of western solidarity, in the form of a 2,000-seamstress telegram from Edmonton supporters, was to be presented today to the Bombers. It reads: "You are big in heart, a fighting crew. We pledge our support to you, in this your great and glorious test, to prove the cup should stay out west."

The confusion was the same as every year.

The Toronto Musicians Association announced that Frank Kerr, conductor of the Winnipeg Bomberettes band and drill team will lead his 90 precision-marching girls into the stadium after all-but behind the HMCS York band.

Norm Harris, secretary of the association, said Mr. Kerr will be sworn in as a member of the Winnipeg Musicians' Association to allow him to lead the Bomberettes in their 15-minute display before game time.

The Bombe-rettes' band-youngsters who have played for the girls at Winnipeg games all year—will have a ringside watch from the stands.

CLOSED SHOP

"The situation isn't of our making," Mr. Harris said. "Varsity Stadium is a closed shop, where no music that is not federation music may be played. The Junior Board of Trade, which booked the entertainment agreed with the arrangement. We're bending backwards to help out."

He said he had received a telegram from "about 50" Winnipeg' business men stating "we love our non-union bee-utiful band. We would love to see them in television." It asked that the ban on the band be reconsidered.

"We're doing our best to help," Mr. Harris said.

He said the Bomberettes' band, and the Winnipeg police pipe band, will be allowed to march in the Grey Cup parade immediately preceding the game. "We're overjoyed to have them."

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER
(Author of the new
"Astrology and You")

"The Stars impel . . . They do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to you."

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — The planetary forces are most favorable to love and you are inspired in all that you do and say, therefore be active and friendly, personal as you please, and literally make hay while the sun shines.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — An ideal day in which to silently make all the best arrangements for the future. See that you are close to fine ideas constantly from others that will result in a greater abundance and success for you.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Put life and color into your somewhat jaded existence today by seeking those who are full of vitality and have a flair for zestful living. Assuage with own fine balance and plan a brilliant future. Act.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — If you utilize every free moment today, it will be possible to get your work done well and with alacrity, put everything in perfect order of a practical nature, and help others to speed up wherever necessary.

Leo (July 22-to Aug. 21) — It would be a fine idea today to spend as much time as possible with family members, neighbors, et al., who can intelligently assist in making your life much happier. Show appreciation and come to real understanding.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — If you get into the Silence long enough to permit the precise intuitive faculties to stir, many a wonderful idea and answer to your current problems will be yours in all spheres. Remember that intuition is deep thought.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — Pay especial attention to advice of the spiritual counsellor who lives the Golden Rule and will guide you properly in the most ethical and constructive path of life which will be paved with gold. Follow ideas expertly.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 22) — Laboring diligently with whatever is immediately available but around you can today produce such fine results that the most powerful person within your aura takes cognizance and you are well paid. The future is brighter.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Arising in a far happier frame of mind than for quite some time in the past, you believe that you are perfectly attuned now with your own star. Excellent for artistic, cultural expression and for having a marvelous time.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — If you show other persons that you place your home and family above everything else, you impress them with wonderful philosophy of life, are an inspiration. Good day for tete-a-tete with right people re your goals and ambitions.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Get an early start, have conferences with partners, pay particular attention to the associate with clever ideas that will mean greater success. P.M. have an enjoyable evening with good friends and widen your horizons.

Pisces Feb. 20 to March 20) — You will have to work harder than you have in the recent past if you would get all your financial property, job affairs in pink of condition. Be active every moment and succeed quickly. Don't dilly-dally. Make quick decisions.

If your child is born today . . . The child born today is the kind who is full of fire and has the spark of genius, and is ever in quest of different methods by which to put his or her thoughts to work. Be sure to teach that whatever is begun must be finished, for there is the tendency to jump from one activity to the other, leaving many loose ends. Once this is learned, any profession which is a challenge is ideal for your progeny.

PICTON Family of Six Barely Escapes Suffocation

PICTON — Six members of a Picton family had a narrow escape from death from coal gas fumes early yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. John Boos and 3 children and Mrs. Boos' mother, Mrs. Margaret Stanton have resided in Hess effects of the gas.

The crying of their four-year-old son, David, awakened his parents and undoubtably prevented a tragedy, Mr. Boos is the C.N.R. agent here.

About 4 a.m., Mrs. Boos was awakened by David's crying and noticing he was not well called her husband. As he picked up his son he, too, passed out. Mrs. Boos telephoned Dr. Murphy and though ill did not pass out. A daughter, Jane, 7, went downstairs to get a drink of water and passed out while returning.

The six weeks old baby, in its crib in the same room as its parents, was not affected.

Mrs. Stanton, sleeping downstairs, was sick from a combination of gas and rushing up and downstairs.

The Boos family moved into the house at 18 Main Street West a month ago. It is believed the coal furnace was defective. Town constable Allen Marvin, who was called by Dr. Murphy, was the only one to detect a strong odor of gas.

REPORT PLANE

In a story quoting Mr. Pearkes on the matter, the Ottawa Journal Friday referred to the ruckus created in the United Kingdom by disclosure that U.S. planes are carrying live H-bombs on routine patrol flights from British bases.

The newspaper added: "United States planes with live bombs passing over Canadian soil usually are en route to distant points."

It quoted defence authorities as saying permission to fly nuclear weapons over Canada is given most sparingly and only when the U.S. has explained the desirability of using routes touching Canada.

The matter came up in the Commons Wednesday when C. W. Carter (L—Burin-Burgeo) asked Mr. Pearkes whether U.S. planes carrying "live bombs" are permitted to fly over Canada.

The minister replied: "By agreement with the United States only with prior permission from Canada."

By live bombs, the minister has since been interpreted as meaning nuclear bombs.

British Papers Unhappy About H-Bomb Patrols

LONDON (Reuters)—The British press is not happy today over disclosures H-bomb-laden American bombers patrol the skies over Britain — but most of the papers accepted it as a necessary precaution.

"Is this practice really necessary?" asks The Times.

"It can be said straightaway that Mr. Khrushchev in his new mood of truculence . . . is primarily to blame for the new American state of alertness. But it has still to be asked whether the practice of having bombers flying around with nuclear bombs on routine flights is entirely foolproof. . . ."

The sooner we can return to a state of normal alertness the better all round."

The left-wing Daily Mirror in a front-page editorial says: "Britain cannot cringe under the umbrella of American military readiness and at the same time try to sidestep the perils involved. That would wreck the Western alliance and ruin Britain."

The Daily Express blasts the government for not having told people about the bombers sooner. "Such a delay merely provokes public uneasiness. And it exposes the American bomber force in Britain to unnecessary criticism."

The Communist Daily Worker warns: "The British people are in deadly peril."

Turbo-Thrust V8 WITH TURBOGLIDE

The Impala Sport Coupe — one of two new super models!

Newest, quickest combination on the road!

Chevrolet's radical new Turbo-Thrust V8 and honey-smooth Turboglide automatic drive form a performance team that spells action. At all speeds, under all driving conditions, they give you the quickest, smoothest response of anything going.*

Try Chevy's new power pair — just for the pure pleasure of seeing how quickly a car can respond to your touch. Just to see how this new breed of V8 and this super-smooth automatic drive team up for action. There's never been an engine-drive combination like this one!

Chevrolet's Turbo-Thrust V8* introduces a radical new slant on engine efficiency. The combustion chambers are located in the block rather than in the head, and chamber surfaces are precision machined. The result is a wonderfully smooth and even flow of power.

Turboglide — the other half of the team — is the first and only triple-turbine automatic drive in Chevy's field. It takes you from a standstill through cruising in one continuous sweep of motion, without even a hint of shift or lag. Harness these triple turbines to a 250-h.p. Turbo-Thrust V8 — or the 280-h.p. Super Turbo-Thrust* — and you step out instantly in any speed range. Nothing else on the road turns your touch into action so quickly, so smoothly.

Your Chevrolet dealer offers an assortment of engine-drive teams for '58. A famous Blue-Flame 6, and five vigorous V8's. Five different transmissions, including Powerglide and Turboglide, both optional at extra cost. But before you name your favorite pair, by all means try Turbo-Thrust with Turboglide — the quickest, smoothest combination on the road!

*Optional at extra cost.
